Due to the workings of Nazi economy, meat and fats of all kinds are very scarce in German. Hitler, sensing the importance of providing this staple item for his people, has more than once cast envious eyes upon eastern Europe, where meats and grains grow in abundance. Soviet Ukraine right now appears as heaven to the Nazis. The German dictator has often announced the necessity of German expansion eastward, to ease the pressure of her economic needs. On this one item—MEAT—hangs the destiny of Europe.

Of course, one might say that German industry should make it possible to buy meat in the open market, in a fair exchange. If there were no trade restrictions, this would be possible. But each little country in Europe has hedged itself in with tariff walls so high that when a foreight product does scale them, it is worth almost its weight in gold.

This tariff wall helped build up German industry. Years back, before Russia developed her wonderful steel mills, a great deal of Soviet steel buying was done in Germany. The crafty Germans, sensing profits, erected their tariff wall against all incoming products, which automatically raised the price of outgoing products as much as the traffic would bear. Russia without credit or money, forced to use its own products, paid the price until she saw it would be cheaper to build her own steel mills.

The total cessation of Soviet buying in German on the advent of the Nazi regime was soon felt by Hitler's cohorts. And now the logical outcome is a meat shortage, which is mostly artificial, since there is plenty of meat in Soviet Russia.

The answer of Hitler to such a dilemma is not a reasonable one. Instead of tearing down trade barriers, he proposes a war of conquest to expand the confines of Germany. Instead of exchanging goods in a peaceful manner, he wants to trade destruction and death for the things he needs.

This is the program of violence and reaction which fascism offers; and it might be well for Americans to study the situation carefully, for someone may suggest that we try fascism over here.

HEAD OF SAILORS' UNION

Harry Lundeberg, Pacific Coast maritime labor chief, whose striking workers have tied up shipping on both seaboards.

W. C. T. U. NOTES

"At last", says "Beachcomber", in the London Daily Express, 'we are getting somewhere, but I forget where. I read: 'A motorist should not touch alcohol before or during driving.' And of course he should not touch it after driving, in case he is going to drive again. But better news follows: 'The pedestrian, too, should be forbidden to drink, if it is likely to result in his walking dangerously.' Since anybody who is knocked down by a motor car is said to have been walking dangerously, there appear to be lean years ahead for the Drink Trade. However, since we are all agreed that man was made for the motor car, and that he can only fulfill his destiny by thinking all day about motor cars, nobody should complain if his prvate habits are interfered with."

The current week has been set by the National and State W. C. T. U. as the great "Roll Call", the time when every member of every local union in the United States is asked to pay her dues for 1936-37. The W. C. T. U. year in each state begins as soon as the state convention is over. Dues are payable in advance in every organization, and payment means the release of funds for local, district, state, national and world's W. C. T. U. work.

THE READER'S ROSTRUM

Viking, Minnesota,
Nov. 8th., 1936

Dear Editor:—

The election is over and this is no time for boast or crowing, but will state that the result of the last election showed more common sense in the American voters choice of platforms and the candidate that run on them, and I for one take off my hat in admiration to the voters in the last election, who showed by their vote and voice that their vote is not for sale.

The vote in Marshall County is gratifying to me in that it showed that the voters could not be bought or swayed by false propaganda or appeal, and Mr. Morberg's victory is more remarkable in that I have learned that the red scare or ghost was worked against him and I want at this time to make the statement that when a minister of the gospel will lend himself to this traffic he has fallen pretty low and the last election has shown that the voters put their disapproval in no uncertain terms on this lucrative pastime.

Now I want to introduce a new topic or plan. I want to ask the people of Rosewood, Viking, Radium, Warren, Alvarado and Oslo, if they are satisfied with the way we get the mail on the Soo Line. Here in Viking the train comes so early that they do not pick up the mail in the morning, and in the evening it sometimes comes so late that the post office is closed for the night and the mail that comes from the west is left over night at the depot and this is very inconvenient at times and at the best the mail delivery is very irregular. Now here is my plan, I believe it possible at no extra cost to the Post-office department to have the mail between Thief River Falls and Oslo carried by truck and thereby improve the service.

Now what do you think about this plan? If we all pull together I believe we can put it through. Lets get together and talk and plan this together. Of course if I am the only one that is inconvenienced by the present arrangement then there is nothing to do about it.

I feel so happy about the late election and the result and the fine intelligent way the people voted. "So lets sing glory hallelujah" all the day.

Greetings to my friends everywhere.

Very truly yours,
G. A. SUSTAD.

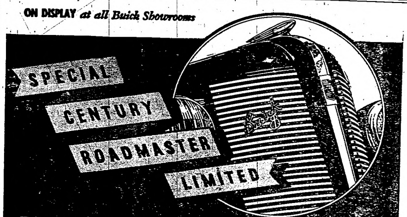
ON DISPLAY at all Buick Showrooms



FOUR WONDROUS NEW REASONS WHY:

"It's Buick again!"

SENSATIONAL is the fervor with which the American public has taken to its heart the brilliant motor cars offered by Buick this year.

Indeed, the sweeping success of the 1936 Buick program flatly challenged us and our great parent General Motors to a momentous decision.

Should we continue this amazingly popular line of cars into next year, perhaps the prudent thing to do—or should we dare broad improvement upon their spectacular excellence?

We felt there was only one right answer to that question, the bold and progressive answer—and that's why insiders now forecasting 1937 are already saying: "It's Buick again!"

That's why on top of $1[illegible]0,000 recently spent r[illegible] re- equipping Buic[illegible] appropri[illegible] ing $14,5[illegible]

That's why every car in the 1937 Buick line—the SPECIAL, the CENTURY, the ROADMASTER and the LIMITED—is a triumph visibly and intrinsically outranking anything we have ever done.

Each has more beauty for dazzling style, more power for breath-taking action, more room for full-family comfort, more downright "road-command" for safety and pleasure.

See them—then you'll know why Buick's soaring sales curve is headed for yet loftier altitudes next year.

YOU'VE GOT WHAT IT TAKES!

You can afford the new Buick! It's easy to buy and thrifty to own. With all its quality, its phenomenal performance and stunning style, prices start as low as . . . $765 *and up list at Flint, Mich. AMERICAN SHIPS IDLE AT NEW YORK DOCKS

Spreading eastward from San Francisco, the strike of maritime workers has tied up nearly 100 ships of American registry, including many liners in Atlantic Coast and Gulf ports. Above is a section of New York's Hudson River docks, with the Empire State Building in the left skyline and, left to right, the "Santa Elena", the "Virginia" and the trans-Atlantic liner "Manhattan" tied up awaiting crews.

Lundeen Wins On His Liberal Record

Vote Shows People's Confidence in the Steadfastness of Senator-Elect

Here are the principal highlights in Lundeen's career:

1878—Born on a homestead near Beresford, S. D., son of Swedish parents, his father a minister, who emigrated, with his wife, from Smaland, Sweden.

1884-97—Attended schools at Beresford, and later at Harcourt and Dayton, Ia.

1898—Came to Carleton college, Northfield, Minn., to enter school, but because of the Spanish-American war, enlisted with Company B, 12th Minnesota Volunteers. It was during this service that he got his first insight into the profiteering in war, and later he was to fight for better food, clothing, shelter and hospitalization for American soldiers.

1901—Graduated with a B. A. degree from Carleton, after working his way through college. In college he was a football star and won the interstate oratorical contest.

1904—Received his law degree after attending the University of Minnesota and reading law in a Minneapolis law office.

1909—Won national honors in the championship rifle matches at Camp Perry, having kept up his military training by serving from private to captain in the National Guard.

1910—Elected to the Minnesota House of Representatives, as a Republican, and in this term he began his political career as an insurgent, a liberal.

1912—Re-elected to the Minnesota House.

1917—Elected to Congress from the Fifth district, where he distinguished himself by voting against war, against conscription, against the espionage law and against foreign loans.

1928—Candidate for governor of Minnesota, winning 227,293 votes.

1932—Re-elected to Congress in the at-large election, polling 350,455 votes.

1934—Re-elected to Congress from the Third district, polling 7,272 more votes than the combined vote of his three opponents and the largest majority received by any Minnesota congressman.

1936—Elected to the United States senate, over Theodore Christianson, by a plurality estimated at 225,000 votes, one of the widest margins ever won by a Minnesota candidate.

Throughout his career, Lundeen has been a liberal. He was the only Minneapolis attorney to come forward to defend the striking switchmen some years ago. He had the indorsement of the Minnesota State Federation of Labor and many other labor organizations. He was highly esteemed in educational circles also, because of his championship of federal aid for schools.

Health Insurance In Effect

Vancouver, B. C.—First test in the Western Hemisphere in socialized medicine begins in British Columbia, where all workers earning less than $1,800 per year and their families are assured of State medical and hospital care. Funds start with $50,000 from the Province and 1 per cent from employers as a pay-roll tax, to which workers add 2 per cent of their wages, but not to exceed 70 cents per week.

Benson a Fighter For Labor, Farmer

Mr. Benson was born in Appleton, Minn., on Sept. 22, 1895, the son of Thomas H. and Dora Benson. His parents, who settled in Swift county in the late '60's after coming to this country from Norway in 1866, are both living. The town of Benson, county seat of Swift county, was named for Ben H. Benson, an uncle of Elmer A. Benson.

Served Overseas

Mr. Benson attended the public schools in Appleton and graduated from the Appleton high school in 1915. He then entered the St. Paul College of Law, where he obtained his degree in February, 1918, just before he entered army service in the signal corps. He went overseas with the American troops in July, 1918, and returned to this country just before Christmas of that year. He left the service in Febraury, 1919, and, a short while later, returned to St. Paul, where he was admitted to the bar.

In the fall of 1919, Mr. Benson returned to his home town of Appleton and became assistant cashier of the First National bank there. At the same time he became a partner with P. W. Peterson in a clothing business at Appleton. He ocntinued as assistant cashier of the bank until 1923 when he became cashier of the Farmers and Merchants bank of Appleton. He remained there until Jan. 1, 1933, when he was appointed as state securities commissioner by Governor Floyd B. Olson. In May of the same year he was appointed as state commissioner of banks, succeeding John N. Peyton, who resigned.

He was appointed United States senator by Gov. Olson in December, 1935, to fill the unexpired term of Senator Schall.

In Legion and V. F. W.

Mr. Benson is married and has two children, Lois, ten years old, and Thomas, seven. His wife was formerly Miss Frances Miller. They were married in Appleton on Oct. 14, 1922. The family now lives at 485 Cretin avenue south, St. Paul.

Mr. Benson is a member of the Appleton post of the American Legion and of the Fairgrounds post of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, St. Paul. At various times he has been commander, adjutant, and treasurer of the Appleton post.

A member of Zion Lutheran church in Appleton for many years, Mr. Benson was treasurer of the church for several years prior to the time he came to St. Paul.

Il Duce Attacks Communism

Milan, Italy—Definitely aligning himself with Germany's anti-Communist crusade, Premier Mussolini aroused the wildest enthusiasm among 250,000 listeners gathered to hear him in this city. Declaring the League of Nations a dead issue, he made unmistakable overtures of accord to Great Britain and France.

PRIZE PORKER ESCAPES FROM BASEMENT HOME

A small red pig, the size of a regulation football, was seen recently wandering about in an aimless fashion in the business section of Belle Plaine. There was a good deal of wondering as to where the little swine came from, since it was too small to have been considered eligible for a ride to South St. Paul. The little beast survived through the cool night, even tho it was a long time roosting in the center of the highway with cars whizzing by, over and around it, luckily none of them scoring a hit on the pig. The next morning, still at large and apparently in good spirits, the juvenile porker was started out on a brisk tour of the town, followed by a large and constantly growing procession of automobiles, sprinters, long-distance runners, children and dogs, with the pig holding a comfortable lead on his pursuers all morning. It was learned the little animal belongs to the dentist's wife, who had won it as a prize at Le Center, and had established comfortable quarters in the basement of her home for it, with visions of roast pork during the holiday season. The pig made a dash for freedom when a child in the family had left the basement door open.

HOW OFTEN CAN YOU KISS AND MAKE UP?
FEW husbands can understand why a wife should turn from a pleasant companion into a shrew for one whole week in every month.
You can say "I'm sorry" and kiss and make up easier before marriage than after. If you're wise and if you want to hold your husband, you won't be a three-quarter wife.
For three generations one woman has told another how to go "smiling through" with Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It helps Nature tone up the system, thus lessening the discomforts from the functional disorders which women must endure in the three ordeals of life: 1. Turning from girlhood to womanhood. 2. Preparing for motherhood. 3. Approaching "middle age."
Don't be a three-quarter wife, take LYDIA E. PINKHAM'S VEGETABLE COMPOUND and Go "Smiling Through."

MIDDLE RIVER

The big creamery boiler was put into place Tuesday, the boiler-room being finished up ready for it. The date of final completion of the creamery will be delayed somewhat thru some confusion on the plastering of the ceiling. The plans and specifications called for ceiling plastering to be applied to a coarse mesh wire nailed on strips. But when the plasterer attempted to apply the plastering to the mesh it was found impossible t omake it stick, so the workmen are tearing off all the wire mesh preparatory to putting up a different background for the plastering. This difficulty was not met with in the boiler room, which has a regular steel ceiling.

BOAR VICIOUSLY ATTACKS FARMER

Viciously attacking Carl Ruzek of Blooming Prairie, a 300 pound boar knocked him to the ground, jabbed his tusks into his legs and bit whole mouthfuls of flesh from them. As a result the victim was seriously ill during the following week and there was danger of infection developing in the deep wounds. The attack occurred while Mr. Ruzek was moving a number of hogs into another pen. As he herded them along, the large boar sudden became angered and turned on the man. Rushing at him he knocked him to the ground and then sank his teeth into his legs. Carl's father rushed to his aid and a pet dog leaped at the furious boar attempting to draw his attention away from the victim. The boar also severely bit the dog, before he could finally be cornered and locked up. Twenty stitches were required to close the deepest wounds on Carl's right leg.

TAKES POISON AS MEDICINE, DIES

A Fergus Falls farmer, Herman Neubauer, died recently from the effects of poison which he took by mistake, having failed to distinguish it from a bottle of medicine in a dimly lighted room. While in the city during the afternoon Mr. Neubauer consulted a physician regarding a minor bronchial ailmen, and was given a bottle of medicine. He also bought a bottle of "40-leaf", a deadly poison for extermination of poultry lice. Returning home after dark, the man took in his groceries, decided to take some of his medicine before doing the evening chores, and in the dim lamplight took a spoonful of "40-leaf" instead of the bronchial medicine. When Mrs. Neubauer entered the house, she found her husband in great agony. Upon examination of the bottles, she realized what had happened, summoning a doctor immediately. The patient was taken to the hospital, where he died 15 minutes later. The poison, composed chiefly of nicotine, had taken full effect before medical aid could be administered.

without trunk on the eight-cylinder models will be built on order only.

The Pontiac models are sold exclusively here by the Thronson Motor company.

Wheelbases are five inches longer than for 1936, 117 inches for the six and 122 for the eight. Tops are 1 inch lower—67 inches—with an accentuated streamline slope back from the high point directly over the front seat.

The body is made up of a steel frame, steel panels, floor, roof and doors. Except for the luggage rack there is no piece of wood as large at a match. Despite lowering of the overall height, interior head room has been increased 3¼ inches. The floor height is only 15½ inches. Front-door openings are 1½ and rear-door openings 3 inches higher than before and the rear openings 5 inches wider at the floor levels.

An increase of 2 inches has made the front seats 52½ inches and the wheel has been moved to the left to give more room for a middle front-seat passenger. Rear seats are increased 1½ inches in width.

Pontiac Changes

Windshields have been made 2 inches wider and higher and set at an angle of 39 instead of 31 degrees to increase visibility.

Chassis design retains triple-seal hydraulic brakes, self-tightening wheel nuts, concealed jack pads, front-end stabilizer bar and metal spring covers. An important change is the new double drop cantilever frame, an application of the "X" type, which is said to greatly increase rigidity. Another major change is the adoption of the linked parallelogram or open-type independent front-wheel suspension, said to aid steering round corners. Hotchkiss drive, with the new two-piece shaft, replaces torque-tube drive.

New fuel economy is said to result from developments in manifold design, while other engine changes include larger fan, inverted fuel pump and water pump with needle bearings and balanced clutch-driven plate.

The type of engine, L-head with comparatively short-stroke crankshafts, is retained. In the six, however, bore and stroke have been increased to 3 7-16 by 4 inches giving displacement of 233 cubic inches and brake horsepower of 85, as against 81 in former models. In the eight an increase of ¼ inch in the stroke has increased the cubic displacement from 232 to 249 inches and brake horsepower from 87 to 100. Top speeds are now placed at 80-82 miles an hour for the six and 85-87 miles for the eight.

BUICK

Four new lines of cars for 1937 have been announced by the Buick Motor Company, whose local dealer is Wiener's Top & Body Works. Horsepower has been increased in all models with a resulting increase in acceleration and general performance.

The lines include the Series 40 Special, consisting of eight body types on a 122-inch wheelbase powered by a 100-horsepower valve-in-head straight eight engine; Series 60 Century, six body types on a 126-inch wheelbase; Series 80 Roadmaster, three body types on 131-inch wheelbase, and Series 90 Limited, four body types on 138-inch wheelbase. The last three series are all powered with a 130-horsepower engine of the same valve-in-head type.

Six new models have been added for 1937. These include two and four-door five-passenger plain back sedans in the Special and Century series; a convertible phaeton in the Special Series and a formal sedan in the Roadmaster Series.

Features include Unisteel bodies on the first two series, custom-built bodies on the Roadmaster and Limited cars and Fisher "turret tops" on all series. Other features common to the line are hydraulic brakes, double sway stabilizers, knee-action front wheel suspension, double action shock absorbers, sealed chassis, torque-tube drive, automatic engine control, new Aerobat carburetion, new silent overhead valve mechanism, and streamlined intake valves.

In the new cars the radiator grille is die cast in two pieces with horizontal bars rising to the hood line. The hood top line and color is carried down to the middle of the grille. Long bullet-shaped headlamps are molded directly into the deep radiator shell, while parking lamps mounted on the fenders are of the same design.

Automatic windshield defrosters have been designed as an accessory, while over-all height of the cars has been reduced one inch, the floor has been dropped two and one-half inches providing increased head-room. Other major dimensions have been increased similarly.

A new type of floating oil pump and inlet pipe has eliminated, it is said, the necessity for an oil filter.

The new carburetor called Aerobat is introduced on all models. This is a double float, single bowl carburetor of dual down-draft type. Improved operating conditions claimed for it are that it will not flood when parked on steep grades, reducing hot starting difficulty, that the metering system will function at any grade, that it prevents the motor from missing or stalling on sharp turns or fast stops and provides smoother acceleration at low speeds.

Hypoid rear axle gears are provided on the Special and Century series.

CHRYSLER

In introducing its line of automobiles for 1937, the Chrysler Corporation announced its entrance in the low-priced field with an entirely new six known as Chrysler Royal. The other new cars in the line bearing the Chrysler name are the Imperial, the Custom Imperial and the Airflow. The last three named have eight-cylinder engines.

The Chrysler is sold here by Gustafson & Son.

The Royal is offered in ten body styles said to cover the requirements of every possible user. The Imperial comprises six body styles, the Custom Imperial comes in sedan and sedan-limousine models and the Airflow includes sedan and coupe models.

A Gold Seal motor said to develop 93 horsepower, with 288.1 cubic inches piston displacement, powers the new Royal. Its high compression ratio of 6.5 to 1 is considered one of the principal factors in producing horsepower with economy.

The propeller shaft tunnel in the floor of many 1936 cars has been eliminated by the use of a Hypoid rear axle. Seats have been widened to give ample room for three persons each.

One of the emphasized features of the new car is a "safety interior", which means that every control on the instrument panel is flush, and knobs and protuberances recently universal in automobiles have been eliminated. Thus, if passengers are thrown about in the car, there is no protruding metal to injure them.

Five different kinds of insulating material are used to make the car quiet and impervious to heat and cold. The body is not mounted directly on the frame, but on short, strong brackets riveted to the frame. These brackets are insulated by pure gum rubber, so that there is no metal contact between body and mountings.

The Chrysler Imperial includes all the features of the Royal and is a larger, more luxurious and more powerful car.

The Custom Imperial is an elaboration and extension of the Imperial.

The Airflow follows in general the lines established by this model when it was first introduced, but is announced as incorporating many refinements and improvements. Its new radiator grille is fashioned from chromium horizontal bars in conxex form. Frame and body are intergral and each of its front and rear seats in the sedan model accommodates three persons. Its eight-cylinder engine develops 130 horsepower and the automatic overdrive is standard equipment. It is also standard on the Custom Imperial and available at extra cost on the Imperial and Royal.

NASH-LAFAYETTE

Three new series have been announced by the Nash Motors Company for 1937. They are the Nash Ambassador Eight, the Nash Ambassador Six and the Nash Lafayette 400. The Eight has a 125-in. wheelbase and is powered by an eight-cylinder, valve-in-head, twin ignition motor developing 105 horsepower.

The Nash-Lafayette models are being handled in this part of the state by Gustafson & Sons.

The Six is built on a 121-inch wheelbase with six-cylinder, valve-in-head twin ignition engine of 95 horsepower. A six-cylinder Monitor-Sealed motor powers the Nash Lafayette 400 model which has a wheelbase of 117 inches.

The Ambassador Eight and Six, although alike in many features, are distinguished by their radiator ornaments, treatment of headlamps and decoration of the luggage trunk. The "400" model differs from the other two models in the treatment of its radiator grille, which runs horizontally instead of vertically. Bodies of all three series conform to streaflining principles. Steel strips on the hoods are merely for decoration, as tests have convinced Nash engineers that hood louver openings add nothing to engine ventilation.

The cars all have one-piece seamless steel tops with increased head room. Floor tunnels have been eliminated in them and the hand brake has been placed on the dash.

The "sleeping car" feature, introduced on Nash cars in 1936, has been added to the Ambassador series. The back seat may be converted into a six-foot double bed.

Among the mechanical improvements added to the three series is a ride stabilizer, said to eliminate body sway on curves, provide improved steering ease and straighten the car out after a turn. The Ambassador lines have an improved synchro-shift transmission and safety glass throughout is standard equipment. Windshields and ventilators of safety glass are standard on the "400". A new three-point mounting, claimed to cause smoother and quieter engine operation, has been placed on the Ambassador Six and "400" cars. No draft ventilation has been installed in all Nash cars and the cruising gear is again optional on all models.

The running board, similar on all series, is said to be the longest ever designed for an automobile. It is supposed to give not only a new grace of line but protection and support to that portion of the front fender frequently subject to damage. A higher power-to-weight ratio has been provided by motor refinements and double action hydraulic brakes, with an improved brake lining, are standard equipment on all models.

DODGE

Ten body styles are available in the 1937 Dodge line. They include business, rumble seat and convertible coupes, two-door sedan, two-door touring sedan, convertible sedan, seven-passenger touring sedan and limousine. Touring sedans are equipped with built-in trunks, while the regular sedans have slanting lids in the rear body sections which give access to tire and luggage spaces. In coupe models spare tires are carried back of folding seats.

The Dodge is sold locally by the Borchert-Johnson garage.

Bodies are of all-steel construction, including integral roofs. The "facial expression" of the new cars is enhanced by a grille in which a vertical center section is flanked by horizontal chromium-plated bars. Fenders, wider than in former years, are rounded, with high crowns and pronounced flare. Doors are wider. Sedan rear seats provide 48½ inches width and the front seats, 47, giving room for six passengers.

Floors and rear compartments of the new cars are level as the result of adoption of the hypoid rear drive with lower propeller shaft.

Grouping of Instruments

Instruments are grouped directly in front of the driver, while switches, control knobs, glove compartment and ashtray handles and even the ignition key are sunk into the surface of the instrument panel. There are two defroster vents in the top ledge of the panel, opening directly onto the windshield.

Unusual success is said to have attended efforts of Dodge engineers to eliminate road and operating noises. Roofs, rear quarters, and cowls are insulated with heavy padding, while sides and door panels are insulated with an asphalt-base material cemented to the metal, while a gumlike material is spread on the under side of rear deck lids in addition to the felt between their panels.

Long semi-elliptical springs made of leaves of Amola steel are tapered for greater flexibility. The rear mounting of the left front spring is made to act as a "kick shackle", while both front springs are shackled in front instead of at the rear. Spring action is supplemented by four telescoping, double acting hydralic shock absorbers. A sway eliminator functions independently without being connected to the absorber.

PLYMOUTH

Plymouth models for 1937 provide what their engineers describe as a "hushed ride". The bodies which are larger than those of 1936, are pillowed on short outrigger brackets of special design. Soft cushions of live rubber support only the weight of the body without compression from body bolts. Metal to metal contact is eliminated to prevent road noise and vibration from being transmitted to the inside of the car.

Soundproofing and airplane-type shock absorbers have been used for further quietness. Hypoid rear axles are used to reduce over-all height and provide level rear floors.

Body room has been increased, sedans providing ample space for six passengers. Front seats are three inches wider than in former models, and rear seats two and a half inches wider. Over-all length of the car has been increased to 194 inches, while the new roof adds an inch of interior head room.

All sedans have either trunk or luggage compartment accessible from the back of the car. To prevent such passenger injuries as might result from sudden contact with control knobs or door handles the interiors have been swept clean of projections in what the designers call a "safety interior."

Throttle, choke and light controls disappear on special slides in the rounded base of the instrument panel. Even the switch key is recessed.

The windshield crank folds away, and windshied-wiper control buttons are of soft rubber. Door handles curve inward, with no projecting hooks. A padded roll across the top of the front seats is designed to protect rear-seat passengers from bumps in emergency stops, while a silk cord replaces the robe rail.

Easier Steering

Shock absorbers are of the direct-acting, low-pressure type, operating with five times the volume of oil used in many cam and lever types. To further increase stability on the road, engineers have increased the rear tread to sixty inches and provided a front axle sway bar eliminator. There has been a reduction of the kingpin angle and other changes in the steering mechanism which are said to improve steering efficiency by 20 per cent.

CHEVROLET

Two new complete lines of cars are announced by the Chevrolet Motor Company for 1937. They are the Master and Master DeLuxe, each comprising six body types. Five are common to both lines—sedan, coach, business coupe, sport sedan with trunk and town sedan with trunk. A sport coupe with rumble seat appears in the De Luxe line and a Master cabriolet with rumble seat also has DeLuxe features.

The Chevrolet is sold here thru the Northern Chevrolet company.

New features common to both lines are listed as follows:

Improved performance, especially in acceleration and hill-climbing, resulting from a greater ratio of horsepower to weight.

Diamond crown speedline styling, which constitutes a departure from previous designs in overall appearance.

All-silent, all-steel bodies, with solid steel turret top and "unisteel" construction.

Box-girder chassis frame made up of box section side rails and cross-members, giving increased strength and reduced weight.

New six-cylinder, high-compression, valve-in-head engine, of large bore and shorter stroke, developing 85 horsepower.

Hypoid rear-axle drive years.

Independent front-wheel suspension, known on General Motors cars as knee-action, is standard equipment on the Master De Luxe models. Master models are obtainable with semi-elliptic front springs only. The De Luxe models also differ from the Master in equipment and trim, and they have different steering gear and rear axle ratios.

Both lines are identical in chassis, engine and body structures. All models have been reduced in over-all height and floors are 2 1-16 inches lower than in 1936. Thus center of gravity is lowered.

In addition to being lower, bodies are longer and the streamline effect is heightened by a high-lighted speedline that extends from the hood into the body and doors.

Greater visibility has been obtained through use of a wider windshield and wider windows. Seats are wider, too, and every model has commodious luggage space, either in a built-in trunk or in a compartment behind the rear seat.

Bodies are really all-steel. The "turret top", double cowl, side panels, floor and doors are welded without the use of a single bolt, rivet, screw or nail.

The engine has a bore of 3½ inches and a stroke of 3 3-4 inches, with a piston displacement of 216.5 cubic inches as against a displacement of 206.8 inches in the 1936 motor. The new engine also has four crankshaft bearings instead of three and the pistons are new in size and design. They are lighter and dome-headed with cutaway slipper-type skirts, reinforced by integral-cast ribs. The compression ration has been raised from 6 to 1 to 6.25 to 1.

Manifolding has been improved to give better heat control in conjunction with the thermostat control, and the syncro-mesh transmission has been made more rigid and compact.

The new longer and shallower battery has seventeen plates in each cell instead of fifteen as hitherto, and its capacity has been increased to 100 ampere-hours.

In interior treatment, advances have been made in convenience, comfort and appearance, from the newly designed instrument panel to the wider rear seat.

TERRAPLANE

The Hudson-built 1937 six-cylinder Terraplanes are made in de luxe and super models. They incorporate many of the features of the Hudson line—longer, lower, wider and roomier bodies; stronger, more rigid frames; the selective automatic shift transmission to be used in connection with the electric hand; improved radial safety control automatic coasting at fifteen miles an hour or less; optional hill-holding device, duo-automatic hydraulic brakes supplemented by a mechanical braking system, one-piece all-steel bodies.

The Terraplane is sold in this territory by the Taxeraas garage.

The horsepower of the Terraplane motor has been increased from 88 to 96 in the de luxe model and to 101 in the super series, but, it is said, economy has been increased by 10 per cent. The carburetor on the super models is now double-down draft. The battery is made accessible under the hood.

In appearance, the Terraplane follows in general its 1936 predecessor, but advantage has been taken of its wider, longer body to develop stylishness. The wheelbase is 117 inches as against 115 inches last year.

The principles of "unit engineering," which have been characteristic of the Terraplane line since its introduction, are incorporated in this year's cars. There is no line of strength demarcation between the chassis and the body, it is said, and this year an entirely new welded box section chassis frame of double-drop 2X type forms the foundation of the car. Body and frame are bolted together at thirty eight points, and the frame is spot-welded at 142 points.

On the four-passenger coupes and on the brougham models an Arcuate seat is employed. This seat is pivoted at the driver or left end and can be rotated forward in its entirety around this pivot point. In addition, the back of the seat tilts forward to permit easy access to the rear compartment of the car. The seat is designed so that a light pressure of the hand will operate the rotating and tilting unit.

A complete range of bodies is supplied on both the de luxe and super models. New for this year is the convertible brougham which is available on the super chassis. This is a distinctly sport model with dashing lines and, with the top down, is converted into a phaeton.

FORD V-8

The new 1937 Ford V8 makes its first appearance this week, the new models having been received here by Lund & Tunberg, dealers in this part of the state. The car presents advanced streamlining features and built-in headlights.

The new engine, it was said, would give fuel economy new to motoring in the United States, although it has been available to motorists in Europe where high fuel prices and horsepower taxes have forced the production of small engines for some years. It will be optional in standard body types, while the de luxe body types will be powered only with the 85 horsepower V8 engine. Both standard and de luxe lines will be available on a single chassis of 112-inch wheelbase.

Two structural features make the new line of cars. One is a new all steel body with one piece steel top, as well as steel structure, panels and floor. The other is a new braking system. This is mechanical and of it the engineers say:

"It is designed to give a 'soft' easy-action control. The brakes are actuated through a cable-and-conduit system and have controlled self-energizing action, providing the safety of steel throughout the entire mechanism."

A new club coupe is the latest of eleven body types which will be available.

The 60 horsepower V8 engine is new only to the American continent. Ford cars built in England and France for the European market have been powered with the engine for more than a year.

Exterior styling of the new line of cars is entirely new, with much more emphasis on the streamline treatment than heretofore. The frontal appearance is sharp-nosed and rakish, the radiator grille being curved back deeply into the hood sides.

Windshields are V-shapel. They are hinged at the top and can be opened. As well as all windows, they are of safety glass as standard equipment. Improvements in body arrangement include a large new luggage compartment. The extra tire is carried in this compartment except in single-seat cars, in which the tire is carried back of the seat.

Refinements in the 85 horsepower engine, which are also found in the 60 horsepower model, include improved cooling, new cast alloy steel pistons and larger "insert" type main bearings. Features such as dual down-draft carburetion, air-craft type floating connecting rod bearings and forced crankcase ventilation are retained.

MINNEAPOLIS JOURNAL SPORTS EDITOR

There were no excuses from Bernie Bierman when he arose to tell 500 members of the Minneapolis Journal's Downtown Quarterbacks Club about the 6 to 0 victory Northwestern scored over his Gophers Saturday.

He refused to acknowledge that breaks, fumbles or penalties had cost the game. "Northwestern players wanted to win more than our boys wanted to win," said he "Northwestern fought harder and that extra fight made the difference.

"It is true that some bad breaks led up to Northwestern's score, but it was our fault that some of those breaks occurred. Moreover all the breaks in the game gave Northwestern just one touchdown and that would not have been enough if our players had been fighting hard. I've seen this coming for a long itme, and I've told the boys it was coming but they wouldn't believe me.

"The chief difference between this game ond past games this season is that Northwestern had the right mental attitude and was able to play 60 minutes of hard football without being frightened by our reputations.

"If Washington had played with that attitude Washington would have beaten us. The same is true of Nebraska and Purdue, but those teams evidently went into the game believing we would win and that gave us the edge we needed. Northwestern went into the game believing it had a chance to win and willing to give everything it had. It played more hard football than we did and that tells the whole story.

"Now everything depends upon how our boys react. If they are willing to believe now that they have to try hard, they will probably win their remaining games. If they are still unconvinced—if they try to blame the weather, the condition of the field, the breaks—and refuse to blame themselves, then we are in for a lot of trouble thru the rest of the schedule."

In spite of the murky, rainy day at Evanston, Phil Brain was able to make a remarkably clear motion picture of the game. It showed closely that the Gophers had the stronger attack and defense, and really had an advantage in the play throughout, but did not have the punch to carry through after creating opportunities.

"I was pretty disgusted after the game," said Bernie Bierman, "but I'm just sick now after watching the pictures and perceiving the large number of chances we missed because we wouldn't make a little extra effort. At least two of those long runs should have gone for touchdowns, if some of the boys had not been loafing, and there were actually dozens of plays that carried potential long gains and possible scores but for a general tendency to loaf and take things for granted."

"The boys had seen so many opponents fold up in front of them that they expected Northwestern to beat itself. When Northwestern refused to beat itself the boys found they were not in the right frame of mind to fight back."

Bierman was questioned pointedly about the fumbles and penalties that played a part in the game. He explained each of them, but repeated that they were not determining factors. "We just didn't play football," he said.

LUNDEEN SEES NATIONAL FARMER-LABOR PARTY AS INEVITABLE

Senator-Elect Ernest Lundeen sounded a call for organization of a national Farmer-Labor party in a statement Monday thanking voters who supported him November 3.

Asserting a national Farmer-Labor party is "inevitable." Mr. Lundeen said Minnesota "points the way." His statement, addressed "to the people of Minnesota" and sent to newspapers said:

"Please accept my heartfelt appreciation and thanks for the wonderful assurance and encouragement in the hard fought 1936 campaign for the United States senate. We will never forget the friends who stood by us and we hope to renew the friendships that were tested on the front line trenches of the great political battle.

"I want progressives and liberals of America to know that I volunteer my services to all groups who are endeavoring to consolidate progressive forces into a national Farmer-Labor party. The firm foundations of a great national labor party already are laid. Labor organizations, farm co-operatives and their affiliated groups are joining in a great political alliance. The North Star state points the way. A national Farmer-Labor party is inevitable."

"Fattest Boy In World"

Irvington, N. J.—That is the title claimed by Buddy Haug, 11 years old, who tips the beam at 245 lbs. He is 5 feet 2 inches in height, is active in sports, but cannot bend far enough over to tie his shoestrings.

FINAL RETURN ON '36 ELECTION IS ANNOUNCED

State Canvassing Board Tabulates 1936 General Election Returns

Republicans Carry Only Two Minnesota Counties

Benson and Lundeen Win By Margins of 250,000 Votes

A record election in Minnesota that brought out 1,164,268 votes gave President Roosevelt and Farmer-Laborites their landslide pluralities exceeded only once before in state history, the state canvassing board disclosed Tuesday.

President Roosevelt carried the state by 348,350 votes over his Republican opponent, Alf M. Landon. This plurality was exceeded only by that of President Harding when he carried the state by 366,447 votes over James M. Cox in 1920.

Ernest Lundeen, Farmer-Labor, won the United States senatorship by a plurality of 260,959 over Congressman Theodore Christianson, Republican, and Senator Elmer A. Benson, Farmer-Labor, was elected to the governorship by a plurality of 248,501 over his Republican opponent, Martin A. Nelson.

The two proposed constitutional amendments both failed, neither receiving the necessary 582,134 votes for passage. Many Nimrods Are Out On Deer Hunt

A regular army went forth Sunday into 16 counties and into parts of four others at the opening of what will be one of the biggest game seasons. This is the first season since 1934 under the State biennial plan. According to reports made by A. C. Hanson, state director of game and fish, big game licenses at $2.25 went faster than printers could supply them. There are approximately 75,000 gunners crowded into the woods.

500 Pennington county hunters took their guns and sallied forth into the forest which reports say are teeming with deer and these reports seem to have been verified by the deer seen on the passing cars.

H. M. Olson, Henry Van Pelt, A. J. Cloutier and James Newland were among the first hunters to return with their bag.

How the contest, being conducted by the Kelly Hardware will turn out remains to be seen, however, the largest bucks entered so far were bagged by Henry Van Pelt and James Newland, weighing 225 pounds each.

Auto Show Turns Out As Big Exhibit

The three-day auto show which was concluded Saturday evening at the city auditorium and the new winter sports building, turned out to be an exhibition of first rank. It was the first showing of the new cars in any city in the Northwest.

The crowds at the vaudeville programs and dances Thursday and Friday evenings were not as large as they might have been, but those who were present enjoyed the show a great deal, and all agreed that it was the best vaudeville performance in this city to date.

The arena, which housed 25 new 1937 models of automobiles, was at all times nicely populated with spectators, and many autos were sold as a result of the splendid exhibits made. The new models showed a marked trend toward smooth streamlining, more spacious seating space, safety glass, and many added features which last year's models did not boast.

U.S. COMMITTEE MAKES WORLD COOP'S REPORT

Monitor Correspondent Interviews Group On European Trip

Favorable Sentiment Is Found Everywhere

Statement Will Be Inserted In Two Issues of Tri-County Forum

What the special committee, sent by President Roosevelt to investigate the cooperative movement in Europe, has found is contained in an article published recently by the Christian Science Monitor. While the article is brief in details as to the various countries, readers will derive a general idea as to what the committee found. The article is too lengthy for one issue so it will be inserted in two installments, the second to follow next week. The article:

"The three experts, Jacob Baker, Leland Olds, and Charles E. Stuart, who recently returned from a tour of northern Europe to which they had been sent by President Roosevelt to study the Consumer's Co-operative movement, were able to discover the realities of the high standards of comfort and convenience associated with this widely developed system which now has 7,202,721 subscribers in Britain alone.

"Interviewed while in Denmark by the Monitor's Copenhagen correspondent, Mr. Baker, the president of the committee, indicated that the importance of the human element in co-operative enterprise had impressed itself upon him and his colleagues. The committee began its inquiries in Sweden and went to Denmark, countries which, being pioneers in the movement, have afforded a good starting place from which to investigate developments elsewhere.

Amenities at Low Prices

"The members of the committee were introduced to domestic and social amenities supplied to the masses at extraordinary cheap prices. They made the acquaintance of self-supporting farms where electricity provided on a commercial basis alike increases profitable output and relieves the workers of much of the more onerous of their labors.

"They discovered factories and distributing organizations, both wholesale and retail, working successfully upon co-operative fundamentals, thus enabling consumers to own the plant that supplies their needs and reduces exploitation of every kind.

"Co-operation has approached the problem from the point of view of serving the direct interest of the consumer. It has aimed at re-

Northfield Man Buys Palm Garden Cafe

A business transaction was made this week whereby J. C. Kretzschmar of Northfield, Minn., acquired ownership of the Palm Garden Cafe and the Log Cabin Tavern. Martin Bothun, who has owned and operated the business for the past several years, has other business interests which demands his time and which led him to sell at this time.

Mr. Kretzschmar is a native of this city where he grew to early manhood, leaving here in 1915. He is a nephew of Mrs. H. A. Brumund of this city. For the past several years he owned and operated a hotel at Northfield, this state.

He will make some re-arrangements at the Log Cabin cafe and announces the discontinuance of the selling of beer. The two joint places comprise one of the finest eating places in the Northwest.

Mr. Kretzschmar will bring his family, consisting of his wife and one son, and expect to take up their permanent residence here as soon as he locates a suitable residence which, he reports, is a scarcity.

An announcement regarding the Palm Garden cafe is found elsewhere in these pages.

The huge crowd which attended the dance at the sports arena were lavish in their expressions of the beauty of the cars, and the attractive decorating scheme of the building.

The crowds at the vaudeville programs and dances Thursday and Friday evenings were not as large as they might have been, but those who were present enjoyed the show a great deal, and all agreed that it was the best vaudeville performance in this city to date.

The arena, which housed 25 new 1937 models of automobiles, was at all times nicely populated with spectators, and many autos were sold as a result of the splendid exhibits made. The new models showed a marked trend toward smooth streamlining, more spacious seating space, safety glass, and many added features which last year's models did not boast.

FORMER LOCAL MAN IS FATALLY INJURED FRIDAY

Harold Arneson Suffers Fractured Skull In St. Paul

Death Occurrs Later At Ancker Hospital

Remains Shipped Here For Burial Tuesday Afternoon

Harold Arneson, a former resident of our city, was fatally injured in St. Paul early Friday when he was struck by a car driven by Carl Gilde as Mr. Arneson was crossing the street. His skull was fractured and he died an hour later at the Ancker hospital where he was taken immediately after the accident.

The driver of the car was a young man 22 years old residing at 510 Lafond Street, St. Paul.

The remains arrived here Tuesday morning and funeral services were conducted that afternoon at the Community church with Rev. E. A. Cooke officiating. Interment was made at Greenwood cemetery.

The deceased was well known here and he and his family visited here at intervals since their departure ten years ago. He was the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Arneson, now of St. Paul.

Harold Arneson was born at Elbow Lake, Minn., Aug. 20th, 1900. He had been a resident of St. Paul since childhood with the exception of about five years, 1921 to 1926, when he made his home in this city. He left here for Canby, Minnesota in 1926, where he lived for two years, since which time he made his home in St. Paul. He was married in 1923 to Martha Dostal of this city.

Surviving him are his wife and two children, Betty Lou and Jimmie, his parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Arneson, all of St. Paul, two brothers, Henry K. Arneson of Washington, D. C., and Stephen V. Arneson, of San Juan, Puerto Rico, also two sisters, Mrs. Donald Ryan of Brainerd, and Mrs. Phillips Taylor of Washington, D. C. Also surviving him are his grandmother, Mrs. Anna Fish, and three uncles, and two aunts, one of which is Mrs. H. L. Larson of this city.

County Christmas Seal Workers Ready For Sale

Local managers to direct the Christmas Seal campaign have been appointed in every town in Pennington County, according to an announcement of the county organization just received from the Minnesota Public Health Association. The Christmas Seal campaign will open officially on Thanksgiving Day.

The list of local chairmen for the County in the Christmas Seal campaign has just been announced by the Minnesota Public Health Association. They are as follows:

St. Hilaire, M. R. Graham, Supt.; Oakland Park Sanatorium, Dr. B. B. Borreson; Thief River Falls, Mrs A. M. Smith; Goodridge, Mrs. V. C. McLeod. In Thief River Falls the Christmas Seal sale will be sponsored by the Medical Auxiliary.

The 1936 campaign marks the 30th anniversary of the introduction of the Christmas Seal into the United States as a means of raising funds to fight tuberculosis. The fact that three and one-half million people have died of tuberculosis during the last thirty years is emphasized in the message sent out to the local committees. In this message the forward strides which have been taken are also stressed and it is pointed out that the death rate has been cut two-thirds.

Officers of the County Public Health Association, the local unit of the Minnesota Public Health and the National Tuberculosis Association are as follows:

Inquire In Death Of Gully Missionary

Investigation of the death at Kalgan, China, Karl Bernhardt Olsen, Lutheran missionary of Gully, Minn., was ordered by the United States embassy Saturday on the basis of reports he had been driven from his home by Japanese troops while ill with smallpox.

Representatives of the embassy were dispatched into north China to inquire into Olsen's death, to determine the whereabouts of two other American missionaries, and to gather first hand information on reports of fighting in Suiyuan province.

Olsen died at Kalgan early Saturday. Reports received at the embassy at Peiping, China, declared his death followed eviction by Japanese troops from his home 80 miles northwest of Kalgan.

HOCKEY TEAM IS ORGANIZED AT MEETING SUNDAY

Fair Team Is Expected From Large List Of Available Players

The directors of the new hockey organization, who represent eight cities, held their meeting here on Sunday when it was decided that the local Legion will sponsor the Senior Hockey team representing this city in the newly organized States-Dominion Hockey league.

The local hockey committee is composed of A. M. Campbell and Alvin Christofferson, the co-managers, and A. F. Berge, Secy-Treas. Other members of the committee are A. B. Stenberg, O. C. Paulson, Earl Effinger and Joe Maruska. The hockey team will go under the name of the Thief River Falls "Thieves" which was chosen by the committee.

Uniforms which have been purchased by local business firms will carry a firm name on the back across the shoulders and "Thieves" diagonally across the front of the sweaters. The uniform is colored scarlet, royal blue and white, with royal blue trunks. The stockings are scarlet, blue and white.

Pre-season dope favors the Hallock and Emerson teams, with Roseau and Grand Forks a close second; while University of North Dakota and Thief River Falls represent an unknown quantity. However, the Thief River Falls squad includes a number of fast, smart and experienced players and the local ice enthusiasts are satisfied that the team will stay in the top bracket from the beginning of the league schedule which starts early in December.

Included in the icoal squad will be Vernon Williams, Ray Parbst, Rube Julien, Earl Johnson, Bobby Taylor, Lester Lindberg, Ted Skoglund, Mike VanJura, Mike Foy, Ole Berling, Adrian Lorentson, Clifford Higginbothun, John Lynsky, Bob Black, Kenneth Lindbergh, Grant Gulrud, and Lloyd Lund. The Legion management is trying to secure the services of Spencer Wagnild of Minneapolis as coach. Wagnild played with the fast University of Minnesota team and was chosen on the All Big Ten hockey team and competed in the Olympic try out.

Checkup Starts To Reduce Number On Relief

This week relief certification officers in every county began a state-wide checkup of all WPA employees to determine those most in need of relief and to weed out all those no longer requiring assistance. The check-up in Pennington county is in charge of John Lynsky, the local certification officer.

Purpose of the survey, conducted under supervision of Benjamin F. Youngdahl, head of the co-ordinating field service of the state board of control, is to provide as many needy persons as possible with WPA jobs, under existing quota limits, Victor Christgau, the state WPA administrator said.

Simultaneously, termination of 19,000 special drouth-relief jobs started today, in accordance with provisions of the original setup which called for a close-down of the emergency program by December.

Jorgen Syrtvet and Henry Bolstad of River Valley made a business trip to this city Thursday.

Monitor Correspondent Interviews Group On European Trip

Favorable Sentiment Is Found Everywhere

Statement Will Be Inserted In Two Issues of Tri-County Forum

What the special committee, sent by President Roosevelt to investigate the cooperative movement in Europe, has found is contained in an article published recently by the Christian Science Monitor. While the article is brief in details as to the various countries, readers will derive a general idea as to what the committee found. The article is too lenghty for one issue so it will be inserted in two installments, the second to follow next week. The article:

"The three experts, Jacob Baker, Leland Olds, and Charles E. Stuart, who recently returned from a tour of northern Europe to which they had been sent by President Roosevelt to study the Consumer's Co-operative movement, were able to discover the realities of the high standards of comfort and convenience associated with this widely developed system which now has 7,202,721 subscribers in Britain alone.

"Interviewed while in Denmark by the Monitor's Copenhagen correspondent, Mr. Baker, the president of the committee, indicated that the importance of the human element in co-operative enterprise had impressed itself upon him and his colleagues. The committee began its inquiries in Sweden and went to Denmark, countries which, being pioneers in the movement, have afforded a good starting place from which to investigate developments elsewhere.

Amenities at Low Prices

"The members of the committee were introduced to domestic and social amenities supplied to the masses at extraordinary cheap prices. They made the acquaintance of self-supporting farms where electricity provided on a commercial basis alike increases profitable output and relieves the workers of much of the more onerous of their labors.

"They discovered factories and distributing organizations, both wholesale and retail, working successfully upon co-operative fundamentals, thus enabling consumers to own the plant that supplies their needs and reduces exploitation of every kind.

"Co-operation has approached the problem from the point of view of serving the direct interest of the consumer. It has aimed at re-

Northfield Man Buys Palm Garden Cafe

A business transaction was made this week whereby J. C. Kretzschmar of Northfield, Minn., acquired ownership of the Palm Garden Cafe and the Log Cabin Tavern. Martin Bothun, who has owned and operated the business for the past several years, has other business interests which demands his time and which led him to sell at this time.

Mr. Kretzschmar is a native of this city where he grew to early manhood, leaving here in 1915. He is a nephew of Mrs. H. A. Brumund of this city. For the past several years he owned and operated a hotel at Northfield, this state.

He will make some re-arrangements at the Log Cabin cafe and announces the discontinuance of the selling of beer. The two joint places comprise one of the finest eating places in the Northwest.

Mr. Kretzschmar will bring his family, consisting of his wife and one son, and expect to take up their permanent residence here as soon as he locates a suitable residence which, he reports, is a scarcity.

An announcement regarding the Palm Garden cafe is found elsewhere in these pages.

Entered as Second Class matter April 27th, 1932 at the post office at Thief River Falls, Minnesota, and re-entered under new title at same office on February 21, 1936, under Act of Congress of March 3, 1897.

MAY THE TIME NEVER COME—

While the sales tax is a dead issue in Minnesota, judging from the results of the recent election, it is necessary that vigilance be maintained in preventing the growth of the idea of a sales tax proposal in the state. The issue is dormant and will be so for at least until the election of 1938, but it is wise to keep an eye on the matter so that when the elections come around again the issue will not arise like a mountain at the most inconvenient time.

A certain Twin City daily that is somewhat harping in favor of a sales tax at all times, remarked in its editorial pages like this: "It seems that states already having sales taxation are not so worried about it as the states that haven't tried it".

The writer of these lines is a former resident of North Dakota where a 2-cent sales tax has been collected for the past three years. It is true that the people there do not object to a sales tax and, in fact, voted in favor of it by a slim margin. But it voted in favor of it only after the party in power pleaded for a sales tax as the only means that could be resorted to in order to keep the state government functioning. Langer and Welford, the governors in the two campaigns, pictured a bankrupt state treasury and the closing of all schools if the tax law was not voted. The appeal for the schools was the only argument that had any effect with the voters and at that the tax won by a slim majority.

What the conditions were in other states we are not fully aware of, but no doubt a depleted state treasury was the predominant argument. In North Dakota the real estate tax has brought in very little in comparison with former years. The reason is that there has been little crop in that state for the past seven years so no one owning real estate could afford to pay taxes. There were no incomes to speak of so the income tax brought in little. Personal property levies could not be raised materially; in fact the situation became so desperate that unless something else than the above taxes was resorted to the state would have to seize everything because of delinquent taxes.

A sales tax was thus the only alternative. A household, be it rich or poor, pays the same rate of taxation as a sales tax on everything for the home is levied. The family on or near the relief margin in income must pay about as much as the family getting a fair income.

If that is honest and fair taxation, levies based on ability to pay, we fail to see it. There may be some communities in Minnesota where conditions are so that taxes are difficult to collect, but we hope that the time will never be whe nconditions here will be as bad as these were in North Dakota when it adopted the sales tax.

POWER OF THE PRESS

It wasn't only the Forum editor that set free his thoughts last week on the "prostitution of the press." Scores of the esnsible editors, who didn't bow before the "sunflower" idols in the recent campaign, voiced their sentiment much the same as we did last week. Even the reserved Christian Science Monitor took its turn at these malicious members of the fourth estate. The Monitor said:

"A veteran correspondent in America for one of the most staid newspapers of Great Britain ventured the opinion a day or two before election that the press of the United States, or rather a major section of it, had lost materially in prestige during the campaign. As a detached observer he believed the majority of the newspapers were not in step with the sympathies of a majority of the people.

"As a political forecaster he proved correct; whether the press has suffered in influence as a result of sticking to its views or those of its publishers must be measured as events go on. There is no denying that large masses of people in numerous industrial centers or agricultural areas felt themselves largely inarticulate so far as expression of their feeling in the local press was concerned.

"Though the result of the balloting indicates that editorial advice was very little accepted, it is nevertheless significant that American readers generally do trust the informational service of newspapers as furnishing data from which to draw their conclusions. In the main this trust is justified.

"It is significant, too, that the United States has newspapers free to speak their opinions, to criticize, to sound their warnings and to air more than one side of the political case. This is their function. Like the coiner of the saying, "Let me write a naiton's songs and I care not who writes its laws," Jefferson was doubtless exaggerating when he said, "I would rather live in a country with newspapers and without a government, than in a country with a government but without newspapers." Yet the service of information and discussion is vital to enlightenment, and the press has a duty as well as a privilege in making that service as full and fair as possible."

American newspapers are again going to extremes in their reporting. Certainly a lot of them need to pull the reins when they report the daily events between King Edward and his consort, Mrs. Wallis Simpson. The Minneapolis Journal tops the heap when in three column headlines Thursday it flared "Wallis And Edward Passed On Beach But Failed To Meet".

THE GREAT EXTERMINATION

Never before was an American election so far-reaching as the one just concluded. Never before were there so many political pests eradicated by one volley and so many others riddled with buckshot. Not only were Landon, Knox, and Hamilton retired to private life, where they belong so obviously, but Curley of Massachusetts, "Big Bill" Thompson of Illinois, Townsend of California, Father Coughlin of Detroit, and Gerald Smith of Louisiana were definitely put out of the running—though doubtless we shall continue to hear from Father Coughlin. The unspeakable William Randolph Hearst received the worst drubbing of his career—only promptly to discover that after all Franklin Roosevelt is perhaps just such a Democrat as Andrew Jackson! Senator Dickinson, one of the most reactionary men in the Senate, was defeated in Iowa—he, the "gallant keynoter" of the Cleveland convention. Senator Hastings of Delaware, who was the darling of the Liberty Leaguers because of his constant attacks on every phase of the New Deal, will remain at home. The Liberty League itself was crushed, and the pitiful figure of Alfred E. Smith is now definitely relegated to the sidelines; his political career is at an end and deservedly so. It was the most magnificent house-cleaning.

It will be a long time before we shall again see such a brazen effort to frighten and dragoon the American workingman to vote against his own interests. It will be a long time before the possessors of great wealth and special privilege will undertake again to besmear a President whose boots they licked at the beginning of his administration when they were imploring him to save them. For they will not soon forget what happened in 1936, when these tactics of theirs helped to roll up what will doubtless long remain the greatest Presidential plurality in our history.—The Nation (Weekly).

THE "BABY MARATHON"

While newspapers have gained much "copy" out of the "Baby Marathon" in Toronto, Canada, we have yet to see a special article that commends the eccentric Toronto millionaire for offering some $500,000 to the mother giving birth to the greatest number of babies in a 10-year period. If wealthy Charles Vance Miller had left $500,000 to be used as a foundation fund to help improve the lot of babies who are fore-doomed to a tough time in the general run of things, he would deserve commendation. It is probable, however, that the wealthy man was actuated by an ironical whim—that he figured on an eventual revulsion of public feeling—and that as a final upshot of his unique bequest, the world would soberly consider the right of all future children to be well born—to have healthy fathers and mothers, a good home, pleasant surroundings, right food and exercise, and finally the right kind of education and religious influence. Four of the six leading maternal candidates for the $500,000 have borne their children in poverty. The $500,000 would do much for a family of even 20 children—but the children of unsuccessful candidates will still be subject to the handicaps caused by poverty of the parents. Quite probably the rather sordid baby race in Toronto will result in serious contemplation of what should be considered commendable parenthood and society's general attitude on birth control and the rightful heritage of children.—LaMoure (N. D.) Chronicle.

THE NATIONAL HUMAN BARBECUE

In the last 12 months, approximately 10,000 persons have been burned to death. One-third of them were children.

Two-thirds of all the victims perished in residence and apartment fires.

Read that over again. If anything can awaken the American people to the gravity of the fire problem, that brief statement should. If you have a strong stomach, think of those 10,000 roasted bodies. And then realize that at least eighty per cent of fires, big and little fires alike, could easily have been prevented.

It is a human frailty to read such a statement as this, reflect for a moment on the horror of it, and then forget it with the mentally-made observation that "Well, my home is safe." Perhaps your home is. But there's better than an even chance it contains hazards that you don't know about.

An up-to-date house is not necessarily a safe house, from the standpoint of fire—many a $50,000 mansion has gone up in flames. Expensive furniture will burn as easily as cheap furniture—and the finest interior fabrics and woodwork will burn as easily as a piece of cotton cloth and a pine board.

Whether you live in a four-room bungalow or a fifty-room country place, inspect your property regularly, or have it inspected by someone who understands fire hazards and their prevention. Get the necessary information from your fire department or a similar institution. Once hazards are found, do away with them and make sure they don't re-appear.

Help reduce the national human massacre!

THE DIGEST POLL

The Literary Digest stands convicted of an attempt to bunco the American people in the greatest political swindle ever conceived. The Digest has conducted previous polls, with strict impartiality and the results foretold accurately how elections would go. This year, of course, implicit faith would have followed the Digest poll, if other nationwide pre-election polls had not been taken, and other polls indicated Roosevelt's election by big majorities. The Digest poll indicated a tremendous landslide for Landon and millions will always believe the thing was a deliberate conspiracy, concocted and carried out by the big money boys of the east to influence the bandwagon vote for Landon. The Literary Digest attempted fraud upon the people. If it doesn't fade away and die like the sunflowers of 1936 we shall miss our guess.—Webster (S. D.) Journal.

The Republicans wailed a great deal about "Three Long Years". It may seem a long time to some of them and we may expect that "Seven Long Years" will seem like eternity to them.

Names may be used as descriptive in many ways. But the one who composed the following must be accorded first place; it reads: "Roosevelt Garners vote and Knox Landon out."

Board Issues Statement of Rights Under Security Act

The Social Security Board last week issued the following public statement addressed to employees of industrial and business establishments, factories, shops, mines, stores, offices, and other places of business:

"The old-age benefit provisions of the Social Security Act will go into effect on January 1, 1937. To understand your obligations, rights and benefits under these provisions of the Act you should read the following general explanation.

"There is now a law in this country which will give about 26 million working people something to live on when they are old and have stopped working. This law, which gives other benefits, too, was passed last year by Congress and is called the Social Security Act.

"Under this law the United States Government will send checks every month to retired workers, both men and women, after they have passed their 65th birthday and have met a few simple requirements of the law.

What This Means to You

"This means that if you work in some factory, shop, mine, mill, store, office, or almost any other kind of business or industry, you will be earning benefits that will come to you later on. From the time you are 65 years old, or more, and stop working, you will get a Government check every month of your life, if you have worked some time (one day or more) in each of any 5 years after 1936; and have earned during that time a total of $2,000 or more.

"The checks will come to you as a right. You will get them regardless of the amount of property or income you may have. They are what the law calls "Old-Age Benefits" under the Social Security Act. If you prefer to keep on working after you are 65, the monthly checks from the Government will begin coming to you whenever you decide to retire.

The Amount of Your Checks

"How much you will get when you are 65 years old will depend entirely on how much you earn in wages from your industrial or business employment between January 1, 1937 and your 65th birthday. A man or women who gets good wages and has a steady job most of his or her life can get as much as $85 a month for life after age 65. The least you can get in monthly benefits, if you come under the law at all, is $10 a month.

If You Are Now Young

"Suppose you are making $25 a week for 52 weeks in each year, your check when you are 65 years old will be $53 a month for the rest of your life. If you make $50 a week, you will get $74.50 a month for the rest of your life after age 65.

If You Are Middle-Aged

"But suppose you are about 55 years old now and have 10 years to work before you are 65. Suppose you make only $15 a week on the average. When you stop work at 65 you will get a check for $19 each month for the rest of your life. If you make $25 a week for 10 years, you will get a little over $23 a month from the Government as long as you live after your 65th birthday.

If You Should Die Before Age 65

"If you should die before you begin to get monthly checks, your family will get a payment in cash, amounting to 3½ cents on every dollar of wages you have earned after 1936. If, for example, you should die at age 64, and if you had earned $25 a week for 10 years before that time, your family would receive $455. On the other hand, if you have not worked enough to get the regular monthly check by the time you are 65, you will get a lump sum, or if you should die your family or estate would get a lump sum. The amount of this, too, will be 3½ cents on every dollar of wages you earn after 1936.

Taxes

"The same law that provides these old-age benefits for you and other workers, sets up certain new taxes to be paid to the United States Government. These taxes are collected by the Bureau of Internal Revenue of the U. S. Treasury Department, and inquiries concerning them should be addressed to that bureau. The law also creates an "Old-Age Reserve Account" in the United States Treasury, and Congress is authorized to put into this reserve account each year enough money to provide for the monthly payments you and other workers are to receive when you are 65.

Your Part of the Tax

"The taxes called for in this law will be paid both by your employer and by you. For the next 3 years you will pay maybe 15 cents a week, maybe 25 cents a week, maybe 30 cents or more, according to what you earn. That is to say, during the next three years, beginning January 1, 1937, you will pay 1 cent for every dollar you earn, and at the same time your employer will pay 1 cent for every dollar you earn, up to $3,000 a year. Twenty-six million other workers and their employers will be paying at the same time.

"After the first 3 years—that is to say, beginning in 1940—you will pay, and your employer will pay, 1½ cents for each dollar you earn, up to $3,00 a year. This will be the tax for 3 years, and then beginning in 1944, will pay 2 cents and so will your employer, for every dollar you earn for the next 3 years. After that, you and your employer will each pay half a cent more for 3 years, and finally, beginning in 1949, 12 years from now, you and your employer will each pay 3 cents on each dollar you earn, up to $3,000 a year. That is the most you will ever pay.

Your Employer's Part of the Tax

"The government will collect both of these taxes from your employer. Your part of the tax will be taken out of your pay. The Government will collect from your employer an equal amount out of his own funds.

"This will go on just the same if you go to work for another employer, so long as you work in a factory, shop, mine, mill, office, store or other places of business. (Wages earned in employment as farm workers, domestic workers in private homes, Government workers, and on a few other kinds of jobs are not subject to this tax.)

"Meanwhile, the Old-Age Reserve fund in the United States Treasury is drawing interest, and the Government guarantees it will never earn less than 3 per cent. This means that 3 cents will be added to every dollar in the fund each year.

"Maybe your employer has an old-age pension plan for his employees. If so, the Government's old-age benefit plan will not have to interfere with that. The employer can fit his plan into the Government plan.

"What you get from the Government plan will always be more than you have paid in taxes and usually more than you can get for yourself by putting away the same amount of money each week in some other way.

"Wages' and 'employment' wherever used in the foregoing mean wages and employment as defined in the Social Security Act."

One Poll Comes Through

New York City—Out of the welter of straw votes and destruction of political prophets, one nationwide poll came out victorious. Two weeks before election Dr. George Gallup's American Institute of Public Opinion announced that President Roosevelt would carry 40 states with 477 electoral votes. It also pointed out "if the trend continued, the President might carry every state but Maine, Vermont and New Hampshire, with a total electoral vote of 519.' The Institute's 35 statisticians and big corps of clerks are said to be geared to measure any question of national importance in ten days.

The Washington Commentator

By E. C. STENGELSEN

Whither, Farmer-Laborites?

In the olden days, when the tutor of a Chinese prince found it necessary to punish his pupil, he might not lay profane hands on that divine personage. The walloping was administered to some poor coolie's son who had been provided for that particular purpose.

Nor could the hapless subsititute protect himself by stuffing his pants with straw. In the first place, it wasn't permitted, and, in the second place, he didn't have a pants.

Just which of them did the yelling as the thwacking proceeded, your commentator does not know. Possibly they had a third boy for that purpose. Your commentator would like to think so. It would furnish a precedent for the recent wails of the Republicans when certain Democratic candidates on the Minnesota state ticket withdrew in favor of certain Farmer-Labor candidates.

Just why the Republican elephant should stick its schnabel into a matter which was entirely between its two enemies, and which did not—technically at least,—even remotely concern itself, may, at first glance, seem hard to understand. Certainly, it was none of the Republicans' business! However, it was an open secret that their mournful howls came of the realization that the resultant F.L. Democratic coalition spelled the certain defeat of the Republican state ticket. And so they wrung their hands and wept bitterly that their Democratic brethern had been "sold down the river"...... while the rest of us, fully understanding, merely snickered.

However, it may well be that the 'deal' will ultimately redound to the considerable benefit of the Republicans—and at no greater cost than the defeat of a couple of more or less unimportant office-seekers......

For it is the view of many thoughtful old-timers among the Farmer-Laborites that it was they and not the Democrats, who were 'sold down the river'.

They concede that outwardly it may have looked like a Farmer-Labor advantage. Actually, however, thty believe it will ultimately develop to have been clever political engineering by the astute Democratic High Command.

Among the Farmer-Labor rank and file, a warm and friendly feeling toward Democracy has been born. Their aims and those of the Roosevelt administration seem to be so much the same that in many respects the lines which have heretofore divided them have almost disappeared. Given another few years of liberalism in the Democratic Party, there will be a slow and gradual drift from the smaller liberal organization and into the larger. Barring an unexpected change of front by the Administration, the prediction may not be far afield that the 1938 election will see a substantial shrinkage in Farmer-Labor votes, with a corresponding increase in the votes cast for their present allies.

And if the defection becomes strong enough, it may in time mean the gradual disintegration of the Farmer-Labor Party.

The apprehensive old-timers believe that the Democratic Party has already begun swallowing the Farmer-Labor movement—as it has swallowed other liberal movements in the past and is, even now preparing to swallow the Progressive organization in Wisconsin and elsewhere.

So it may well develop that the deal was a very costly one for the Farmer-Labor Party,—particularly since its candidates would have won anyway without the Democratic votes—and as Roosevelt, too, would have won without the coalition.

If the Democratic Party continues along the path of liberalism, there will be little reason for complaint even if it means obliteration for the Farmer-Labor Party. But it must be borne in mind that a large and important section of Democracy is and probably always will be reactionary. And there is no guarantee that the Party will not, ultimately, crawl back into the path of reaction.

If it does, then the disorganized liberal movement of the Mid-West must be re-built, at the cost of a great deal of labor and many years of wasted time.

VIEWS AND REVIEWS

Loco Boy Makes Good

Wherever you find a fascist dictatorship, you generally find a militaristic madman at the helm, or so avers a leading psychologist of this country. This aphorism seems to be borne out by the samples we have. It is a well-known fact that a large percentage of the world's great men have a defect of some kind. This defect often spurred their efforts to excel in their own particular field. Byron, the poet, was lame; Steinmetz, the mathematician, was dimunitive; Samuel Johnson, the essayist and dictionary-writer, suffered from hallucinations; and our own Abraham Lincoln was a hypochondriac. But never before in the world's history have men been able to be mad and erect huge organizations to carry our their mad dreams. Hitler, Mussolini, and their lesser imitators everywhere, are doing just that. As an exchange puts it, the fascist dictator is generally a "loco boy who makes good."

Can Mrs. Simpson Be Queen?

Whether or not you care who is king or queen of England, you cannot ignore the hullabaloo the American press has raised about Mrs. Simpson's divorce and her alleged relations with Edward VIII of England. Much speculation has arisen over the question of whether or not Mrs. Simpson can become queen of England. It develops that there is nothing to prevent it. Henry VIII of the many wives made queens of four commoners. Of late years it has been the custom for the nobility to marry nobility; but revolutions, civil wars, dictatorships, etc., have made times so tough picking among the nobility has become pretty slim. Too, all the old royal families are affected with one disease or another —and not too-inviting prospect for a healthy young man. So, as far as I am concerned Edward VIII can do as he pleases. Even if he had as many wives as did Henry VIII, and they were all commoners, I wouldn't kick.

"Millions for Defense——"

The Grand Forks Herald, one of our lesser watchdogs of capitalism, defends the billion-dollar expenditure the American congress made for war purposes with the assertion that it was purely for "defense," and goes on to show how defense in these days differs from defense of the days of 1836, for example. A very small military organization could defend the territory of the USA from actual invasion, the Herald admits feely; but "defense" has come to include much more than the physical territory. Modern warfare does not have as its objective the acquisition or defense of territory so much as the acquisition or defense of trade in commerce.

Thus, "our" banana, sugar cane, rubber, and pineapple plantations, "our" factories, shipping lines, estates, and whatnot in foreign countries need a strong international police force to maintain the myth of ownership. The army, navy, marines, and air forces of this country have done nothing but protect the interests of American capitalists abroad. That is as it should be, for this is a capitalist country.

RIVER VALLEY

A Brief History of The River Valley Forum

A handful of us - perhaps a dozen - men and women met in the River Valley Creamery office one evening last April to listen to Mr. Denning, Forum leader, explain the Public Forum Plan. After due discussions we decided to try it out.

The following week we met in the River Valley Co-operative store. About thirty five members were present. The following week we met in the school house nearby. Probably fifty, or more, were present. The next two or three meetings were held in the creamery, attendance constantly increasing. People came for instruction and entertainment from a radius of twenty miles, or more. The creamery was unsuited for such gatherings. People occupied all available space, sitting on the churns, on the vats, in the windows, in the office, standing in the door-way, and driving their automobiles as near as possible.

A committee was appointed to study the situation and devise a plan to take care of the crowds. Hearing that the Borgen Show people had a second-hand tent for sale, the Committee was given authority to act. The tent was purchased and set up near the creamery. The crowds continued to increase. It is estimated that the attendance averaged between three and four hundred at each time. It is positively known that over five hundred people have attended these meetings,—over five hundred members! The aggregate attendance is probably in excess of five thousand!

Speakers have come to address our meetings from long distances, Fargo, Tenstrike, Crookston, Hallock, Thief River Falls, and other places. Even Minneapolis has been represented with a promise of a speaker later on! We want to pay our utmost respect to Thief River Falls, whose people have been especially generous to us in the way of supplying talent and material aid. The Civic & Commerce association sponsored our Labor Day celebration, and merchants and others donated generously. We look upon this as a magnificent gesture of brotherly kindness.

The certain approach of cold weather made tent meetings impossible. A temporary meeting place has been arranged, which will house us until the biggest event takes place.

As a direct result of the Forum we are building a fine Community hall. Plans and specifications are complete, and a site for the hall has been purchased. A structure costing about six thousand dollars is planned.

Such, in brief, is a sketch of the River Valley Forum. We have the unique, but proud, distinction of being the LARGEST PUBLIC FORUM in the state of Minnesota!

By the way, River Valley is a strong Co-operative Community!

The last regular meeting of the River Valley Forum was held at the temporary hall Tuesday evening, Nov. 10th. The meeting was called to order by the chairman, Edwin Gordon. The meeting opened with a song by the audience. The minutes of the last meeting were read and approved. The officers elected for the next meeting are as follows: chairman, Alvin Mandt; vice chairman, Thorman Lunden; secretary, Rayno Lehtinen. Maurice Lehtinen was elected to take the place of Arnold Korupp as a member of the hall committee. Edwin Gordon gave the cost of the temporary building as $46.-50. Remarks were given by Mr. Denning in regard to the election. He stated that the Roosevelt landslide was probably due to Public Works, Old Age Pensions, and other relief agencies.—A discussion on the election was then held by the audience, and on our procuring a traveling library. A motion was made, seconded, and carried that the money necessary for the library is to be taken from the lunch fund. Maurice Lehtenen was chosen as librarian, with Dick Kolstrand and Thorman Lunden as assistants. Mr. Denning explained the Social Security Act, and also brought it up for discussion. He then gave several facts for the cause of temperance. O. M. Mandt reported that Mr. Webb, WPA administrator will meet with the town board and hall committees on Nov. 19, at River Valley. The project is one of the outstanding in the seventh district and was sponsored by the city of Red Lake Falls.

The structure is 122 feet long and 62 feet wide and steel girders supporting the roof. It is termed a three-unit structure offering the community a spacious auditorium, and dining hall, offices for city officials and quarters for the fire department.

WELL ATTENDED LECTURE

Sunday night a greater than capacity audience gathered to hear Evangelist Gulbrandson's lecture on "Another King Will Rule the World", in the Methodist church.

As might be expected of a man who has been teacher of history and Bible in theological schools, the evangelist portrayed with the most intimate familiarity the rise and fall of great world empires according to the divine predictions found in the Book of Books. He clearly showed in his lecture that most of the great events in history were foretold long before they came to pass. In fact the prophetic Scriptures give a very copious history of all the great and leading transactions and changes which were to take place among men and nations to the end of time and the setting up of the everlasting kingdom of God. The interesting "Back to the Bible" program for next Sunday and the following week is announced elsewhere in this issue of the Forum.

NEWS of the WEEK

Federal Reserve Optimistic

Washington, D. C.—Figures just released by the Federal Reserve Board for the first ten months of the year, indicated that 1936 is the best business year since 1930, with 1923-25 levels surpassed in many industries. "Industry, trade and finance", the report states, "show the cumulative effects of continued recovery".

Labor Truce Fails

Pittsburgh, Pa.— Negotiations for an understanding between the American Federation of Labor and the Committee for Industrial Organization fell flat when John L. Lewis, chairman of C. I. O., notified President William Green of the Federation that a conference between them would be "futile".

Broadcasters 10 Years Old

New York City—Celebrating its 10th anniversary, the National Broadcasting Company effected a radio hook-up that ranged from the summit of Pike's Peak to a submarine hugging the ocean bottom off Sandy Hook; between a cicycler in Chicago and a bus rider in New York, and between an 80-miles-an-hour train in Massachusetts and a 90-miles-an-hour flyer in Germany. From the air, planes above San Diego, Cal., added their bit to the program.

Automobile Leaders In '36

New York City—The opening of the National Automobile Show draws attention to the total registrations for the production year (October through September) of 1936. Canadian Radio Nationalized

Ottowa, Canada—In accordance with recommendations made seven years ago by a Royal Commission, the Dominion's radio activities passes into control of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation, with nine honorary governors and a paid manager. Efforts will be made to develop a system of nationally owned stations, supported by annual "listener licenses" of $2.00, modeled along the lines of the British stations.

Civic Symphony Scores

Birmingham, Ala. Believing that the masses appreciate good music, Dorsey Whittington, director of this city's Civic Symphony Orchestra, begins its fifth season by offering 1,400 seats at 25 cents. Expanding from 50 musicians to 84, the orchestra attracts large audiences from all over the State, special study groups organized by teachers making long trips in chartered busses.

The Week In Business

General wage increases in the steel industry will add an estimated $80,000,000 to the payrolls of the leading corporations .... Chrysler Corporation voted a $4,000,000 bonus to 67,000 employees; Standard Oil Company of New Jersey gave a $4,500,000 bonus to 47,000 employes .... The Bell Telephone System reports a gain of 719,500 stations in the first ten months of the year .... Cardinal Departs For Rome

Detroit, Mich.—Although his visit to this country was declared to have no bearing on the issue, coincident with the departure of Eugenio Cardinal Pacelli, Papal Secretary of State and the highest Roman Catholic dignitary ever to visit the U. S., Father Charles E. Coughlin, "radio priest" and bitter opponent of President Roosevelt, announces the abandonment of his radio addresses and the dissolution of his Union for Social Justice.

New York City—Two real rulers are touring America: Mr. and Mrs. Robert W. Hathaway, "Seigneur and La Dame" of Sark, one of the Channel Islands between England and France. Mr. Hathaway is American-born, and became Seigneur by marrying the heiress of the island. Sark's 600 residents are ruled by ancient Norman law, and the Hathaways are responsible only to the British King. The island has "no politicians' no public debt, no crime, no income tax, no divorce law, no lawyers."

Irish Constitution Looms

Dublin, Ireland—Eamon de Valera, President of the Executive Council of the Irish Free State has promised his people a Constitution omitting any reference to the British Crown; abolishing the Crown's representative, the Governor General, and electing a Chief Magistrate "like the President of the United States." Militant Ulsterman declare that Constitution or no Constitution, Northern Ireland will remain part of the United Kingdom.

The President's Vacation

Washington, D. C.—An air of mystery still surrounds the President's destination when he boards the cruiser Indianapolis at Charleston, S. C., next week. Whether he will pursue a leisurely fishing trip in the Carribean or proceed to Buenos Aires, Argentine, for the Pan-American Conference, remains known only to himself and his advisers.

With a peak enrollment this year of 6,115, Cornell numbers among its students representatives of 39 nations.

Ship Strike Conference

San Francisco, Cal—On the plea of Assistant Secretary of Labor Edward F. McGrady, striking maritime workers have agreed to release ships with perishable cargoes at certain ports and also to confer with ship owners in the hope of a peaceful settlement. In New York, Secretary of State Hull, bound for the Pan-American Peace Conference at Buenos Aires, was delayed eight hours while officers tried to replace striking seamen. The week opened with 56,000 workers idle, 355 ships tied up, food supplies scarce in Hawaii and Alaska, and a daily loss of $1,000,000 to workers, owners and shippers.

"THE MOUNTIES ALWAYS GET THEIR MAN"

House Shows Swing of Control to Liberals

The house lineup shows a tremendous swing from control by independents to control by liberals, with the vote more than reversed.

Members who two years ago voted with the independent progressives in organizing the house and this time supported Barker include:

Andrew Hayford and R. J. Julkowski, Minneapolis; Richard L. Tighe, Wazata; W. K. Nissen, Winona; William Witt, Belle Plaine; L. C. Dixon, Long Prairie; C. G. Monn, Hinckley; Theodore Slen, Madison; A. D. Crissey, Morris; Ray Anderson, Gilbert; A. C. Wanvick, Duluth.

Interested spectators included two new congressmen, Dewey W. Johnson and Henry G. Teigan; Fred Ossanna, leader in the all-party group; A. N. Jacobs, active in the house organization; Tom Sullivan, former Minnesota and now in Chicago; Walter Quigley; John T. Lyons, Farmer-Labor campaign manager, and Lewis Herfindahl, legislative campaign manager.

Stockwell Praises Barker

In nominating Barker as the liberal candidate for speaker, the veteran S. A. Stockwell declared him to be "one of the strongest men we've had in the progressive movement."

Fears the organization would be dominated by outsiders are groundless, Stockwell said, because Barker's record in the legislature "is 100 per cent straight."

"We have a right to expect great things of him, and I know they will be delivered," Stockwell said. "There will be no dictation by outside influences."

Sees Session for People

In the state's history, Stockwell said, the sessions of 1891 and 1933 were the only ones in which the cause of the people had a chance, and under Barker's leadership, the 1937 session will take rank with the other two.

In the main seconding speech, Carl Eastvold of Ortonville declared human rights versus property rights the great current issue of government. The concern of the legislature, he said, is "to help the little fellow." If this is done, he said, all classes will prosper.

10 Others Join Vote

Ten others, including several who voted with the independent-progressive group last session, joined in seconding the nomination.

Officers for the house chosen by the caucus were Chief clerk, John J. McDonough, St. Paul; second assistant chief clerk, Roy Aalbu, Thief River Falls; postmaster, M. Ryan, Houston county; assistant postmaster, Mrs. Josie Wagner, Minneapolis; sergeant-at arms, Lewis Herfindahl, Benson; assistant sergeant-at-arms, George Elhard, Northome; engrossing clerk, Mrs. Harold Butler, Minneapolis; enrolling clerk, Wendelin Lemm, Melrose. The chaplain and first assistant chief clerk will be named later, and other employee assignments will come when the session opens.

Aggie Students Will Give Play Saturday

The first major dramatic production of the current school year will be presented at the Northwest School Saturday, Nov. 21, under the direction of Miss Dorothy Smith, dramatic coach, at the school. "Once in a Life Time", a romantic comedy in three acts, by Charles Quinby Burdette, is to be presented by an all-school cast. Several one-act plays have already been presented at the school under the direction of Miss Smith.

Several students from the counties surrounding Thief River Falls who are members of the cast in the play are Dorothy and Marshall Evans of Middle River, James Weckwerth of Hazel and Patricia Durbahn of Angus.

"Once in a Lift Time" is a delightful comedy of gypsy romance and intrigueing adventure. The play holds a decided appeal for any audience. It has been successfully produced by many schools and Little Theatres thruout the country in the past few years. Altho a comparatively new play, it has already established a record as a highly entertaining and worth while production.

Prof. Skadheim Gives Interesting Lecture

A capacity audience gathered Sunday night at the Methodist church on Bridge St., to attend Prof. M. N. Skadsheims illustrated lecture on astronomy and the Bible. Having made a special study of both the Bible and astronomy and being a fluent speaker, Prof. Skadsheim was able to hold the large audience spellbound from beginning to end. His many beautiful stereopticon views of the great galaxies and wonderfully arranged constellation of the sky added to the interest of the topic. The "Back to the Bible" lecture course presents continually new and very interesting topics to the public. Elsewhere in this issue is found the program for next week. —Contributed

Democrats Have Greatest Senate Margin Since 1869

Not since 1869 has any party held such a large percentage of the senate's membership as the Democrats won in last week's election, and records as far back as 1855 show no house majority to equal that assured in the New Deal congress.

There will be 75 Democrats, 17 Republicans, and 3 liberals in the senate which meets next January. In 1869, when Grant was president, the Republicans hit a high mark of 61 members while the Democrats had only 11. This was a ratio of 82 per cent, slightly higher than the Democrats have now.

Since 1855, neither party has held as high a percentage of house strength as the 334 Democratic members elected last Tuesday will provide. The new house will have only 89 Republicans.

Numerically, the Democratic strength will be the greatest in the country's history in both houses. The previous high marks were the memberships of 322 Democratic in the house and 70 Democrats in the senate last year.

Here is the party lineup for the next senate: Democrats 75, Republicans 17, Progressives 1, Independents 1, Farmer-Labor 2. Total 96.

The party alignment in the old senate was: Democrats 70, Republicans 23, Farmer-Labor 2, Progressive 1.

The party lineup for the next house: Democrats 334, Republicans 89, Progressives 7, Farmer-Labor 5. Total 435.

The party alignment of the old house follows: Democrats 321, Republicans 104, Progressives 7, and Farmer-Labor 3. Total 435.

Madrid's Fall Imminent

Toledo, Spain—With the downfall of Brunete, 13 miles west of Madrid, the Rebel forces now occupy a position which observers feel will result in the Capital's capture within a fortnight. The enveloping movement has now spread to the South, the one remaining avenue of communication open to the Loyalists defending Madrid.

HOW LONG CAN A THREE-QUARTER WIFE HOLD HER HUSBAND?

YOU have to work at marriage to make a success of it. Men may be selfish, unsympathetic, but that's the way they're made and you might as well realize it.

When your back aches and your nerves scream, don't take it out on your husband. He can't possibly know how you feel.

For three generations one woman has told another how to go "smiling through" with Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It helps Nature tone up the system, thus lessening the discomforts from the functional disorders which women must endure in the three ordeals of life: 1. Turning from girlhood to womanhood. 2. Preparing for motherhood. 3. Approaching "middle age."

Don't be a three-quarter wife, take LYDIA E. PINKHAM'S VEGETABLE COMPOUND and Go "Smiling Through."

MOTHERHOOD IN POLITICS DEFINED BY LADY ASTOR

"A danger to her community," according to Viscountess Astor, who recently returned to her girlhood home in Virginia for a brief visit, is the mother "whose interest is confined to her own family ....My idea of a good mother is one who is so good that her love embraces all families".

That Lady Astor exemplifies her own belief is a matter of common knowledge, for as the first woman member of the British Parliament she has fought aggressively for measures for public welfare. Not only was she the first woman to conduct through the House a bill to ban the sale of intoxicants to persons under eighteen, but she has worked actively for better legislation having to do with juvenile courts, the guardianship of infants, and is now engaged in an educational program providing for continuation school opportunities for British children who ordinarily leave the schoolroom in their early teens.

This titled visitor to American shores is as active for peace as she is for other welfare measures. Interviewed by a reporter for the Christian Science Monitor, Lady Astor, said, in part:

"I have always found that the 100 per cent national is a danger to any country. The best citizen is never a 100 per cent American, or the 100 per cent Englishman. The best citizens is a hundred-per-cent HONEST.

"Love your family, yes. If you are not good to your own family, you will not be good to anybody else, but if your kindness stops there, you will make a bad citizen. You must love your community and your own country and extend your love beyond its boundaries to other countries. Just as it is stupidity not to treat every child as you would your own, so it is stupidity to shut out from your interests conditions which exist thru out the world. It is a question of clearing up social evils. Every nation wants peace."

MIDDLE RIVER

Cooperation Is Discussed

The regular weekly metings of the Co-Op discussion club is being held each Tuesday night at the office of the Co-op Oil company. Mr. Hegg, the class leader, being well posted on his subject and having a pleasing personality, has aroused a considerable interest in the study and discussion of co-operation. A meeting of especial interest was held at the Woodman hall Tuesday evening, Nov. 17 to which the general public was invited and which was addressed by two or three out-of-town speakers.

Turks Held for Xmas Trade

The buying of turkeys here for the Thanksgiving market is now over with. We have no figures as to the total amount marketed here but we opine from personal observation that it has been smaller than that of last year. This is probably due to the fact of feed being extremely high and the market being low, which caused a large proportion of the farmers to await the Christmas market in hopes of getting better returns. The quality of the dressed birds that have come in, however, appears to be very good.

Leave For The West

A truck load of Middle River and former Middle River people left here Sunday, Nov. 8th for Wenatche, Wash., to spend the winter. The personnel of the party is as follows: Mr. and Mrs. Carl Knutson, Mrs. Casper Knutson, Mrs. Tygeson and her son and daughter, Creston Naeseth of St. Paul, and Marion Hagen. The party had the truck fitted up for comfortable traveling, it being enclosed and supplied with sleeping accommodations.

Misses Ruth and Blanche Peterson and Fay Bakken were home over the weekend. Leonard Peterson drove to Grygla after Ruth who teaches there while Emil Peterson went to Grand Forks after Blanche and Fay, both of whom are students there.

The Co-Op store was quite busy dishing out hunting licenses last week.

Notwithstanding all the warnings and propoganda in furtherance of careful driving the accidents continue to happen. A head-on collision on a foggy morning last week between Alex Janoski's truck and a brand new International pickup owned by Mr. Fitterman of the Northern Trading Co., Thief River Falls, badly demolished both vehicles. The accident occurred near Gatzke.

The red army has invaded this section of the country in considerable force the past few days and have inflicted numerous casualties among the antlered tribes of the woods with no losses to the reds that we have heard of.

Albert Stephens visited his son Walter at Grygla over Saturday and Sunday. Richard Stephens drove out after him Monday morning.

Alfred Tygeson has been walking on crutches for several days from a painful ailment in his legs which struck him suddenly and appeared to baffle diagnosis by the doctors.

The annual Red Cross drive is now on here with Mrs. Overvold as leader, assisted by Mrs. Carr. At this writing the final receipts are not obtainable.

The regular meeting of the women's club which was announced to be held at Mrs. Black's Friday was held Saturday instead.

The Campbell Show company appeared here Friday and Saturday nights as per announcement, and as usual pleased their large audiences with their side splitting comedies.

Art Hallren of Karlstad, a nephew of A. W. Peterson, and Mr. Sheakle, also of Karlstad, were hunting Monday and got a deer before noon.

The ball-up in the plastering of the creamery has been straightened out. Another make of steel lath that holds the plaster was put in in place of the inefficient lath torn off. Today (Tuesday) the engine was moved from the old creamery to the new one. Hence from now on the time required to complete the interior of the new building, the hot water and steam will be supplied from the new boiler in the new building and piped to the old creamery.

Mrs. Ellifson and daughter have moved into the upper story of the big Sjoberg house.

SCHOOL NOTES

Third and Fourth Grade News

The Busy Bee Club is planning a program and a party for Thanksgiving.

The health classes are making a health habit scrapbook.

The fourth grade geography class is away on a trip to Baffin Island where Mandla, a little Eskimo boy lives. Last Thursday they gave some fine talks about their trip to the third graders.

The third grade science class has traced the story of wheat from seed to the finished product in the bakeries.

The fourth grade science class finds the study of bees especially interesting.

Scouts Plan Activities

Last Wednesday the Boy Scouts met for the first time this year. Plans were made for activities to be carried on this winter and the time for future meetings was agreed upon. With the formal part of the program out of the way, the rest of the evening was given over to an informal get-together social hour. After eating a hearty lunch the meeting adjourned.

Pep Fest Is Held Friday.

The assembly period Friday was held in the hall. Mr. Ripple gave a financial accounting of the school carnival and thanked all who had a part in making the carnival a success. After a few more announcements Mr. Ripple turned the assembly over to Mr. Adrian.

Mr. Adrian called on Mr. Jaspers, the coach, to comment on the basketball game to be played that evening with Clearbrook. He did so and aroused a great deal of enthusiasm.

Carol Hovland and June Norby led the pep fest that followed. Both are able leaders and possess the right kind of school spirit. They can be counted on to do their part willingly, effectively and well.

The band under the direction of Mr. Ohnstad played a few numbers and worked out a few cheers with the rooting section. These were to be used that evening.

Plummer Defeats Clearbrook

Plummer won its first game of the season by defeating Clearbrook 17 to 10. The game was close all the way. Both teams were inexperienced which undoubtedly accounted for the ragged play at times.

Plummer's prospects for a winning team are good; more play will develop smoother functioning and a better eye for the basket.

A large enthusiastic crowd attended the game. Cow bells added the novelty note to the cheering while the band rounded out the cheering with its peppy numbers.

The next home game is with Goodridge. They play here Nov. 25th.

ROADMASTER LIMITED

ON DISPLAY at all Buick Showrooms

FOUR WONDROUS NEW REASONS WHY:

"It's Buick again!"

SENSATIONAL is the fervor with which the American public has taken to its heart the brilliant motor cars offered by Buick this year.

Indeed, the sweeping success of the 1936 Buick program flatly challenged us and our great parent General Motors to a momentous decision.

Should we continue this amazingly popular line of cars into next year, perhaps the prudent thing to do—or should we dare broad improvement upon their spectacular excellence?

We felt there was only one right answer to that question, the bold and progressive answer—and that's why insiders now forecasting 1937 are already saying: "It's Buick again!"

That's why on top of $15,000,000 recently spent re-tooling and re-equipping Buick's great plant, we appropriated and are now spending $14,500,000 more.

That's why every car in the 1937 Buick line—the SPECIAL, the CENTURY, the ROADMASTER and the LIMITED—is a triumph visibly and intrinsically outranking anything we have ever done.

Each has more beauty for dazzling style, more power for breath-taking action, more room for full-family comfort, more downright "road-command" for safety and pleasure.

See them—then you'll know why Buick's soaring sales curve is headed for yet loftier altitudes next year.

YOU'VE GOT WHAT IT TAKES!

You can afford the new Buick. It's easy to buy and thrifty to own. With all its quality, its phenomenal performance and stunning style, prices start as low as . . . . . $765 and up list at Flint, Mich.

General Motors terms to suit your liking. Safety glass included, accessories extra. Prices subject to change without notice.

ducing as much as possible the profit motive in the business of providing such necessaries of life as shelter, food, light, heat and clothing for everybody.

"Comfort in the house for all classes at the lowest possible cost has been the slogan of the movement. The method of achieving this has been by enabling the consumer as a body to control the activities of the distributor and the producer. Proof of the possibility of doing this successfully is seen in the large dimensions of the transactions of consumers' combinations, in some cases local, in others nation-wide and in a few on an international scale.

Distribution of Profits

"All the organizations have one feature in common. It is that of the clubbing together of consumers so as to enable them to employ salaried individuals to perform duties elsewhere executed by capitalists. Profit or loss on the business thus becomes the affair of the consumers as a whole.

"Profit is distributed partly by reducing the prices charged to the members, and partly in the form of periodical dividends, calculated as a percentage upon the value of goods purchased. Losses when incurred are taken care of by raising the prices of the goods or services supplied.

"Since the last named process can—without destroying the combination—only be carried to a point where the rates charged to members surpass those at which similar goods are available in the open market, it follows that the gigantic growth which has taken place in the system is proof of intrinsic soundness in its foundations.

"A similar conclusion follows from the immense cheapening to the consumer of household requisites of all kinds that has been effected in Sweden and indeed wherever the system has been at all widely adopted."

Two Accidents Kill Four In Polk County

Two automobile collisions in Polk county Saturday took a toll of four lives and sent four others to hospitals, some of them in serious conditions.

The dead are: Miss Oline Braaten, 45, of near Thompson, N. D., William Driscoll, 44, of near East Grand Forks, Roy E. Penn, 31, of Grand Forks, and Cliff Wintz, of Fosston.

Penn and Wintz were killed when Penn's car and a turkey truck crashed on highway No. 2, three miles west of McIntosh Saturday night. Their bodies were taken to McIntosh. George Smith of Wadena, Minn., driver of the truck, was taken to the Fosston hospital in a serious condition.

Miss Braaten and Mr. Driscoll died a few hours after the cars in which they were passengers collided, head-on. three miles northeast of East Grand Forks.

Both succumbed in a Grand Forks hospital where they were taken after the accident. Three other persons received injuries in that crash.

Expected To Recover

The injured are Mrs. Driscoll, who rode with Mr. Driscoll in the rear seat of a car driven by Olaf Gjovick of Stratcona, who was only slightly injured, and O. S. Braaten, a brother of Miss Braaten, who drove his machine with his sister as a passenger. Braaten and Mrs. Driscoll are expected to recover. Gjovick suffered a knee injury.

The Driscolls and Gjovick left the Driscoll farm 4½ miles northeast of East Grand Forks shortly before 2 P. M. Saturday for East Grand Forks. Mr. Braaten and his sister were traveling east and the collission occurred near the John Tack farm. Both cars were badly damaged.

Was Graduate Nurse

Miss Braaten, a graduate nurse, was born and raised on a farm near Thompson. She was on her way to Warren, Minn., with her brother at the time of the fatal accident. Mr. Driscoll was born and raised near East Grand Forks, leaving a wife and six children.

In the accident near McIntosh, half of Penn's car was torn away and the truck sent into the ditch where it remained right side up but with two wheels torn off and otherwise badly damaged.

Penn and his passenger were believed instantly killed. Smith, driver of the truck, was unconscious when taken to the Fosston hospital but regained consciousness later. Doctors said he was in a serious condition.

Penn's passenger was identified as Wintz through papers in his pocket. Authorities were unable Saturday night to locate any one in Fosston who knew him.

Penn was born September 9, 1905, at Long Prairie, Minn.

GROUP TO MEET TO DECIDE UPON ADULT CLASSES

Federal WPA Project Is Available For Local People

Several Forum Groups May Be Organized

Mr. Denning, Head of Adult Ed. Work to Lead Friday's Meeting

A meeting to determine the courses of Adult Education proposed for Thief River Falls will be held Friday evening this week at the Municipal Auditorium, beginning at 8 o'clock. This date was decided upon the first of this week when Mr. Denning, federal supervisor of adult education in this territory, met with a group of local interested citizens.

The proposed classes will be a project under the state WPA educational program, a number of which are in progress in the nearby villages or communities. The available classes can be in parents' education, workers education, vocational education, and nursery schools, or as many prefer, adult educational classes in general.

The last named may be divided into two divisions, one being an advanced discussion forum and the labor discussion forum.

All interested persons are asked to attend the meeting Friday. Suggestions are asked to be submitted so that a general opinion can be formed as to whether there is a sufficient number here that is in favor of beginning the project.

A group of adult education members have been conducting a very successful project in the River Valley community for the past year.

Winter Feeding Of Game Birds Urged

With the approach of winter, sportsmen and conservationists are again asked to cooperate with the division of game and fish in feeding game birds.

The National Youth Administration, which last winter supervised the conservation activities of more than 400 boys, during the past summer built thousands of game bird shelters and feeders which will be placed in use this winter.

A leaflet containing instructions for building bird shelters and feeders may be obtained upon request from the division of game and fish or the Youth Administration, Minnesota building, St. Paul.

The game and fish division will have a limited amount of grain available for feeding purposes if weather conditions this winter are unusually severe.

RED CROSS ROLL CALL FINISHED; FUND IS $549.50

Mrs. H. A. Brumund, Co. Drive Chairman, Thanks All Members

$300.25 Is Retained By County Chapter

Drive Which Commenced Nov. 11 Comes To Close Thanksgiving Day

Following a check of final results of the annual membership drive conducted by the Pennington County Red Cross Chapter, Mrs. H. A. Brumund, Roll Call Chairman, today expressed gratitude for the public's response during the enrollment period.

"The generosity of the local citizenship again has been demonstrated," the Roll Call Chairman said.

The membership drive just concluded shows that $549.50 was collected in total. Of this amount $35.00 was received from the St. Hilaire branch. The amount sent to the national headquarters was $219.25, with $300.25 retained by the chapter for its local activities.

"The outcome of such an appeal can not be measured wholly upon a dollars and cents basis. Service rendered in the Roll Call by volunteer workers, the manner in which these solicitors were received on all sides and the faith in the Red Cross evidenced throughout the Chapter territory are all as gratifying," Mrs. Brumund stated.

"The Red Cross is only as strong as its membership. It is able to serve humanity only in the degree to which it is supported.

"In behalf of the local Chapter, I take this means of expressing appreciation and thanks to all citizens of Pennington Co., who gave so generously of their time or funds, or both, during the annual roll call.

"Since the Red Cross is an agency of and by the people, its entire membership is entitled and urged to take a part in the Chapter's year-round activities. Through it we multiply our usefulness," she concluded.

He was committed to prison Nov. 26, 1935 on a second degree grand larceny charge following his plea of guilty.

No decision has been announced in Mr. Fowler's plea as this paper goes to press.

Chauffeurs Licenses Must Be Renewed Now

Mike Holm, Secretary of State, wishes to remind all chauffeurs of the necessity under the law of renewing their chauffeurs licenses during this month. Now, as before, if application for renewal of chauffeur's license is filed during the month of November, the fee is only $1.00 and no examination is required. If the application is not made before the first of December, however, an additional charge of $1.00 as penalty is required by law.

"We have absolutely no authority to waive the penalty", said Mr. Holm, "so we trust that chauffeurs will send in their applications for renewal during the month of November and thereby avoid the increased cost to themselves."

Application blanks for renewals were sent to all licensed chauffeurs before November 1. Many were returned because the license evidently had moved to a new address without reporting to the department. Any chauffeur who has not received his application blank should write immediately to Mike Holm, Secretary of State, St. Paul, and the required blank will be supplied.

Two Locked Deer Found Last Week

Unusual Incident Is Discovered By Hunter Near Middle River On Wednesday Last Week

An unusual incident was beheld by a hunter in the vicinity of Middle River last week when two bucks were found with locked horns, the result of combat between the two bucks.

Bernard Tanner, who lives on a farm east of Middle River, was scouting around for deer in the territory northwest of that village a week ago when he came upon a buck which seemed to be caught in the underbrush and could not get away. Upon a closer examination, young Tanner saw that the deer was in locked horns with another prostrate buck.

As he approached the two he saw that the prostrate deer was dead. He then aimed his rifle at the other and relieved him of his suffering. After calling others of his party, Mr. Tanner found that the neck of the buck dead before the two were discovered was broken which evidently caused his death.

It was noticed that the live buck had dragged his victim for a considerable distance thru the woods and meadows. He was sufficiently loose to be enabled to eat vegetation along the path. An examination of the dead buck indicated he had been dead for a couple of days. The horns disclosed that the victim of the locked fight was a four-year-old buck, weighing 275 pounds, and the victor a five-year-old buck weighing 250 pounds.

Hunters who have come across cases like this state that after two bucks become locked in combat it is impossible for them to become untangled.

The heads of the Middle River deer incident are to be preserved and mounted.

DEER SEASON IS ENDED; CHANGE IS SEEN IN LAW

Biggest Hunting Period In Many Years Is Reported

County Auditor Issues 500 Hunting Licenses

Agitation in Ban on Fawn May Revive One-Buck Regulations

The termination of what seems to have been the biggest deer hunting season in many years came to a close Wednesday this week after a ten-day season. It is estimated that 75,000 or more licenses were issued in Minnesota. Mr. Senstad, auditor of Pennington county, reports that 580 licenses were issued here, a larger amount than anyone here expected.

Cars carrying deer either on the fenders or elsewhere tied on have been passing thru Thief River Falls in untold numbers, indicating that the season was a profitable one for many. Scores of deer were bagged by local hunters who are feasting on deer meat these days.

Dissatisfaction with this year's experiment of protecting fawns during the deer season in Minnesota is expected to revive discussion of the controversial one buck law.

The ban on fawns was recommended by the state Conservation Commission at the request of many sportsmen's groups, but reports received during the deer season seem to indicate that the experiment was not generally approved.

Officials of the department of conservation and sportsmen are pointing out that it is exceedingly difficult to distinguish a fawn from a yearling doe at any distance. Incomplete reports of seizures of fawns indicate that a large number of hunters mistook fawns for does.

Many sportsmen believe that if fawns are to be protected at all the only practical method of doing so would be to limit the deer season to antlered bucks, in other words to have a one buck law in effect in all or a part of the deer country.

The protection of fawns this year also raised difficult problems of law enforcement. It is undoubtedly true that many hunters honestly shot fawns by mistake, yet many others may have shot fawns knowingly. Game wardens were obviously placed in a difficult position.

Light Snow Fall Comes After A Mild Spell

A period of ten mild days has made this one of the weatherman's unusual mild early winters, but the sharp decline to sub-zero temperatures Tuesday briefly whetted our appreciation of the warm weather. The terra firma it seems, will have a white covering Turkey Day, as a light fall of snow began early Wednesday. The snow which came around election time disappeared during the mild spell.

ADMITS SPANISH WAR NEWS COLORED

The Associated Press, largest news-gathering agency in America, has tacitly admitted that it alters its manner of handling news from Spain because of the threats of Fascist insurrectionary generals!

Reading between the lines of a letter from Executive Assistant John Evans of A. P.'s foreign service to Miss Jessie Lloyd O'Connor, a member of the North American Committee to Aid Spanish Democracy, one can evalute for himself the extent to which Fascist intimidation colors at the source the news the people of the United States, Canada and much of the rest of the world get about Spain's struggle for liberty.

Though Evans limits himself to the cautious admission that A. P. does not use the word "rebel" for fear of reprisals, and that it fails to use the term "loyalists," his letter, taken in the additional light of actual handling accorded to Spanish news, is of sensational import.

It comes on the heels of reports that Fascists murdered correspondents for failing to send out misleading reports. It comes as the North American Committee releases facts ignored by A. P. about the slaughter of members of religious minorities by the Fascists.

Mrs. O'Connor, replying to A. P., said: "I do not charge that the A. P. deliberately lies about Spain. I have simply observed that the majority of people who depend on A. P. for their information have no idea that it was a liberal democratic government against which the generals rebelled, nor that any believing Catholics were ever in the government."

SEES AID IN ROOSEVELT VICTORY

Three weeks after the American election it is possible to perceive certain international implications that were not readily apparent at the time, says an American correspondent in France.

Talks with highly placed French officials have convinced the writer political elements in France, represented for the moment by the "People's Front" government headed by Leon Blum, consider President Roosevelt's crushing majority as an enormous encouragement and foresee an era of close co-operation between the United States and France for the defense of Democratic ideals against the rising menace of Fascism in the various parts of the world.

Few French leaders are so ill-informed as to believe that either Landon or the Republican party represented a Fascist ideal. But the unprecedented majority given to Roosevelt, it is considered, could only have come from a profound mass movement, guided by the fear that the repudiation of Roosevelt would have meant an era of reaction which, in all likelihood, judging from recent European experience, would have prepared the way for an authoritarian government.

"If my informants are correct", says this correspondent, "as to M. Blum's views he believes that Rooseveltian Democracy in American and "popular" government in France can, working together, effectually block the spread of Fascist ideas. Practically speaking, such co-operation can take many forms, of which the most effective, it is thought, will be the development of international commercial exchanges. With Germany launched on a four-year program of industrial anarchy, and Mussolini proclaiming "Italy is an island", the opportunity for popular governments to demonstrate the advantages of international trade is a tempting one.

Politicians of all shades of opinion agree Roosevelt's triumph has immensely strengthened Blum's position in France.

WHAT PROPORTION EDITORS REPRESENT

During the first part of October the Forum, along with all the other weekly newspapers in the country received a questionnaire from Hofer & Sons of Portland, Ore. This questionnaire asked information regarding our opinion on the electric power development in this country, in general, the entire series of questions ascertaining our idea on Roosevelt's electrical program.

Hofer & Sons is a propaganda agency for the "power trust" and other big business parasites. During the hearing of Mr. Hopson and the power trust lobby in Congress before the Interstate Commerce commission a year ago it was testified to that Hofer & Sons received nearly $90,000 for propaganda work among the newspapers in the country. Hofer & Sons admit privately to us it is an agency for the distortion of facts in free editorials so as to favor private utilities, big insurance companies and Wall Street speculators.

Last week we received a reply to our questionaire, thanking us for sending our answers to the several questions. This communication states: "The opinions of hundreds of editors like yourself who answered, provide a splendid cross-section of informed American opinion on this important question (gov't's electric power development). We will soon make up a general summary of the replies received, and we feel that it will be a great aid to intelligent discussion of the issue."

That's another good joke! The opinion of editors provide a splendid cross-section of informed American opinion! Nothing could be more untrue. American editorial opinion has been so much out of alignment with public opinion that editors in this country are generally considered as not knowing much. Ninety-three percent of the editors of this country did their darndest to elect Landon and freely predicted his election as president. We think that establishes our opinion that American editors do not represent or speak for the informed American opinion.

When this propaganda agency announces its summary of the editorial opinions of these editors, we can only presume that it is the opinion held by that small group who supported Landon in the last election which is only about one-third of the people of the U. S. A.

THE FOUR HORSEMEN UNHORSED

A reader of the Minneapolis Daily Star, who doesn't sympathize very much with the rantings of the so-called political prophets, adds a few thoughts in a letter to the Star. He says:

"Among the more tragic casualties of the Roosevelt upheaval were those Four Horsemen of the Epochal-Collapse, Walter Lippman, Frank R. Kent, Mark Sullivan and Paul Mallon.

"Lippmann, no doubt, is a man of colossal learning and erudition. But, as Schopenhauer once remarked, we can read ourselves stupid. This great pundit of the "upper crust" has lost his grip on life's realties and is drifting off in a state of Nirvana.

"Mark Sullivan is still juggling with his figures and trying to explain how, if the Republican party had not died a natural death, it would still be alive. Paul Mallon continues to smart-crack and give us an occasional laugh. So he can, perhaps, be forgiven.

"It takes more than two Roosevelt quakes to exhaust the spleen of Mr. Kent, and he is still stropping his bowie knife, waiting for the kill. The cerebrations of these gents have been reduced practically to the level of those of A. B. Gilbert!"

CHANGING PRESIDENTIAL VOTING

Since the election some of the newspapers who feel themselves "licked" pretty badly have advanced the idea that the electoral vote of 523 for Roosevelt and 8 for Landon is not a fair distribution of the electoral vote. They contend it makes Landon appear beaten worse than he was, and that something ought to be done about it.

They advance the suggestion that the electoral vote of each state be proportioned according to the amount of popular vote given each presidential candidate. It operates thus: If a state has five electoral vtoes and the popular vote is 300,000 for one and 200,000 for the other, the electoral vote would be three for one and two for the other. Landon under this set-up, would have garnered 186 votes at the polls, instead of the measly 8 he received, and Roosevelt 345 instead of the enormous vote of 523.

We see little reason to go ahead and make a constitutional change just for the mere sake of giving a defeated candidate a few more electoral votes. Pivotal states, where the vote is decidedly close according to estimates, have been the scene of corrupt politics in every election and the party with the most money can usually swing the vote in its favor in a close race. This would not be prevented under the proposed proportional plan.

Why not therefore go a little farther and elect a president and vice president by popular vote like we do any other candidate, giving no regard to state boundaries, much the same as we do on governor or any other state officer. It would sound ridiculous to us to say that the successful candidate carried so many more counties than his opponent, therefore being elected.

Yet that is the very manner in which we elect a president. Our proposed remedy is to elect a president from the total popular vote for the entire country. It will not give any party an advantage by corrupting politics in any so-called pivotal state and it gives every voter whether in the East, West, North or South, the same feeling that it is his duty to go to the polls whether his is a pivotal state or not.

A EUROPEAN WAR IS IMMINENT

The strife in Spain still keeps on and the end is evidently not much nearer than several months ago. The outlook is now that the entire affair may bring about another European war where every country "fights to the last ditch".

The Spanish rebels have been bombarding Madrid for several weeks and from appearances they may not succeed unless it is done soon. The rebels represent a fascist group upholding the royalty and dictatorship while the loyalists or the party in control of the government represents a labor group which many want to refer to as communistic, which in fact, it is not.

Italy, of course, supports the rebels. Mussolini has been active in aiding them and now threatens war against any country that aids the Spanish government. Hitler, by virtue of the fact he needs Mussolini's aid in clamping dictatorship on every country in Europe and thus make secure his own position in Germany, also gives aid to the Spanish rebels. Hitler and Japan want to subdue Russia. And that accounts for the coalition of the Mikado, Hitler and Mussolini at this time.

In order to make their nefarious aims seem more plausible these dictators claim theirs is the cause of Christianity versus Communism. People with little knowledge of Europea naffairs will support these dictators, and as matters now stand a great portion of the American people is giving its tacit support to European tyrants.

Mussolini thrives on trouble, Japan wants to conquer China, and Hitler wants to expand German possessions. Unless the heads of these governments keep their subjects from thinking about internal matters their ruling days are over. Mussolini is ready, "blow" everything to be assured a continuation of his regime.

How far England and France will allow these dictators to carry on their, assumed warfare of Christianity versus Communism is not easily told. But it is certain that every moment that passes is a long one for the Spanish loyalists who really are the common people and are upholders of democratic government against tyranny.

The United State Examines the Cooperatives of Europe

Last week the first installment of a report on the findings of the committee which President Roosevelt sent to investigate the cooperative movement in Europe was inserted. What follows herewith is the second and concluding installment, telling of the cooperative status in each country. Anyone who wants a copy of the first installment may have the same free by calling at the Forum office for last week's issue.

Sweden

According to information supplied to the committee, the total sales of co-operative societies affiliated to the Swedish Co-operative Federation (Ko-operativa Forbundet), a central body with headquarters at Stockholm and branches in all parts of the country, amounted last year to about 410,000,- crowns ($108,000,000), being approximately 10 per cent of the entire trade of the country. The membership of the co-operative societies was 568,533 out of a total population of 6,212,000.

The movement produces food and clothing of all kinds, also electrical and other apparatus both for home consumption and for export. Some of the shares are held in Denmark, Finland and Norway, the undertaking having thus international connections.

Co-operative distributive societies started in Sweden nearly a century ago, but made little headway until after the year 1900. Since then advance has been rapid.

Mills and Factories

The Federation Union owns flour mills in Stockholm and Gothenburg a margarine factory in Norrkoping, a rubber factory at Gislavea, a boot and shoe factory at Norrkoping and Orebro, a rubber factory at Gislavea, also electrical works and a super-phosphate factory in Stockholm. It also conducts a savings bank, carries on insurance operations, and publishes educational and other books.

The original object of the rubber factory was to reduce the cost of rubber overshoes, at one time almost universally worn in Sweden. The factory went on to produce rubber goods of all kinds, including automobile tires. The electric factory was founded originally to reduce local prices for lamps. This it has done effectually, and other branches of business have been added.

Co-operation in Sweden includes great numbers of slaughterhouses, pig-breeding establishments and bacon factories, in which the shares are held by farmers. There are also some 700 co-operative dairies, which do a large export trade in butter. A thousand co-operative purchasing societies supply the Swedish farmers with seed, artificial manure and other requisites.

The effect has been to lower the prices of commodities not only to the co-operative groups of members, but also to the general public, cartels being completed with successfully. The union also owns big departmental stores in Stockholm. Its margarine factories produce one third of Sweden's total output of this commodity.

Recently a factory for the manufacture of silk and wool has been started, the federation setting aside a percentage of the profit for a research fund to help the development of this industry which, is new to Sweden.

The silk factory is regarded as especially important since it means manufacturing in Sweden raw materials of Swedish origin which have hitherto been exported on an enormous scale.

Denmark

The Danish side of the work of the committee has been chiefly con cerned with agriculture. Danish farms from the largest to the smallest are organized on a co-operative basis. Of 1700 dairies in Denmark, 1400 are now worked on this system.

An example of improvements claimed to have resulted is seen in the fact that whereas 40 years ago 30 quarts of milk were used in producing two pounds of butter, now 22 quarts suffice. The yield of milk per cow is also claimed to have been trebled.

The development of electrical undertakings on a co-operative basis has also helped the Danish farmer's wife. Electric cooking ranges, washers and boilers are thus to be found in many farmhouses.

Electrical Installations

The cost of these installations is extraordinarily low. One for example including 40 lights, one 10 horsepower motor and two smaller motors such as would be suitable for a 68 acre farm, is thus about 2300 crowns ($575) initial price besides 414 crowns ($100) annually for running expenses. A smaller installation comprising 20 lights, one five horsepower motor and one smaller motor such as would be suitable for a 23-acre farm costs 1400 crowns ($350) initial price besides 151 crowns ($36) annually for running expenses.

Most of the Danish exports of dairy produce are done through the central co-operative organization, to the extent indeed of 83 per cent in the case of bacon shipments. No less than one third of the population are members of some or other co-operative society, while practically the whole of the farming and produce marketing in Denmark is claimed to be on a cooperative basis. The movement is thus one of the predominating forces in the country and collaborates with the government on all questions of import and export trade.

Division of Dairy Profits

In 1881 the first co-operative dairying factory was started in Denmark. The members bound themselves to deliver their milk to their own factory. They agreed to be individually responsible for the factory debts.

They divided the profits on the basis of the milk delivered. The co-operative dairies (creameries) standardized their output. They won the British market. Prices improved. Within 10 years (1881-1890) more than 790 co-operative creameries were in operation. Their capital was obtained from the banks and repaid in installments, the farmers each paying a stated amount per cow.

Norway

Started in 1906, Norway's National Co-operative association is continually growing.

Its headquarters at Oslo have become too small for it and on an adjoining site a new and larger building is being erected. At Drammen, Skien, Stavanger, Bergen Alesund, Trondheim, and Bodo there are new factories for shoes, soap, tobacco, and electrical apparatus, also for roasting coffee and preparing margarine, chocolate and other products.

The output of these factories covers approximately 44 per cent of

By E. C. STENGELSEN

"A Small Handling Charge!"

Your commentator does not particularly care for the yowling of the radio crooners. Nor does he like the yowling of the back-fence tomcats. There is this advantage with the crooner, however; he may be tuned out. Not so with the cat. Your commentator attempted, with a shotgun, to turn one off one night. Instead, he came near turning off a neighbor prowling about out in the back yard. Only extra thickness of pants and long range saved the neighbor from being marred for life.

It demonstrated that tuning out undesirable music with a shotgun has its drawbacks. And this was the point on which your commentator's decision turned. He decided the time had come to buy a radio.

The catalog of one of the large mail order-chain store houses listed a set at $50. It was an unusual set, to judge by the descriptive matter in the catalog. . .

"You can get Ethiopia with it!" said the salesman

. . . Which, while interesting, was not particularly to the point. Even if your commentator had wanted Ethiopia he'd have had no place to put it.

The matter of payment was discussed. The chain store was accomodating. The set could be had on terms. Provided one paid $5 down, the remainder could be disposed of in monthly installments of $5 each.

"We make a small handling charge of $5, said the catalog. It was, in fact, so small and insignificant that one could almost see the catalog shrugging its shoulders indifferently over such a trifle.

$5 was only 10 per cent of the cost of the set. And, goodness knows, that sounded fair enough! It was worth $5 on Amos 'n Andy's account alone. With Eddie Cantor and Rudy Valle thrown in, it might even be worth $5.02.

Now, your commentator is neither stingy nor a tightwad. Nor does he go to the other extreme of being a spendthrift. He merely holds his extravagant impulses under reasonable control and lets it go at that. . .

Which may explain why he dug up a pencil and began figuring. He was curious to know what interest rate he would be paying—$5 for the use of $50, repaid in 10 monthly installments of $5 each.

He made a startling discovery. Figured as interest, the rate was almost 22 per cent per annum!

Now, Amos 'n Andy may be worth $5. But they aren't worth 22 per cent per annum by a long shot—even if they were valued by the pound and Kate Smith were added!

So your commentator went home and put a bowl of milk by the backyard fence. Until he is able to save up $50 cash, he'll have to continue getting along as best he can with the cat.

But it is possible that when your commentator does get the $50 together, he will decide, instead, to buy stock in one of the big finance companies. He has in mind one in particular which operated at a profit during all but one year of the depression.

Its bad debt losses were less than the normal rate for the entire country. And this rate, as reflected by U. S. Department of Commerce figures, and by statistics gathered by the large credit associations, is about one-half of 1 per cent of the total sales volume.

Most o fthe leading automobile finance companies currently charge 6 per cent on a 12-installment contract. Figured as interest, this rate is about 12 per cent per annum.

Possibly some alert legislator will decide that this matter of handling charges on installment sales is something needing legislative action. Requiring the seller to state, in the contract, the correct per annum interest rate it figures might be sufficient. Then, if the purchaser, with full knowledge of the rate, still decided to buy, he would not be prevented from acquiring the article if he chose.

VIEWS AND REVIEWS

By B. C. HAGGLUND

The Fall of Madrid

The Minneapolis Tribune expresses surprise at the dogged resistance of the Loyalists in Madrid against the trained soldiers under rebel leadership. The opinion is expressed that, since the Loyalists are composed of untrained farmers and workers, who were unarmed at the time the conflict started, disarmament of the nations is not a real soluion of the war problem. That is, the nations would fight whether they prepared for war or not.

This conclusion is shallow. What is not so clear is that the war in Spain is not a battle between two secions of one capitalist nation, but is a bona-fide struggle between fascists and people who do not want fascism—a struggle between two sets of ideas. The people of Spain waned a united front government, such as they have in France. They put that idea across in last spring's election. The fascist element, in the minority, could not stand for this, so they went about cold-bloodedly to hoist themselves into the saddle over the dead bodies of all who stood in their way. They have almost succeeded.

Spain presents a perfect example of the saying, "The end justifies the means." If Germany and Italy intervene to aid the Spanish fascists, why shouldn't other nations intervene to help establish the people's united front government? The outcome of events in Spain will affect the entire world. If Spain goes for the people, the maniacal fascists in central Europe will be checked in their mad rush for more territory with which to feed the ravenous machines they have created. If Spain goes fascistic, France will be next in line, and in time England will also succumb. Long before this, Germany and Italy will be free to begin carving upon the Soviet Ukraine, which has been the object of their greedy gaze for some time.

The capitalist nations are caught on the horns of this dilemma; they have fostered the democratic tradition under the profit system; and now that the people are rising to curb the unlimited powers of capitalism, the capitalist class finds that its only ally is fascism, which is the deadly enemy of the democratic tradition. The old order finds itself in a blind alley. It can escape by the way it came, by returning all power to the people, or it can beat its brains out against the wall of fascism. A perfect example of a nation with its brains beaten out is Hitler's Germany.

Fascism, the Last Stand

Fascism is the last deadly sickness of capitalism. The most pathetic thing about it is that it contaminates the entire social structure, so that when the workers and farmers do inherit power (if ever) they find themselves the heirs of a broken-down machine that has to be rebuilt. The best thing about a nation like the United States is that when the workers and farmers do come into their own, they have some very sound beginnings—the finest industrial plant in the world, abundant natural resources, and a people who are not yet regimented and broken-spirited from an attack of fascism.

What Causes Fascism?

By keeping a middle course between fascism and communism, an exchange avers, we can avoid both in the United States. One of the principal causes of the rise of fascism in the United States is the rise of communism, which fascism is sworn to kill. Thus says the exchange.

According to this, the way to combat an evil is not to resist it, and it will recede from lack of cause to keep going. As usual, the communists are the scapegoat in a tragical misunderstanding—tragical, not because the communists are the goats but that all who are taken in by such illogical thinking are.

Fascism arose in Italy and Germany under the guise of socialism. This subterfuge does not work so well nowadays, because socialistic parties have worked overtime to expose the fraud wherever it crops up. The avowed purpose of fascism—to preserve capitalism by rigorously putting down everyone who advocates any other kind of system—should give a clue to its origin. To that question, What causes fascism? the student of events can answer that the desire to perpetuate profits in the face of crumbling democratic institutions is the real cause, not the activities of a small group whose avowed purpose is to free the workers and farmers from economic slavery.

CHRISTMAS TREE CUTTING BEGINS

Dealers and Citizens are Warned That All Trees Must Bear Tags

Minnesota's one million dollar Christmas tree industry began last week when many dealers in the northern part of the state started cutting operations.

Under terms of the Christmas tree tagging law, which went into effect for the first time last year, all dealers in Christmas trees must purchase one of two cent tags from the state division of forestry and attach them to their trees.

Dealers who have obtained the $100 license must buy one cent tags; unlicensed dealers buy the two cent tags. Chemically processed trees do not require the tags.

The Christmas tree tags have for the first time enabled the division of forestry to make an accurate estimate of the extent of the industry in Minnesota, according to director Grover M. Conzet.

Records of tag sales in 1935 show that approximately 1,750,000 trees were cut and that 600,000 of this number were used in Minnesota. The bulk of the trees sent out of the state went to the upper Mississippi valley, but some carloads were traced as far south as Atlanta, Georgia.

Mr. Conzet pointed out that the law requiring Christmas trees to be tagged has greatly reduced illegal cutting and has prevented over-production and waste.

All citizens are urged to see to it that the trees they buy for the holiday season are properly tagged. Dealers may obtain detailed information from their local forest ranger.

HUNTERS URGED TO REPORT GAME TAKEN

All hunters are asked to send their reports of game taken in 1936 to the division of game and fish without delay.

Hunters' game reports constitute the only reliable means of obtaining information as to the abundance or scarcity of migratory waterfowl, upland game birds, deer, and other forms of wildlife and provide essential data for the opening and closing of seasons. Last year a large percentage of hunters failed to send in their game reports.

MIDDLE RIVER

Two Warroad men had the unique experience Tuesday of killing a deer by hitting it with their automobile on the highway near Braaten's north of town. The car landed in the ditch with a crushed in top. The men were not injured and the game warden was notified.

From members of the village council we learn that the application of the village for a WPA grant for the improvement of the village hall and fire fighting apparatus has been approved, altho it is not thought advisable to commence actual constructive work until early spring. Besides this an application for another WPA project embracing the enlargement and improvement of the public hall is pending and will doubtless be approved.

The Frank Green family are negotiating for the lease of the Kvennes farm south of town and expect ot move there in the near future. The place to be vacated by the Green family has been purchased by Tony Kaski who will move thereon.

The public meeting at the hall Tuesday evening sponsored by the co-operations of Middle River was a big success. The hall was packed to capacity and program was both interesting and educational. Moving picture slides depicting the history and scope of co-operative movements in Scotland, England, Sweden, Denmark, and Finland were shown with accompanying explanatory remarks by Mr. Hegge. John Lager, Land O' Lake's field man, gave a short but inspiring talk. KILLS BEAR—LOSES IT

Several unpleasant experiences with bears have come to J. C. Hendricks of Grand Rapids, in that, at intervals, a black bear kills Mr. Hendricks' sheep. Sometimes he kills the bear, but he is never able to take the hide for his trouble. He got in a lucky shot with his rifle last week and killed the bear which entered his pasture. The game warden was notified and he prepared the animal for shipment to the state game and fish commission offices in St. Paul. Mr. Hendricks only hope to recover for his loss in sheep is to have a bill introduced in the next legislature, asking the state to reimburse him for the sheep slaughtered by the state's protected black killers.

MISS ESTHER ELIASON WED

Miss Esther Eliason, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Eliason of Erie, and Theodore Omlid, also of Erie, were united in the bonds of holy matrimony Thursday afternoon at 5:30. Rev. Bjorgan conducted the ceremony, which took place at his home. The bridal couple was attended by the bride's sister, Miss Luella Eliason, and the groom's brother, Paul Omlid. The bride wore a beautiful bright blue dress, which was set off by dark blue accessories, and the bridesmaid wore a wine colored dress with brown accessories.

An 8 o'clock reception dinner was given in honor of the newly wedded couple at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Eliason, with the bride's sister, Mrs. Letser Laurent assisting. Those present included the honored newlyweds, Mr. and Mrs. Ted Omlid, Miss Luella Eliason, Paul Omlid, Mr. and Mrs. Abe Omlid and son Orland, Donald Laurent, Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Johnson and sons Herbert, Allen, and LaVern, Henry Eliason, and the hostesses, Mrs. Henry Eliason and Mrs. Lester Laurent.

The bride graduated from the Greenway High School at Coleraine, Minn., as an honor student, and later from the Business College in Minneapolis. She worked temporarily for the Provident Mutual Insurance Company, leaving their employ in March, and returning to her home in Erie in June. Later in June she started her employ with Dr. G. A. Penney of this city, where she is stil emlployed. The groom operates his own farm at Erie, where the couple will make their home.

The newlyweds had planned on a honeymoon trip to Winnipeg, but are not going as yet.

NEED HELP TO APPLY FOR MARRIAGE LICENSE

Assistance was needed in applying for a marriage license by a couple, who found it impossible to make a trip from Crookston to Bemidji, where the application should have been filed. The couple, Peter Hanson and Selena O. Olson of Grygla solved the problem with help from the Pennington county clerk of court. The application was made with him and he then forwarded it to the clerk of court in Beltrami county together with his letter stating that the couple could not make the long trip and had asked him to assist in the situation.

BABY BORN IN CAR TRAILER

Dr. J. E. Carman of Detroit Lakes has searched the records of his many years of medical practice, but was unable to find an experience to match the one he underwent last week when he assisted in delivering a child in the house trailer of a car. Mr. and Mrs. Paul Stoner, a Nebraska couple enroute to Montana, had reached a filling station east of Detroit Lakes when the stork paid its impending visit. The tourists stopped over for a few days, but expected to continue their trip before the end of the same week.

U. S. ARMY WAR PLANE LAYS DEADLY "EGGS"

BOY KILLED WHEN SWING COLLAPSES

An 11-year old Ponsford boy, near Park Rapids, Benjamin Theo. Bakken, was killed recently when the twirl swing or "giant stride" on the school play ground collapsed. As a last minute recreation before the schol bell sounded several school children were swinging through the air, when, suddenly the center pole of the "stride" broke. It struck Benjamin and pinned him to the ground. He died the following morning at a Park Rapids hospital of a triple skull fracture. Four other youngsters were scratched and bruised.

PHEASANTS RESCUED FROM LAKE BY DUCK HUNTERS

Fergus Falls.—A group of duck hunters at Swan Lake recently displayed some real sportsmanship in rescuing a flock of pheasants from the water. A large flock of the game birds, about 100, attempted to fly across the lake, but as they neared the north shore became bewildered and fell into the water. The hunters immediately waded into the lake an drescued the pheasants, 18 of which were in such condition that they had to be killed. The game warden was notified and took possession of the dying birds, taking the others into a near by cottage where they were revived.

TAMED CROW SPEAKS, LAUGHS, DOES TRICKS

A tame crow which talks, laughs, sneezes and performs queer stunts is an interesting pet possessed by the Wiggert family in Buffalo Lake. One of the amusing things about the bird, six years old, is the fact that it can enunciate words clearly. The sound is made by peculiar movements of the neck and tongue, although the tongue is not split. The bird, taken from a nest and tamed by Mr. Wiggert, says, "Polly, Harold and Hello", sneezes and laughs and plays foolish tricks on people. On one occasion the crow followed children to school, riding three miles into the country on the rear axle of a truck. When the truck stopped, Polly, the crow, flew down, said, "hello" and laughed heartily.

WEIGHT OF BUILDING HITS HAND, UNHURT

With the weight of the upper story of Cudahy's warehouse in Granite Falls hitting three fingers of Alfred Anderson's right hand, no bones were fractured and the hand merely bruised. Mr. Anderson, an employee at Cudahy company, was repairing the upper floor of the warehouse, which was sagging, and in so doing raised the floor by means of a jack and cedar post. While the jack was in place, Anderson endeavored to shove a block between the joist and the post with his right hand, but the jack kicked out, letting the full weight of the upper story of the building down on his three fingers. Being alone, Anderson's hand could not be released until his cries for help were heard.

UNCONTROLLED TRUCK DASHES THROUGH TOWN

Three persons had a rendezvous with death last week in a wild ride through Chaska, pushed by the inertia of almost 28,000 pounds and without the aid of brakes. It was a breath-taking ride for the trio, who escaped without injury. The trailer of a truck had been loaded with eight tons of feed, seed, and flour in Minneapolis and the driver, his wife and assistant driver headed for Marshall. When they reached the top of the Chaska hill on No. 41, the driver shifted from high into third and applied the hydraulic brokes. Half way down the hill a part on the brakes broke, the fluid shot out and the load started speeding down hill. The electric brakes were applied on the trailer, but soon failed. Then the emergency brake was thrown on, but the momentum of the great load kept the truck rolling and the friction of the brakes started a fire. Flomes shot up into the cab thru the floor and came within inches of a 50 gallon gasoline tank. The speedometer climbed from 30 to 35, to 40, to 45, to 50 and no one knows how much higher. The truck and van shot across the trunk highway intersection at terrific speed. It sped across the railroad tracks on which a train had passed only a few minutes before. The dash ended without injury to anyone when the driver took a chance on striking an up grade pulling the truck to the curb in front of a store, where the front wheels climbed the curb and came within five feet of crashing into the store front.

At the end of 80 minutes of frantic action, Carl Carlson, of Iowa, was declared winner, with 20.04 bushels to his credit. Later, he said, "The whole of Europe is rearming....I do not say they mean war, but they make war more likely."

Cleveland's "Singing Grave" Closed

Cleveland, Ohio. Because of the damage caused by thousands of visitors who tried to hear the "Ave Maria" from the grave of Helen Pelczar in Calvary Cemetery, Bishop Schrembs has posted guards at all gates with instructions to admit only bona fide visitors to the cemetery. Although for six months throngs have visited the spot, no one has been found to testify at first hand to having heard any music from the grave.

China Fights Back

Nanking, China. IN THE GOOD OLD DAYS
LID-BANGING WAS A FAVORITE SPORT

The Monarch MALLEABLE
OLD and the NEW—but both built the same inside—Full Malleable Ranges
1936
The latest MONARCH "Balanced Design," Full enamel in Ivory-Tan or Nile-Green that. 19-inch Oven. With or without Reservoir, Pouch Feed and Waterfront.

Is the man going to hit the lady with the stove lid? No! He is just banging two lids together to prove that malleable iron does not break.

That was a favorite stunt with Monarch range salesmen "in the good old days"... and it ought to be done today so every customer would pay more attention to the great difference between unbreakable Malleable Iron and brittle cast iron.

For Malleable Iron means long life, good baking and fuel economy... qualities that are just as important TODAY as they ever were.

Beautiful design and porcelain enamel are not to be overlooked. Far from it! We believe the MONARCH is the most beautiful range ever built... but it is also a FULL MALLEABLE range, built exactly the same way Monarchs were built thirty years ago. All parts subject to strain or breakage are made of this unbreakable iron. All joints are made permanently tight with rivets... not temporarily tight with stove bolts and stove putty.

Of course all modern MONARCHS are Full Enamel. Enamel outside for beauty and easy cleaning; enamel inside as the best known protection against rust damage.

Let us show you the latest MONARCH models. They are ranges we are proud to sell.

the needs of the 138,000 members of the association.

This membership increased by 13,000 in 1936. Affiliated with the association are 550 societies located in different parts of the country. Twenty seven of these societies started this year.

The total turnover in 1935 was 19,000,000 crowns ($4,750,000), being an increase of approximately 15 per cent compared with 1934.

Finland

In Finland, also, co-operative trade plays an important part in national economy, 25 per cent of the distributive business of the country being claimed to be conducted under this system.

The first consumer's co-operative store in Finland was established in 1889, and large numbers of creameries and other factories, also stores and credit associations, are now operating.

The movement has two branches the one being chiefly agricultural, the other urban.

Czechoslovakia

In Czechoslovakia the co-operative movement claims 641,000 members out of a total population of 14,723,000. The movement has developed rapidly since 1934, when a government prohibition previously in force against co-operative sales to non-members was partially withdrawn.

A national co-operative committee has since then been formed on which the Government is represented. The movement includes a corn marketing board which controls production and sale of grain.

Co-operative productive activities in Czechoslovakia include baking, sausage making, fruit preserving, coffee roasting, confectionery making, dairying, wine making and drapery.

France

In France the co-operative movement has been growing both in agricultural and urban communities.

The latest available statistics show that it has a total membership of more than 1,000,000. It is active alike in the wholesale and retail trades and in manufacture.

Hungary

In Hungary, the co-operative movement has 574,000 members out of a total population of 8,700,000.

It was regrouped in 1935 on the initiative of the Government. It is now divided into two sections, one for the rural population and the other for the urban.

Belgium

In Belgium the total membership of societies affiliated with the central co-operative union is 310,000 out of a total population of 8,213,000.

The movement is now unified in a central organization known as the Societe Generale Cooperative (General Cooperative Society.)

Britain

In Britain the co-operative movement claims a membership of more than 7,000,000, and has intimately affected for the better the living conditions of the manual workers of the nation as a whole.

From small beginnings in 1844 when 28 weavers in Rochdale, Lancashire, started the first retail society on a few pounds capital, them selves serving behind the counter, it has grown almost continuously.

Its retail establishments are now to be found in almost every town of any size throughout the country. Its periodical distributions of commissions on retail purchases form an important element in the ordinary family budget. It runs wholesale stores, factories and banking institutions, and takes a not unimportant share in the export and import trade of the country. It has a number of representations in Parliament, a group of 12 M. P.'s looking after its interests in the House of Commons.

The latest available statistics show that the 1165 societies affiliated with its central organization have a share capital amonting to the colossal sum of $145,455,479, with annual turnover of $332,399,928.

Explanation Of Nat'l. Reemployment Service Is Made

Activities of the National Reemployment Service during October were marked by a large decrease in the number of new applications received. This was the fourth consecutive month in which the volume of new applications has shown a decline. The October decline in new applications represented a 16.3 per cent decrease from September of this year and a 48.9 per cent decrease from the October, 1935 figure.

A total of 6,110 jobs were filled by the Service in October. This represented a 16.4 per cent decline from the number secured on October 1935 and was due chiefly to the fact that 1935 placements included several thousand relief persons to the Works Progress Administrations which this year have not been handled by the Employment Service.

Activity in the solicitation of openings from private employers during October resulted in the securing of 1 618 placements of this nature. This represents a 3.7 per cent decrease from the September results and is due in part to the usual seasonal decline in this activity. During October 1,208 "out of office" contacts with private employers were made by staff members of the Service in an effort to secure employment possibilities in private industry. An intensive campaign of employer contacts is now underway by a staff of trained personell and it is expected that as a result of this work, private employers will avail themselves to greater advantage of the facilities offered throughout the state by the National Reemployment Service.

During October, 4,396 placements were secured in public, prevailing wage employment. This represents a decline from September as is to be expected at this time of the year since weather conditions in Minnesota normally curtail construction work of all types.

A total of 66.577 men and women were represented by applications in the active files of offices of the National Reemployment Service at the end of October. This represents an increase of 10.3 per cent over September figures but a 11.3 per cent decrease from the number in the files October of last year. The increase this year, October over September, can be explained in part by the fact the drought conditions throughout parts of the state have brought into the labor market farmers who desire to supplement earnings thru work of a temporary nature. Not all of the individuals in the active file are unemployed, as the active file, in addition to including applications of unemployed individuals, also include applications of the individuals working at security wages on WPA projects, and also applications of employed individuals seeking better jobs or who are temporarily employed for a period of a week or less.

During October, of the 6,110 jobs secured, 658 were for women; of the men placed, 384 were veterans.

Sermons Win In Survey

New York City. When, last summer the Rev. Dr. Frederic S. Fleming, rector of rich Trinity church, suggested a "moratorium on preaching" as a help to practical Christianity. the American Institute of Public Opinion proceeded to sound out 100,000 Americans on the question. Results just completed show 13 per cent of church-goers in agreement with Dr. Fleming, 87 per cent favoring a continuation of the Sunday sermon. Among non-church-goers, 26 per cent favored a pulpit moratorium, 74 per cent did not.

Basketball Squad Is Chosen By Coach Lee During Week

Coach George Lee, Prowler cage mentor, with a tentative first squad as his team, last week completed the first week of basketball practice at the Municipal Auditorium. The team is composed of Captain Bud Nelson, Clark Mickelson, Roy Lee and Don Lorentson, forwards, Loren "Bones" Stadum and Robert Quale, centers, and Leonard Hellquist, Milfred Hougham, Milton Nesse and Gordon Caldis, guards. The season opens here December 4th, with Cass Lake.

Coach Lee has been experimenting with the first string lineup consisting of Nelson and Mickelson at forwards, Stadum at center, and Helquist and Hougham at guards. Lorentson alternated with Mickelson and Hougham on this quintet. A second string five found Lee and Rueben Mickelson at forwards, Quale at center, and Nesse and Caldis at guards. Clarence Haug and Lynn Booren also saw service on this squad.

The great improvement in play shown by Milfred Hougham, Don Lorentson and Clark Mickelson gave them temporary possession of regular jobs. Rueben Mickelson, slender Soph. star, has continually exhibited first team skill but his slight build might prove to be an overwhelming hindrance in the gruelling inter-school competition, so he will probably be retained in the Prowler B squad.

B. W. Gabrielson and Adrian Lorentson have been assisting Mr. Lee in basketball and have already proved themselves to be invaluable additions to the coaching department.

Haug, Booren, Ken Jaranson, Jerome Salveson and Earl Nicholson have been working out with the first squad but will be placed on the "B" squad if they fail to cop a first team berth.

The intramural basketball program will be inaugurated next week by Mr. Gabrielson, and several budding intramural stars may develop into first or second team material, it is expected.

The season's schedule is as follows:

Dec. 4—Cass Lake—Here.
Dec. 11—Grand Forks—There
Jan. 8—Warren—Here.
Jan. 15—Bemidji—There.
Jan. 22—East Grand Forks—Here.
Jan. 29—Crookston—Here.
Feb. 5—Warren—There.
Feb. 12—East Grand Forks—There
Feb. 16—Crookston—There.
Feb. 19—Bemidji—Here.
Feb. 26—Grand Forks—Here.

Re-Investigation Of All On Relief Now In Progress

Certifying Agency Making A New Survey to Determine Those Most In Need

A re-survey of the work relief rolls in Pennington county was started this week to determine the families most in need. Instructions in accord with WPA requirements governing the requested recheck were received the fore part of the week by Mr. John Lynskey, of Thief River Falls, county certification officer, from Benjamin E. Youngdahl, director, Coordinated Field Service, which agency has been requested to conduct the survey. Because there are not sufficent funds to give employment to all unemployed persons, WPA is desirous of restricting employment to those most in need.

Revision of work relief rolls is of special importance to county officials as its first objective will be to eliminate those who, as a result of the recovery program and improvement in private employment, are no longer in need of relief. Inso-far as quota restrictions will permit, those removed will be replaced by other employables who are still in need. It is expected that this will result in reduction in the cost of local direct relief.

Co-incident with the re-check will begin the termination of WPA's share of drouth relief which was started in July as an emergency measure and designed to terminate about December 1. By that time, most of the 19,000 drouth sufferers who have been given temporary employment, will have had an opportunity to earn enough cash to meet their pressing needs during the winter.

Carl Kollitz Wins National Trophy

This picture gives further proof good times are here, especially in Minnesota, as Karl Kollitz, left in the picture, competing with more than 135 other salesmen won the National Trophy Cup for showing the largest increase in his business. Mr. L. C. Staples, President of The H. D. Lee Merc. Company, largest manufacturer of Work, Sport and play Clothing in the country, is making the presentation.

In commenting on winning the cup Mr. Kollitz says, "There is no place in the U. S. A. where the people appreciate quality more than they do in Minnesota."

The Lee line of Work, Sport and Play Clothing is handled locally by Men's Furnishing Department of Oen's Mercantile company.

Eit Ord Til Floyd Bjørnstjernes "Fane-Vakt"

(The following is a poem composed by Bj. Bjornaraa a shorttime after the death of Gov. Floyd B. Olson. The poet, who is a noted authority on Norwegian literature and resides southeast of this city, wrote the poem in his original Norwegian dialect, in which it is herewith published, the late governor being the subject of the poem.)

Der stod eitt tre i skogen vaar, som rakk so høgt og saag so vidt—og stod paa knausen, sterkt og fritt, og grodde i den rike vaar.

Men rett i sumars-tid eingong der kom ein orm og beit so kvasst, at sterke røter bend' og brast—og kjempa fall til klage-song.

So laag det der i seinste prakt med brottne greiner, dødt og tungt
— daa GRAAT i skogen allting ungt, som stod i livsens ljose drakt.

"Kor e no livd for oss aa faa
i denne unge, veike lid —, som kjende seg baa' sterk og fri—
so lenge 'kjempa' var aa sjaa."

Dei sveipte seg i syrje-flor og løynde ljose andlits-drak
i myrke sorg — og skoddle-dag.
med taaror vætte skogens jor'.

Daa tordna det fraa høge sal,
eit maal med malm og fager klang,
— som konge-bod paa Althings-vang:
"Vakn upp or sorg og daudar-dal!"

"Reis ho ud kvar ei kjempe-ung,
som eiger gror- og framtids-von!
Jag vækk kvar einast duglaust tjon, slit storm- og træ-lekkja tung!"

"Du eig deg sjølv med gror og alt
du veks til kvar ein bidans dag!
Snart vinn du sjølv dei største slag som høvding-treet — naar det gjaldt!"

Daa gjekk ei SUSSING gjenom skog, daa KJENDE ei i det malme-maal, som BEIT og SKAR som kvasse staal
i øks og kniv og nybraats-plog!

Sæl so søv han no, den gjaeve
guten, som i brodden stod.
Han, som kunde "trolli svæve — drukne deim i "Drake-blod."

Han, som stod i FRAMSTE LINA,
—høgt tilhest mot stormars kasst!
Han, som kunde fjell-bre tine, naar han tennde synet kvasst!

Han, som aldri VEIK tilsida, um han enn var EIN MOT TI.
Han, som ei i striden bida, naar det gjaldt den NYE tid.

Daa han kjende, han laut falla,
tala han til flokken sinn —,
Fram til striden han deim kalla:
"Den, som slaer med TRU, han vinn!"

FLOYD BJØRNSTJERNE — ve'nt det lyder,— —

Høyr! det svarar høgt fraa skyer:
"Bare FALLA kunde han!"

UPP med Sverres frie flagg!
Lat oss standa trygg' og sterke,— til me VINN det sisste slag!

Sjaa! — dei stig til høgste stolen
VAARE MENN—nei, so re-elt!
STAT og LAND i fridoms-solen—
BENSON, LUNDEEN, ROOSEVELT!!

Og dei andre, me har kaara, — dei, som paa VAAR skanse staar, ikkje EIN paa tynings-baara, folkets seiers-krans dei faar!

Daa vil glade klokkor lyda
fra den allerhøgste makt,
Daa vil Stjerne-flagget pryda
FLOYD BJØRNSTJERNES 'FANE-VAKT."

Winners Make Post-Election Statements

ELMER A. BENSON

The statement as to their future course in office are contained in the following words from Gov.-Elect Benson, and following this a declaration by Senator-Elect Lundeen.

The decisive indorsement given to the Farmer-Labor party is vindication of the leadership of our departed governor, Floyd B. Olson.

Governor Olson was one of the first public men in America to preach that the people can no longer look to our industrial leaders for economic and social security, but rather to government itself. On this issue, the people have spoken.

The election is one of the most deeply significant things which has happened in this country in many decades. It spells the turning point in our entire social and economic approach.

The march of progress which started in this state years ago with the advent of the Farmer-Labor party to power cannot be arrested. We are living in an age of progress. Reaction is driven futher to the rear. The philosophy that government is a mere police agency and should not concern itself with the economic struggle and the social welfare of our people is so thoroughly repudiated that it will never again play an important part in American life. The rule of dog eat dog, the jungle law of rugged individualism, is at an end; we are on the road to a happier society.

The election served to cement the bond of union between the liberal and progressive forces in the face of reactionary threat. Principles and ideals of liberty and justice meant more than party labels.

I extend my hearty congratulations to the hundreds of thousands of earnest men and women who made this glorious victory possible. I shall try with all my might to make myself worthy of the confidence they imposed on me. To this end, I shall invite the co-operation of everyone who believes in good government for all rather than for the select few.

Lundeen's statement reads:

It is with a deep sense of responsibility to the voters of Minnesota that I contemplate the magnificent support they have given me. I have said, during the campaign, that I acknowledge no obligation except to the people of the North Star state. That statement still holds, and I realize that the trust you have imposed in me carries with it a profound obligation indeed.

I have never been afraid to trust the people of Minnesota. Nearly 20 years ago I conducted a referendum in my own district on the question of America's entry into the World war. The people supported me then about ten to one —and if any further vindication of my stand were needed, I believe this election has provided it, for this was a state-wide election.

I want to extend again my gratitude to the hundreds of thousands who went to the polls and voted their convictions. I also want to thank the thousands of men and women who gave their support to my candidacy courageously and without stint. And in return, I shall endeavor to represent all the people of Minnesota in the United States senate, well knowing that the people are through with reaction, that they want to move ahead, to consolidate the ground they have won and push forward to the ultimate realization of security, peace and prosperity at home, with absolutely neutrality in the quarrels of other nations.

PUBLIC FORUM IS ORGANIZED IN CITY FRIDAY

G. G. Denning, Adult Education Director, Presides At Meeting

Audience Shows Much Enthusiasm

All Interested Are Asked To Attend Meeting Set For Dec. 11th

Plans for a Thief River Falls Public Forum culminated at a meeting Friday evening when twenty-five persons assembled at the City Auditorium to elect officers and formulate an organization under which they could continue.

G. G. Denning, district organizer, gave a brief lecture in which he portrayed the development and history of the public forums, stating that its recent popular development in the United States is due to Mr. Studebaker, the U. S. commissioner of education, who first tried it as an experiment, receiving financial aid from the Carnegie Institute. It met with such spontaneous approval that the government, at the request of Mr. Studebaker, decided to take it as a project under the ERA. Later it was transferred to the WPA under which it still operates. Mr. Denning stated that if Germany and Italy had these public forums they would not have their dictatorship government, Hitlerism or Facism.

The officers appointed and approved by those present were: H. W. Kinghorn, chairman; Earl Long, vice chairman; Lionel Brattland, secretary; and P. Peterson, treasurer. The chairman then appointed Paul Lundgren, Mrs. Paquin and Earl Long to serve as a membership drive committee.

Meetings of the Public Forum will be held every two weeks on Friday evenings at 8 o'clock, the next meeting falling on December 11th.

Four Sheep "Dip" Meetings Arranged

Four Drenching Demonstrations Will Be Given Thursday And Friday Next Week

The Pennington county agent, R. M. Douglass, has arranged a series of four sheep drenching demonstrations to be held under the leadership of H. G. Zavoral, extension specialist in Animal Husbandry, University Farm, St. Paul.

At these meetings parasite problems will be discussed and a practical demonstration of sheep drenching will be given. As many sheep producers of Pennington County believe that sheep drenching will become a necessity to successful production in the near future these meetings should be of interest.

Meetings will be held as scheduled below:

Thursday, Dec. 10th, 10:00 A. M. at the William Vaughan farm, ½ mile west of Highlanding in Highlanding township.

Thursday, Dec. 10th, at 2:00 P. M. at the E. H. Pomerenke farm, 1½ miles north and ¼ mile east in Cloverleaf township.

REGULATIONS ARRANGED BY CREDIT GROUP

Members Hold Session at Detroit Lakes; Workings of System Is Discussed

The Thief River Falls Production Credit association, whose board of directors is shown below, is one of 28 such local farmers' cooperatives in Minnesota that are making it possible for farmers to finance farm operations economically and repay the loan out of farm income.

At the recent conference held at Detroit Lakes the directors of this and several other associations discussed the workings of their system through which a practical plan is worked out jointly by the association and each member-borrower so that he can pay off the loan, either on small regular installments or out of returns from some major project, such as marketing a carload of livestock, a quantity of grain, or a wool clip. Most of the small regular payments are expected to come from monthly or semi-monthly cream checks.

The board decided that it will make a special effort to reach the farmers who are not now conveniently near its central office at Thief River Falls so that its varied services may be brought to a greater number of farmers of this county. The purchase of a deck of lambs for fattening, feed to finish off a flock of turkeys, the raising of potatoes for seed or commercial sale, are among the kinds of farm operations financed. Funds may be obtained for any of the many everyday enterprises of the general farmer or livestock producer, and even for making repairs and improvements and refinancing farm debts.

EMPLOYES MUST FILE RETURN BY NEXT SATURDAY

Information Will Be Used In Preparing for Social Security Act

Application Numbers To Be Given Each Person

Postmaster Stresses Need Returning Blanks On Time

Return of all applications for employees under the Social Security act must be made by Saturday this week states A. Anderson, local postmaster, who has general charge of the survey in Pennington county. Reports from employers were compiled two weeks ago and stress is urged that all who come under this act return the applications early so that any error that may be found can be corrected by Saturday.

In order that old-age benefits can be paid by the United States Treasury, it is the responsibility of the Social Security Board to determine the total wages of those individuals who will be entitled to receive benefits. Accordingly, the Board must keep an account of the individual's wages. This application form is being distributed to employees through the Post Office Department in order that these individual accounts may be set up.

Instructions regarding the filing of the blank have been announced by the department along the following.

This is an application for the assignment of a number to your Social Security account. It is necessary that you have one of these numbered accounts for an accurate recording of your social security rights under Federal and State laws.

The Federal old-age benefits system provides for retirement payments from the Federal Government to qualified persons beginning at the age of 65.

Benefits are based on the wage record of the individual and are of three types: (1) Monthly benefits at 65; (2) lump-sum payments; and (3) death benefits.

These benefits are based on total wages for work done in this country after December 31, 1936, and before a worker becomes 65 years of age. This includes every kind of work for an employer with a few exceptions. Wages of not more than $3,000 a year from any one employer will be added together to make up the total wages.

Monthly benefits will range from $10 to $85 a month and will begin to be paid on January 1, 1942. To qualify for this type of benefit an individual must be 65 years old, his total wages must be $2,000 or more and he must have earned wages for at least 1 day in each of 5 different calendar years.

Lump-sum payments will be made to individuals who reach the age of 65 but do not qualify for the monthly benefits. The amount paid them will equal 3½ percent of their total wages.

Death benefits will be paid to the estates of individuals who die before drawing monthly or lump-sum benefits equal to 3½ percent of their total wages.

FORMER LOCAL GIRL IS KILLED IN CAR WRECK

The sad message was received here early Wednesday morning by Mr. and Mrs. Gunvald Storhaug of our city relating to the death of their daughter, Mrs. Kenneth Shetler, which occurred at midnight, the result of an auto accident sometime Tuesday.

Details of the accident are lacking as this paper goes to press. The remains will be brought here for burial which is expected to be held probably Friday or Saturday this week.

The deceased was formerly Miss Ruth Storhaug of our city. She was married to Kenneth Shetler at a ceremony performed here July 18, 1936. Shortly afterwards they departed for their home at Coquille, Oregon, where Mr. Shetler has a fine official position.

Details will be available for next week's issue.

FARMER-LABOR PARLEY CALLED

State Committee at Its Meeting on Saturday Issued Call for Conference

The state convention of the Farmer-Labor association has been called for January 29th at St. Paul, the call being issued by the State Committee at its session at the St. Francis Hotel a week ago.

The call provides that all members are eligible to participate in the County Convention in all the counties with the exception of the three large counties of Hennepin, Ramsey and St. Louis. Local clubs will select delegates to the county conventions in these counties.

Members of the State Central Committee from each district will issue the call for the Congressional district conventions, where committeemen for the various committee's of the state convention will be selected. It is possible that members of the state central committee of this district will confer with Rev. Flint, chairman, of Underwood, and George Hagen, secretary, of Crookston, before issuing the call. Senator Bridgeman of Bemidji and Verner Nelson, editor of the Marshall County Star and the Northern Minnesota Leader of Roseau, are state committeemen from this district.

In selecting delegates to the state convention each county is entitled two delegates at large and one for each one-thousand votes for Governor. Marshall county is entitled to seven delegates, Roseau county six, Kittson county five, Lake of the Woods four, Polk county twelve, and Pennington five.

The call for the state convention is signed by Paul Harris of Thief River Falls, president, and I. C. Strout of St. Paul, secretary of the Farmer-Labor association.

If all counties of the state send full delegations to the state convention there will be the largest convention ever held by the Farmer-Labor association.

R. E. Boen, chairman of the Roseau County committee, has not decided on the date of the meeting there, but will likely issue the call for the latter part of December since the constitution provides that the county conventions must be held at least four weeks prior to the state convention.

Blaze In Fargo Sunday Does $100,000 Damage

A $100,000 blaze completely ransacked the Emporium Department store in Fargo early Sunday, resisting the efforts of firemen who fought the conflagration for about eight hours. A blast after the fire was under way sent flames and debris through the roof and windows.

More than forty firemen fought the blaze while a score of police, a large number of them from the day force, sought to keep a mob of 2000 people out of eminent danger.

Wyckoff, firemen, equipped with a smoke mask, went into the basement seeking to reach the source of the fire. When he failed to return his mates, after making an unsuccessful attempt to enter the inferno to save him, pumped thousands of gallons of water into the basement to provide Wyckoff with air. His body was recovered a few hours later.

Plans have been made to rebuild the structure as soon as weather permits.

GATZKE MAN IS KILLED IN FALL HERE TUESDAY

John Dahl, Aged Farmer, Suffers Fractured Skull In Accident

Death Is Believed To Have Been Instant

Funeral Will be Held Sunday; Leaves Wife and Many Descendants

John Dahl, aged 75, a prominent farmer near Gatzke, was found lying dead on the basement floor of a local restaurant Tuesday afternoon, his body being discovered a few minutes after he had gone into the basement. It is believed he had slipped while going downstairs and fallen in such a manner that his skull was fractured. He was heavily dressed in an overcoat and this is believed to have prevented him from grasping any support as he slipped and fell. A doctor was called immediately but an examination showed his skull was fractured and that he had died almost instantly.

Mr. Dahl had come to our city with his son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Ingvald Dahl, to do some shopping.

Mr. Dahl was born March 2, 1860, at Sortland, Norway. He came from Norway to Crookston in 1902, and in 1904 moved to Moose River township, Marshall county, where he has since made his home. He had been a resident of Marshall county for 32 years at the time of his death.

Surviving him are his wife, four daughters, Mrs. Olida Cross, Mrs. Antonia Johanson, Mrs. Alvida Erickson, and Mrs. Emma Hanstenson, all of Norway, three sons, Ingvart and Hans of Gatzke, and John of Alaska, two sisters, Mrs. Emma Sjurstein and Mrs. Helga Quam, both of Norway, three brothers, Anger of Norway, Enok of Duluth, and Hartwick of New York, also 15 grandchildren and 5 great grandchildren.

PARK RAUIDS MECHANIC KILLED IN AUTO ACCIDENT

Independent Basketball Team Gets Under Way

The organization of an independent basketball team, sponsored by the Thief River Falls Jr. Chamber of Commerce, was perfected at a practice of prospective players at the City Auditorium Wednesday evening. It is planned that the best traveling teams in the coutry will be brought here for games as will also some of the better teams from neighboring cities.

Thirteen players were out on the floor last night and indications are that a good team will be ready as the season's opening approaches, which is expected to be announced within the next ten days. Among the best prospects were: Ohnstad, former all-state Prowler center, Merle Lindberg, "Scotty" Cameron, Paul Dahl, and Carl Lee, all players on last year's independent aggregation, in addition to Mr. Gabrielson, an instructor in the high school.

The State Mill team of Grand Forks and the Crookston Gunners will be played in two of the earlier games. No definite time of practice will be set as the auditorium floor is not available at regular days.

Workmen's Forum To Be Organized Monday

At the regular meeting of the Workmen's Protective League of Thief River Falls held Monday evening, G. G. Denning of Plummer, outlined a plan for the formation of a Worker's Forum. The idea of such a Forum was discussed fully, and it was finally decided that active organization should take place Monday evening, December 7, in the WPL hall under the Union State bank.

Mr. Denning has founded several public forums throughout this part of the state, as part of the WPA setup. He reported that they were very successful in arousing public interest in vital questions of the day. War, fascism, administration policies, the social security act, and old age pensions were among the topics usually discussed.

It was suggested that, as the WPL has their hall rented for every Monday night, and hold regular meetings the second and fourth Mondays of each month, the Worker's Forum should hold its meetings the first and third Mondays. This will be acted upon at the organizational meeting to be held next Monday evening.

PROWLERS OPEN BASKET SEASON FRIDAY EVENING

First String Players Appear to be Fast; Plummer Will Play 2nd Squad In Opener

The 1936-37 basketball edition of the Prowlers will make its first appearance at the Municipal Auditorium here next Friday evening when they tangle with the invading Indians of Cass Lake.

Cass Lake lost its first start of the season to the state champions, the Bemidji Lumberjacks, by a count of 24 to 10. The Indians have always put up a sensational battle against the Prowlers in every game played between them and this coming game should be no exception.

The Prowlers journeyed to Middle River in a warmup game last Tuesday and emerged victorious by the score of 32 to 22.

The Prowlers will present a versatile quintet made up of Captain "Bud" Nelson and Clark Mickelson, forwards, Loren "Bones" Stadum, center, Leonard Hellquist and Don Lorentson or Milfred Hougham at guards. Roy Lee, Robert Quale, Gordon Caldis and Milton Nesse will also see action at intervals as substitutes if they are not fortunate enough to be in the starting lineup.

The first game of the evening, Friday, will see the Prowler "B" team battling the Plummer squad. Plummer has previously been opponents for the local first team but were demoted this season because of the severe handicap caused by the graduation of their best cagers. A victory for Coach Lee's second team would be regarded as a distinct upset while the first game predictions should place the Prowlers as slight favorites.

Mr. Nelson stated that in all about 25,000 employes will receive a bonus and that the company has also declared an extra common stock divident of $3.75 per share.

Peterson Appointed To Supreme Court

Wm. S. Ervin, Former Assistant Attorney General, Will Become Department Head

Governor Hjalmer Petersen Saturday announced the appointment of Attorney General Harry H. Peterson as associate justice of the Minnesota state supreme court to succeed Justice I. M. Olsen, who is to retire December 15, because of ill health.

Attorney General Peterson's appointment is for the remainder of the term expiring January 1, 1939.

Appointment of William S. Ervin as attorney general was announced simultaneously. Ervin has been assistant attorney general under Peterson.

Attorney General Peterson, a native of St. Paul, began his first term in January, 1933. He has been one of the outstanding leaders of the Farmer-Labor party since its inception.

The new attorney general, Ervin, was appointed assistant when Harry Peterson assumed office in January, 1933. Ervin is a graduate of the Mankato high school and the University of Minnesota and for several years has been a teacher in constitutional law at the Minnesota College of Law. He was county attorney of Pine county from 1914 to 1919.

CURTAIL THE SUPREME COURT

Judging from the many books that are being published in regard to the United States Supreme court there will be much agitation in the near future in the direction of curtailing the powers of the supreme tribunal. No political party, nor even President Roosevelt, has suggested in any general way that some restraint be enacted by congress at the coming session.

Some who oppose the power of the high tribunal are contented by the fact that either some of the members of the court will die soon so President Roosevelt can name a progressive or New Deal successor, while others suggest that congress enlarge the membership to eleven which will leave the conservatives in the minority.

But, these are only temporary remedies. After a number of years when reactionaries may again be in power in the nation's capital, conservative justices will again be appointed to the supreme bench. The proposals advanced now will consequently be of no account.

The step, therefore, that should be taken now is to propose a constitutional amendment which specifically prohibits the supreme court from declaring unconstitutional any act of congress. The sentiment of the people is much in favor of such an amendment now and it can be assumed that in a comparatively short time two-thirds of the state legislatures will ratify the amendment.

The sentiment of the newly published books is much in favor of curtailing the power of the court. This should build up a more favorable sentiment than what is present already.

A lot of thanks was given Thursday last week which was Thanksgiving Day. We just wonder what these Republicans were doing or how they spent the day!

ANTI-HITLERITE IS AWARDED PEACE PRIZE

A German, a Nazi prisoner, noted ofr his writings against war and militarism in Germany, has been awarded the Nobel peace prize for the past year. He is a World War veteran but is wholly opposed to any further slaughter between nations. He is Carl von Ossietzky, aged 44 years, of whom Chas. A. Beard, noted American historian, has the following to say:

"Carl von Ossietzky, a world-renowned pacifist and idealist, has been suffering the hell of a Nazi concentration camp for nearly four years. He has been critically ill for a good part of that time, and yet the Nazis consistently refused to remove him to a hospital until very recently—and then they did so only because of the pressure of world indignation. Last week Ossietzky was released "unconditionally." But this was done only because the Nazi government had advance news of his receiving the Nobel prize. In other words, any concessions gained were gained because of outside pressure.

"By granting the peace prize to Ossietzky the Nobel committee proclaims the caliber of the men and women who are held as political prisoners in the concentration camps of Germany. The fight for Ossietzky is partially won, but there are thousands of other political prisoners whose only crime, like his, was an effort to resist organized barbarism. The case of Carl von Ossietzky proves that this barbarism can be resisted; it should spur all liberals to join in a concentrated effort for the release of other prisoners."

Joe Wolff, Jim Farley's man in Minnesota, states he expects a hard contest on Roosevelt's re-election. The Republicans claim they were not notified of the date of the election.

CO-OPS. MUST PLAN FUTURE

Two and a half million farmers are marketing some or all of their products co-operatively thru 8,400 organizations, W. I. Myers, governor of the Farm Credit Administration, told members of the National Co-operative Milk Producers Federation in St. Paul at their convention recently.

Myers addressed more than 100 farmers who were attending a two-day conference of production credit associations, telling them that co-operatives must plan for the future but also must "keep their feet on the ground."

Farm co-operatives' sales, the Farm Credit governor said in speaking before the co-operative federation, exceeded $1,500,000,000 in the 1935-36 season, a gain of approximately a quarter billion dollars over the previous year.

In recent years co-operative purchasing of farm supplies and equipment has spread to 45 out of the 48 states. At present these co-operatives are most numerous in the midwestern and northwestern states and in New York and California.

The business of 2,112 farmer co-operatives engaged primarily in purchasing, amounted to $347,000,000 during the 1935-36 season, while additional co-operative purchasing business of $68,000,000 was reported by 2,360 farmers' co-operative marketing associations which sell supplies to their members as a sideline activity.

The thirteen banks for co-operatives established by the farm credit administration about 3½ years ago have already financed more than 1,500 farmers' business co-operatives, and the number is increasing.

Now, that the U. S. committee investigating European cooperatives is to give its report soon, co-ops in the United States must plan a course to follow in the future.

NOTED COMMENTATOR TELLS OF DICTATORS

Dr. Emil Lengyel, who wrote the first book about Hitler, as well as "Millions of Dictators," sketched his impressions of European dictators in a senior youth meeting in Minneapolis recently.

"Hitler is of hysterical temperament," Dr. Lengyel said. "He is subject to depressed moods when he is unable to work and at other times is carried on waves of overwhelming enthusiasm to triumphs of popular acclaim.

"Mussolini paints the glories of ancient Rome on a vast canvas and appeals to the Italian sense of glory and the picturesque. He is a man of prodigious industry who is, however, more broken now than he appears in public."

Joseph Stalin, Russia's dictator, is the businessman type, unemotional and to the point, according to Dr. Lengyel. "He has a shrewd sense of humor, though most people do not know about it," he said.

Dr. Lengyel made the prediction Mussolini is "definitely on his way out" and Hitler "will last only as long as he has money for his army." Stalin, he said, "no longer believes the way to make the USSR safe for bolshevism is by trying to make the world an adjunct of the Moscow Communist International. He now is a Communist nationalist."

PINCHOT SCORES WEALTH IN GOP

Former Governor Gifford Pinchot of Pennsylvania laid down recently the "general direction" along which he believes the Republican party can "come back"—naming "concentrated wealth" as the party's "political liability number one."

"I want to see the public service cleaned up. I want to see control of concentrated wealth over politics broke up. I want to see a moral revival in public affairs in this country," former Governor Pinchot, long a progressive leader in Republican ranks, said.

"That in my opinion, is the general direction along which the Republican party can come back."

Former Governor Pinchot made his statement following a conference with Alf M. Landon, the party's defeated candidate for President, William Allen White, Emporia, Kan., publisher, and Richard Lloyd Jones, Tulsa, Okla., publisher.

As to Governor Landon's part, Pinchot said:

"Governor Landon is head of the party and will be or four years. He is a Theodore Roosevelt progressive, bones and britches, and is in a better position than anyone else to supply the new type leadership which the party needs."

The presidential election was the people's way of showing" that concentrated wealth is political liability number one," Pinchot said, adding that "Republicans want a change in party leadership."

HEADED FOR THE OLD LINE-UP?

Official recognition of the Spanish rebels by Germany and Italy has had deeplying repercussions. The action was taken although the present government of Spain had received popular mandate at the last general elections, although the government was still resisting the rebel advance, and although the great powers had pledged themselves to a hands-off policy on the Spanish situation. In view of these circumstances Germany and Italy, it is generally considered in Europe, have thrown down an open challenge to France and the Soviet Union. Is it to be 1914 again?

Some of the analogies between 1936 and 1914 are admittedly striking. In each case a fervidly nationalistic Germany asserts her right to a place in the sun. In each case the Reich may be expected to fight rather than knuckle down. In each case German policy is aimed at France and Russia. And now as then the commitments of Great Britain are uncertain.

Nevertheless the dissimilarities between 1936 and 1914 are perhaps even more striking. Twenty-two years ago the German army was unquestionably the most effective in the world. Today, although rapidly advancing toward its former position, it still seems inferior in size and supplies to the army of France. In 1914 the German navy was second only to that of Britain; today it is relatively weak. The comparative strength of the German air and submarine forces is debatable.

In 1914 France and Russia were indissolubly bound by an offensive and defensive alliance. Today such alliance again exists on paper, but it would probably operate only defensively. Indeed, it may be doubted if either nation would lend military aid to the other, even in case of actual invasion, unless the former's own interests were directly involved.

When the World war broke out, Italy was allied with Germany and Austria-Hungary. But Berlin and Vienna understood that that tie was not binding; in 1915 Italy cast in her lot with the Allies. Today Italy, though in many diplomatic maneuvers opposing the Reich, would probably join in any Fascist front against Russia. Belgium may have moved somewhat away from France. And this time Japan would be found against instead of with Russia.

In 1914 Germany could count on the not inconsiderable support of Austria-Hungary. Today the Dual Monarchy is gone. If Italy and Germany joined hands, Austria might have to go along with them; as for Hungary, she is suppoesd to be tied to Italy. Czecho-Slovakia, Yugoslavia, and Roumania (the Little Entente) have been affiliated with France, but that affiliation may be weaker than it was.

As for Great Britain, she is far less cordial to France than in 1914. Paris declined to back London against Rome in the Ethiopian affair; London retaliated by entering only a formal protest against the German re-arming of the Rhineland. The present British government has no love for communist Russia; and the British Labour party has slumped into ineffectiveness.

As for the United States, one great difference between 1914 and 1936 is that legislation of the last several years, also disillusion about the issues involved in the World war, give better protection than in 1914 against involvements. Americans rose in 1917 to the call to make the world safe for democracy; they are less likely in 1936 and 1937 to respond to a slogan to make the world safe against communism.—Grand Forks Herald.

The Capitol News Review

By A. I. HARRIS

Speaking at Chicago upon the occasion of the eightieth birthday celebration of Associate Justice Louis D. Brandeis of the United States Supreme Court, Chief Justice John P. Devaney of the Minnesota State Supreme Court summed up Justice Brandeis' contributions as follows:....

"First, he has endeavored to protect Labor in its efforts to maintain and improve its standard of living and conditions of work giving to men, women, and children the right to organize, to strike, to picket, to use methods of self-defense.....

"Second, he has attempted to protect the small man against the concentration of capital and credit in the hands of a few, and against monopolies ruthlessly destroying individual enterprise.....

"Third, he has attempted to protect the consumer against extortionate prices by monopolies engaged in private business on the one hand and public utilities on the other.....

"Fourth, he has ever struggled to preserve the Bill of Rights for every citizen of the land."

Justice Devaney then added:....

"Judge Parry of England once wrote: 'The rich have many law books written to protect their privilege, but the poor who are a greater nation have but few'....

"The list of those who have written the law books of 'the poor who are a greater nation' will some day be compiled and when the work of those who have written is evaluated, at the head of that list will stand the name of Louis Dembitz Brandeis!"

Minnesota labor is watching with concern the outcome of two labor cases pending before the State Supreme Court. Upon the decision, labor leaders say, will in a large measure depend whether employers can nullify through subterfuge the intent and purposes of the Labor Disputes Act. The act was passed by the 1933 Legislature, and is a codification of all labor laws of the state to date.....

Both cases arise out of a strike at Austin called by the Beauticians Unit No. 9, Local No. 1, of the Independent Union of All Workers, against a local beauty school. One is an appeal from conviction of Joseph Voorhees, business agent, from a four-month sentence for contempt of court for alleged violation of an injunction against picketing issued by Judge Norman E. Peterson of Albert Lea. The other is an appeal from the injunction itself.....

The Labor Disputes Act defines the term "labor dispute" as "any controversy concerning terms or conditions of employment or concerning association or representation of persons in negotiating, fixing, maintaining, changing, or seeking to arrange terms or conditions of employment, REGARDLESS OF WHETHER OR NOT THE DISPUTANTS STAND IN THE PROXIMATE RELATION OF EMPLOYER AND EMPLOYEE."....

The law specifically forbids the courts from issuing injunctions against picketing in such cases....

In order to circumvent the act, labor leaders say, the beauty school, which is operated by a corporation, formed a so-called co-partnership with its employees, so that the relationship of employe and employee would not exist within the meaning of the act. The co-partnership was formed after the strike was called, so its purposes are obvious. Nevertheless, the court held that, because of this co-partnership the relationship of employer and employee ceased and the injunction against picketing was issued.....

It is easy to see how employers can defeat the Labor Disputes Act in the future through this and similar fraudulent setups if the upper court sustains the lower court in the right to issue the injunction against picketing. In this event, the next Legislature will unquestionably be called upon to amend the law and to put teeth into it.

The State Planning Board, thru a subcommittee, has begun an analysis of the financial condition of Minnesota and of its 87 counties. The committee will use $25,000 allocated by the state emergency relief administration to prepare its report.....

Outstanding among the questions to be investigated by the committee are the problems of coordination of relief bureaus, state and county indebtedness, population trends in various counties, and the total wealth of the state from industrial and agricultural sources.

The committee will seek to find ways of co-ordinating the administration of relief and improving co-operation with the federal government. The latter question has been accentuated by the new federal social security law, which adds further complications to the administration of relief in Minnesota.

It is pointed out that the state is now losing $625,000 a year in federal funds because its laws for aid to the blind does not meet the federal requirements. The federal social security act provides for pensions of $15 a month for blind persons.....

The committee will analyze the federal requirements for state legislation to comply with the federal unemployment insurance regulations. The last special session of the legislature, dominated by conservatives, failed to pass an unemployment insurance law. As the federal law stands at present, states are required to have unemployment insurance laws on their statute books at the end of this year, in order to comply with the law. In many states special legislative sessions are being called in order to enact unemployment insurance legislation. Governor Petersen recently announced that he would not call a special session in Minnesota, asserting that he believed Congress would extend the time allowed for the states to comply with the federal law.

Minnesota's tourist business in 1936 brought in the third largest amount from this source in the state's history, according to Geo. H. Bradley, state tourist bureau director. Total income from the tourist industry in the state this year was $90,539,000, according to Mr. Bradley, and raised the total revenue from the tourist industry during the 14 years that records have been kept to more than a billion dollars.

The first of a series of Budget recommendations which will be presented to the 1937 Legislature was released to the press last week by Paul A. Rasmussen, State Budget Commissioner. Additional recommendations will be made from time to time during the next month.....

Departing to some extent from precedent, Mr. Rasmussen will include in his budget recommendations a description of the revenue fund deficit and means to meet it and an analysis of tax problems as they affect the State Budget. A comprehensive picture of receipts and expenditures of the various departments will be given. Budget forms, according to Mr. Rasmussen have been simplified and condensed and will permit increased departmental efficiency.

THE GERMAN-JAP ALLIANCE

Because they believe the Komintern (international Communist Society) threatens world peace, Germany and Japan have signed a 5-year pact binding themselves to present a united front against the activities of that group. At least that's their story and until they have proof the alliance is for some other purpose, the rest of the world is stuck with it.

However, there's a suspicion that this union between two nations which have little in common except a mutual distrust of Russia is, in reality, a military alliance binding one to help the other in case the Soviet gets out of hand. And in the background stands Italy, a silent but agreeable partner to the transaction. It is just a suspicion, of course, but this is a suspicious age, so what can we do about it?

The Washington Commentator

By E. C. STENGELSEN

THE FICKLE VOTER

Consider the nonchalance with which the Hollywood actresses change husbands. They make less fuss over it than we do over changing shirts—assuming we're fortunate enough to have a change of shirts, that is to say.

Though the inference must not be drawn from this remark that your commentator believes in fickleness to be a trait peculiarly confined to the simpering gals of Hollywood. The recent campaign and ensuing election seem to indicate that the charge might well lie against the whole American nation. A comparison between the final election figures, which have just finished dribbling in to Washington, and what we learned from Republican press, radio and campaign spouters during the summer and early fall months, seem to bear this out.

The American, it appears, is as unstable in his affections—politically, at least—as a tomcat!

Those who challenge this statement are invited to thumb back through the pages of the pre-election issues of most any such Mid-West dailies as the Minneapolis Tribune, the Minneapolis Journal, the St. Paul Pioneer Press & Dispatch, or the Duluth News-Tribune. They will learn then, authoritatively, that there was an irresistible drift towards Landon. Here and there, minor straw votes were taken. And invariably these proclaimed the same result: that popular sentiment for the budget-balancer was sweeping over the land like a vast tidal wave. Roosevelt might have been able to have sprinted fast enough to have kept from getting engulfed, but at least he'd have been wet clear up to the seat of his breeches!

Then there was the Literary Digest which issued 10 million straw votes out of which a sufficient number were returned to prove conclusively that a Republican landslide was certain.

Mr. Hearst also took matters in hand. His chain of newspapers featured the Crossley poll. By way of keeping a little suspense in the thing and thus maintaining reader interest, this poll hinted a little sentiment for Roosevelt might be detected here and there about the land; but, of course, Landon's election was already as good as settled!

In an effort to discover how it came about that the electorate were almost solidly for Landon all throughout the campaign, and then surprisedly, elected his opponent, your commentator has interviewed a large number of voters. But he has been singularly unlucky. Not one single ballotcar has he found whose mind was not made up long before Landon was nominated at Cleveland early in the summer. . . . . . Which certainly is baffling. For there was that powerful drift we heard so much about. And now there's neither hide nor hair of a single drifter to be found!

Each interviewee stoutly denied that he had ever entertained sentiments other than those expressed at the polls. Many even tried to prove it by explaining in careful and logical detail why it was that they voted as they did. . .

One objected to Landon because he came from Wichita. It was an Indian name, he said, which meant "Place of the small potato!" Obviously, he believed there was something in a name. He intimated that had it meant "Place of the huge squash!"—or even "Place of the large cabbage-head!"—he might have voted Republican.

However unsuccessful your commentator was in finding drifters, he is confident nevertheless that they existed in the vast numbers alleged. Certainly, the Republicans who are widely known for their trustworthiness and truthfulness would not have made a baseless claim! . . .

Nor would such astute gentlemen as Raskob, the DuPonts, the Rockefellers, the American Liberty League, the Hearst press, and others in like comfortable financial circumstances, have chipped together upward of seven million dollars to herd the drifters into the Republican corral and thus elect their man, had they not known without a shadow of doubt that the political woods were simply swarming with the critters.

So. the evidence is all against the voters when they deny that they were fickle. The pre-election claims of the truthful Republicans are easily reconciled with the election's result. All it amounted to was that the budget-balancer simply didn't have what it takes. He lacked "it". An so he was jilted by the fickle voter and left waiting at the church!

VIEWS AND REVIEWS

By B. C. HAGGLUND

Something Should Be Done

Section four of Article four of the constitution of the United States says that every state is guaranteed a republican form of government. It's funny the Supreme Court hasn't done something about declaring Minnesota unconstitutional, because the people of that state have to struggle along with only a farmer-labor government.

Speaking of Constitutions—

—Did you know that not one of our major political parties stands 100 per cent in favor of the constitution? Thumbing through the yellow pages of that document, I come across amendment number fifteen, which reads "The right of citizens of the United States to vote shall not be denied or abridged by the United States, or by any state, on account of race, color, or previous condition of servitude."

Theoretically, every party is in favor of the right of the negro to vote. A bloody war was fought to establish that principle. But practically, very few negroes in the south vote. Why? Property restrictions, the poll tax, and plain race prejudice keep the negro away from the polls.

Until every negro votes, with no restrictions whatsoever, who can say that the constitution has any force?

Religion and Democracy

It is interesting to note that the name of the Deity is not mentioned any place in the United States constitution, and that the very first amendment to the constitution (one of the original Bill of Rights) establishes full and complete religious freedom.

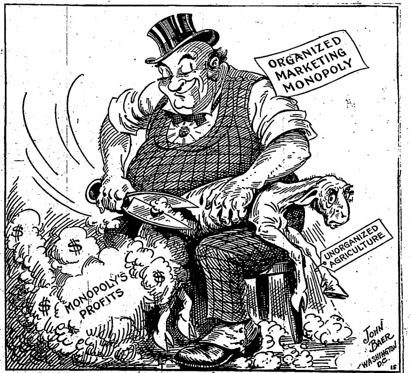
The efforts of a small group of fanatic religionists to make the existing government an expression of their system of belief, invariably strike a snag when they encounter the first amendment. In this country, if the constitution means anything at all, one can worship what he pleases, or he can worship nothing, if he pleases.

Some years ago in Arkansas there occurred an incident which is typical of the provinciality of the ordinary sectarian mind. Charles Smith, a prominent atheist, was arrested in that state for conducting street meetings without a permit. At the trial, he was required to swear on oath before taking the witness stand on his own behalf. He refused to swear, saying that affirmation was enough. The judge ruled that he must take an oath, or be held in contempt. Smith went to jail, but after some unfavorable publicity, was released and dismissed without charge.

The action of some atheists is as obnoxious as the actions of some evangelists; nevertheless, one cannot curb either and adhere to the spirit of democracy guaranteed in the constitution. The constitution was not founded on the Bible, as some maintain, but was founded on the dream of human equality, which necessitates freedom in its broadest sense.

The road to equal freedom is rocky. Sometimes one wonders if we are making any progress in that direction at all. If we are not, at least the desire to move in that direction is something. As long as we do not forget the dream entirely and turn our faces away in despair, we are making progress.

THE SHEARING



In the Editor's Mailbag

Letters to this department are invited. In order that more readers may express their opinions here, the Forum reserves the right to cut down the length of letters. It requests writers to limit themselves whenever possible to 250 words of less. Name and address must accompany letter, but will be omitted if desired. Letters signed with real names will have preference.

EQUALITY AND LIBERTY

Equality and Liberty, as used in the Declamation of Independence, are terms which are misunderstood by many as referring to absolute personal rights. However, anyone can realize that those who adopted this declamation did not use the words in this meaning, as they were practical men rather than theoretical anarchists.

Regardless of differences of opinion, I believe nearly everyone agrees that we must have laws and rules of conduct, not only because of the selfishness of human nature, but also of ignorance and different constitutional characteristics.

The best we can do to get good government, is to abide by decisions of majorities in matters not against the Constitution nor against one's conscience.

In the days of the founding of our government involuntary servitude was generally regarded as right as well inequality before the law by classes—nobility for instance,—and for that reason we can understand the particular meaning which was intended to be conveyed by equality and liberty.

So far as personal liberty is concerned, that will be in proportion to the amount of unselfishness and love of justice is in our nature and, also to some extent upon the character of our associates, and it would be well if everyone, once and for all times would realize this, for absolute liberty and happiness is entirely inseperable from love and righteousness.

Being that human nature is more or less selfish and unjust and evil, Jesus taught that a man must be born again in order to see the Kingdom of Heaven, and if we would teach this fundamental truth, instead of talking glibly about "Everybody ofr himself, and the devil take the hind-most", as we sometimes hear said by otherwise fine people, we would stand a whole lot better chance in our "Pursuit of Happiness".

RURAL CREDIT LOBBY FOR 1937 CENTRAL SESSION

"If you want something done, do it yourself".

The progressive tendency in Minnesota is stronger than ever before. The National tendency is the same. They are making the movement that may free agriculture. In the State, they control the house and in the Senate, they have almost the balance of power. This is irrespective of any political group. You have elected your senators and your representatives. They will soon meet in St. Paul. You hired them. You can issue orders. The power is in your hands. On behalf of 12,000 Rural Credit farmers, arrange for a strong lobby to press through the bill that almost passed. Make your demands upon your farm organizations to do the same. Make it an irresistible force. Do not expect one man to do it alone for you. The last bill embodying some of the important features of the plan passed the house by a vote of 104 against 9. You have friends down there but they also need your help. It concerns all. As such it is your duty to be a part of that number who strive to liberate the shackles from agriculture.

THE PLAN

LET'S HAVE ACTION!

A safe and sane method for liquidating the Rural Credit Bureau.

1. IMMEDIATE LIQUIDATION OF THE BUREAU.
2. Re-appraisal of all lands, loans and contracts by a representative of the State, appointed by the Tax Commission, a county commissioner and an officer of the town board.
3. Re-financing at such re-appraisal of all loans and sales contracts at three per cent, payable annually, in the fall. If loan or contract is less than appraisal, then re-financing such balance at the same rate.
4. Rental of all land, until sold, at four per cent of the new valuation payable in the fall and secured by cash crops.
5. First right, for a certain time to former owners to repurchase their land by paying the interest in advance for one year and thereafter in advance each year at three per cent interest.
6. Provisions made in the law for refinancing by selling certificates guaranteed by the State, direct to the people as an investment at two and a half per cent annually.

Now, there you are. What are you going to do about it. It takes action and not wishes.

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

Thief River Falls, Minn.
November 27, 1936

Dear Editor:—

Some 120,000,000 people were on relief after election. Relief from the unmerciful campaign tactics which crowded the radio, the press and other public programs. Together with all the other citizens I have enjoyed this relief. I have therefore taken a recess from using space in the public forums of our papers. I almost hesitate to break this peaceful silence even now. But there are several matters which I like to discuss with friends and neighbors in this locality. I therefore ask space in your paper for a few brief articles.

The recent election as far as our state and nation is concerned, was a very decided victory for progressive and liberal government. Politically there is nothing so good that it has no evil. As good citizens we must pray and work that we may purge away that which is evil. When and where we find a poor spoke in the wheel, we will not discard the wheel, but replace the spoke. And that will be done when people are not blinded by party politics, but have their eyes open with reference to the man they elect. Let us not call anyone a party traitor because he can not vote for all the names on a party ticket. Only by exercising personal choice can the voters purge the party from unworthy candidates.

Jim Farley, who managed President Roosevelt's campaign for re-election, said that this was not a partisan election. Most certainly it was not. The Democratic party has no doubt gained much membership during the last three or four years. Yet the Democrats themselves do not imagine that all who voted for Roosevelt how, were Democrats. The people did not vote for Roosevelt, the Democrat, but for Roosevelt, the Progressive. The man who has gained the confidence of the American people by his liberal leadership the last three and a half years. We, who are personally and politically dry, are not satisfied with the Wet portion of the New Deal. However, we are still more disgusted with the Republicans who cowardly dropped their Temperance plank. Our country is not yet ready to go back to the former Prohibition. Yet I do believe that the majority of our people now see the need of an uncompromising control and check of the liquor business.

In the national arena there was much evidence of the people voting for the man as over and above the party. There was Senator George W. Norris, who easily won a three-cornered race. He won over the Republican, as well as over the Democratic opponent. He won the race on his own merits as an independent. There is Senator Borah of Idaho. He still mails under the Republican flag without apology. However, the people of his state know him as a progressive and gave this Republican senator a huge majority together with Roosevelt. Langer, an independent candidate for governor of North Dakota, won over both his opponents, one a Democrat, who had the support of the National Campaign. So, our people are still thinking in terms of men. Next week we will have a few comments on state politics.

TRACTORS

There are good reasons why you should make tractor investments now and be ready for next spring. We have some special bargains in good used tractors now and at better prices than we will be able to sell for next spring. Some rebuilt 10-20 McCormick-Deering tractors and 1, 22-36, 1, Wallis and several Fordsons.

Besides we are in a position to give you special deals on new McCormick-Deering tractor purchases at this time and will not charge you any interest until spring. Many can use a tractor for many jobs even during winter months. Further there is a main reason, and indications point to a great shortage in tractors for next spring delivery—"Believe it or not". But the new type Mc-Cormick-Deering separator can always be rebuilt and kept in perfect running order, and we make no charge for rebuilding any McCormick-Deering Cream separator, other than for new parts required. You will never have reasons to regret an investment of a McCormick-Deering Cream Separator.

NEWS of the WEEK

With frost on the cabins and winter oil in the crankcase, this is hardly the time to be talking about tourist trade. But the figures for the year, just released by the state tourist bureau, show that Minnesota enjoyed the third best vacation business in history. Some 2,652,000 visitors—practically the normal population of the state—left $91,000,000 to remember them by. When it comes to scenic beauty and hospitality, Minnesota is in line for another national championship. Even if it did take us quite a spell to get going.

There should be a "Town Hall welcome" or anyway a bronze medal for the guy who hasn't picked an All-American football team. They're on all sides of us like a suit of red flannels, with more to come. The Associated Press team lands in the public lap this Saturday and next week Friday Collier's magazine will feature Grantland Rice's annual eleven. Both will probably be among the best. But you can have the whole works. The old coach in this corner will take the Gophers for his and spot the others the first touchdown. They'd probably need it.

The Spanish government has requested a special session of the League of Nations to determine if Germany and Italy are lending aid to the rebels. Strange things are born of desperation. After the mess the League made of the Ethiopian land grab, only a government which knew it was doomed would bother to seek help from that quarter. For more particulars, write to Haile Selassie.

Still after that 30-hour work week, the American Federation of Labor has drawn up a resolution asking the next congress to pass such a law. Eventually we may get there, for perhaps it's the best way, as labor claims, "to protect society from future depressions and to master unemployment." But it will hardly come this year. With business doing such a good job of pulling itself out of the ditch, congress isn't apt to interfere until it is convinced the jobless problem can be solved only by further legislation.

There are whispers, probably started by his own pals, that Senator Vandenberg of Michigan will be entrusted with the job of reorganizing the Republican party and getting it ready for the 1940 campaign. Party leaders are said to feel that Gov. Landon lacks both the necessary color, appeal, and that National Chairman John Hamilton lacks a lot of things, including experience. We wouldn't know about that, but it would be no real shock to learn that Mr. Vandenberg was thinking of 1940 when he stated last June that the nomination for vice president was something he could get along nicely without.

Among those who appeared before the state pardon board last week was Leonard Hankins, now serving a life sentence for taking part in a Minneapolis bank robbery in Dec. 1932. Hankins maintains he is innocent of all connection with that crime. This corner has reviewed the Hankins case before; several times before. One of these days we expect to report that he has been pardoned or paroled. And explain why.

For the fifth time in the last few years, a resolution has been introduced into the French chamber of deputies recommending that the government re-open war debt negotiations with the U. S. The reason is obvious. With war threatening to bust loose in Europe any minute, the French feel the need of friendlier relations with the country which helped save them a short generation ago. Their total debt, with accumulated interest, amounts to slightly more than 4 billion dollars; their present defaulted debt is 250 millions. We could use a little of that over-due account right now, but they might as well understand—and all other debtors with them—that paying us off doesn't obligate Uncle Sam to pitch in and help the next time they blow their tops over there.

If further proof was needed that the wooden passenger coach has no place in modern transportation, the answer came last week with that ghastly collision between two elevated trains on Chicago's north side. Gross carlessness may or may not have caused the accident. Yet final responsibility for the toll of dead and injured rests with those who were willing to gamble human safety against archaic equipment.

Where, asks a subscriber, are the presidential candidates and party leaders who were gunning for our votes only a month ago? Well, it's a fair question and it deserves an answer. Pres. Roosevelt is on his way home from the peace conference in Buenos Aires. Mr. Landon is in Kansas, winding up his duties as governor. Republican Chairman John Hamilton can be found in New York, trying to scare up a million dollars to balance his party's campaign deficit. And Jim Farley is touring Ireland and getting ready, his friends say, to announce his permanent retirement as postmaster general.

Of the others, Lemke is packing his grip, preparatory to another term in Washington as congressman from North Dakota; Father Coughlin has reached Bermuda on a Carribean cruise; and Dr. Townsend is appearing in a Cleveland court as chief defendant in a receivership suit brought against his old-age pension organization. How many of them will play an active part in the next campaign? Well, hold on a minute. That's your guess.

The 5-4 decisions made famous by the Supreme Court will have to take a back seat now. Last week the Court was evenly divided 4-4, in upholding New York's unemployment insurance law. Justice Stone, ill, did not take part in the decision. In view of this decision and the fact Justice Stone is a liberal, it is believed the federal job insurance law will also be found constitutional.

Mention of the Court brings to mind that soon, possibly next Monday, we can expect a decision involving the President's embargo on shipment of arms to Bolivia and Paraguay during their recent war. This decision will be important, not so much because of the South American angle, but because it will also determine the legality of the arms embargo incorporated in our neutrality law. If the court rules against the government in this case, then all restrictions on the sale of munitions to warring nations by American firms will be removed.

Man-Bites-Dog yarn. A wounded deer is credited twih killing a Michigan hunter a few days ago by kicking his gun when the man stopped over to examine the deer's wound. The gun went off. The hunter went west. Revenge is sweet—or as they used to say in the movies, "Sequoia."

Scientists gathered in Washington last week put on quite a show. Among other things they drove nails with electric light bulbs, melted glass by the use of sound rays imprisoned in a test tube, and manufactured rubber artificially by using gas.—But the demonstration which set our biggest illegal industry talking to itself was a method whereby whiskey can be aged 4 years in less than one second. "Just give us the secret", the bootleggers promise, "and we'll discard our present system of tossing an electric curling iron into the mash."

A fellow out in California is busy lining up an organization to be known as the "Broadcast Listeners of America". Members will be pledged to protest against the broadcasting of off-color jokes, programs glorifying crime, too many advertisements, etc. Other groups who have tried the same thing have found that non-members have the one really sure-fire method. They just give the dial a twist.

Editors, note. (And you can bet most of them will.) Walter Michelson, publisher of the Blooming Prairie Times, is Senator Shipstead's new secretary. And that's "30" for today.

SCHOOL NOTES

Wins One-Sided Game

In a fast but erratic game, Plummer defeated Goodridge by the lopsided score of 20 to 3. It was a fast, exciting game dimmed only by the inability of the Plummer team to find the basket. Time after time Plummer was in for good close shots only to find their efforts to be of no avail because of their inability to put the ball through the hoop. Had Plummer been 'on' there is no telling what the score might have been. Plummer's fast offensive basket ball failed to click because of the erratic passing and that, too, aided in keeping the score down.

The Plummer defense again showed its efficiency by holding the tall Goodridge team to one basket for the entire game. It completely smothered the passing attack Goodridge had and bottled up nicely any attempts they had at the basket. Due to this Goodridge was compelled to resort to long shots which did not go in and the rebounds were taken care of by the stalwart Plummer guards.

Langlie and Karlstad were high scorers of the Goodridge game with Ripple close behind. The guards, although they did not score often, were open for many shots, but hard luck kept them from denting the scoring column to any extent.

The crowd at the Goodridge contest was slightly larger than that of the preceding game. It showed fine qualities of sportsmanship and supported its team to the utmost. Fans are already looking ahead to the Warren game to be played at Warren Tuesday, Dec. 15. The next game will be played with Thief River Falls in that city Friday, Dec. 4th.

Coffee and cake, served in the basement, closed the evening and sent all home in the best of spirits. All were glad Plummer had won its first conference game and all had enjoyed the party.

The school house was a quiet place over the week end. All the teachers, with the exception of Mr. Jaspers and Mr. Adrian, were out-of-town. Mr. Ohnstad drove Miss Maki to Hibbing from where she continued on to her home at Kinney. Mr. Ohnstad remained at Hibbing with friends. Mr. Jaspers and Mr. Adrian enjoyed the hospitality of friends and had a pleasant Thanksgiving to look back upon.

All the grade rooms had made arrangements for Thanksgiving programs and parties of their own on Wednesday afternoon. All participated willingly in the programs and most enthusiastically in the lunch that followed. All were in excellent training for the festivities of the next day, and all returned Monday, none the worse for wear.

THEY WILL BE SURPRISED WHEN WE TELEPHONE THEM.
YES, PEOPLE IN EUROPE DONT USE THE TELEPHONE NEARLY AS MUCH AS WE DO.

AMERICANS LEAD THE WORLD IN THEIR USE OF TELEPHONE SERVICE

● The average American makes nine times as many telephone calls as the average European.

In the United States, you can get more and better service for your money than anywhere else in the world. Under such conditions, it is natural that Americans should use telephone service more than do the people of other countries.

Your telephone dollar has been buying more and more each year. It buys swifter, more accurate and more dependable local service; it buys out-of-town service amazingly faster, clearer and more sure at substantially lower cost.

For more than half a century, the Bell System has worked constantly to improve and extend telephone service and to keep down its cost to telephone users. In this way, it has helped to give the United States world leadership in telephone service.

MIDDLE RIVER

Arland Breese, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Breese, who although yet only a boy in his teens, has made noteworthy progress in pursuing his hobby of taxidermy. He commenced tinkering at it three years ago by mounting numerous small specimens as a diversion which excited the admiration of his friends and neighbors who viewed them. Becoming more and more interested in the work, he took up a correspondence course with the Northwest School of Taxidermy, located at Omaha, from which after satisfactorily answering a written examination questionaire, and submitting samples of his work, he received a diploma in February of 1935. Since that time he has mounted many birds and animals for his family and others which have so advertised him that he is quite generally known in eastern Marshall county as a capable licensed taxidermist. He has at this time a dozen deer heads for mounting which will keep him busy for some time. The farm home of the Breese's is quite an interesting place to visit, being so profusely ornamented with the very life-like specimen's of Arland's work.

THE STUDENT VOICE

Another campaign in the war against tuberculosis is being launched. Slowly, but surely this dreaded disease is being defeated; the close of each successive Xmas Seal campaign finds tuberculosis nearer extinction. Tuberculosis is merciless, and death is the destiny of those not reached by tuberculosis treatment. In order to combat this disease, money is needed for sanitoriums. The sale of Christmas seals is the chief source of this money. Although few of us will be stricken by this disease, we can aid those less fortunate by selling or buying Christmas seals. Let's do our part in this good cause!

PLANS MADE FOR RED RIVER VALLEY SPUD SHOW ASS'N.

Object To Improve Quality of Seed Potato Crop In Eleven Red River Valley Counties

Plans to form a Minnesota Red River Valley Potato Show association for the purpose of promoting active participation of the 11 Valley counties in the annual potato show and improve the quality of the seed potato crop, have been launched as a result of the fourth annual exposition held at Moorhead last week.

The committee which had charge of the exposition by far the largest yet held, was authorized at a meeting of growers and dealers to name a committee which will meet in February at the annual Red River Valley Winter Shows in Crookston, where definite organization steps will be taken. The committee is composed of F. L. Behling, chairman; Paul Horn, T. C. Heneghan and A. T. Brandt, Leo Wright, D. C. Baldwin, H. A. Wieneke, John Whitnack and Donald A. Peet, secretary.

Determination to enlist growers throughout the Valley in a concerted effort to improve the quality of Valley seed was expressed at the meeting in which plans for the new association were discussed. Belief was expressed that through promotion of a greater number of exhibits at the annual show and a campaign stressing the importance of certified seed, the Valley will again assume its place as one of the largest producing areas for quality seed in the country.

A replica of the sanctuary erected in the wilderness after God's own pattern was displayed during the lecture. This complete sanctuary will be displayed next Sunday also. MIDDLE RIVER

Arland Breese, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Breese, who although yet only a boy in his teens, has made noteworthy progress in pursuing his hobby of taxidermy. He commenced tinkering at it three years ago by mounting numerous small specimens as a diversion which excited the admiration of his friends and neighbors who viewed them. Becoming more and more interested in the work, he took up a correspondence course with the Northwest School of Taxidermy, located at Omaha, from which after satisfactorily answering a written examination questionaire, and submitting samples of his work, he received a diploma in February of 1935. Since that time he has mounted many birds and animals for his family and others which have so advertised him that he is quite generally known in eastern Marshall county as a capable licensed taxidermist. THE STUDENT VOICE

Another campaign in the war against tuberculosis is being launched. Slowly, but surely this dreaded disease is being defeated; the close of each successive Xmas Seal campaign finds tuberculosis nearer extinction. Tuberculosis is merciless, and death is the destiny of those not reached by tuberculosis treatment. In order to combat this disease, money is needed for sanitoriums. The sale of Christmas seals is the chief source of this money. Although few of us will be stricken by this disease, we can aid those less fortunate by selling or buying Christmas seals. Let's do our part in this good cause!

PLANS MADE FOR RED RIVER VALLEY SPUD SHOW ASS'N.

Object To Improve Quality of Seed Potato Crop In Eleven Red River Valley Counties

Plans to form a Minnesota Red River Valley Potato Show association for the purpose of promoting active participation of the 11 Valley counties in the annual potato show and improve the quality of the seed potato crop, have been launched as a result of the fourth annual exposition held at Moorhead last week.

The committee which had charge of the exposition by far the largest yet held, was authorized at a meeting of growers and dealers to name a committee which will meet in February at the annual Red River Valley Winter Shows in Crookston, where definite organization steps will be taken. The committee is composed of F. L. Behling, chairman; Paul Horn, T. C. Heneghan and A. T. Brandt, Leo Wright, D. C. Baldwin, H. A. Wieneke, John Whitnack and Donald A. Peet, secretary.

Determination to enlist growers throughout the Valley in a concerted effort to improve the quality of Valley seed was expressed at the meeting in which plans for the new association were discussed. Belief was expressed that through promotion of a greater number of exhibits at the annual show and a campaign stressing the importance of certified seed, the Valley will again assume its place as one of the largest producing areas for quality seed in the country.

FIRES DESTROY TWO BEMIDJI STRUCTURES

Two blazes, a few hours apart, destroyed two Bemidji business structures last week and for a time threatened to spread through a business block in the down-town section. The Stone-Ordean-Wells wholesale grocery warehouse was wiped out with a loss estimated at $30,000 and the Coast-to-Coast store burned with damage estimated at $8,000. Firemen were hampered by a strong wind but succeeded in confining the blaze to the store building. Several persons in apartments above the store escaped the flames.

State Farm Bureau Meeting At St. Paul

The annual meeting of the Minnesota Farm Bureau Federation will be held in St. Paul December 28 to 31, according to word sent out last week from the Bureau headquarters. The banquet meeting will be held at the Lowry hotel on Wednesday evening, Dec. 30.

Seventy-three County Farm Bureaus will have official delegates at the convention, the greatest number on record. A number of new county organizations have been established since the seventeenth annual meeting last January.

For the first time in its history the Minnesota Farm Bureau will have three official voting delegates at the annual meeting of the American Farm Bureau Federation, to be held in Pasadena, Calif. Dec. 9-11. Official representation is based on memberships, and the Minnesota Farm Bureau membership is at the highest point in its history.

The 1937 membership campaign, now under way in most counties, indicates that next year's membership will substantially exceed that of the present year.

THE LECTURES IN THE OLD METHODIST CHURCH

Thanksgiving night a well attended program was rendered in the old Methodist church. It was greatly enjoyed by all present.

Last Sunday night in his lecture on "How people were saved in the old dispensation", Evangelist Gulbrandson, on Scriptural basis, made the statement that men in all ages were saved in the same manner, namely, by grace through the precious blood of Christ. A replica of the sanctuary erected in the wilderness after God's own pattern was displayed during the lecture. This complete sanctuary will be displayed next Sunday also. Note the announcement elsewhere in this paper. —Contributed.

SANTA CLAUS TO VISIT KIDDIES IN CITY SATURDAY

Annual Call By Jolly Old St. Nick Will Be Big Event For All Tots

Children Are Asked To Meet Xmas Visitor

Soo Train Will Bring Him Here From North Pole At 2:00 O'Clock

In order that Santa can pay an advance visit to the little tots of Thief River Falls, as he promised a week ago, he will fly from the North Pole to the Canadian border where he will board a special train which will be waiting there to take him directly to Thief River Falls, arriving here at the Soo Line depot at 2 o'clock Saturday.

Harry W. Kinghorn will be engineer and J. O. Yotter will be the conductor of Santa's special train. The Legion auxiliary drum corps and the welcoming committee, along with the little tots there to greet him, will escort him to the Auditorium where he has hinted that he has a surprise waiting all boys and girls present.

Santa Claus has extended an invitation for all children in the Thief River Falls trade territory to be on hand when he arrives in the city. He says no one will be disappointed by the time he leaves for other points.

City employees began hanging Christmas lights across the uptown thoroughfares, which will be illuminated as soon as completed, and merchants have entered the festive holiday display to meet the demands of the most critical of Christmas shoppers.

The firemen have been busy repairing broken toys brought in by highschool children after a request was issued by Mrs. L. V. Johnson. Mrs. Johnson stated that dolls are to be repaired and dressed by the WPA sewing class and all of these toys are to be put in Christmas baskets.

Citizens State Banking Stock Changes Ownership

Local Depositors Assume Charge of Former Financial Institution Structure

The largest transfers of property in this city was consumated Monday night, we learn from Gilbert A. Brattland, special deputy examiner of the Citizens State Bank of Thief River Falls, when the Citizens Banking Block was deeded over to the Citizens Depositors, Incorporated, the newly formed corporation that was organized for the purpose.

This property consists of a two-story, steel and concrete building with full basement located on the corner of Third Street West and LaBree Avenue North and is one of the most prominent and valuable corners in town. It is a fire-proof building and is now fully tenanted, mostly by offices.

We are pleased to know that this valuable property remains in the ownership of local people.

The officers of the new corporation are: Rasmus Oen, president; S. K. Dahle, vice-president; Adolph Eklund, secretary-treasurer and these men together with C. E. Hellquist and Lewis Hermanson form the first board of directors. The corporation counsel is H. O. Chommie of this city. The officers state that stock will be issued as soon as possible.

Prize money for the Christmas home decoration contest, sponsored by the Civic & Commerce association and, which is open to every householder in Thief River Falls, is to be contributed by the Federal Savings and Loan Association and will total $25.00 which will be divided in to four prize awards, the first being $10.00, the second $7.50, the third $5.00 and fourth $2.50.

McCall of Crookston, a member of the Northwest School of Agriculture.

Put Through Program Pleads F.-L. Speaker

In spite of the wintry weather a crowd which comfortably filled the Sons of Norway hall Saturday night, heard Mrs. Marion LeSueur of Minneapolis analyze the recent election victory and call upon all loyal Farmer-Laborites to push forward and transform every plank in the platform into law. It is not enough to win elections and put men in office, she said; we must not fall into the error of all old-line parties and cease our efforts right after a victory. She suggested that the organization be perfected so that each candidate be directly responsible to his constituency. Any sign of wavering from the course laid down in the Farmer-Labor platform must be firmly thwarted, Mrs. LeSueur averred.

The press of the state came in for some sharp criticism, when it was pointed out that there was no large daily with progressive ideas, and that ninety per cent of the rural press was reactionary. With a monopoly of this source of public opinion in the hands of the reactionaries, Mrs. LeSueur claimed that the election victory was a repudiation of Hearst and his allies, who created a Kansas straw-man and influenced the entire reactionary press to support him and his counterparts in the various states.

Others who gave short talks included H. O. Berve, who acted as chairman of the rally; Paul A. Harris, state chairman of the Farmer-Labor Association; Tom Bjerke, president of the Pennington County Farmer-Labor Association; A. B. McLaughlin, field man for the Farmers Union Activities; and R. M. Aalbu, editor of the Fergus Falls Tribune.

The event was sponsored by the county F-L association as a victory gathering. A dance concluded the evening's program.

OREGON VICTIM OF ACCIDENT IS BURIED HERE

Remains of Mrs. Kenneth Shetler Is Laid To Rest In Sad Event

Suffers Severe Cut In Car Accident at Coquille, Ore., Nov. 22nd

Funeral services for the remains of Mrs. Kenneth Shetler were conducted Monday after the body was shipped here from Coquille, Oregon, where she passed away Tuesday last week. Mrs. Shetler was a former Thief River Falls girl, Miss Ruth Storhaug, being 23 years of age, the date of her birthday being Feb. 16, 1913.

Mr. and Mrs. Shetler, accompanied by a friend, A. I. Chandler, enroute from Langlois to Powers, Oregon, encountered fog on the highway, and drove off the road, turning the automobile over and wrecking it. Mr. Chandler received broken ribs and a punctured lung. Mrs. Shetler suffered a badly lacerated leg, and Mr. Shetler a fractured skull.

They were taken to the hospital at Coquille, Ore., and were recovering from injuries, when Mrs. Shetler developed complications from the cut on her leg and passed away Tuesday, Dec. 1st.

Ruth was born and raised in this city, and lived here until the day of her marriage, July 18, 1936, to Kenneth Shetler of this city, when the couple moved to Coquille, Oregon, where they made their home since. Ruth was a graduate of Lincoln High School in 1930.

She leaves to mourn her death her husband, Kenneth Shetler, of Coquille, Oregon, her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Gunvald Storhaug, three sisters, Gladys of Los Angeles, Cal., and Helen and Marlyce, at home in this city with their parents, and two brothers, Henry and Arthur, both at home.

Funeral services were held at the Erickson & Lund Funeral home Monday, at 2 p. m. Rev. R. M. Fjelstad officiated at the ceremonies. Interment was made at the Greenwood cemetery.

Lower Rural Credit Loan Rate Is Sought

The following is an article from Thursday's St. Paul Daily News:

Legislation reducing rural credit department interest charges to farmers from 5¼ per cent to 3 per cent will be sought of the next legislature by a lobby being formed and financed by farmers.

The group is being organized by Gilbert A. Brattland, Thief River Falls, former banker and rural credit field agent, who two years ago won approval for a measure containing many of his proposals. The bill was killed in the senate, where a new measure was substituted for it.

Informed of the plans of Mr. Brattland, Theodore H. Arens, rural credit conservator, declared he favors reduction of the interest rate on agricultural paper, but pointed out that if the state rural credit rate is lowered, there will have to be a direct appropriation, raised by tax levy, to cover the difference between the interest received by the department, and that it pays on its outstanding bonds, which can not be changed.

"I am in favor of agriculture receiving the same interest rate as other economic groups are receiving," Mr. Arens said. "I am not opposed to our rate being cut."

"There are two things to be considered however. One is that our bonds carry an average interest rate of about 4¼ per cent. We charge 5¼ per cent, plus 1 per cent applied on principal. The 1 per cent spread in the interest rate is to cover our operating costs.

From Another Source

"If the mortgage rate is less than the interest rate we must pay, plus our cost of operation, the difference will have to be made up from some other source, and the only one available is a tax levy.

"The other factor is that a drop in the interest rate would slow down our liquidation. At present the federal land bank has a somewhat lower rate, which is an incentive to farmers to borrow there,

KING EDWARD VIII ABDICATES THRONE

According to a radio message this morning (Thursday), King Edward VIII has abdicated the throne of England rather than to renounce his marriage to Mrs. Wallis Simpson, an American woman twice divorced. The king's consort fled to Cannes, France, Monday and it is expected Edward will join her there within a few days. It is seen that an election in England is inevitable to determine the exact course to be followed.

Organize Workers Forum Here Monday

A workers forum, to be held every other Monday night in the basement of the Union State bank, was organized Monday night with a full set of officers and committees. G. G. Denning, in charge of adult education, under the WPA, directed the organization and explained the rules of procedure, topics to be chosen for discussion, and elements of public speaking.

W. J. Douville was elected chairman, and E. E. Long, secretary of the meeting. A motion was made and carried that the secretaryship be permanent, but that a chairman and vice chairman be elected for each meeting, at the meeting preceding it. Constitutional and entertainment committees were appointed.

A resolution was proposed and adopted that the Workers Forum go on record favoring the transfer of this adult education work from the WPA setup to the State Dept. of Education. It was pointed out that by doing so the forum would be guaranteed more stability, with no curtailment of activities.

Mr. Denning gave a very interesting talk on "Propaganda", and used as an illustration the propaganda put out by the power trust. Millions of dollars have been spent by the power trust to discredit the idea of public ownership, he said, and in some states almost the entire press has sold out to the trust idea. The state of Georgia as an example had only four newspapers out of fifty that dared to come out for public ownership.

O. Jacobson's recitation of "The Man With the Hoe" by Edwin Markham, met with approval.

The topic for discussion at the meeting to be held Monday, Dec. 21, is "Misleading Advertising". Everyone interested was invited to come and share in the discussion.

PROWLERS DEFEAT CASS LAKE 37 TO 22

"B" Squad Defeats Plummer; Grand Forks Here On Friday; Ada On Dec. 18

The powerful Prowlers of Lincoln high school won their second contest of the current basketball season last Friday evening, when they massacred the invading Cass Lake Indians to the tune of 37 to 22. Coach George Lee's silk clad warriors exhibited a fine brand of basketball throughout the contest which bears out the fruits of the labors of extensive drill for the past month. The local cagers proved that they will be worthy opponents for all future foes.

Leonard Hellquist accumulated a mass total of twenty points to gain the coveted scoring honors for the evening.

The Prowlers will face a rangy Grand Forks Central high quintet on the latter's floor Friday evening. Grand Forks' present squad is reputedly equal to last year's team, which won overwhelmingly over the Prowlers.

Cass Lake captured an early lead on scores by Letendre and D. Gamache, but the Prowlers came back to make the score 9 to 4 in the locals favor at the quarter, with Hellquist, Lorentson and Nelson leading the way.

Wright's field goal was offset by field goal by Hellquist and Lee. Hellquist and Wright scored by successful free throws before the half ended, with the Prowlers leading 14 to 8.

A hectic third quarter saw Hellquist and Lorentson leading off with two field goals each but Letendre counted on a short shot. Hellquist again scored on a short shot from the corner which was duplicated by D. Gamache on the next play. The third quarter ended with the Leemen commanding a 24 to 14 advantage.

Nelson's and Lorentson's scores were followed by a sensational

FIRST REGULAR PUBLIC FORUM IS SET FOR FRIDAY

Several Speakers Are On Program For Initial Gathering

Youth Public Forum May Also Be Organized

All Interested Persons Invited To Attend Meetings At Any Time

The Thief River Falls Public forum will hold its first official meeting Friday evening at 8 o'clock in the Commerce rooms in the Auditorium. The meeting will be opened by community singing under the direction of Robert Lund. Following the singing the minutes will be read, election of officers for the evening will be held and new business brought up.

A reading will be given by Miss Shirley Paquin. Wm. Dahlquist will give a talk and G. G. Denning, head of the district adult education program, will give a talk and Chas. Egley, of the Farmers Union Livestock Exchange of St. Paul, who is a prominent lecturer and well-known in Northwestern Minnesota, will give a talk.

After the program arranged has been presented, the meeting is thrown open for discussion of any topic that may be decided upon within certain limitations. This is of the greatest value as everybody is given a chance to speak, at the same time learning from others.

If there is sufficient sentiment among local people for a youth's division of the forum, Mr. Denning has stated that he will organize such a group. He plans that this division will be both educational and recreational where young people out of school or college can assemble and convert some of their leisure time into something profitable.

Mr. Denning, who will be in charge, has had twenty-five years' experience in educational circles, having held responsible positions as instructor and superintendent in that time. He is well qualified to conduct such a youth forum, as during the past several years he has had charge of educational extension projects.

Young people and their parents who are interested should be at the meeting Friday evening and assist in getting the group started. No cost is involved whatever.

City Council Holds Long Session Tuesday

A protracted meeting of the City Council Tuesday night dealt with everything from fireworks to firecrackers. The fireworks began when a large delegation from the Workmen's Protective League, with W. J. Douville as spokesman, presented what Mr. Douville called a flagrant case of law violation, where a relief client was transported back to Red Lake county without due process of law. Chas. Evenson, city relief administrator, defended himself, after which Mr. Douville reiterated the points upon which the WPL demanded Mr. Evenson's resignation. After some discussion by the city dads, who seemed loath to make a decision, the matter was shelved.

In a free-for-all discussion of the case later in the evening, after the large WPL delegation had left, the councilmen absolved themselves of any guilt in the case. City Attorney Quale delivered the opinion that by persuading the relief client in question to return to Red Lake county in the way he did, the embarrassment of sheriff's action was avoided. However, the councilmen were unanimous in their resolution to use due process of law in such cases hereafter.

The application of Grossman's for a license to solicit dry cleaning in Thief River Falls for their establishment in Grand Forks was turned down. Some argument developed over the [illegible] interpretation of the ordinance covering this, but Mr. Quale threw enough doubt into [illegible] to make rejection unanimous.

A few routine tax matters and sewer applications were disposed of, after which a general discussion took place regarding city expansion. A resolution was adopted that the council go on record as inviting outlying districts to be-

PIONEER RESIDENT OF WARREN IS DEAD

August Lundgren, pioneer resident of Warren, died at the home of a daughter in Grand Forks Sunday. Mr. Lundgren was born in Sweden in 1856 and came to the United States in 1881. He lived in Minneapolis for two years and then moved to Warren where he had resided since. Survivors are three sons, five daughters and two sisters. Funeral services will be at Warren Wednesday.

ANNUAL COUNTY POULTRY SHOW NOW IN PROGRESS

19th Annual Exhibit Is Not On Par With Former Shows; Entries Lag In Numbers

Northwestern Minnesota's finest display of poultry flocks are now being shown at the City Auditorium in the 19th annual Pennington county poultry show, which will come to a close Friday night. Due to the fact that many of the finest specimens of poultry were disposed of in the Thanksgiving turkey pools conducted in this city, the displays are not as large as they might be. Awards will be announced today after the market classes of turkeys have been judged both alive and dressed.

Secretary Vernon Copp stated that there were an estimated 260 entries in the show, with White Rocks and White Wyandottes being the "kings of the show" in the chicken group. Judging started on Wednesday, and will be completed today (Thursday), with Professor M. C. Herner of the Manitoba Agriculture college in Winnipeg, acting as judge.

Up to Thursday morning the following awards in the 4-H classes had been made: Breeding chickens: 1, Elmer Ona, Silver Faced Wyandottes; 2, Dake Ayers, Single Comb Rhode Island Reds; 3, Melvin Ona, R. C. White Wyandottes; 4, Albert Ona, Jersey White Giants; 5, Lorraine Loeffler, Single Comb Rhode Island Reds. Market chickens: Dake Ayers won first prize with his Single Comb Rhode Island Reds. In the Market class Bronze turkeys, Leonard Yonke won first.

Employees Are Extended Time In Filing Report

Employees in Thief River Falls and other cities who failed to make their final social security act pension application with the local postoffice last Saturday have been extended time for such filing following a communication received Sunday from Washington, D. C.

The message reads:

With the registration of 26,000,000 workers for federal pension accounts falling short of its plans, the government decided Saturday to extend the deadline for applications until midnight Tuesday, Dec. 15.

The action climaxed a busy day in which the social security board divided attention between a last-hour rush by workers to return their forms and unemployment insurance activity in various states.

The original workers' deadline was midnight Saturday night. The board said so many inquiries had come in that an extension was necessary to allow time for proper preparation of the questionnaires [illegible]

[illegible] the taxpayers [illegible] workers are liable to [illegible] jail sentences if they fail to submit data required. Giving no hint of punitive action, the board expressed appreciation for the co-operation evident thruout the country on the part of employers and employees." The latter were reminded that application forms can be obtained from their employers or postoffices.

BODY OF LOCAL MAN IS FOUND EARLY MONDAY

Hjalmer Hostvet Found Daed by Early Town People at 8:00 a. m.

Death Victim Was Construction Foreman

Funeral Services Held At Zion Lutheran Church This Afternoon

At 8 o'clock Monday morning Hjalmer Hostvet, iron construction foreman at the Oen building, was found dead on the Soo Line tracks near the old saw mill site where he had collapsed as he was on his way home. The post mortem revealed that he had frozen to death. He had been dead for several hours when found.

Mr. Hostvet supervised the construction of the Ice Arena in our city and last summer built the Smiley bridge south-east of Thief River Falls. For twenty years he was connected with the Minneapolis Bridge company where he served as foreman for several years.

He was born March 3, 1894, in this city and at the age of 18 moved with his parents to a farm near Hazel. On August 3, 1922 he was married to Miss Frieda Ristau. Surviving him are his wife, Mrs. Frieda Hostvet, his one son Dale, and two daughters, Doris and Goldie, three brothers, Leslie of British Columbia, Canada, Ed of Anoka, and Alfred of Minneapolis, two sisters, Mrs. John Erickson of this city and Mrs. Goldie Sukke of Bransepeth, B. C., Canada. His parents and two sisters preceded him in death.

FIRE DEPT. ANSWERS FOUR FIRE CALLS

The fire department closed one of its busy weeks Monday by answering four calls, the first occurring when the department was summoned to put out a fire that had started in the clover straw which is to be ground and used for sheep roughage near the Soo railway tracks.

An old car belonging to Taxerass was partially destroyed on Conley avenue. The Roy Barzen home caught fire but no serious damage resulted. Another car was destroyed in the Taxerass garage, after catching fire Saturday.

Calling Of Legislature Is Still In Doubt

Late Decision May However Cause Executive To Call Lawmakers For Extra Term

Governor Hjalmer Peterson said Saturday he sees no reason for summoning the legislature this month.

Only if positive word should come from Washington that there can be no change in the social security act, and the state must lose its nearly $3,000,000 contribution in payroll taxes, would a special session be advisable, the Governor said.

He believes the new congress will agree to an amendment extending the time in which states can comply with the act.

T. E. Cunningham, president of the Minnesota Federation of Labor, suggested to Governor Petersen Friday that he should consider the advisability of calling a session because of the payroll taxes now coming due.

The purpose would be to enact an unemployment insurance act to meet federal requirements. As 32 states have not complied, the Governor believes a change in the law will be inevitable.

Editor's Note—A last minute report, however, indicates that some who are acting timid regarding the procedure of the affair may prevail upon the governor so he may call an extra session of the legislature Dec. 28th.

SANTA CLAUS TO VISIT KIDDIES IN CITY SATURDAY

Annual Call By Jolly Old St. Nick Will Be Big Event For All Tots

Children Are Asked To Meet Xmas Visitor

Soo Train Will Bring Him Here From North Pole At 2:00 O'Clock

In order that Santa can pay an advance visit to the little tots of Thief River Falls, as he promised a week ago, he will fly from the North Pole to the Canadian border where he will board a special train which will be waiting there to take him directly to Thief River Falls, arriving here at the Soo Line depot at 2 o'clock Saturday.

Harry W. Kinghorn will be engineer and J. O. Yotter will be the conductor of Santa's special train. The Legion auxiliary drum corps and the welcoming committee, along with the little tots there to greet him, will escort him to the Auditorium where he has hinted that he has a surprise waiting all boys and girls present.

Santa Claus has extended an invitation for all children in the Thief River Falls trade territory to be on hand when he arrives in the city. He says no one will be disappointed by the time he leaves for other points.

City employees began hanging Christmas lights across the uptown thoroughfares, which will be illuminated as soon as completed, and merchants have entered the festive holiday display to meet the demands of the most critical of Christmas shoppers.

The firemen have been busy repairing broken toys brought in by highschool children after a request was issued by Mrs. L. V. Johnson. Mrs. Johnson stated that dolls are to be repaired and dressed by the WPA sewing class and all of these toys are to be put in Christmas baskets.

INDEPENDENT GROCERY OBSERVES 7TH ANNIVERSARY

Observance of the seventh anniversary of the opening of their grocery business here is being made at the Independent Grocery this week by Andy Magnuson and his staff of assistants. The ever-expanding trade territory of Thief River Falls is reflected in the trade enjoyed by this grocery and the many other household markets in our city. Mr. Magnuson has a special announcement in this week's issue.

Citizens State Banking Stock Changes Ownership

Local Depositors Assume Charge of Former Financial Institution Structure

The largest transfers of property in this city was consumated Monday night, we learn from Gilbert A. Brattland, special deputy examiner of the Citizens State Bank of Thief River Falls, when the Citizens Banking Block was deeded over to the Citizens Depositors, Incorporated, the newly formed corporation that was organized for the purpose.

The purchase of this property was completed by the assignment of the prospective dividends to apply on such purchase and the depositors who assigned the prospective dividends on their deposits are now shareholders in the new corporation.

This property consists of a two-story, steel and concrete building with full basement located on the corner of Third Street West and LaBree Avenue North and is one of the most prominent and valuable corners in town. It is a fire-proof building and is now fully tenanted, mostly by offices.

We are pleased to know that this valuable property remains in the ownership of local people.

The officers of the new corporation are: Rasmus Oen, president; S. K. Dahle, vice-president; Adolph Eklund, secretary-treasurer and these men together with C. E. Hellquist and Lewis Hermanson form the first board of directors. The corporation counsel is H. O. Chommie of this city. The officers state that stock will be issued as soon as possible.

NYA Office Reports Aid To Local Projects

News from the office of Marvin Benson, local N. Y. A. official, states that three local youths employed by the National Youth Administration are assisting an employee engaged by the School Board, in the building of skating rinks at the Knox, Northrop, and Washington schools. The rink at the Knox school has been flooded once, but several additional floodings will be necessary before it is ready for use. These NYA youths will supervise and keep the rinks in condition during the winter.

Last Friday and Saturday the local NYA office handled the distribution throughout the business section, of Social Security posters.

At St. Hilaire three NYA youths of that village and a WPA employe are building a skating rink sponsored by the Womens' Club. The rink will be supervised and kept in condition by these youths.

CONTEST IN HOME DECORATIONS IS BEING PROMOTED

Four Prizes Will Be Awarded By Savings & Loan Association Through C. & C. Club

Prize money for the Christmas home decoration contest, sponsored by the Civic & Commerce association and, which is open to every householder in Thief River Falls, is to be contributed by the Federal Savings and Loan Association and will total $25.00 which will be divided in to four prize awards, the first being $10.00, the second $7.50, the third $5.00 and fourth $2.50.

President Carlisle of the Civic & Commerce association made the announcement that A. W. Mikkelson, Dr. A. M. Smith and Hal Ekeren would serve on the committee handling this year's arrangements.

Basis of the awards will rest upon the originality of the planning and the appropriateness of the decorations to the Christmas season. The judging is to take place sometime between December 19 and December 25 by out-of-town judges. The prize winners in the contest held a year ago were judged by T. M. McCall of Crookston, a member of the Northwest School of Agriculture.

Detailed information regarding the rules and regulations of the Christmas Home decoration contest will be found on page six in this paper.

Put Through Program Pleads F.-L. Speaker

In spite of the wintry weather a crowd which comfortably filled the Sons of Norway hall Saturday night, heard Mrs. Marion LeSueur of Minneapolis analyze the recent election victory and call upon all loyal Farmer-Laborites to push forward and transform every plank in the platform into law. It is not enough to win elections and put men in office, she said; we must not fall into the error of all old-line parties and cease our efforts right after a victory. She suggested that the organization be perfected so that each candidate be directly responsible to his constituency. Any sign of wavering from the course laid down in the Farmer-Labor platform must be firmly thwarted, Mrs. LeSueur averred.

The press of the state came in for some sharp criticism, when it was pointed out that there was no large daily with progressive ideas, and that ninety per cent of the rural press was reactionary. With a monopoly of this source of public opinion in the hands of the reactionaries, Mrs. LeSueur claimed that the election victory was a repudiation of Hearst and his allies, who created a Kansas straw-man and influenced the entire reactionary press to support him and his counterparts in the various states.

Others who gave short talks included H. O. Berve, who acted as chairman of the rally; Paul A. Harris, state chairman of the Farmer-Labor Association; Tom Bjerke, president of the Pennington County Farmer-Labor Association; A. B. McLaughlin, field man for the Farmers Union Activities; and R. M. Aalbu, editor of the Fergus Falls Tribune.

The event was sponsored by the county F-L association as a victory gathering. A dance concluded the evening's program.

OREGON VICTIM OF ACCIDENT IS BURIED HERE

Suffers Severe Cut In Car Accident at Coquille, Ore., Nov. 22nd

Funeral services for the remains of Mrs. Kenneth Shetler were conducted Monday after the body was shipped here from Coquille, Oregon, where she passed away Tuesday last week. Mrs. Shetler was a former Thief River Falls girl, Miss Ruth Storhaug, being 23 years of age, the date of her birthday being Feb. 15, 1913.

Mr. and Mrs. Shetler, accompanied by a friend, A. I. Chandler, enroute from Langlois to Powers, Oregon, encountered fog on the highway, and drove off the road, turning the automobile over and wrecking it. Mr. Chandler received broken ribs and a punctured lung. Mrs. Shetler suffered a badly lacerated leg, and Mr. Shetler a fractured skull.

They were taken to the hospital at Coquille, Ore., and were recovering from injuries, when Mrs. Shetler developed complications from the cut on her leg and passed away Tuesday, Dec. 1st.

Ruth was born and raised in this city, and lived here until the day of her marriage, July 18, 1936, to Kenneth Shetler of this city, when the couple moved to Coquille, Oregon, where they made their home since. Ruth was a graduate of Lincoln High School in 1930.

She leaves to mourn her death her husband, Kenneth Shetler, of Coquille, Oregon, her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Gunvald Storhaug, three sisters, Gladys of Los Angeles, Cal., and Helen and Marlyce, at home in this city with their parents, and two brothers, Henry and Arthur, both at home.

Funeral services were held at the Erickson & Lund Funeral home Monday, at 2 p. m. Rev. R. M. Fjelstad officiated at the ceremonies. Interment was made at the Greenwood cemetery.

Lower Rural Credit Loan Rate Is Sought

The following is an article from Thursday's St. Paul Daily News:

Legislation reducing rural credit department interest charges to farmers from 5¼ per cent to 3 per cent will be sought of the next legislature by a lobby being formed and financed by farmers.

The group is being organized by Gilbert A. Brattland, Thief River Falls, former banker and rural credit field agent, who two years ago won approval for a measure containing many of his proposals. The bill was killed in the senate, where a new measure was substituted for it.

Informed of the plans of Mr. Brattland, Theodore H. Arens, rural credit conservator, declared he favors reduction of the interest rate on agricultural paper, but pointed out that if the state rural credit rate is lowered, there will have to be a direct appropriation, raised by tax levy, to cover the difference between the interest received by the department, and that it pays on its outstanding bonds, which can not be changed.

"I am in favor of agriculture receiving the same interest rate as other economic groups are receiving," Mr. Arens said. "I am not opposed to our rate being cut."

There are two things to be considered however. One is that our bonds carry an average interest rate of about 4¼ per cent. We charge 5¼ per cent, plus 1 per cent applied on principal. The 1 per cent spread in the interest rate is to cover our operating costs.

From Another Source

"If the mortgage rate is less than the interest rate we must pay, plus our cost of operation, the difference will have to be made up from some other source, and the only one available is a tax levy.

"The other factor is that a drop in the interest rate would slow down our liquidation. At present the federal land bank has a somewhat lower rate, which is an incentive to farmers to borrow there,

KING EDWARD VIII ABDICATES THRONE

According to a radio message this morning (Thursday), King Edward VIII has abdicated the throne of England rather than to renounce his marriage to Mrs. Wallis Simpson, an American woman twice divorced. The king's consort fled to Cannes, France, Monday and it is expected Edward will join her there within a few days. It is seen that an election in England is inevitable to determine the exact course to be followed.

Organize Workers Forum Here Monday

A workers forum, to be held every other Monday night in the basement of the Union State bank, was organized Monday night with a full set of officers and committees. G. G. Denning, in charge of adult education, under the WPA, directed the organization and explained the rules of procedure, topics to be chosen for discussion, and elements of public speaking.

W. J. Douville was elected chairman, and E. E. Long, secretary of the meeting. A motion was made and carried that the secretaryship be permanent, but that a chairman and vice chairman be elected for each meeting, at the meeting preceding it. Constitutional and entertainment committees were appointed.

A resolution was proposed and adopted that the Workers Forum go on record favoring the transfer of this adult education work from the WPA setup to the State Dept. of Education. It was pointed out that by doing so the forum would be guaranteed more stability, with no curtailment of activities.

Mr. Denning gave a very interesting talk on "Propaganda", and used as an illustration the propaganda put out by the power trust. Millions of dollars have been spent by the power trust to discredit the idea of public ownership, he said, and in some states almost the entire press has sold out to the trust idea. The state of Georgia as an example had only four newspapers out of fifty that dared to come out for public ownership.

O. Jacobson's recitation of "The Man With the Hoe" by Edwin Markham, met with approval.

The topic for discussion at the meeting to be held Monday, Dec. 21, is "Misleading Advertising". Everyone interested was invited to come and share in the discussion.

PROWLERS DEFEAT CASS LAKE 37 TO 22

"B" Squad Defeats Plummer; Grand Forks Here On Friday; Ada On Dec. 18

The powerful Prowlers of Lincoln high school won their second contest of the current basketball season last Friday evening, when they massacred the invading Cass Lake Indians to the tune of 37 to 22. Coach George Lee's silk clad warriors exhibited a fine brand of basketball throughout the contest which bears out the fruits of the labors of extensive drill for the past month. The local cagers proved that they will be worthy opponents for all future foes.

Leonard Hellquist accumulated a mass total of twenty points to gain the coveted scoring honors for the evening.

The Prowlers will face a rangy Grand Forks Central high quintet on the latter's floor Friday evening. Grand Forks' present squad is reputedly equal to last year's team, which won overwhelmingly over the Prowlers.

Cass Lake captured an early lead on scores by Letendre and D. Gamache, but the Prowlers came back to make the score 9 to 4 in the locals favor at the quarter, with Hellquist, Lorentson and Nelson leading the way.

Wright's field goal was offset by field goal by Hellquist and Lee. Hellquist and Wright scored by successful free throws before the half ended, with the Prowlers leading 14 to 8.

A hectic third quarter saw Hellquist and Lorentson leading off with two field goals each, but Letendre counted on a short shot. Hellquist again scored on a short shot from the corner which was duplicated by D. Gamache on the next play. The third quarter ended with the Leemen commanding a 24 to 14 advantage.

Nelson's and Lorentson's scores were followed by a sensational

FIRST REGULAR PUBLIC FORUM IS SET FOR FRIDAY

Several Speakers Are On Program For Initial Gathering

Youth Public Forum May Also Be Organized

All Interested Persons Invited To Attend Meetings At Any Time

The Thief River Falls Public forum will hold its first official meeting Friday evening at 8 o'clock in the Commerce rooms in the Auditorium. The meeting will be opened by community singing under the direction of Robert Lund. Following the singing the minutes will be read, election of officers for the evening will be held and new business brought up.

A reading will be given by Miss Shirley Paquin. Wm. Dahlquist will give a talk and G. G. Denning, head of the district adult education program, will give a talk and Chas. Egley, of the Farmers Union Livestock Exchange of St. Paul, who is a prominent lecturer and well-known in Northwestern Minnesota, will give a talk.

After the program arranged has been presented, the meeting is thrown open for discussion of any topic that may be decided upon within certain limitations. This is of the greatest value as everybody is given a chance to speak, at the same time learning from others.

If there is sufficient sentiment among local people for a youth's division of the forum, Mr. Denning has stated that he will organize such a group. He plans that this division will be both educational and recreational where young people out of school or college can assemble and convert some of their leisure time into something profitable.

Mr. Denning, who will be in charge, has had twenty-five years' experience in educational circles, having held responsible positions as instructor and superintendent in that time. He is well qualified to conduct such a youth forum, as during the past several years he has had charge of educational extension projects.

Young people and their parents who are interested should be at the meeting Friday evening and assist in getting the group started. No cost is involved whatever.

City Council Holds Long Session Tuesday

A protracted meeting of the City Council Tuesday night dealt with everything from fireworks to firecrackers. The fireworks began when a large delegation from the Workmen's Protective League, with W. J. Douville as spokesman, presented what Mr. Douville called a flagrant case of law violation, where a relief client was transported back to Red Lake county without due process of law. Chas. Evenson, city relief administrator, defended himself, after which Mr. Douville reiterated the points upon which the WPL demanded Mr. Evenson's resignation. After some discussion by the city dads, who seemed loath to make a decision, the matter was shelved.

In a free-for-all discussion of the case later in the evening, after the large WPL delegation had left, the councilmen absolved themselves of any guilt in the case. City Attorney Quale delivered the opinion that by persuading the relief client in question to return to Red Lake county in the way he did, the embarrassment of sheriff's action was avoided. However, the councilmen were unanimous in their resolution to use due process of law in such cases hereafter.

The application of Grossman's for a license to solicit dry cleaning in Thief River Falls for their establishment in Grand Forks was turned down. Some argument developed over the proper interpretation of the ordinance covering this; but Mr. Quale threw enough doubt into discussion to make rejection unanimous.

A few routine tax matters and sewer applications were disposed of, after which a general discussion took place regarding city expansion. A resolution was adopted that the council go on record as inviting outlying districts to be-

Highway Man Is Killed Near Angus Thursday

Dan Wm. Faust of Minneapolis was killed and three other occupants of the car were cut and bruised early Tuesday when the car in which they were motoring suddenly swerved from the slippery road and crashed into a culvert half a mile north of Angus.

Faust was a WPA worker engaged by the state highway department. Men riding with him were his helpers. Faust is survived by his wife and three children. A brother-in-law, Harvey Hillary of Minneapolis, arrived to return the body to Minneapolis for burial.

PIONEER RESIDENT OF WARREN IS DEAD

August Lundgren, pioneer resident of Warren, died at the home of a daughter in Grand Forks Sunday. Mr. Lundgren was born in Sweden in 1856 and came to the United States in 1881. He lived in Minneapolis for two years and then moved to Warren where he had resided since. Survivors are three sons, five daughters and two sisters. Funeral services will be at Warren Wednesday.

ANNUAL COUNTY POULTRY SHOW NOW IN PROGRESS

Northwestern Minnesota's finest display of poultry flocks are now being shown at the City Auditorium in the 19th annual Pennington county poultry show, which will come to a close Friday night. Due to the fact that many of the finest specimens of poultry were disposed of in the Thanksgiving turkey pools conducted in this city, the displays are not as large as they might be. Awards will be announced today after the market classes of turkeys have been judged both alive and dressed.

Secretary Vernon Copp stated that there were an estimated 260 entries in the show, with White Rocks and White Wyandottes being the "kings of the show" in the chicken group. Judging started on Wednesday, and will be completed today (Thursday), with Professor M. C. Herner of the Manitoba Agriculture college in Winnipeg, acting as judge.

Up to Thursday morning the following awards in the 4-H classes had been made: Breeding chickens: 1, Elmer Ona, Silver Faced Wyandottes; 2, Dake Ayers, Single Comb Rhode Island Reds; 3, Melvin Ona, R. C. White Wyandottes; 4, Albert Ona, Jersey White Giants; 5, Lorraine Loeffler, Single Comb Rhode Island Reds. Market chickens: Dake Ayers won first prize with his Single Comb Rhode Island Reds. In the Market class Bronze turkeys, Leonard Yonke won first.

Employees Are Extended Time In Filing Report

Employees in Thief River Falls and other cities who failed to make their final social security act pension application with the local postoffice last Saturday have been extended time for such filing following a communication received Sunday from Washington, D. C.

The message reads:

With the registration of 26,000,000 workers for federal pension accounts falling short of its plans, the government decided Saturday to extend the deadline for applications until midnight Tuesday, Dec. 15.

The action climaxed a busy day in which the social security board divided attention between a last-hour rush by workers to return their forms and unemployment insurance activity in various states.

The original workers' deadline was midnight Saturday night. The board said so many inquiries had come in that an extension was necessary to allow time for proper preparation of the questionnaires affected.

Under the law both the taxpaying employers and workers are liable to fines and jail sentences if they fail to submit data required. Giving no hint of punitive action, the board expressed appreciation for "the co-operation evident thruout the country on the part of employers and employees." The latter were reminded that application forms can be obtained from their employers or postoffices.

BODY OF LOCAL MAN IS FOUND EARLY MONDAY

Hjalmer Hostvet Found Daed by Early Town People at 8:00 a. m.

Funeral Services Held At Zion Lutheran Church This Afternoon

At 8 o'clock Monday morning Hjalmer Hostvet, iron construction foreman at the Oen building, was found dead on the Soo Line tracks near the old saw mill site where he had collapsed as he was on his way home. The post mortem revealed that he had frozen to death. He had been dead for several hours when found.

Mr. Hostvet supervised the construction of the Ice Arena in our city and last summer built the Smiley bridge south-east of Thief River Falls. For twenty years he was connected with the Minneapolis Bridge company where he served as foreman for several years.

He was born March 3, 1894, in this city and at the age of 18 moved with his parents to a farm near Hazel. On August 3, 1922 he was married to Miss Frieda Ristau. Surviving him are his wife, Mrs. Frieda Hostvet, his one son Dale, and two daughters, Doris and Goldie, three brothers, Leslie of British Columbia, Canada, Ed of Anoka, and Alfred of Minneapolis, two sisters, Mrs. John Erickson of this city and Mrs. Goldie Sukke of Bransepeth, B. C., Canada. His parents and two sisters preceded him in death.

Funeral services were held on Thursday, today, at 2 o'clock at the Zion Lutheran church, with Rev. E. L. Tungseth officiating. Interment was at the Greenwood cemetery.

FIRE DEPT. ANSWERS FOUR FIRE CALLS

The fire department closed one of its busy weeks Monday by answering four calls, the first occurring when the department was summoned to put out a fire that had started in the clover straw which is to be ground and used for sheep roughage near the Soo railway tracks.

An old car belonging to Taxeraas was partially destroyed on Conley avenue. The Roy Barzen home caught fire but no serious damage resulted. Another car was destroyed in the Taxeraas garage, after catching fire Saturday.

Calling Of Legislature Is Still In Doubt

Late Decision May However Cause Executive To Call Lawmakers For Extra Term

Governor Hjalmer Peterson said Saturday he sees no reason for summoning the legislature this month.

Only if positive word should come from Washington that there can be no change in the social security act, and the state must lose its nearly $3,000,000 contribution in payroll taxes, would a special session be advisable, the Governor said.

He believes the new congress will agree to an amendment extending the time in which states can comply with the act.

T. E. Cunningham, president of the Minnesota Federation of Labor, suggested to Governor Petersen Friday that he should consider the advisability of calling a session because of the payroll taxes now coming due.

The purpose would be to enact an unemployment insurance act to meet federal requirements. As 32 states have not complied, the Governor believes a change in the law will be inevitable.

Editor's Note—A last minute report, however, indicates that some who are acting timid regarding the procedure of the affair may prevail upon the governor so he may call an extra session of the legislature Dec. 28th.

IN BEHALF OF LIBERALISM

While this paper is taking no part in the issue between the state Farmer Labor association committee and the governor in naming appointees to vacancies in state jobs, we do support the governor in not seeking the endorsement of the Hennepin County bar association judiciary committee in naming a judge in Hennepin county. Josiah E. Brill, the chairman of the Hennepin County bar association's judiciary committee, complains that the governor broke faith with the group in not consulting the committee in naming Vince A. Day to succeed the late district judge, H. D. Dickenson.

If the governor has to consult such persons as Josiah E. Brill in making appointments we are certain there will be a lot of complaint from the rank and file progressives in the state. Attorney Brill, like most lawyers, is a recationary of the worst kind. Through his various utterances from time to time Atty. Brill has shown he is as conservative as Justice Pierce Butler and other members of the supreme court who have ruled against progressive legislation every time. The general rank and file of attorneys are reactionary much the same as editors. If we are going to abide by their opinions we will be unable to progress at all. Lawyers and judges generally oppose progress because in all their work they refer to precedents or decide cases by the same decisions that they allow to prevail for generations, yes even centuries. Our forward progress would consequently be very slow if any forward step be made at all.

For that reason we say that Governor Petersen need not bother with the reactionary judiciary committees in making judicial appointments, though he possibly could have extended them the courtesy of giving them a hearing. But the governor has had a lot of appointments to fill so probably he couldn't extend the time toward uselesseness.

THOUGHTS OF THE HOLIDAY SEASON

The Holiday season is approaching rapidly. Soon, very soon it seems, our stores will become veritable beehives of activity. It is then that the job of the clerk or salesman in the average retail store is not to be envied. It is rush, rush, rush from morning till night. Is it any wonder that sometimes patience gives way when irritated nerves are extended beyond the limit?

We urge the public, therefore, to do your Christmas shopping now, as early as possible. You cannot get the service and you cannot possibly have the range for selection if you wait until the last minute. Start your Christmas shopping right now, and start here in Thief River Falls. We have had an opportunity to note the stocks in local stores, and we assert without fear of contradiction that you cannot do better anywhere else in this section of the state.

Community Christmas decoration is another subject to which we like to direct public attention. A few years ago the writer visited a small city at Christmas season where the majority of home owners gave some thought to decorations outside the house. Those with evergreen trees in their yards lighted them. Others placed lighted wreathes and other decorative pieces in their windows or at their doors.

The effect created was highly pleasing. It was much as though the entire community were saying: "Welcome visitor, Merry Christmas."

Maybe there was no real dollar value in these decorations. But we certainly left that community with a pleasant recollection, and such impressions are always worth much though their value cannot easily be measured.

A POLICY WE APPROVE

The unprecedented demonstration accorded to President Roosevelt on his visit to South America should bring a glow of pleasure and satisfaction to every American citizen regardless of political faith.

For all the cheering, all the honors extended with due formality, all the fine speeches and extravagant expressions of homage and good will were not for a man alone but for the nation which he represents. The people of South America were thus expressing their good will toward citizens of the United States. This attitude is significant in a time when the nations of Europe are tottering on the brink of a general war, where new armaments are being assembled behind each border, where dangerous threats are being issued from official sources.

In adopting the policy of cementing good will between North and South America, and all the nations of this continent, President Roosevelt has chosen a course which meets with general approval. We have all come to see that there is little we can accomplish by meddling in the muddled affairs of Europe. But we have also begun to realize that the nations of North and South America should stand together, determined to resist collectively any aggression from Europe or Asia and equally determined to maintain a spirit of good will and mutual understanding.

By promoting this policy we will be doing our part to bring to realization that dream of all humanitarians and idealists—a world at peace without the fear of future war.

Organized Labor has come out much in favor of a 30-hour week. There's a lot of merit to this as long as we have people on relief and they cannot find work. A 30-hour week will give all work.

THEY'RE BLAMING ONE-ANOTHER

According to Ray Tucker in his daily Whirligig writeup from Washington a topnotch Republican contributor and collector of funds—Silas H. Strawn of Chicago—attributes the G. O. P.'s disastrous presidential defeat to the ineptitude of "political amateurs" who handled the 1936 campaign. His confidential memo to friends at Washington marks the first demand for restoration of control to experienced hands.

Mr. Strawn spares nobody—neither Alf Landon nor Chairman John Hamilton—in his post-election comment. If there was any blunder which the "Kansas gang" failed to commit, he can't think of it. His indictment, however, is chiefly significant because it represents the viewpoint of almost every worth while eastern and middle western Republican. Though downhearted over the extent of the Roosevelt sweep, they demand that the party maintain its appeal to conservatives rather than to liberals.

Behind-the-scenes dickerings reveal that two-thirds of the membership of the Republican national committee agree with Mr. Strawn. But they are loath to provoke a showdown at the January meeting. The Landon-Hamilton forces will probably continue in control. But only because the other side figures that it's too early to swing into action. They have more than three years to perfect their plans, and they think that time fights on their side. Mr. Hamilton has offered to resign.

According to the Forum editor's conception of the affair, the GOP is so far in disfavor in its platform that to revise it to conform to public opinion there will be such a radical change the Republican politicians and old stand-bys will rather give up the ghost than to sponsor it.

WHAT'S BREWING IN WASHINGTON

Developments in Washington are speeding up now that the re-election of the President has set the nation's course for the period just ahead.

As those developments interest farmers they include:

1. Victory for Henry Wallace over Dr. Rex Tugwell in long backstage maneuvers for control of farm policies. Dr. Tugwell has resigned and is leaving January 1. Essentially this means that farm problems will be dealt with from the practical standpoint of using government power to get for agriculture a bigger slice of the national income, and not from the standpoint of devoting government power to forcing social reform in agriculture.

2. A shift away from the plan to turn administration of the soil conservation act over to the 48 individual states on January 1, 1938 now that study is revealing the difficulties that would accompany state administration. Officials would like pressure for continued Federal operation to come from farmers.

3. A new study of methods for dealing with the problem of farm tenancy with a view to definite action in the coming session of Congress. Mr. Roosevelt has asked a special committee of interested individuals to report to him by February 1. This committee is headed by Secretary Wallace and is weighted against the Tugwell group that regards the tenancy problem as one confined to the share croppers of the South.

4. Adoption of a realistic attitude toward the Constitution and the Supreme Court. If pressure arises from agriculture and from labor for a constitutional amendment to permit Federal control over farm production and Federal establishment of minimum wages and maximum hours in industry, the President will move for such an amendment. But if the same result can be achieved by changed court interpretations then that move may not be made.—The Farmer.

GOVERNMENT OWNERSHIP TREND CITED

Government ownership of the railroads has become a major economic issue in the United States although the question was not discussed by either presidential candidate in the last campaign. Harry A. Wheeler, chairman of the Transportation Conference, said in a statement released recently.

Without a general relization of what has occurred the question of government ownership, he said, has become one of the immediate problems of the day. He cited four developments to show how far the trend toward government ownership has gone.

Wheeler listed the bills introduced at the last session of congress providing for government ownership; policy and attitude of Joseph P. Eastman during his term as coordinator of transportation; the strong support which government ownership has gained in the ranks of union labor and the equally powerful political pressure for the so-called work bills such as the measure proposing the 30-hour week. The work bills, Wheeler said, provide the greatest immediate reaction against private ownership.

"Passage of any of these bills with the present standard rates of pay and with the added cost imposed by pension and social security legislation when finally determined, would make railroad securities unattractive to private investons, and would discourage further capital contributions."

If the railroads are stripped of their ability to raise new capital, he said, they will be unable to furnish efficient modern transportation.

The only alternative left to the carriers, he said, might well be the surrender of their properties to the government.

We who favor government ownership of railroads look upon this statement as being of vital importance. At least, we hope it is true and not merely a scare It has been known for some time that the guiding hands of the American railroads have been the bondholders who wanted profit solely. We hope that service may be a determining factor, profits of bondholders rather be devoted to a better kind of equipment and consequently a better service to the public.

Big corporations, such as the railroads, when they make their payment of taxes to the various counties are careful in making it certain that it be known how much of this goes toward maintaining schools, sanitoriums, etc. Really they don't contribute any larger proportion than the ordinary taxpayer, the only difference being that the big corporations pay a proportionately larger amount.

The Capitol News Review

By A. I. HARRIS

The unemployment insurance plan announced by Governor-elect Elmer A. Benson should meet with the approval of all liberals. The principal feature of the proposed act is that only employers will contribute to the unemployment reserve fund. The Governor-elect argues that this is the only form of unemployment insurance which will do justice to the workers. He contends—and rightly—that industry should bear the brunt of its own shortcomings, of which unemployment is one. There is no reason why the worker should be penalized for the faults of industry. Depressions are not created by the workers, but are due rather to inherent faults of our economic order....

Governor-elect Benson also repoints out that to compel the worker to contribute to unemployment reserve funds is in effect to lower his standard of living. This standard is already too low and it should be raised rather than lowered.....

Governor-eltct Benson also recommends the pooled fund type of unemployment insurance as against the reserve account type, both of which are occeptable to the federal Social Security Board. The pooled fund type is more advantageous to the worker, because it will make certain that all workers get the full benefit of the law and not merely those in enterprises where employment is more or less stabilized.....

The coming Legislature is regorded as certain to pass an unemployment insurance bill. The reactionaries in the last Legislature defeated an unemployment insurance act, but the demand for this legislation is now so great that it cannot be resisted. The last election has brought home to all politicians the message that the people demand legislation of this kind.....

Governor-elect Benson also stated that he will ask the Legislature to set up an adequate and coordinated public welfare syetem for Minnesota. This has been needed for quite some time. The agencies set up for temporary purposes are now used to take care of permanent needs, and there is no question but that there is great waste due to duplication of efforts and inefficiency becaust of inadequate machinery.....

The Governor-elect is of the opinion that the first definite need is to set up county boards of public welfare responsible for the local administration, under state supervision, of relief, old age assistance, aid to dependent children, aid to the blind, and other supervisory services. At present there are welfare boards only in Hennepin, Ramsey, St. Louis, and Itasca counties.

The appointment of Attorney General Harry H. Peterson to the Minnesota State Supreme Court to fill the vacancy created by the resignation of Justice I. M. Olsen is meeting with general approvol. The presence of another liberal on the Minnesota bench is a very wholesome thing.....

Mr. Peterson brings to the bench an unusual knowledge of the law together with a fine social point of view. He believes that the Constitution is an instrument made to serve and not to enslave the people, and that it is sufficiently flexible to meet the people's needs.

It will be recalled that while the National Administration was discovering that its program of relief, and rehabilitation was being declared unconstitutional, Minnesota's laws, formulated by the attorney general, were upheld. One of the most famous of these laws was the Minnesota Mortgage Moratorium law which Mr. Peterson drew up and successfully defended before the highest court.....

The progressive policies which Mr. Peterson initiated as Attorney General undoubtedly will be continued by William Ervin, who was appointed by Governor Hjalmer Petersen to succeed him. Attorney General Ervin is an experienced lawyer of high attainment and, like his predecessor, a thoroughgoing liberal.

The Hennepin County Farmer-Labor Central Committee and the Minneapolis Central Labor Union demand an investigation by the House into the affairs of the Minneapolis Law and Order League. This investigation should be held.

There is no place in the American scheme of things for self-constituted extra-legal organizations such as the Minnesota Law and Order League. Under our form of government, enforcement of law is placed in the hands of our courts and our peace officers; the only authority over them is that exerted by the entire body of American citizenship. Minnesota citizens have not delegated the Minnesota Law and order League to act as their special watchmen.....

While good intentioned people often join organizations of this kind because they profess a respect for law and order, they, in fact, are sowing the seeds of the very antithesis of law and order. Almost invariably they become the dupes of scoundrels who use these organizations for their own selfish purposes.....

It is quite well known that some of the moving spirits of the Minneapolis Citizens Alliance, one of the most notorious labor-baiting organizations in America, took a very active part in organizing the Minnesota Law and Order League. These professional labor-haters unquestionably had a purpose which they thought could be served thru such an organization.....

The Minnesota House in the next Legislature could well conduct a fruitful investigation of the League and dramatize the dangers involvel in such organizations. Black Legions, Silver Shirts, Ku Klux Klans, and organizations of this kind are all out-growths of a comcon parentage, the Vigilantes. They are all threats to American liberty guaranteed under our Constitution.

The recently announced German-Japanese pact against Communism is a clear indication of the growing menace to the world of fascism. The pact is nothing more nor less than a military alliance and an agreement on the part of Germany and Japan to wage a war of aggression against Russia.....

The entire foundation of all despotic governments is the exploitation and oppression of its own workers and farmers at home and ruthless attack upon foreign democratic countries. Fascist dictatorships, with their emphasis upon extreme nationalism and antagonistic racial theories, must in the end have their outlet in war. The sooner the world discovers this the better for its own safety.....

It is time that liberals in America give serious attention to the growth and dangers of fascism at home. The Farmer-Labor movement of Minnesota is alive to that danger. We cannot wait until our Reverend Gerald K. Smiths and other fascists of this country organize a fascist government and military groups and attempt, as they did in Italy and Germany, to supplant law and order by force and violence. These movements must be nipped in the bud at the first indication of militaristic tendencies.

The day is not far distant when there will be no village taxes in Baudette, Minn., according to Mayor Dodds and other members of the Village Council. Profits from the municipal liquor store and electric light plant will more than meet all expenses of conducting the vallige business, it is expected. During the 19 months from April 1, 1935 to November 1, 1936, the Municipal Liquor Store made a net profit of $9,573. Five thousand dollars of this amount was turned over to the village in cash to meet various expenses.

At a recent meeting of the state committee of the Farmer Labor Association at the Hotel Lowry, plans were developed for the coming state convention of the association to be held at the St. Paul Auditorium, January 29. The Convention will be devoted largely to discussion of liberal legislation to come before the next Legislature, according to I. C. Strout, secretary of the Association.

THE NEW AGRICULTURAL BILL

There is one good thing, at least, about the ailment with which agriculture is afflicted. . . almost everybody knows how it may be cured. From the New Yorker, who on the average couldn't tell a yak from a Shorthorn cow, to the baked bean salesman from Boston who believes Poland China is a brand of crockery, there are few who do not harbor the emphatic conviction that they understand every detail of the problem and know just how it may be solved—few, that is, except the farmers themselves and the agricultural experts.

That opinion, so accurate and widespread, will be certain to transplate itself into action very soon, can of course, be taken for granted. Sensitive to popular wish, there will be many, among the congressmen who are getting ready to return to Washington for the coming session of the Legislature, who will be packing, with the extra socks and toothbrush, a rough outline of an agricultural bill, looking to a permanent farm program.

Just what form an agricultural Act, if passed, will ultimately take, is less uncertain than one might suppose. For one thing, it will be almost sure to retain the esential features of the present Soil Erosion Law. For another, it is probable it will contain at least limited crop insurance provisions, based on the principle of payment of assessments and losses in kind.

And, finally, it is not impossible that in the verbiage, there will be recognizable, here and there, dim ghosts of the late-lamented AAA.

But one thing is certain: it will not contain so much as a whispered hint of a coercive feature. Participation will be entirely voluntary. And it will be stressed that it is voluntary. Little cause will be left the rugged individualists for yelling "Regimentation!"

The charge of regimentation was heard frequently during the recent campaign. But, strangely, it came but rarely from the farmers themselves. Propagandists and politicians—and certain sections of the business element—were almost the sole complainants.

That those with a political axe to grind should raise the cry was of course understandable. But reasons, other than blind political partisanship, why business men should object, are a good deal more obscure. Certainly, both the AAA and the Soil Erosion Act were wholly in their favor; for these brought in cash where otherwise there would have been none; they helped build up and stabilize trade where it was utterly demoralized.

. . . Which is merely another way of saying that it wasn't so much to be wondered at that the wolf gobbled up Little Red Riding Hood; but that we might have expressed a little skepticism had the fable related that it was grandma herself who made a mulligan stew of the little girl.

Had either the AAA or the Soil Erosion Act been tagged with a non-political label, it is your commentator's guess that at least the business men in the small towns in the agricultural areas would have approved, wholeheartedly, of the measure. For, certainly, one credits them with the intelligence to realize that to them it was of unquestioned advantage.

But, oddly, it was from these very small town business men that one heard the most bitter criticisms.

They seemed quite ready to cut off their nose to spite their face—which shows, my countrymen, to what lengths political prejudice can go!

When the new Act, which can hardly avoid carrying the Democratic label, is passed, it will be interesting to watch the reaction of those of a different political faith who, nevertheless, stand to benefit decisively by its enactment. If it encounters the same antagonism as did its predecessors, merely because it originated with the wrong group, then one may well believe that political partisanship sometimes carries the unreasoning to the point of stupidity.

But whether it pleases Administration enemies or not, an Act contemplating a permanent farm program is likely to be passed. And it will be drawn along the lines desired by the Administration. . .

. . . Which, however, is not to be wondered at since the Democrats are so much in the majority and so numerous that if they were laid end to end—!

Well, if they were laid end to end, it would please the Republicans!

VIEWS AND REVIEWS

By R. C. HAGGLUND

Fashion Note

Billy Noonan says that judging from the latest fashions, girls are staging a "back to the form" movement.

Uses of the Press

The press is very useful. For instance, we see by the papers that Christmas is soon here again and that we should do our Christmas shopping early.

Then we learn that the Associated Press is making another offensive against Madrid, but personally we don't think the press will take the city before New Year's.

The press is also very useful in covering up crises. By devoting a great deal of space to Wallie Simpson, the Spanish, German, Japanese, Italian, and—aye—the British crises are camouflaged so that one would think that the most important question is, To marry or not to marry.

The press is not very good at political prognostications, but it soon finds other things which it can do as well.

Ham Fish Wants to Liberalize

Hamilton Fish of New York wants to liberalize the Republican party. As the first move he wants John D. M. Hamilton to resign. Hamilton, you remember, was the boy who put the GOP in the hole.

Besides being one of the original discoverers of red herring, Ham Fish has been one of the stoutest advocates of liberalizing America by deporting all those who do not think as he does. If this is his idea of liberalizing the Republican party, we would be in favor of it. When Fish was all done deporting, someone could deport Fish, and all would be quiet on the western front.

But I have another idea about Fishe's liberalism. I think by that term he means the boys should dig down into their pockets and make up John D. M.'s deficit.

Masses and Leaders

As Mrs. LeSueur says, in these days if the leaders of a movement start backing up, their followers are likely to run over them. What we need most of all right now is intelligent leadership and courageous following. The bankruptcy of old ideas has made a nation of political cynics. People cannot believe in what is known to be false. Yet they must, in the nature of things, believe in something.

There is one thing in which the masses can believe—and that is their own strength. The working class can get what it wants thru mass pressure. This has been demonstrated so many times that it has become an axiom.

Sometimes a leadership becomes stultified and cannot see half as far as their poorest followers. The curse of leadership is to become satisfied with the things that follow with leadership. It is too easy to stop when one gets into office, and play ostrich in the face of detonating social conditions.

The masses of the people are moving, in all countries. When the masses move they need leaders who will at least keep out of their way when they surge forward. The best leaders will keep several jumps ahead of the masses, and yet be able to urge them on to greater and greater victories.

LAWYERS TO STUDY SELVES

How much the outcome of the last two elections has to do with the matter, we wouldn't know. But ex-President Hoover thinks we're headed for another depression "unless industry can find a way to bring the consumer the lowered costs made possible by labor-saving machinery". Somehow that doesn't sound like the same gentleman who in 1932 was sighting two chicks in every pot and a double order of automobiles for every family.

You'll have to take this tip for what it's worth; no guarantee comes with it. If Vic Christgau, state WPA administrator, resigns or is forced out of office, there's a better than even chance that Pat Delaney, who checked out of the U. S. senate race just before election, will get the job.

During his four months as head of the state government, Gov. Hjalmer Petersen has made more appointments than falls to the lot of the average governor serving the full term. One associate justice of the supreme court, three district court judges, one member of the railroad and warehouse commission. And it's betraying no secrets to add that at least two of these appointments have failed to meet with general approval, including the approval of Mr. Petersen's own party.

This love affair between King Edward and Bessie Wallis Simpson has been called the greatest news story of modern times, the greatest "Cinderella story" of all time, and so on and so forth. It appeals to the emotions because the principal characters are the king of the world's greatest empire and a commoner of American birth. You can't go wrong on that plot.

But behind this appeal, lies the story history will record. A quarrel between a man who is king through no wish nor desire of his own, a headstrong monarch with little consideration for sacred customs, and a government and church which feels the first duty of that king is to his people. Those who realize how badly Europe needs the steadying influence of a united Britain right at this moment find it hard to sympathize with Edward VIII. Or with his lady.

Dr. Townsend's indictment by a federal grand jury for contempt of the house of representatives means that the head of Old Age Revolving Pensions Ltd. will have to stand trial during the present District of Columbia court term. If found guilty, the doctor will be subject to a fine ranging from $100 to $1000 and a prison sentence ranging from one month to a year. The trouble started last May when Dr. Townsend walked out on a house committee hearing and refused to testify further.

Just as many expected, congress will be asked to appropriate a tidy sum to finance three investigations during the coming session. The communications commission would like about $350,000 to finish their probe of the telephone business. (They've already had $750,000). The senate wants $100,000 to continue its study of railroad financing; and the third inquiry, requiring another $200,000, will center around strike breaking and labor espionage. Old John Taxpayer wouldn't mind kicking in for a little high class snooping now and then if he didn't know from experience that the investigators are usually called off the minute they step on someone's toes.

Members of the state highway patrol have formed a non-political organization to be known as the Federation of Minnesota Highway Patrolmen. Chief purpose of this group will be to exchange ideas on the best way to promote highway sefety and enforce the state traffic laws. No one will find any fault with that aim. But the boys will have to be mighty careful about any lapses into the political field. Let the word get around that the federation is backing any candidate for public office and away goes respect for the whole patrol.

If the social security laws is to be a general blessing, something will have to be done about patching present flaws. There are several weaknesses in the law itself, but none is greater than its failure to reach all classes of workers.

The first big class consists of farm hands and domestic help. The original draft of the law contained a monthly pension plan to take care of them, similar to life insurance annuities. Under that plan these workers and their employers were to pay in a monthly premium and the government was to sweeten the pot. The idea was dropped when Secretary Morgenthau convinced the senate it would be almost impossible to collect from the employers. Now congress may be asked to modify this scheme by authorizing contributions from the employees alone, leaving the employers out of it. But whether this transpires or not, you can bet on one thing for sure. There'll be plenty of head scratching over this social security business before congress takes its next adjournment powder.

Under British law the king of England may visit the house of lords any time, the house of commons never. But apparently Mrs. Simpson may visit all three whenever she's in the mood.

Unless the American Bar Association has a change of heart one of the points due for debate at its January get-together will be a plan whereby better law enforcement can be attained "through improvement in the character and attitude of those on whom the law's efficiency depends" rather than by "alteration of the criminal law alone."

If we're right in assuming this improvement in character and attitude is not to be limited simply to judges, prosecuting attorneys, polics officers, etc., but will also include improvement in the methods employed by criminal lawyers, then we can start the applause. By recognizing these methods for what they are and acting against lawyers who use them, the Bar association can do much to end the monkeyshines that have become a part of every important criminal trial. It would seem to be their responsibility—as well as their baby.

While it may be a little thick for our blood, there's no denying that Russian justice can be pretty effective when it takes the notion. For example. A drunken driver who recently killed two pedestrians near the American embassy in Moscow argued it out with a firing squad a few days later. The gent who treated him to too much vodka got off with 10 years in jail. Under our system, nothing happens to the party supplying the liquor and very little happens to the drunken driver—if he can find witnesses willing to perjure themselves.

Last week the treasury department borrowed 50 million dollars on short-term, non-interest bearing notes, first of an issue that may total 300 millions by the end of the year. The notes were sold at prices ranging from par to a discount of 1.4 cents per each $100 note. Not a bad deal, at first glance, for Uncle Sam. Few of us could swing a 3-month's loan of 50 bucks without making a generous discount or paying interest.

However, there's a catch. These notes are also tax free. Therefore each individual or corporation investing in them will pay no taxes for all of 1936 on the money so invested. In other words, by loaning to the government without interest, the investor ducks a full year's income or excess profits tax, as the case may be, on the money loaned. So the amount of interest the government really pays is represented by the amount of tax the lender avoids. And if that's as clear as swamp water, just put it down that the treasury department is paying a nice premium for the money and let it go at that.

Minnesota football fans—meaning most of the state—are already discussing the Gopher's chances for next year. Football fans in other sections of the country are doing the same with their favorites. But over in Europe sports fade out of the conversation as Germany, France, Italy and Russia quarrel over which will have the largest air force. If we seem a little looney to them, at least we can argue it's a pleasant and harmless sort of insanity.

Inspired by the success of several work centers for jobless girls—one of them in St. Paul, by the way—the government is now planning to establish 50 work camps to provide vocational training for the needy young women, under supervision of the WPA. There's no reason why the idea won't pan out as well as the CCC project for unemployed boys if judgment is exercised in selecting the "campers". But that's an important if.

Carl Carlson of Audubon, Iowa, may be the national corn husking champ to the rest of the world, but as far as Fred Stanek, Fort Dodge, is concerned, he's just one more husker. Winner of his fourth national championship in 1930, Stanek has challenged Carlson to a "world's championship" match. Now all they have to do is to find a field of corn—which is a harder trick at this time of year than husking it.

What's wrong with this picture? The government allows $1 per day for board and keep of every federal prisoner held in a county jail. But during the World War, the food allowance for the doughboys seldom crept above 40 cents a day.

Cole Porter, author of numerous song hits, including "You're the Tops," defines swing music this way: "Swing music is comedy music. The instruments carrying the accompaniment hang onto the background chords while the solo instruments, figuratively speaking, wander about." And after 15 minutes of it, the tortured radio listener is ready to pop out of the background and wander about. Usually in search of an axe.

The National Safety Council reports that we're humping right along toward a new all-time high in traffic deaths. If the present rate continues until Dec. 31st, the death toll will be over 37,000 for 1936—an average of one fatality every 14 minutes. That should be something for every car owner to think about. Yet from the looks of things, not many of them do.

U.S. Supreme Court Upholds Jobless Insurance

In the first major decision involving the New Deal since the Roosevelt landslide, the Supreme Court has split evenly, 4 to 4, Justice Stone being absent, with the effect of upholding the New York State Unemployment Insurance Law.

Since this act is generally similar to the state legislation required under the new Federal Social Security Act, and since Justice Stone, if he had been present, would, it is assumed, have voted on the side of the "liberals", the decision last week is accepted as a New Deal victory.

Its immediate effect in Washington is to revive the old cry that the "Supreme Court follows election returns", although many more cases must come before the court to determine whether such a judgment is premature.

Loses Precedent Status

The absence of Justice Stone prevents the case from being used as a precedent because of the lack of a majority either for or against the law. In such circumstances a written opinion is not handed down.

The division vote emphasized more dramatically than almost any thing that has gone before the deep and constant fissure within the court between the so-called "liberals" and "conservatives".

Although the names of the judges in the 4-to-4 decision were not announced, Washington took it for granted that the same cleavage had held good on this case which has occurred constantly since the New Deal legislation began to come before it.

"Conservative and Liberal"

The four "conservatives" are Van Devanter, McReynolds, Sutherland and Butler; the "liberals" are Brandeis, Stone and Cardozo. The Chief Justice and particularly Justice Roberts have been the principal variables or unfixed quantities in the court, and with Justice Stone absent, it is taken for granted that they joined Brandeis and Cardozo in this case.

If the acquisition of Justice Roberts by the "liberals" should be permanent, whether subtly influenced or not by the election result, then it would swing the sharply divided and delicately poised majority over to the liberal side, as it has already in a number of cases. Largely on the voice of this one judge depends whether monumental legislative matters are called constitutional or unconstitutional.

Expressed in another way, the wide division of opinion within the court on what constitutes constitutional matter may be seen by the records of individual judges.

Consistent McReynolds

Justice McReynolds, for example, has voted against the New Deal in every one of 11 major cases so far. Justices Butler and Van Devanter have each voted against the New Deal 10 times, and for it only once.

On the other hand, on the "liberal" side, Justice Cardozo has found for the New Deal eight times and against it only three; Justices Stone and Brandeis have found for it seven times and against it only four times.

The Chief Justice has opposed the New Deal seven times although in one of these decisions, the Guffy Act, he did not go the whole way with the "conservatives"—and has voted for four of its acts. Justice Roberts has voted against it nine times, and approved it twice.

On the case last week because of Judge Stone's liberal tendencies it was believed almost certain that the New York law would ultimately be upheld by a majority opinion if new cases are brought before there is any change in the court's present personnel.

Why Didn't Court Wait?

The action leaves untold why the court did not delay its opinion until Justice Stone could be back on the bench. In this event, no matter which way Justice Stone voted, the verdict would have been decisive, formal opinions would have been handed down, and a precedent would have been set. Such a delay, it is assumed, would have required only a few weeks, since the justice is expected back on the bench in a month.

Washington is likely to speculate on this for a long time. The most credible explanation seems to be that the opinion of the absent justice was expressed informally and that it indicated a victory for the law. Since the effect of the evenly divided court was to affirm the New York law for the present in any event, the justices may have decided to let the matter rest in this fashion. They may have been influenced in this also by the preparations of a number of states to hold special sessions shortly on the Social Security Act.

AN UNUSUAL DISPLAY

Last Sunday night many people availed themselves of the opportunity to see the replica of the old sanctuary displayed in the old Methodist church. According to Evangelist Gulbrandson, "the services in the sanctuary were types and shadows of services in the heavenly temple where Christ now officiates as high priest, mediator and advocate in behalf of repentant transgressors. The investigation of the record books kept in heaven is now conducted according to the sure word of prophecy. The names of the whole human family are recorded either in the book of life or in the book of death. The destiny of each individual is thus decided for eternity according to the deeds done in this life." The Back to the Bible Lecture program for next week is announced elsewhere in this paper.

If you are not a member of a study group of the Women's Club, but wish to retain your membership in the Club, or become a new member, you are most welcome."

There is to be an interesting ten-minute talk, and a short business meeting. There will not be the customary ten-cent toy to bring, but each one is asked to be prepared to give a ten-cent contribution instead, which can be used for welfare.

FREE-MAN STOKER AGENCY SECURED BY LOCAL STORE

Arrangements Are Completed With Nicols, Dean, & Gregg Co. of St. Paul

A new stoker sales organization, covering Thief River Falls and surrounding territory, which will give the homeowners several unique advantages and which has behind it a distributing organization and manufacture who have worked together successfully for more than half a century, was announced as effective Dec. 7, following a series of conferences between the firm of Oen Mercantile Company of Thief River Falls, one of the oldest and best-known sales organizations in Northern Minnesota, and the Free-Man Stoker Division of the Nicols, Dean, and Gregg Company of St. Paul. The new set-up is to make available the well-known Free-Man Automatic coal burning equipment for domestic and industrial heating.

Plans and personnel for the new Stoker Department announced as having been completed and arrangements for selling Free-Man Coal Stokers throughout the entire territory are to go ahead at full speed immediately so that the homeowners will be able to take full advantage of the coming season in which the sales of automatic coal burning equipment is expected to reach new peaks following the unusually large sales made in all parts of the country last season.

The marked trend towards automatic coal burning equipment in both homes and industry has resulted in a popular demand for such equipment and it is expected that many local homeowner's will take advantage of this opportunity to inspect a Free-Man Automatic Stoker in their own community.

Warroad Mayor Is Murdered Late Sunday

Authorities are at a loss to what motivated the murder of E. A. Harloff, 40, Warroad mayor and depot agent, last Sunday night when his brother-in-law, Alton Obeson, 42, of Roseau, shot and killed him as he was about to fill out some bonus papers for Obeson.

Coroner B. O. Berge stated that Obeson first appeared at the Harloff home, where the murder occurred, when he asked for assistance in filling out his papers. After Harloff assured him he would do so, Obeson left and went to the Dan Risberg farm near Roseau, obtained a gun and returned to the Harloff home, awaiting their return from church.

Mr. Harloff, with his daughter and son, witnesses of the murder, returned home while Mrs. Harloff went to the hospital to visit a friend. The coroner stated that the testimony showed that Obeson gave the papers to Harloff and stepped out to his car where he had a high powered rifle. He then opened the door and, without warning, fired four shots at Harloff, the one shot which struck Harloff entered his left arm penetrating his chest and shattering the right arm as it left the body. With one bullet in his body he managed to reach a neighbor's house and was taken to the hospital where his wife was visiting. There he died an hour later.

Obeson was apprehended later in a Warroad beer parlor, Sheriff Rice stated, where he was boasting that he had "shot a man" and that he was "going to wipe out the family." He was taken into custody by Patrolman Dufa. Sheriff Rica said that Obeson "blames family trouble as the motive, but that is just imaginary."

Obeson is the father of five children and is married to a sister of Harloff's wife. The couple once secured a divorce but were later remarried. About a month ago they had separated again. Mrs. Obeson resides in Roseau with her children.

New Deal Pushes Self-Management In Cooperatives

The Roosevelt Administration believes that the co-operative movement must spring from the people themselves, and that it would be unwise to attempt to force its growth by intemperate federal support.

This attitude is behind the announcement, made by Jacob S. Baker, Assistant WPA Administrator, who is directing a study of European co-operatives for President Roosevelt, that the primary objective of the study would be to present facts rather than recommendations.

Rumors have been current that the six-man commission, of which Mr. Baker is the head, is split in half on its report to the White House. Mr. Baker's announcement, however, denies there is a difference of opinion, and states the report will be put out at about the first of the year.

Going to the Old World

Meanwhile, behind the scenes, it can be stated on good authority that deepest governmental interest is centered in the co-operative movement, which has been making spectacular gains in the United States in the past few years, and which already has caused some uneasiness in private business. Old World countries have carried the co-operative movement into the fabric of everyday life and even into politics, and Sweden has been cited as an instance of a nation which —subjected to pressure as between communism and fascism found instead the "middle way", the way of co-operative economic development.

Appeals to Liberals

The same movement has had a tremendous appeal for many of the advanced liberals of the New Deal, and the Roosevelt commission to Europe was an unusual example of the Governments's going out of its path investigate it.

Mr. Roosevelt, however, made a concilatory gesture to business in his talk at St. Paul in the campaign, outlining a policy that will hold good for a time at least while the post-election reapprochment with industry is tested out.

"While the Government can help through its resources," Mr. Roosevelt said, "we in Washington have recognized that co-operation and co-operatives must come from the people themselves.

Among Farmers

"Government can see to it that the rules of the game are fair as between co-operative enterprise, but the initiative, the management itself must spring from, and carry on from, the bottom up rather than from the top down."

Biggest progress of the co-operative movement so far in America is among the farmers and agricultural interests.

The New Deal has given preferential treatment to farm co-operatives in credit distribution, and rural electrification loans. Retail co-operatives in cities, however, which are so much the feature of Scandinavian and British distribution systems, have made little progress in the United States, though now they are springing up.

Largely Favorable

A governmental agency to foster co-operative movements has been recommended and behind-the-scenes comments indicate that three members of the Baker commission; Mr. Baker, Lenand Olds of the New York Power Commission, and Miss Emily Bates, Kansas City, would favor it. Uncertain of the recommendation at the present time would be Robin Hood, executive director, National Co-operative Council; Clifford Gregory, farm paper editor; and Charles E. Stuart of New York.

Mr. Baker, in his week end statement said the effort was to present all the facts on consumer's co-operatives to the President with a minimum of personal opinions.

WARRINER ELECTED MAYOR OF WINNIPEG

Dr. F. E. Warriner, independent, was elected mayor of Winnipeg as counting of ballots completed last week gave him a majority of 1,749 over Mayor John Queen, independent labor party. The vote was Warriner 29,666; Queen 27,917. While Mayor Queen led on the first count in the five-cornered race under the proportional representation system of voting, Warriner was elected on the second choice transfer of ballots of T. O. Woods, independent; T. W. Kilshaw, independent, and Lieut. Col. Ralph Webb, eight times mayor of Winnipeg.

When there are more than two running for office in Winnipeg, the second choice votes of the candidates in the third or lower positions are counted on the two leading candidates.

The defeated candidate, Mayor John Queen, is well known to Thief River Falls residents, having visited here on several occasions.

GOLF BALLS USED TO POISON SKUNKS

Chloroforming skunks, and 66 of them, heads the list of the season's prize hunting stories. The feat was performed by Walter Elsenpeter who collected a number of golf balls, soaked them in chloroform and rolled them down holes perforated in the ground six miles south of Detroit Lakes. By plugging the openings, which he knew were skunk tunnels, 66 skunks were exhumed, and the polecats had no opportunity to behave in the distasteful manner for which they are so famous.

NYE, FISH DEMAND GOP LEADER SHIFT

Last week demands for new and liberal Republican leadership arose from two sources, with warnings that otherwise the party would go the way of the Whigs.

Senator Nye predicted to newspapermen the formation of a new party, enrolling such former Republicans as Senator LaFollette, and Norris, "unless the Republican organization is rebuilt from the ground up."

Rep. Fish (R-NY) said John D. M. Hamilton had made a "dismal failure" of the Landon campaign "by attacking the social security act and charging Roosevelt with being a Communist." He called the national chairman a representative of "the reactionary wing" and said continuation of his leadership was "a political impossibility."

With Hamilton on vacation in the south, it was said at Republican headquarters that he knew of the impending attack by Fish and had no reply. His attitude was said to be that all party members should speak their mind, that policies will evolve accordingly through the rank and file and not be imposed from above. He plans a series of trips this winter to promote a revitalization of the state and local units.

Senator Nye said it may be difficult to carry ont Hamilton's suggestion that immediate Republican policy be decided in congressional caucus, due to differences between such westerners as Senators McNary of Oregon and Borah of Idaho and eastern senators like Hale of Maine and Austin of Vermont.

"If the old guard insists on dominating the party machinery", he added, "it will force lots of folks into a new party. We must decide early this winter whether the organization can become truly liberal."

BAUDETTE UTILITIES HAVE $7,000 GROSS

A gross profit of $7,038.24 was made by the Baudette village light and water plant during the past year, the annual statement of Village Clerk Ray Flynn revealed.

Out of this, a reserve fund of $2,500 for replacements and depreciation has been set aside, leaving a net profit of $4,538.24 for the year, or slightly more than $375 a month.

ROSEAU LIGHT PLANT HAS NET OF $15,000

Over $15,000 excess earnings above the total operating costs was the record of the Roseau municipal light plant for the fiscal year just closed. In the last year the receipts of the light plant reached the big sum of $26,621.57, an increase of over $4,000 from a year ago. Operation cost the last year was less than one-half of the gross income.

STOLEN

The Nobel committee might have done Carl von Ossietsky a greater favor than awarding him the 1935 peace prize which was held up last year. His health already shattered by 3 year's confinement in a Nazi concentration camp, the 47-year old editor and German war veteran who dared criticize Hitler's military policies stands a good chance of being bundled right back to jail to enjoy his latest honor. The Nazis look upon the award as a deliberate affront to Hitler—and when Herr Hitler is affronted, it's a sorry day for someone.

The 1936 peace prize goes to Dr. Lamas, Argentine foreign minister, who was instrumental in ending the 4-year war between Bolivia and paraguay. Hitler isn't sore at him.

PROLONGED PARKING ON MAIN STREETS PROHIBITED

A warning to all motorists who leave their cars parked longer than twenty-four hours was issued today by Chief of Police Stenberg. He stated that these parked cars interfere with the early removal of snow and will have to be moved, if deemed necessary, by the department.

Several cars were towed off the thoroughfares of the uptown district Wednesday by the Police Department.

Keep Pushing to Left, Organizer Advises Liberals

Progressives must push for public ownership of munition plants, natural resources, public utilities and possibly the 200 largest corporations of the country, Howard Y. Williams, national organizer for the Farmer-Labor Political Federation, said in a statement last week.

Saying the election was a vote for Roosevelt rather than for the Democratic party, Williams said the task of liberals is to keep pushing to the left. One move in that direction is slated for next Saturday when a joint committee of Minnesota and Wisconsin Progressives plans to meet to consider a unified program, he said. The Farmer-Labor state convention in January will provide another opportunity to work for legislation, he added.

First emphasis of liberals, he declared, should be the workers' right amendment, followed by a productive public works program with union wage scales. Mr. William's statement in full is as follows:

Farmer-Laborites and Progressives won the election on November 3rd with a smashing victory, but the fight has just begun. We must now capitalize on that success. What are the necessary steps just ahead of us?

The voters showed in the recent election they are ready for change. That they voted primarily for Roosevelt and not the Democratic party is indicated by the huge majorities given to the Minnesota Farmer Labor party, the Wisconsin Progressive party and the 300,000 votes given Roosevelt and Governor Lehman on the American Labor party ticket in New York. The people have spoken emphatically. They no longer look to business and industrial leaders as expressed in the Republican party for economic and social security. More and more they are looking to government for this leadership.

Our task as Farmer Laborites and Progressives is to force government to assume this leadership. In attaining this objective we must unite in action all the forces moving in our leftward direction. We now have (1) Labor's Non-Partisan League led by Lewis, Hillman and Dubinsky. This group brought tremendous support to Roosevelt in the industrial areas. (2) Then there are the Progressives led by the La Follettes in the Progressive National Committee. Using Nye, LaGuardia, Norris, Wheeler and others in the campaign they constitute a new organized force. (3) We also have the Marxists and Liberals. These include the two Socialist groups, the Communist party and those Liberals clustering about the Nation, the New Republic and similar Progressive publications. (4) Finally there are the Production for Use groups including the Wisconsin Farmer Labor Progressive Federation, the Minnesota Farmer Labor Association, the Washington Commonwealth Federation, the Epic group in California and the various Farmer Labor parties in Iowa, Michigan, New Hampshire, Indiana and other states. If we are to make real progress these next months we must bring about a plan of organization whereby these groups, or most of them, can co-operate in a broad united program.

The immediate objective should be to concentrate on fundamental legislation to the left of the New Deal, pointed up in a unique way to dramatize the Farmer Labor program. Our first emphasis should be on a human rights amendment to the Federal Constitution, giving Congress the power to pass legislation affecting wages, hours and adequate social security, without the interference of the Supreme Court. Then we should stress a productive public works program. Prosperity is returning but leaving at least nine million unemployed not benefited by the business recovery. These men and their families need more adequate food, clothing and shelter. They must be given an opportunity to earn regular union wages on a public works program or else to produce the things they need. This can be accomplished by self-help cooperatives financed by the government or by subsidised use of idle productive machinery in private plants. These families for the most part live under intolerable housing conditions in tenants and hovels where tuberculosis, disease and crime are bred. Society pays a huge price for such conditions and should be interested in seeing the government carry on a large housing program especially in the low rental field. Farm tenantry must be attacked by adequate financial backing for a resettlement program.

It is extremely important that we concentrate on legislation protecting civil liberties as a means of preventing fascism. We must use every effort to prevent war, urging strong neutrality legislation, extending reciprocal trade treaties and cooperating in calling an international conference for the adequate allocation of raw materials.

Finally we must press for cooperative and public ownership on a wider scale than elsewhere advocated. Sweden by slowly but surely extending the area of cooperatives and public ownership, has destroyed those forces which are most active in corrupting the body politic in other lands. We must push for public ownership of munition plants, natural resources, public utilities and possibly the two hundred largest corporations with their monopoly control and setting of prices, thereby also preventing concentration of wealth in the hands of a few and the creation of these periodic depressions. This program of legislation will be a definite step toward a new economy of abundance based on production for use.

The joint committee of twelve of the Wisconsin Progressive party and the Minnesota Farmer Labor party will meet probably on Saturday, December 12th, to consider a unified program of legislation for these two states, thus greatly benefiting by common experience, publicity and strategy.

In Minnesota the state convention in January of the Farmer Labor Association will largely concentrate on adequate legislation for the state. In as many other states as possible we can also promote conferences for progressive social legislation similar to the successful Minnesota Conference for Progressive Social Legislation held a year ago. All labor, farm, unemployed and progressive groups in each state should be invited to send delegates for the purpose of considering proposed bills covering public ownership of the electric utility, civil service, adequate old age pensions, unemployment insurance and relief legislation, a youth act, legislation protecting labor and farmers, etc.

Early in January this joint committee should hold a conference in Washington, D. C., of the Minnesota Farmer Labor Congressmen, the Wisconsin Progressive Congressmen and other Progressives in the two old parties to perfect the organization of a bloc in Congress that will caucus together, vote together, and promote the legislation suggested above thus dramatizing for the country the Farmer Labor and Progressive program.

On Washington's birthday a national conference could be called to federate as many of the groups suggested above and others behind these common objectives. This meeting must plan for organization, program and finances. It must push state Farmer Labor parties especially in those states where there is a chance of electing congressmen and state officers in 1938, particularly Oregon, Washington and California and states where Labor is strong as in New York. Such steps as those will capitalize on the election victory and make for progress these next months.

Dear Editor:—

The state of Minnesota has until lately been known as a Republican state. When it again went Democratic in the election of President, and Farmer-Labor on its state ticket the reason is near at hand. Our people are thinking in terms of liberal government as versus reactionary. Our people have control of government by virtue of their vote. They accept the party which seemingly offers the best political program. No party which does not actively and sincerely sponsor the cause of the common people will ever have much chance of winning an election in Minnesota.

Minnesota will no longer be known as a Republican state. It will be known as a Progressive state. Minnesota wants a progressive and liberal government which will enact and administer liberal and progressive legislation. The farmer must have living prices for his products and the worker must have living wages for his work. Whichever party will best sponsor these constitutional and inherent rights of the common man will find ample support in the hands of the dustry and Capitol has nad control of government. This control is now being broken.

There is the ever present danger that the party in power becomes too party-conscious and too little people-conscious. The only thing a party has to check carefully is its service to the people. Every one elected office, whether it be on party basis or not, must be sincerely conscious that his service is to the people and not to a party. It has been very interesting to check the election returns thruout the state with reference to the Legislature. A few facts will no doubt interest your readers.

Since the Senate members hold over until the '38 election, there were only two senators elected this year. These two were to fill vacancies caused by death of former members. In both instances Republicans were elected. The Farmer-Labor candidates failed of election. In the House there will be a very large number of new members. In checking the re-elections I find that some 33 Farmer-Laborites were re-elected and some 35 others. When I say "others" it is because I do not know whether they are Republicans or Democrats. They were known not to organize with the Farmer-Labor group at the last election. This shows that the people did not re-elect their Representatives simply because they were Farmer-Laborites, even in a Farmer-Labor election year. It proves a healthy situation that a man can not become elected simply because he stands good with a winning party. He must stand good with the people.

The next session of the Legislature convenes Jan. 5th, 1937. The proposed Farmer-Labor legislation for this coming session is apparently good. My constituence in this 65th District will find me actively supporting all progressive legislation in the future as in the past. In your next issue I will render a brief account of my legislative work. E. L. TUNGSETH.

Village Fire Hall Burned

The old fire hall and village calaboose was practically destroyed by fire Monday. The fire caught from an overheated chimney between the ceiling and the flat roof. Both the ceiling and roof being of metal and tar paper it was a hard job to make opening big enough to shoot water on the flames. To further complicate matters, the chemical engine was out of commission. Altho the engine recently bought was quickly gotten into action in forcing water from the lake onto the fire, it was impossible to squelch the fire until the roof and ceiling were destroyed. All of the contents of the hall were saved.

At the village caucus Saturday evening the following ticket was nominated for submission to the voters at the village election on Tuesday: village president, Emil Peterson and Godfred Anderson—vote for one; for trustee, 3 years, Henry Young and Martin Hanson—vote for one; for trustee, 2 years, L. H. Olson and Gib Overvold—vote for one; for clerk, A. W. Peterson and A. Stene—vote for one; for treasurer, V. P. Berg; for justice of the peace, R. D. V. Carr and A. Blom—vote for one; for constable, Albert Stephens.

The funeral of John Dahl occurred at the Gatzke Lutheran church Sunday, services being conducted by Rev. Anderson of Grygla. Interment was in the Gatzke cemetery. His death resulted from a broken neck caused by a fall down the basement stairway in Thief River Falls, Monday, Nov. 30th.

A temperature of 35 below zero was reported Monday. We heard of several instances of motor cars refusing to start and the CCC boys were excused from work that forenoon on account of the cold.

The Talkara boys south of town report the catching of a fox in a trap, which is something that does not happen often around here.

The Women's Club meets this (Friday) afternoon with Mrs. Wright. The lesson is to be a book review given by Mrs. C. A. Berg.

Mrs. Barney Peterson entertained the Gleaners Tuesday evening.

Thomas Braaten and Wayne Williams of Gatzke, had an auto collision on the street here Wednesday. No serious damage resulted beyond the jamming up of fenders. It is also reported that O. H. Dovre had skidding trouble with his truck on a trip to St. Paul with stock. Details and damages are not available at this writing.

Mrs. Louis Anderson is obliged to make a longer stay in the city than she expected, from having to undergo an operation for a leg infection that will confine her to a hospital for some time.

Your Character

As you prepare your appearance for your daily departure to school, you steal one swift glance into the mirror in order to see if your hair is properly arranged, your clothes spotlessly clean, and your nails immaculate. Naturally outward appearance means a great deal to one's success in school life; but as your fellow classmates walk by you, do they say, "That's a person who will never amount to anything", or "That's a person with personality?". Have you a sense of humor? Are you a good sport? How wide is your range of knowledge? All of these factors are instrumental in developing your personality. Make an effort to improve your personality rating as a student.

Nearly 1-5 Repaid By Local Loan Co-op

Repayments of more than $23,000 on their short-term loans were made by members of the Thief River Falls Production Credit association, during the first 8 months of this year, according to information given out at the conference of North Dakota and northern Minnesota production credit boards of directors held at Detroit Lakes on Monday and Tuesday. The association includes the following counties: Roseau, Lake of the Woods, N½ Beltrami, E½ Marshall, Pennington and Red Lake.

The 5000 members of these associations have used their membership and credit standing to make short-term loans of a few hundred up to several thousand dollars each for such purposes as purchasing livestock, machinery or supplies for their farms, paying for labor, repairs, etc.

The average loan of this association is $394 and on September 1 its 299 members had obtained $81,000 through the association from January to that date. During the same time they had repaid over $23,000 which is 17 per cent of the total volume of their loans outstanding at the first of the year plus those of the succeeding 8 months, a repayment record that drew compliments for the directors and members.

George Susens, president, and J. S. Montgomery, secretary of the Production Credit Corporation of St. Paul, which supervises the associations, and President F. H. Klawon and Secretary A. E. Sevareid of the Federal Intermediate Credit bank through which they obtain their funds by discount, attended the conference. Charts showing a comparison of the membership, volume of loans, rate of growth, expenses, and income, of the 12 associations afforded topics for discussion.

The board of directors and secretary-treasurer of each association made up the delegates to the conference, the local delegation comprising: F. S. Erdmann, pres., Red Lake Falls; F. D. Voth, vice-president, Alfred Longren, director, V. C. Noper, director, of Thief River Falls; Bert Grahn, director, Roseau, and Robert J. Lund, sec-treas., Thief River Falls.

Specialists Plan Farming System

Conferring with groups of leading farmers in nine Minnesota counties during October and November, two farm management specialists have aided in working out farming systems which have been designed to maintain soil fertility and prevent erosion.

In each county about 25 leading farmers and the county agent cooperated in forming the farming systems. Mr. Cleland, in speaking of the types of systems arrived at, says, "The cropping systems had to be practical ones that farmers felt would aid in making possible good farming practices as well as maintaining the soil on a long time basis."

The nine counties in which the planning meetings have been held this fall included Ottertail, Clay, East Polk, Kittson, Lac-qui Parle, Bigstone, Itasca, Morrison and Chisago. Last winter the specialists went into nine other counties for the same purpose, including Winona, Meeker, Lyon, Sherburne, Stevens, West Polk, Todd, Beltrami and St. Louis. They will go into eight other counties in December including Olmsted, Dodge, Steele, Blue Earth, Brown, Martin, McLeod and Rock.

In general, the cropping systems which farmers considered most desirable provided for the growing of more legumes than farmers had been raising, in most cases alfalfa, sweet clover and other clovers. Estimates were also made of the feed supplies which would result from changes in farming practice and also the livestock numbers that would naturally follow these changes.

The results of the planning so far are that throughout much of Minnesota a shift from small grains to more legumes is indicated, leaving the corn acreage about the same. The work accomplished concludes that Minnesota can carry a much larger acreage of legumes, and that if fertility is to be maintained, it must be increased. These larger supplies of hay and pasture will make for better quality and larger quantities of feed and should result in a larger net income for farmers.

Farmers in Minnesota's dairy section estimate that still larger numbers of dairy cattle could be kept on farms, with better feeding for those now maintained. Thruout the state, and particularly in the Red River Valley and west central Minnesota, considerable room for expansion in the sheep industry is indicated. Farmers in the southwest and western sections of the state felt that larger roughage supplies would justify an expansion in breeding herbs of both cattle and sheep and that farmers would be able to produce a larger share of their feeder calves and lambs.

With 40,000 Pacific coast seamen already affected and with other thousands along the Atlantic coast joining the walkout, the maritime strike is the most serious labor dispute confronting the U. S. So far there has been inconvenience and financial loss, but no violence such as marked the San Francisco strike last summer. That may come without warning unless Secretary of Labor Perkins, or one of her aids, is able to bring about a quick settlement. Whatever her qualifications for her cabinet post, and they are many, Madame Perkins has already proved that she's not so hot at settling labor trubles.

With 40,000 Pacific coast seamen already affected and with other thousands along the Atlantic coast joining the walkout, the maritime strike is the most serious labor dispute confronting the U. S. So far there has been inconvenience and financial loss, but no violence such as marked the San Francisco strike last summer. That may come without warning unless Secretary of Labor Perkins, or one of her aids, is able to bring about a quick settlement. Whatever her qualifications for her cabinet post, and they are many, Madame Perkins has already proved that she's not so hot at settling labor trubles.

shot by R. Gamache. Hellquist flipped in two trys for D. Gamache's one, and Lorentson added a free throw. Hellquist and Wright converted in that order and Captain "Bud" Nelson very fittingly dropped in a field goal as the eventful game ended with Cass Lake on the short end of a 37 to 22 score.

The Prowler "B" squad upset the favored Plummer team in the opener by a lop-sided score of 33 to 10. Lee's second stringers surprised fans by completely outplaying their adversaries throughout the game.

The Ada high school basketball team will be here on Friday evening, Dec. 18, for another fast game with the Prowlers.

WPA RESTORES THE GRANDEUR OF CAPITOL

come annexed to the city. A letter from the State Board of Health was brought in at this point, asking that a uniform plumbing ordinance be adopted by the city. This led directly to a discussion of sewage disposal and that "skeleton in the closet," the sewage disposal plant. The disagreement seemed to hinge about the problem of whether to hold an election first, authorizing the city to make a bond issue, or to push for a federal grant and take a chance of having a bond issue turned down after the grant was obtained. The discussion was lost in the morass and the matter was again tabled.

Firecrackers were introduced into the deliberations at this time in the mysterious manner known only to a member of the city council. Very justly, it was pointed out that the firecracker nuisance around the 4th of July could be curbed by proper methods. Mayor Prichard told of his experience in requesting merchants to refrain from displaying fireworks until a couple days before the 4th. None refused to cooperate when approached rightly.

In discussing the wood cutting project it was suggested that this year payment be made in cash and not in trade at a specified store. Considerable criticism of the latter method was heard last year. No one knew of any available wood close to town, but the matter was taken under advisement.

The council then approached another ticklish subject, the application for transfer of beer license from W. Sheedy to Ystesund & Tvedt. The firm, it developed, had bought out Mr. Sheedy six weeks ago and had done nothing about having the license transferred. The license committee of the council reported unfavorably to the applicant. In the discussion which followed this report the beer situation in Thief River Falls was reviewed thoroughly, and the opinion was expressed that several noisy and disreputable places ought to be shut down. But the city dads continued their activities only to refus ing the applicant at hand.

Leonard Hanson, fire chief, and Ole Legvold, city engineer, had a few matters to report in their departments, after which the Poor were taken up and set down again, rather abruptly. However, each case was given a hearing and such action as was possible was taken. The Desotell case, which the WPL had championed earlier in the evening, was discussed thoroughly; the upshot of the discussion was that Chas. Evenson had done no wrong in transporting the Desotells to Red Lake county. At this time Mr. Quale informed the council that a court decision in the Zavorel case provided that they be deported to Norden township.

Time having flown rather rapidly in the discussion of relief and fireworks, a motion was made and carried that the meeting be adjourned until Tuesday, December 29.

The Next Four Years In Agriculture

The prospect for what may be brought about in American agriculture for the next several years lies chiefly with Henry Wallace, the secretary of agriculture at Washington. He will guide affairs from the nation's capitol and much hinges on what he proposes. Secretary Wallace has made public a statement as to what will be the probable course for the next four years in farming. The Forum will publish this statement in two installments. The first follows herewith and the second will be inserted next week.

In 1937 we can take a longer view of agriculture than we could in March, 1933. At that time the income of the American people had dropped to $40,000,000,000 annually from twice that amount before the depression. Agriculture's share had dropped from 12 to about 7½ percent. Farmers were suffering more than other groups because a profound maladjustment existed between farm and non-farm prices, and because the collapse of their foreign market had raised the carry-overs of the great export crops to two or three times the normal. There was no time then to take long views; it was necessary to act at once.

The federal government revalued gold, fostered crop adjustments, relieved farm debt and supported the buying power of consumers. As a result, agriculture came into a better balance with the rest of the economic system. By 1935 farmers' receipts from sales, plus AAA payments, had risen 81 percent above the cash farm income of 1932, the farm surplusses had declined to manageable proportions and the farm crisis seemed to be over. We could draw breath and look about us.

For the next four years agriculture will be mainly interested in consolidating the improvement. Farm recovery has gone hand in hand with urban recovery. It has been demonstrated that true farm welfare and the general welfare are inseparable. Agriculture can get and keep a fair share of the national income only when the national income increases, and quarreling over a reduced total is a game which it always loses. Therefore the job now is to establish good relations between town and country, with adequate incentives for both industry and agriculture to work toward a balanced abundance.

After the World War farm leaders raised the slogan "Equality for Agriculture," because agriculture was not holding its own in the battle for special advantages. Farmers strove to counteract the situation. They realize, however, that the better way is for business, labor and agriculture to cooperate in measures broadly conceived for the general welfare. In the years just ahead it is not too much to expect that farmers and other groups will show more awareness of their common interests. That is the only way to preserve the gains made since 1933.

Our national goal should be increased production of useful and necessary things at prices within the reach of consumers, yet high enough to maintain the continuity of production. Needless to say, it should include care for our remaining natural resources. There is nothing in this formula to which agriculture can object; for production is the farmers' watchword, from which he never departs without reluctance.

Farm prosperity, however, is impossible without an adjustment of the output to the demand. It is absurd to declare, as many people do, that farmers should produce, without thinking about the reward, as long as anyone needs their products. Farmers cannot be the nation's alms-givers; they cannot be the only group to disregard the profit motive. They must adjust their production to the market, on pain of bankruptcy; they can keep their production continually rising only when the market continually expands. Farm production stands in a necessary relation to non-farm production. Agriculture can safely increase its production by keeping in step with industry, but not otherwise.

Certain developments, notably the decision of the United States Supreme Court in the Hoosac Mills case, obliged agriculture to seek other means than those adopted after 1933 for keeping its production in balance with non-farm production. Farmers under the Triple A sought to limit their production for export, which was excessive. They cannot yet go back to unlimited production, because the foreign market is still depressed. Fortunately, they can curb production somewhat by means which at the same time deal with another agricultural problem.

Soil Conservation and Erosion Control

This country is laggard in care for the soil. When the frontier was open, and worn-out land could be exchanged for new, it got into bad habits of forest devastation, overcropping, destructive grazing and soil mining. Soil won from the frontier began to blow away in dust storms, and to wash into the sea. Ill fares the land, said Goldsmith, when men decay. He might as well have said ill fare the men when land decays; for, when the land deteriorates the men on it deteriorate too. As one means of prevention, acreage may be shifted from soil-depleting to soil-conserving crops. Besides conserving soil wealth, the shift incidentally checks overproduction; and action started to that end under the Soil Conservation and Domestic Allotment Act will undoubtedly be continued.

Soil conservation should be valued, however, primarily for itself rather than for the indirect effect it may have on the volume of production. Neglect of the soil, besides threatening an irrecoverable loss, counteracts technical progress. It is poor economy to develop better crops and livestock, and to combat agricultural pests and diseases, if soil wastage undoes the effect. Studies in Ohio revealed that during the last sixty years the adoption of better varieties, better seed and scientific methods for the control of insect and plant pests merely balanced the down-trend in the productivity of the soil. Half a century of applied science showed no net gain. If farmers abuse the land, the country may turn against them. It may say agriculture needs better farming than better prices; and though that may not be wholly true, it will sound plausible.

Agricultural policy in the next four years cannot stop, however, with soil conservation. It is well to protect the soil, to reduce the costs of production and to rearrange the cropping system; in fact it is indispensable to do these things. But they are not enough. Erosion control not only protects the soil, but makes it more productive; taking some land out of the intensive crops may make production more intensive on the remaining acreage. After a few years, the efforts of farmers to save and build up their land will have the same effect on production that other kinds of technical progress usually have. Less land and less labor will be required to produce a given output; and unless the farmers adjust their acreage accordingly, the advantage of the new soil technique will pass entirely to the consumers. In short, there is still a problem of adjusting the supply to the demand. This country has recently experienced two great droughts, and it clearly needs protection against lean as well as against fat years. But full production on all the land in farms means overproduction.

The Need For Crop Insurance

Essentially, of course, the alternations of production, with gluts following shortages, pose a single problem, with which science and organization may eventually be competent to deal. Producers and consumers have a common interest in maintaining an even flow of products to the market. Unevenness in the flow leads to wide fluctuations not only in prices but in crop planting and livestock breeding. Fluctuations in yields cause as much embarrassment as unbalanced acreage. Many a farmer lost his entire crop in the recent droughts, and the ensuing higher prices did him no good. Crop failures create a problem that should be met by crop insurance. If crop insurance can be combined with the ever normal granary, the country will have some protection against both shortages and widely fluctuating prices.

By this time the idea of the ever normal granary is well known, and I will not go into it in detail. When we produced heavily for export, the carry-overs of the export crops did not need to be very large. It was simply necessary in years of small production to keep more of the production at home; in other words, to reduce the exports. But now that we export far less, the former automatic safeguard no longer functions. We have to plan for the lean years, and to level off the amount that farmers tend to place on the market from one year to the next. Storing part of the production in surplus years, and releasing supplies from storage in years of small production, would be keeping an ever normal granary. Crop insurance could be provided by letting farmers pay premiums in kind; that is, by letting them turn over part of their production in surplus years for storage.

Without regarding this plan as a panacea for undue swings in production and prices, I think it might prove a help. Probably the government would have to assist. But government crop insurance should be offered only to farmers who cooperate in soil conservation program, and it might prove necessary eventually to link the scheme with stipulations for the control of production. Several big crops could pile up large supplies in storage. Some deterrent against continued large production would be indispensable, because storage would stabilize the market and tend to keep production up. Private business insures against catastrophes. Why should not agriculture do the same? But yields only should be insured; not prices. Previous attempts at crop insurance have failed, because they included price insurance.

Insurance is not an innovation for the federal government. The AAA programs contained a measure of crop insurance. Also the federal government has insured bank deposits, loans for financing the construction and repair of houses, and the lives of World War veterans. It is beginning to provide unemployment insurance and old-age annuities. Crop insurance with government assistance would furnish to agriculture help similar to that now made available by the government to other groups under the Social Security Act. At present farmers cannot obtain all-risk crop insurance, private attempts to furnish it having failed; and the government seems better able than private enterprise to carry out the venture on a sufficiently large scale. But crop insurance must not benefit the shiftless at the expense of the thrifty, or the poor land at the expense of the good.

shot by R. Gamache. Hellquist flipped in two trys for D. Gamache's one, and Lorentson added a free throw. Hellquist and Wright converted in that order and Captain "Bud" Nelson very fittingly dropped in a field goal as the eventful game ended with Cass Lake on the short end of a 37 to 22 score.

The Prowler "B" squad upset the favored Plummer team in the opener by a lop-sided score of 33 to 10. Lee's second stringers surprised fans by completely outplaying their adversaries throughout the game.

The Ada high school basketball team will be here on Friday evening, Dec. 18, for another fast game with the Prowlers.

Re-financing at the re-appraisal value of all loans and sales contracts, at 3 per cent interest, payable annually.

Rental of all rural credit owned land, at 4 per cent of the new valuation, secured by cash crops.

WPA RESTORES THE GRANDEUR OF CAPITOL

come annexed to the city. A letter from the State Board of Health was brought in at this point, asking that a uniform plumbing ordinance be adopted by the city. This led directly to a discussion of sewage disposal and that "skeleton in the closet," the sewage disposal plant. The disagreement seemed to hinge about the problem of whether to hold an election first, authorizing the city to make a bond issue, or to push for a federal grant and take a chance of having a bond issue turned down after the grant was obtained. The discussion was lost in the morass and the matter was again tabled.

Firecrackers were introduced into the deliberations at this time in the mysterious manner known only to a member of the city council. Very justly, it was pointed out that the firecracker nuisance around the 4th of July could be curbed by proper methods. Mayor Prichard told of his experience in requesting merchants to refrain from displaying fireworks until a couple days before the 4th. None refused to cooperate when approached rightly.

In discussing the wood cutting project it was suggested that this year payment be made in cash and not in trade at a specified store. Considerable criticism of the latter method was heard last year. No one knew of any available wood close to town, but the matter was taken under advisement.

The council then approached another ticklish subject, the application for transfer of beer license from W. Sheedy to Ystesund & Tvedt. The firm, it developed, had bought out Mr. Sheedy six weeks ago and had done nothing about having the license transferred. The license committee of the council reported unfavorably to the applicant. In the discussion which followed this report the beer situation in Thief River Falls was reviewed thoroughly, and the opinion was expressed that several noisy and disreputable places ought to be shut down. But the city dads continued their activities only to refus ing the applicant at hand.

Leonard Hanson, fire chief, and Ole Legvold, city engineer, had a few matters to report in their departments, after which the Poor were taken up and set down again, rather abruptly. However, each case was given a hearing and such action as was possible was taken. The Desotell case, which the WPL had championed earlier in the evening, was discussed thoroughly; the upshot of the discussion was that Chas. Evenson had done no wrong in transporting the Desotells to Red Lake county. At this time Mr. Quale informed the council that a court decision in the Zavorel case provided that they be deported to Norden township.

Time having flown rather rapidly in the discussion of relief and fireworks, a motion was made and carried that the meeting be adjourned until Tuesday, December 29.

Thieves Hockey Team To Play First Game, Dec. 19

Directors of all hockey teams comprising the hockey league met in Warren last Sunday where they formulated a schedule for the ensuing season. There it was learned that the Thief River Falls "Thieves" would play their first game of the season in foreign fields clashing with Emerson (Manitoba) at Emerson Saturday, Dec. 19. Following that game the "Thieves" will play Roseau at Roseau. The "Thieves" will test their mettle on these two teams which have been favored by pre-season information.

A. M. Campbell, co-manager, stated that "the Thieves will play their first home game occurring Sunday, Dec. 27, when whey play Grand Forks."

Walter H. DePaul, of Minneapolis, has been secured to take charge of local hockey coaching in the Junior and Intermediate and Senior divisions.

A. M. Senstad, A. B. Stenberg and Alvin Christofferson attended the convention from this city.

Teams in the league are Roseau, Hallock, Emerson, University of N. D., Thief River Falls, and Grand Forks. The association is known as the States-Dominion Hockey league.

PAUL J. DUCHARME NAMED FOR WEST POINT VACANCY

Paul J. Ducharme, son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Ducharme of this city, received the welcome news Sunday that he has been appointed by Congressman R. T. Buckler of Crookston as his first principal candidate for West Point, having passed his October 17 examination with a standing of 82.71 per cent, the highest of any of the candidates. All that Paul needs to do now is to pass his physical examination in order to be admitted to the corps as a cadet next July, and there should be no difficulty in doing that. Paul graduated from Red Lake Falls high school last June and is now attending the University of North Dakota. His friends are congratulating him upon landing the appointment for which he has worked dilligently for some time.—Red Lake Falls Gazette.

The Next Four Years In Agriculture

The prospect for what may be brought about in American agriculture for the next several years lies chiefly with Henry Wallace, the secretary of agriculture at Washington. He will guide affairs from the nation's capitol and much hinges on what he proposes. Secretary Wallace has made public a statement as to what will be the probable course for the next four years in farming. The Forum will publish this statement in two installments. The first follows herewith and the second will be inserted next week.

In 1937 we can take a longer view of agriculture than we could in March, 1933. At that time the income of the American people had dropped to $40,000,000,000 annually from twice that amount before the depression. Agriculture's share had dropped from 12 to about 7½ percent. Farmers were suffering more than other groups because a profound maladjustment existed between farm and non-farm prices, and because the collapse of their foreign market had raised the carry-overs of the great export crops to two or three times the normal. There was no time then to take long views; it was necessary to act at once.

The federal government revalued gold, fostered crop adjustments, relieved farm debt and supported the buying power of consumers. As a result, agriculture came into a better balance with the rest of the economic system. By 1935 farmers' receipts from sales, plus AAA payments, had risen 81 percent above the cash farm income of 1932, the farm surplusses had declined to manageable proportions and the farm crisis seemed to be over. We could draw breath and look about us.

For the next four years agriculture will be mainly interested in consolidating the improvement. Farm recovery has gone hand in hand with urban recovery. It has been demonstrated that true farm welfare and the general welfare are inseparable. Agriculture can get and keep a fair share of the national income only when the national income increases, and quarreling over a reduced total is a game which it always loses. Therefore the job now is to establish good relations between town and country, with adequate incentives for both industry and agriculture to work toward a balanced abundance.

After the World War farm leaders raised the slogan "Equality for Agriculture," because agriculture was not holding its own in the battle for special advantages. Farmers strove to counteract the situation. They realize, however, that the better way is for business, labor and agriculture to cooperate in measures broadly conceived for the general welfare. In the years just ahead it is not too much to expect that farmers and other groups will show more awareness of their common interests. That is the only way to preserve the gains made since 1933.

Our national goal should be increased production of useful and necessary things at prices within the reach of consumers, yet high enough to maintain the continuity of production. Needless to say, it should include care for our remaining natural resources. There is nothing in this formula to which agriculture can object; for production is the farmers' watchword, from which he never departs without reluctance.

Farm prosperity, however, is impossible without an adjustment of the output to the demand. It is absurd to declare, as many people do, that farmers should produce, without thinking about the reward, as long as anyone needs their products. Farmers cannot be the nation's alms-givers; they cannot be the only group to disregard the profit motive. They must adjust their production to the market, on pain of bankruptcy; they can keep their production continually rising only when the market continually expands. Farm production stands in a necessary relation to non-farm production. Agriculture can safely increase its production by keeping in step with industry, but not otherwise.

Certain developments, notably the decision of the United States Supreme Court in the Hoosac Mills case, obliged agriculture to seek other means than those adopted after 1933 for keeping its production in balance with non-farm production. Farmers under the Triple A sought to limit their production for export, which was excessive. They cannot yet go back to unlimited production, because the foreign market is still depressed. Fortunately, they can curb production somewhat by means which at the same time deal with another agricultural problem.

Soil Conservation and Erosion Control

This country is laggard in care for the soil. When the frontier was open, and worn-out land could be exchanged for new, it got into bad habits of forest devastation, overcropping, destructive grazing and soil mining. Soil won from the frontier began to blow away in dust storms and to wash into the sea. Ill fares the land, said Goldsmith, when men decay. He might as well have said ill fare the men when land decays; for, when the land deteriorates the men on it deteriorate too. As one means of prevention, acreage may be shifted from soil-depleting to soil-conserving crops. Besides conserving soil wealth, the shift incidentally checks overproduction; and action started to that end under the Soil Conservation and Domestic Allotment Act will undoubtedly be continued.

Soil conservation should be valued, however, primarily for itself rather than for the indirect effect it may have on the volume of production. Neglect of the soil, besides threatening an irrecoverable loss, counteracts technical progress. It is poor economy to develop better crops and livestock, and to combat agricultural pests and diseases, if soil wastage undoes the effect. Studies in Ohio revealed that during the last sixty years the adoption of better varieties, better seed and scientific methods for the control of insect and plant pests merely balanced the down-trend in the productivity of the soil. Half a century of applied science showed no net gain. If farmers abuse the land, the country may turn against them. It may say agriculture needs better farming than better prices; and though that may not be wholly true, it will sound plausible.

Agricultural policy in the next four years cannot stop, however, with soil conservation. It is well to protect the soil, to reduce the costs of production and to rearrange the cropping system; in fact it is indispensable to do these things. But they are not enough. Erosion control not only protects the soil, but makes it more productive; taking some land out of the intensive crops may make production more intensive on the remaining acreage. After a few years, the efforts of farmers to save and build up their land will have the same effect on production that other kinds of technical progress usually have. Less land and less labor will be required to produce a given output; and unless the farmers adjust their acreage accordingly, the advantage of the new soil technique will pass entirely to the consumers. In short, there is still a problem of adjusting the supply to the demand. This country has recently experienced two great droughts, and it clearly needs protection against lean as well as against fat years. But full production on all the land in farms means overproduction.

The Need For Crop Insurance

Governor Issues Call Last Week After Careful Consideration

Work Limited To Unemployment Insurance

Prospect Is That Bill May Provide Employers Pay All the Costs

Thursday last week Governor Petersen issued a call for a special session of the old Minnesota legislature to convene at St. Paul today to enact an unemployment insurance law to conform with the federal social security act. It was held by many civic leaders in the state that Minnesota might lose its benefits of this act unless a special session was called before January 1st.

Legislative leaders believe it will take about ten days to do the job, indicating they expect to be in session until Christmas, or perhaps longer.

The act must be in the hands of the social security board in Washington in time to get official approval by December 31.

Skeleton organizations in both senate and house will be set up with agreement that only the one task will be undertaken.

First proposal for a special session came from the Minnesota Federation of Labor, anxious that employees get the benefit of the unemployment insurance setup.

A move is under way to enact a bill as easily and quickly as possible, containing enough requirements to meet specifications of the federal board, with the idea a more finished job will be done in the regular session. But leaders said they want to do a careful job, and do not care to be rushed.

The majority leader of the state house of representatives, Roy E. Dunn, threw his support to the two major items in the unemployment insurance bill which labor groups want put into the bill by the special session.

Mr. Dunn said he would support the plan for "universal coverage"—including employers of one or more employees—and for contributions by employers only.

The independents will control the house for this session, and if his group follows his lead, the measure enacted should be satisfactory to the labor and liberal side who oppose employee contributions.

However, work was proceeding on getting bills into shape for prompt consideration. The interim committee on social security, which has been working all year, went into session today to prepare a bill for immediate introduction in the house. Meeting with the committee were representatives of the federal social security board, Arne Solem, former Minneapolis attorney and now technical advisor to

Warm Weather Causes Hockey Game Delay

The proposed hockey tilt between the Thief River Falls 'Thieves' and the Emerson team at Emerson scheduled for next Saturday has been re-scheduled to take place on December 30th. The warm weather interferring with the freezing ice in the Arena may necessitate the postponement of the Hallock game Wednesday evening, Dec. 23.

Walter De Paul of Eveleth arrived in this city Tuesday morning to take charge of the hockey and will coach the Senior hockey division as well as organize intermediate and Junior leagues.

BLACK RIVER LOCAL MET LAST WEEK

The meeting of the Black River local of the Farmers Union was held Wednesday last week. The meeting was well attended, and speeches were made by Andrew Trovaton and Gilbert Brattland. Lunch was served to those present.

IMPROVEMENTS AND PROGRESS ARE CONTINUOUS

Oen's Building Is Aided By Good Weather; Many Other Business Concerns Report Changes

Progress and improvements are noticeable in every nook and corner in the city. Changes are made here and additions there, all of which go to make a bigger and better Thief River Falls.

The construction work on the new Oen department store building has been progressing very rapidly as the weather has remained very mild for the past ten days. The brick walls have been completed and it is expected that the roof and other extras to the outside will be on by the middle of next week. From all appearances it will be an imposing addition to the city's business section.

Construction on the interior of the new Lynde-Waale building is being pushed and this will be ready for full occupancy by the first of the New Year. New fronts have been added to the Red Owl store and to the business places damaged by the recent Oen store fire, all making neat appearing business establishments.

Among other improvements, Sorenson's cafe has added an extra unit to their Skelgas cooking equipment which was made necessary because of the ever increasing trade. Other equipment of quick service of extras on short orders is also being installed.

Mr. Kretzchmar, the proprietotr of the Palm Garden cafe and the Log Cabin Tavern, announces the engagement of John Dahlsing as head chef at the Palm Garden. He is a noted and experienced chef so particular people may look for what they want where he is employed.

Mr. Kretzschmar also announces the engagement of Gay Haugen as manager of the Log Cabin Tavern beverage division. Mr. Haugen will assume his duties Saturday. He is a local man, well and favorably known.

CHRISTMAS TO BE OBSERVED IN FINE SPIRIT

Large Crowd Greets Santa Claus As He Came Here Last Saturday

Baskets For Needy Are Being Gathered

Local Business Places Are Providing Goods in Unusual Large Demand

Preparations for an appropriate observance of Christmas has been in progress in Thief River Falls for some time but the closer the happy Yuletide comes the more inteuse become the activities of all, be it business concerns or individuals.

A milling crowd gathered at the Soo Line tracks Saturday afternoon to greet Santa's Special as it pulled in from the Canadian Border. After a short greeting, Santa boarded a truck and, with the cheering tots, went to the City Auditorium where it was rumored he had a surprise waiting for them.

2500 people, mostly children, crowded into the Auditorium to push past Santa to receive their candy and popcorn balls. Santa passed out 1800 popcorn balls and 1700 lollypops before he left for other regions.

Christmas programs and festivals are already being conducted, several schools and some social organizations having staged these doings to be out of the way for later events of this kind. Xmas tree festivals will be held by nearly every church organization in this territory. Details of these festivals will be found in the columns of church notices in this week's issue. As the Forum for next week will be in the subscribers' hands by next Thursday, further information may be looked for at that time.

Various organizations are aiding in giving out Christmas baskets to the needy in the city and the nearby vicinity. The Salvation Army post is gathering articles and has arranged with the local theatre in putting on a special matinee Monday forenoon. Instead of paying the usual price at the door persons should bring a jar of preserves or jelly, a can of canned goods that can be put into these Xmas baskets.

The American Legion post and Auxiliary are gathering goods for their gifts to the needy. Solicitors have been making their rounds for

St. Paul Man Speaks At Public Forum Friday

The first meeting of the Thief River Falls Public Forum held on Friday evening was opened when Chairman Kinghorn introduced Wm. Dahlquist, the first speaker of the evening, who spoke on the subject, "You are not through learning even though you are through school." He stated that we are inclined to become slack in our study of various problems confronting us and so the Public Forum would serve to enliven our interest in these current subjects.

The chairman introduced Judge M. A. Brattland who said that the Public Forum would make everyone interested regarding the political situation, especially so before election. It would also serve as an excellent means of posting ourselves on amendments.

Mr. Collins of St. Paul, who filled the place of Chas. Egley who could not come, spoke on the cooperative movement, stating that "the great economic gap between the producer and the consumer, in which most of us are blindly floundering, would not be remedied until we had a cooperative system established in this country as they have in Sweden, Denmark and other countries."

A number of people entered into the spirit of the Public Forum by choosing to rebut the statements made by Mr. Collins giving their own versions of the situation and asking how Mr. Collins would go about to accomplish his proposal.

The persons attending the Public Forum asked that the next meeting be held Wednesday, Dec. 30th, as the regular meeting date would come on Christmas Day. This was then decided upon.

An audience of nearly one-hundred persons was in attendance.

Workmen Move To Affiliate With F.-L.

At the regular meeting of the Workmen's Protective League of Thief River Falls held Monday night in the WPL hall beneath the Union State bank, sentiment was brought out for affiliation of the league with the Farmer-Labor association, and a committee of three was selected to investigate the possibilities and report at the next meeting. During the discussion it was pointed out that WPL members had worked to help put over the Farmer-Labor victory, individually and collectively, and that the interests of the WPL were in line with the Farmer-Labor platform. In the face of threatened WPA cuts and reaction all along the line, it was stated, the workers of this city should not lag behind the general trend for consolidation of forces.

A motion was also carried to change the name from Workmen's Protective League to Worker's Protective League, to allow the inclusion of women in the membership. Another motion was made to change the dues system. Both of these motions were intended as amendments to the constitution, to be acted upon at the meeting of December 28.

G. G. Denning, adult education director for this district, said a few words at the conclusion of the meeting.

Rural Credit Farmers To Meet Tuesday

All farmers having rural credit loans have been asked to meet in the Court House in Thief River Falls next Tuesday at one o'clock P. M., according to T. H. Bjerke, who is a member of the committee appointed about a year ago by such a group. This meeting, he states, will discuss Rural Credit Farmers' problems as well as other matters.

He wishes them to come and express their opinion and expect a large attendance from this section and more distant points. Now that the legislative session is about to begin, the question is again uppermost in the minds of such farmers as to what can be done in the way of effective legislation such as was passed by the house at the last General Session, but later voted down by the senate. This legislation proposed a material reduction in interest rates and a wind-up of the rural credits bureau.

PROWLERS PLAY ADA ON FRIDAY

Grand Forks Wins 27 to 12 On Own Floor; Locals Defeat Mahnomen Tuesday 29 to 25

Tomorrow evening the Prowlers will be hosts to the visiting Ada aggregation at the local Municipal Auditorium. The Vikings defeated Twin Valley, but lost to the powerful Crookston Pirates in a close duel at Crookston Friday evening. Predictions for an easy victory for either squad would be little short of folly although most fans are expected to string with the locals. The Prowler "B" squad will furnish the curtain raiser with a joust with the fast Alvarado cagers.

B. W. Gabrielson's Lincoln High School tumblers will make their first public appearance of the season during the evening.

The Prowlers broke even in two out of two intersectional cage contests recently, falling before Grand Forks, but coming back to whip Mahnomen.

Last Friday they fell victims to Coach Ed Bohnhoff's veteran Grand Forks quint by a lop-sided score of 27 to 12. Grand Forks presented an experienced and rangy quint that might have filled the hearts of many small college coaches with envy.

Both teams showed sparks of brilliance at times but it was the Cardinal clad warrior's consistency, and the lack of shooting form on the part of the Prowlers that decided the ragged contest. Both teams however showed a woeful lack of efficiency on free throws. The Prowlers made good only two out of fifteen and the Forks squad three out of fourteen attempts.

After a four-days' rest, Coach Lee's squad journeyed to Mahnomen where they clashed with a fleet Indian five Tuesday and emerged with a 29 to 25 victory.

The Indians captured an early lead but lost it in the second quarter. Only some very timely

Reckless Driving Blamed For Death Near Angus

A coroner's jury at Crookston investigating the cause of an automobile accident that took the life of Daniel William Faust, 35, of Minneapolis, one-half mile north of Angus Monday night, Dec. 7, decided Wednesday that Faust "came to his death accidentally in his automobile, driven in a reckless manner by Donald Becker of Crookston . . ."

The investigation was held at Angus and Warren, where three other occupants of the car, a Crookston boy and Vera Bjurback and Lois Aasen of Grand Forks, are in the hospital recovering from injuries received in the accident.

The mishap occurred when the car smashed into a concrete bridge railing on U. S. highway 75.

Previously it had been believed that Faust was driving his own car but testimony by the other occupants after they had recovered sufficiently to tell of the accident revealed that Becker was the driver.

Testimony was heard from Joe Soderberg and Harold Stroble of Angus, first arrivals on the scene; Mrs. Melvin Anderson and Vivian Hill of Warren, who testified that the occupants of the car had drunk beer at their places on the night of the accident; Leslie Espe and Torkel Knutson, state highway patrolmen who described the condition of the car and the highway as they found it; and Marshall Kays, deputy sheriff of Marshall county, whose testimony corroborated that of the patrolmen.

Becker, also a witness, said that fog made visibility poor and he was unable to see the bridge railing until it was too late to avoid a crash.

Meeting Held To Form Local Credit Union

Steps that may lead toward the formation of a local credit union were taken at a meeting of a score of men Wednesday afternoon who met at the I. O. O. F. hall to discuss the necessary details that must be complied with in the formation of such a credit group. With H. Halland as temporary president and C. E. Hellquist as temporary secretary, the meeting decided to request Mr. Skorstad, the state credit union head, to come here for a general public meeting the first part of January.

MIDLAND HOLDS ITS QUARTERLY MEET TUESDAY

Representatives of Cooperatives In Northwestern Part of State Attend Local Gathering

The district quarterly meeting of the Midland Cooperative Wholesalers was held at the Courthouse in Thief River Falls Tuesday, beginning at 11:00 a. m. The members of the district board were all present and eleven cooperative concerns were represented by delegates, each having two representatives. The members of the board are: P. F. Pearson, Lancaster, president; L. A. Nelson, Goodridge, secretary; Emil Wagner, Ada; A. L. Synes, Gonvick; and Sam Hauge, Bagley.

Mr. Brown, Midland Cooperative fieldman, gave a report of the progress of the associations in the district, and also of the increase of volume in the bulk and service pumps. Mr. Brown advocated the associations going into other commodities which have large margins, as the margins on oil have been narrowed to the point that dividends are hardly permissible. He recommended that the Board of directors of all co-ops take more interest in the affairs of the associations, and get a report for each month's business.

At the afternoon session, Mr. Osborne, secretary and treasurer of the Midland, from Albert Lea, gave a talk on the organization. He stated that it was the first cooperative wholesale in the world to handle petroleum products.

Mr. Vandernoyde, formerly a board member, and now a fieldman for Midland, explained the coordination plan for cooperators. M. V. S. Peterson explained the help of insurance to build the cooperative movement.

The earnings of the Midland Cooperative Wholesale were discussed as to how they were to be distributed.

L. R. Nelson read literature on the credit unions, how they were to be organized, giving the functions and help to the local associations on the credit problems.

The associations represented were: Cooperative Creamery association of Ada, Minn., Cooperative Oil association of Bagley, Community Cooperative Oil association of Clearbrook, Cooperative Oil association of Mentor, Cooperative Oil association of Hendrum, Kittson County Cooperative Oil association of Hallock, Lakeshore Cooperative Oil association of Thief River Falls, Cooperative Oil association of Middle River, Marshall County Cooperative Oil association of Warren, Cooperative Creamery association of Lancaster, and the Cooperative Oil association of Wirger.

TWO ESCAPED CULPRITS ARE TAKEN SUNDAY

Sheriff and Chief of Police Nabbed Long-Sought-For Prisoners

Hide-Out Is On Farm In Southern Minnesota

Alvin and Elmer Braseth Are Back In Jail After Six-Week Freedom

Sheriff Rambeck and Chief of Police Stenberg performed a difficult piece of work the first of this week when they apprehended an escaped prisoner and his aide or assistant.

Search for Elmer and Alvin Braseth had continued incessantly since Elmer, with the aid of his brother, sawed his way out of the county jail here six weeks ago. Clues as to their whereabouts came Saturday and early Sunday the two set out for Hayfield, near the Iowa line southwest of Rochester

The two were found to have resided for the past month on a farm near Hayfield where a woman friend had accompanied them and was doing the housekeeping. They had come to make their abode on the farm when the owner of the farm became injured and had to go to a hospital. They had made arrangements to stay there till spring.

As the two officers entered the farm home at dusk Sunday evening Alvin Braseth managed to make good his escape. Chief Stenberg fired two shots after him but he failed to halt. After passing two nearby farm places Braseth crawled into the upstairs of a large barn filled with straw. With the aid of others the two officers managed to locate their prisoner after two hours of strenuous digging in the straw.

The two prisoners were taken to St Paul where they were launched in jail overnight, the officers arriving here with them Monday afternoon.

The escaped culprits related the manner of their escape from the jail here while on the way here on Monday. They had gone from here to Pembina, N. D., where they had picked up their lady-friend and her three children. Then they had gone west to Langdon, then south thru Devils Lake and Valley City, N. D., Aberdeen and Sioux Falls, S. D., then eastward, stepping at Hayfield when they learned of the opportunity to make their home at the farm of the injured owner, and where the local officers nabbed them.

They will await trial in district court and may have to spend a considerable time in jail facing a more serious charge than they seem to comprehend.

Elmer Braseth was committed to jail here in October on several charges of check forgery.

"Dip" Demonstration Is Held In This County

H. G. Zavoral, Extension Animal Husbandman, University Farm, St. Paul, visited Pennington County, Dec. 10 and 11 and discussed sheep production problems with farmers who gathered at the Wm. Vaughan farm in Highlanding, the E. H. Pomerenke farm in Cloverleaf, the Ole Nesland farm in Deer Park, and the Frank Hardisty farm in Kratka. These meetings were well attended and much interest in sheep management was shown by the farmers, states R. M. Douglass, county agent.

Some of the most outstanding recommendations are given below:

Inasmuch as Pennington County is in an area low in iodine it was recommended that in order to prevent weak or goiterous lambs iodine salt be fed. Granulated salt was favored over block salt as sheep eat granulated salt in larger amounts. Where common salt is fed farmers are advised to add an ounce of potassium iodine per 100 pounds of salt. Potassium iodine can be purchased in any drug store.

In addition to being low in iodine this area lacks in phosphorus.

This lack is most easily seen in cattle where it causes a tendency to chew bones, eat soil and chew boards on mangers. With sheep lack of phosporous is less easily

THE CRISIS IN BRITAIN

The King Edward—Wallis Simpson imbroglio is called by newspapermen the biggest story since the World War. European statesmen see its repercussions as the greatest world crisis since Archduke Ferdinand's assassination at Sarajevo 22 years ago

Why this is so is mainly because of the effect the king's abdication has on the unity of the British Empire and the subsequent results on world affairs. If the British dominions or territories separate from the British Isles in all their political affiliations Brittania will not rule the waves much longer.

Edward's abdication showed that he did not consider the title of king as being of much importance. The king had been held in high esteem at all times by the people of the British dominion, in fact, the kingship has been the chief element of union between the various territories. Now that King Edward has cast such a poor reflection on the kingship will this undo the illusion these dominion people have?

Considering the fact that he was the nominal ruler of nearly half a billion people Edward showed an unusual attitude in letting his own personal emotions make his decisions for him. Our estimation of Wallis Simpson is not very lofty, so we cannot respect the king's idea of a good mate as being on a high level. But he has spent the greater part of his early manhood in that period known to us as the age of "flaming youth" and his decision last week to abdicate is indicative of that age.

Whether Wally will divorce Edward after a few years like she has done with her other husbands or not is outside the question. The idea is that King Edward had the admiration of all his people until the news of his affair with Mrs. Simpson began to spread around. He was democratic in his ideas and, no doubt, his rule would have been for the betterment of the poorer classes of people had he reigned.

Monarchy is obsolete, but we doubt if an elected ruler can hold the British kingdom together so the prospect is that if the new king, George VI, cannot make the role, part of the British empire will secede.

OBSERVE HOLIDAY FIRE WARNING!

"Let's make this a 'Safe' Christmas and avoid the usual fatalities", is our plea at this time.

It is true that during the Christmas Holidays the general public as well as the merchants, seem to forget the seriousness of some of these seemingly trivial hazards that so often result in such fatal disasters. There is not a Christmas that has not meant the loss of some life due to some existing fire hazard.. So, as a reminder we are issuing this warning and the following suggestions:

Electric lights should be used and the wiring should be thoroughly examined before being placed on the tree. Ascertain if there is a short circuit or not.

Crepe paper used for decorative purposes should be treated with a chemical solution to make it fire resistant.

Cotton, paper or celluloid ornaments should not be used on Christmas trees for decorative purposes unless chemically treated. Non-combustible trimmings are just as cheap, and White Rock, Red Tip and asbestos, Jepson flake or wool make "safe" snow.

Lighted candles should not be used on trees nor placed in windows.

Children should not be clothed in paper costumes when participating in Christmas programs, or in anything of an inflammable nature.

Smoking should be prohibited near decorations.

It is recommended that a pail of water or fire extinguisher be placed in the room in a convenient place in case of a fire in the tree. It is also suggested that a woolen blanket or rug be kept in a handy place to use for smothering a fire.

Merchants should use fire resisting paper decorations, or dip their decorations in a solution to make them as nearly fireproof as possible. Crepe paper can now be obtained which is of the slow-burning type and which will not throw off a flame. This should be used where paper decorations are necessary.

Let us heed the warning and make this a SAFE CHRISTMAS in order to protect the lives of our children, remembering the catastrophies in the past when children were exposed to these hazards because of negligence or ignorance in realizing the seriousness of the existing conditions.

UNIVERSITY OFFICIALS UNDER FIRE

Two university officials, one at Minnesota and another at Wisconsin, are under fire at this time. E. E. Nicholson, dean of the academic division at the University of Minnesota, is charged with preventing transfer of literature to liberal groups through the university postoffice. Glenn Frank, president of the University of Wisconsin, is threatened with dismissal from his job by the Progressives in his state.

It has been a fact known to all progressive or liberal students at our university that Dean Nicholson has been a recationary and a friend of fraternities, the abode of the richer students. A recheck of the various incidents during the past 25 years where liberal speakers and student organizations were interferred with and prevented will reveal that Dean Nicholson had a hand in nearly all of it.

Glenn Frank has been playing a prominent part in the national Republican party and has had ambition to be the Republican candidate for president. While there are other charges against him at the University of Wisconsin that alone is sufficient in the state that is the home of the LaFollettes.

They can both be ousted with much good resulting.

FARMERS CALL FOR ANTI-WAR MEASURES

The National Farmers Union has pledged its support of mandatory neutrality legislation, extended to include embargoes on basic war materials.

Meeting in its 34th annual convention in Des Moines representatives of farmer thought throughou the Middle West adopted a peace program which included, in addition to the neutrality plank, a resolution favoring a military policy to defend our country only against invasion and opposing the sending of American soldiers to foreign soil.

The Union also asked for: 1. a study of world trade with a view to adopting a policy which will ease trade tensions and be fair to all interests in this country; 2. immediate nationalization of all war industries and taxing the profits out of war; 3. settlement of all international disputes by arbitration and in keeping with the spirit of the Kellogg Pact; 4. abolition of compulsory military training in public schools; 5. reduction of world armaments by international agreement; and 6. protection of free speech, press and assembly.

U. S.—CANADIAN TRADE UP

Marked recovery in the trade with Canada, both outgoing and incoming, has taken place since the Canadian-American agreement came into operation on January 1, 1936, a recent report of the State Department shows.

Canadian imports from the United States during January through September of this year were valued at $266,000,000 as compared with $233,000,000 in the first 9 months of 1935, a gain of $33,000,000. United States imports from Canada during the same period were valued at $262,000,000 as compared with $204,000,000 a gain of $58,000,000.

This will reveal that the United States still retains a balance of four million dollars in its favor in the trade with Canada. We heard a lot about this in the recent election but the actual facts which the American voters must have guessed at pretty well point to a continued mutual relationship between the two countries.

LABOR MUST GET LARGER SHARE

Failure of American industry between 1919 and 1929 to match increased purchasing power, by means of lower prices or higher wages, was an important contributory factor in the 1929 collapse, according to the Council for Industrial Progress. The council, which recently released its study of American economics between 1914-1935, further concludes that the same conditions that caused the 1929 debacle are in full operation at present.

Boiling it all down, the report declares at one point, "The fallacious policy of an ever-increasing production without a proportionately increasing wage level, and the pressure to sell to a market limited by a too small income (purchasing power) undoubtedly were major contributing factors to the collapse of 1929."

In other words, putting the conclusion in layman's language, American factories poured out a flood of goods from 1914 on, but failed to make it possible for the nation to buy them by boosting wages, or by cutting prices. Thus an overproduction-underconsumption glut occurred, and the whole system stalled.

"The clear indication is," says the report, "that manufacturing industry as a whole has not contributed to the support of the consuming market in proportion to the increase in production."

This, despite the fact that "manufacturing industry, by reason of its present type of organization, its present level of efficiency, the introduction of labor-saving devices and mass production, is dependent upon mass consumption."

If the people cannot buy the goods, the report indicates, then factories making the goods must shut down.

MAN ABOUT TOWN

(Contributed)

We have in our little Village, which I shall designate (and the Society thereof) as Z, a philosophical ,and withal, an altogether lovable character whom (for want of a more appropriate term, and, in place of his real name), I will call "Man About Town." The two youths I will call X and Y; the Sheriff, who did his duty according to Law, and consequently, whom I exhonorate, I will call W.

The two youths fell afoul of the Law.

The Man About Town accosted me some time since when I was on my way up (or down) street, the sense of direction in this case signifies nothing. In these words he proceeded to relieve his pent-up feelings:

"I am a citizen. I doff my hat in deference to no man in my belief in law observance! I indict the Society of this Village, and summon the said Society before the Bar of Justice to answer Impeachment Charges!

"First, are you your Brother's keeper? Come, now; your answer! The question is a fair one! Don't equivocate!

"Second, Society, what have you done, in the past, and WHAT are you doing NOW to remedy the social defects of which these boys were found guilty?

"Third, Society, are the Mayor and your Council whom you duly elected, failing in their sworn duty to you? Have they done anything at all to remedy conditions that are rapidly demoralizing you? Have they thrown any safe-guards around your boys and girls? Are your superior citizenry protected? Are your boys and girls permitted to frequent your beer halls and saloons? Are your women permitted, ay, encouraged, to exercise their "inalienable" rights and mingle with, and drink with (so-called) men at bars?

"Fourth, On dance nights—! The scene beggars description; society! cursing, vulgarity, drinking promiscuonsly, ribald jesting, loud laughter, rowdyism! And this is what you, Society, are building your (and my) America of tomorrow with! What sort of structure do you expect? If I—"

But I had to hurry on my way. Shaking his honest hand warmly. I bade him good-bye. I anticipate meeting him again some day. He said, "Sign this,

Man About Town."

Facts surrounding the controversy between liberal student groups at the University of Minnesota and E. E. Nicholson, dean of student affairs, growing out of impounding of mail sent students by the Progressive Council, indicates that university authorities are conducting a campaign against liberal campus activities. . . . .

Liberals cannot let this go unchallenged. How far does the campaign go? Is Dean Nicholson carrying out orders from higher up? These are valid questions justified by both present and past events. . . . .

The people have a right to know not only how the University is conducted but in whose interest it is being conducted. A university administration has the right to resent interference from any group in its efforts to serve the purposes of true education, but we know something in this country of how powerful money interests defeat these purposes. . . . .

President Coffman has repeatedly complained against activities of what he terms "pressure groups", but he has yet to classify the Minnesota Law and Order League, of which Dean Nicholson is a prime mover, as a "pressure group." Neither has he complained about the militarists. His "pressure groups" are always of a liberal hue. . . . .

Persons close to the University say that the antagonism and persecution of liberal students and liberal student groups extend also to antagonism and persecution of liberal faculty members. If such is the case, the situation is serious, and immediate steps must be taken to remedy it.

Stockholders of the Farmers Union Terminal Association, at a meeting in St. Paul last week, voted for the return of the marketing functions exercised by the Farmers National Grain Corporation to the regional grain marketing cooperatives affiliated with the grain corporation. This is a move to shake off the autocratic control of the Farmers National Grain Corporation, a relic of the Hoover farm program. It is a step in the direction of democratization of grain marketing.

Minnesota's first farmers' cooperative electric line began operation in Meeker County last week. Two hundred and fifty farmers over an area of 150 square miles can now put away the kerosene lamp with its flickering, inadequate flame and really make use of the winter's long dark nights. The Litchfield municipal plant supplies the current for all of Meeker County and the City Council has voted to purchase a $95,000 diesel power unit to enlarge the capacity of the plant.

According to a study made by French Research, an independent agency, 40 per cent of the farms in the United States in 1935 included less than 6 per cent of all farm land, whereas 4 per cent of the largest farms included more than 40 per cent of all farm land. This shows that the trend of concentration of wealth in America in the hands of the few is true also of concentration of farm lands in the hands of the few. . . . .

Concentration of farm land in the hands of the large owners, according to Farm Research, has been progressing steadily since 1900. The situation is a serious one and if permitted to continue eventually there will be no such thing in America as the independent farmer operating under long time easy payments with low rates of interest, is of tremendous importance. Every effort should be exerted to see that this movement succeeds.

The proud British Empire has finally passed the "greatest crisis in its history." Edward has abdicated and he is free to marry Wally. Now the British people can put their mind to a real rather than a sham crisis. . . . .

Today, the glory that once was England's threatens to vanish. In the East ,Japan not only intends to boot England out of Chinese markets but is already invading the markets of India. As a result, mills in Lancaster are idle. In Africa rumbles of discontent, a rising tide of color threatening the rule of Britain in the south, and in the north Mussolini sends his war birds aloft as a gesture against the Suez Canal. In Australia, Canada and New Zealand, Britain's own colonies, people are demanding more and more home rule and caring less and less what happens to the mother country. . . . .

On the continent of Europe, the German high seas fleet is rising from its grave at Scapa Flow. Meanwhile the Russian bear stirs himself from his long winter's sleep and bodes no good to English imperialism in Persia and north India. . . . .

At home the miners of Cornwall live in abject poverty after 15 years of continual unemployment. The slums of Liverpool and Glasgow teem with the refugees of an empire — unemployed sailors, broken-down workers, wharf rats, and petty criminals. England's list of permanent unemployed grows apace. . . . .

Meanwhile, Caproni bombers blasting Madrid, the tramp of booted feet on the Rhine, the vacillation of French foreign policy and the continued estrangement of Czechoslovakia, Rumania, and the Little Entente is creating a situation which will cause the people of England to think that the present furore over Edward VIII's marriage plans is slightly exaggerated.

For too long the judiciary has been in the hands of men with an outmoded point of view or those whose interest is definitely on the side of property and wealth. People have demanded laws; legislators have passed them, only to find the courts declaring them invalid. Strikers have been intimidated, peaceful picketing prevented, and professional strike-breakers protected by judicial fiat. Unless we have judges whose concern is not wealth but general welfare we can look to difficulties in any liberal program. . . . .

For that reason the appointment of Municipal Judge Vince A. Day of Minneapolis to the Hennepin County District Court bench is a very wholesome thing. Judge Day, who has spent virtually his entire life in the liberal movement, was formerly private secretary to the

By R. C. STENGELSEN

Ain't love grand!

An attempt was made — allegedly by those on the other side of the Atlantic who are opposed to the alliance — to spread the rumor that the State Department at Washington frowned on the threatened marriage between Edward VIII and Mrs. Simpson. However, when this talk came to the ears of the Secretariat, there was quick and emphatic denial that the American government had taken official cognizance of the affair, or that it was in any manner interested.

Thus, America gives one more demonstration that it intends to ad here, rigidly, to its policy of strict neutrality. It furnished initial proof of this attitude when it refused to interfere in Mussolini's robbery of Ethiopia; it gave additional proof when it did nothing more than protest mildly at Japan's conquest of Manchukuo; and now it clinches it by intimating, through indirection, that if Mrs. Simpson annexes England by grabbing off its king, it will be quite okay with the United States. . .

. . . As it will, presumably, also be quite okay with Mrs. Simpson.

The English, however — or many of them, at least — refuse to take this impartial view of the affair. Indeed, so stirred up over it are they that if one even so much as mentions her name, the populace immediately rises, takes off its hat and apprehensively sings —

"God save the king!"

Not that the English are unwilling that their king should marry. Quite the contrary, they have long been hoping that he would. But there is more or less unanimous agreement among them that it must be to someone of blue blood —or at least to someone who has not traipsed back and forth between altars and divorce courts quite so energetically. . .

. . . Which, however, it seems to your commentator is hardly a reasonable view to take. For its a safe bet that Wally knows more in five minutes about handling a husband, and about how to get along with the brute, than half a dozen anemic princesses would know in a week.

And if it came to a contest in domesticity between the bunch of them and Mrs. Simpson — mending, sewing on buttons and darning socks, for example, — our money is on Wally to win by at least two ripped shirt-tails.

But these wifely qualities, however excellent they may be seem to count for little in this particular case. For in England the view has come to be adopted that the king is king, not through divine right, but because the people themselves have put him at their head and will permit him to remain there only so long as he is a good boy and does his job. . .

Nor do they require too much of him. He has little more to do than to be dignified and kingly in behavior. However vague and intangible it may be, he is the bond which holds Great Britain together. Conduct on his part which might bring upon him the condemnation of the dominions might conceivably lead to dissolution of the empire.

And so, in return for the privilege of occupying the exalted position to which his people have raised him, he owes certain duties. And that discharge of these duties may mean sacrifice is something he must accept. He may not reasonably expect to enjoy the great benefits conferred upon him without incurring corresponding obligations.

One such obligation is to marry someone acceptable to the British, even if it means that he must put aside his personal inclinations. But this he seeks to ignore by choosing a twice-divorced woman who is generally looked upon by the English as unfit to be his wife.

But it is unlikely that Mrs. Simpson ,who is highly intelligent, will permit him to choose between her and the crown. For, certainly, she has had sufficient experience with marriage to be fully aware that once the ardor of courtship and honeymoon have cooled and life settles down to the level routine of marriage, that the price he paid for her companionship will, to him loom increasingly large.

That it might, for a third time, bring her to the divorce court, is perhaps unlikely. But that he, at least, would ultimately regret his impulsive choice is more than probable.

But it is the guess of many that Mrs. Simpson will realize the impossibility of attaining the objective for which she may have been aiming. She will probably withdraw, voluntarily, from a position which she would not, in any event, be able to maintain. In so doing, she will reap the respect, acclaim and gratitude of the British people. It will, in short, raise her to a place in their good opinions which she could never otherwise have attained.

But one need waste no sympathy on Wally Simpson. She is quite able to take care of herself and isn't lost behind a wagon. Consider that when she began this life, some 35 to 40 years ago as plain Wallis Warfield, she started from scratch. . .

Now she has a comfortable income, servants, secretaries, high social position, two ex-husbands, and a poodle.

It shows what a gal can do who pays strict attention to business and puts her heart in her work.

By R. C. HAGGLUND

"Love Makes the World Go Round"

for Ex-King Edward and Wallie; for the news agencies who built more circulation for their sheets; for the millions of spectators who stared, open-mouthed, at the spectacle of a king abdicating a throne for love; for the ministers and diplomats who have become dizzy trying to figure out what will be the ultimate result; and for millions of obscure newspaper writers, who had something new to write about.

Because of Wallie, the world goes 'round and 'round, and where it will stop, not even a politician knows. Some think the British empire will fall to pieces.

It's Nice to Be American

In such a crisis, it's nice to live in the greatest country on earth, bar none, where we are not hampered by public courtesy. American newspapers made a hero out of Lindbergh, then made a bum out of him. What they made of Mrs. Simpson is not quite clear yet, but what they made of themselves is very clear.

In America, we have no inhibitions, publicly speaking. We are not loath to drag out the most intimate details of our lives—provided those details are the private property of someone else. If those details are the property of some dignitary abroad, so much the better. A dash of nobility only makes the dragging-down process so much more interesting.

One good thing about starting from the bottom in the matter of public courtesy—there is room for boundless improvement. One cannot conceivably get worse. That's the nice thing about living in America.

A Dark, Deep Conspiracy

American newspapers seem to have a definite object in view, in pursuing their policy of ruthless publicity. One guess is that by doing so they make an attempt to discredit democratic institutions. The theory seems to be: In a democracy, the private life of one person should be the property of all.

This is true, to a certain extent, but there is a fallacy here. The private life of the individual is his own property. Under a true democracy, no one would want to know anything about it, because such a rule would work both ways, and those who wants to be put under the micro-

The close scrutiny of public personages by American newspapers is the worst feature of our democracy. Any attempt to curb such close inspection, under the present setup, would raise a hubbub about the rights of free speech and of the press. Circulation, publicity, advertising—the economic factors —will have to be eliminated from the reckoning before any change can be made. Damaging publicity would be greatly reduced under socialism, because the profit-motive would be absent.

Mosley Fishes for a Cause

Sir Oswald Mosley and his Black Shirts staged a demonstration in favor of Edward when George VI was coronated. Using the age-old catch-phrases that have deceived the working class in so many instances, Mosley called on the people to support his party in an attempt to put "the people's friend" back on the throne.

Edward recently conducted an investigation of conditions in the Welch mines, in Premier Baldwin's stamping ground. The king found unemployment widespread. A large percentage of the workers had had no work since the early '20's. He prepared a report of this investigation, which no doubt proved embarrassing to Baldwin and his associates.

On a previous occasion, Edward had visited the slums of Edinburgh, Scotland, and voiced his opinion, in no uncertain terms, of a system whic hcould produce such utter degradation. On other occasions he had spoken against war.

Such a man would be a natural for an ambitious fellow like Mosley to use as a screen to push his fascistic movement in England. Edward has just enough social consciousness to be dangerous. Quite evidently, he does not believe in the wisdom of popular government. His experience with the Labor government, just concluded, would serve to prove more than ever that a country needs an intelligent minority headed by a real king, or a dictator. There is great danger in such a situation.

What England needs right now is a united front government, which will supplant the out-worn labor setup, which has gone backward instead of ahead. The masses of the English people have outstripped the Labor government in the race toward the ultimate goal. They need a government that will at least keep pace with them.

FINLAND PAYS OFF AGAIN
GOVERNOR BLOWS ASSEMBLY POOR TIME FOR WPA CUTS
EDWARD CHUCKS THE WORKS
CROP CONTROL TO CONTINUE
PUNCH BOARDS AT THE FAIR

We might as well get ready for it—"at long last." When former King Edward began his farewell broadcast with that catchy phrase, he started something that will probably haunt us for weeks to come. Americans, young and old, are great mimics.

Stop us if you've heard this before. Finland paid its regular war debt installment on Tuesday; the other 12 debtors came up with the usual regrets. But just to vary the monotony, Great Britain and France did hint they were thinking, maybe not too seriously, of paying something on account soon. Meanwhile both will keep right on spending huge sums for armaments.

Looking for a pet peeve? A Twin City bakery has been awarded a court judgment for the return of processing taxes paid a milling firm under the defunct AAA law. But old Freddie Consumer, who really absorbed the processing taxes on food-stuffs, will continue to whistle for his money.

Through no desire of his own, Gov. Petersen has called the 1935 legislature into special session to see what can be done about cooking up a jobless insurance law. Unless such a law is passed and approved by the Federal Social Security Board before the Dec. 31st deadline, the state forfeits its 90 per cent cut in unemployment taxes paid by Minnesota employers for 1936. That money, about $2,700,000, is worth saving even if it does cost the taxpayers 25 or 30 thousand to save it.

On the other hand, the state and the national congress must share responsibility for this last-minute rush. The state has known for months that a special session was inevitable if it was to qualify, under present terms of the federal unemployment insurance act, for its percentage of the tax money. And congress knew when it set its time limit that many states would be forced to call special sessions in order to get under the wire. Social security legislation, highly experimental at best, should be approached with care and caution, not hustled through like a mileage appropriation.

Here's a hot one. The League of Nations has warned France and Great Britain to quit trying to settle the Spanish civil war as their efforts are only paralyzing the League's plan for mediation. If anyone can stop that carnage, either by threats or arbitration, they'd better hop right to it. Waiting for the League to take action is something like waiting for a train that was pulled off the line a year ago.

Out here in Minnesota we reason, soundly enough, that the WPA might have picked a better time for cutting down on relief jobs than in the winter months. Our quota of WPA jobs for this winter has been reduced to 44,500 from a high of 67,000 last winter, which means, among other things, that many farmers dependent upon the WPA because of poor crops this year may have to be taken care of in some other way.

However, aside from any local reasons Minnesota has for deploring WPA cuts, this much is true in general. The country as a whole has come to rely so much upon WPA help in solving relief problems that a squawk was bound to follow no matter when the administration decided to reduce relief projects. It's easy to start a flow of federal money; hard to stop it.

The special house committee appointed last spring to investigate the Townsend plan has filed a report calling the plan "economically unsound on 5 points" and stating further that "men of notoriously bad character" have made large profits out of the contributions of the aged. The principal reason for terming the plan unsound is because "ten per cent of the people would receive half the national income from the labor of the other 90 per cent." No date has been set as yet for Dr. Townsend's trial on the contempt charges voted against him.

Repitition can make any subject painful, even dangerous, so this corner will pause just long enough to agree with any opinion you may have on King Edward's abdication. He's a hero or a very foolish young fellow, whichever you say. Personally—if you insist on pinning us down—the few English corpuscles in our blood, thinning rapidly since the cold snap set in grow restless whenever we try to justify the former king's action. But he didn't ask for the job and he didn't want it, so who are we to be weighing his decision in terms of courage? Man or monarch, you live only once.

Good luck, then, to David Windsor, who forfeited his crown for a woman's love, and good luck to the new ruler of the British empire. Under the circumstances, England may find the exchange was all for the best.

As the day draws nearer for congress to start its annual lawrolling festival, along comes word that this time the St. Lawrence seaway pact is a cinch to win senate approval. The northwest would like to believe that, but they can't blame us for being skeptical. Even though several senators who voted against the treaty in 1935 are out of the picture, the private utilities opposed to it are still in the front row. They can be mighty persuasive when they set out to be—and they have to persuade only 32 members of the senate to block the whole works.

Hoping "to adapt the program more closely to the needs of the various regions" and "to place more responsibility for administration upon the farmers themselves," the department of agriculture announces its crop control program for 1937 will follow this year's pattern. Definite limits will again be established to hold down surpluses, with any farmer exceeding his quota on soil depleting crops being penalized at the rate of $2 per acre from the basic benefit of $9 per acre. Payments to farmers raising wheat and corn are expected to run about 10 per cent less than the 1936 payments. These plans, more or less tentative, depend entirely upon what success the department has in coaxing another $500,000,000 appropriation out of congress for soil conservation.

Hollywood is taking an extra bow for itself because, for a change, weddings between film folk outnumbered divorces this year. The present score stands 48 to 34 in favor of the "I-do's." Pretty good—for Hollywood. However, Doug Fairbanks, Sr. cast a two-way ballot by divorcing Mary Pickford and then marrying Sylvia Hawkes, former chorus girl wife of a British lord.

In a recent edition the Minneapolis Journal quoted Variety, blue book of the show world, this way: "Two of the outstanding fairs—the Minnesota and Mississippi state fairs, which have never before allowed concessions—this year went over to concessions in a big way."

The statement, not entirely accurate when it says concessions were never allowed at the Minnesota fair before 1936, reminds us again of a situation which did develop at this year's fair. Namely, punch boards and "14" games (dice) were not conspicuous by their absence, as anyone who got around much knows. Presumably the idea of introducing them originated with concession holders, but they were there and the opportunity for gambling was there with them. As long as the fair remains a state institution with aims a little higher than those of a street carnival, the average person may doubt the wisdom of giving consent silent or otherwise, to questionable games of chance. Or is that an old-fashioned viewpoint?

Although the 3-cent postage law expires next June, there's not much chance of any return to the old 2-cent rate. The post office department admits that extra penny on each chunk of first class mail isn't doing their balance sheet any harm. And the folks paying the extra cent are just as ready to admit that all the franked mail congressmen turn loose on the public, along with the low rate on periodicals, isn't doing that balance sheet any particular good either.

Providing it's sympathy and understanding he's looking for, Leon Trotzky, exiled Russian revolutionist, could do worse than accept Mexico's invitation to make his home south of the Rio Grande. There are nearly as many revolutionists in Mexico right now as there are filling stations in the U. S.

Here's something that speaks, or at least gurgles, for itself. Federal liquor taxes for the fiscal year ending June 30th amounted to $505,000,000, or about $22,0000,000 more than was collected in the best year before prohibition. the "Best" meaning from the standpoint of revenue). And if collections keep on at the present rate, liquor taxes for the year ending next June 3th will be $100,000,000 more than was taken in during any year of the pre-prohibition era. The population has increased, of course. So, apparently, has the thirst.

The "mercy death" bill introduced into the British house of lords had one of its own last week when a majority voted it down. Strong opposition developed on both moral and ethical grounds, with the church and the king's private physician leading the fight. In view of the outcome, there'll probably be no similar bill introduced into our congress for some time to come.

If you're thinking of popping for a new car one of these days—and who doesn't like to think about it?—better pick one with a bright color. Say red, yellow, blue or green. Tests prove those are the colors easiest to distinguish against highway backgrounds. And if the finish is dull (the car's, not yours), so much the better. Browns and greys rate at the very bottom of the visibility chart.

That committee of the American Bar association which is all excited over a radio program broadcasting the free legal advice barreled out to selected applicants must have been tuning in a different station than this corner. So far we've yet to hear any advice that wouldn't occur off-hand to the average person. Or much that he'd be interested in.

AN IMPORTANT LECTURE

Asserting that the Millennium, or thousand years described in the twentieth chapter of the Book of Revelation, is not what many suppose it to be, Evangelist Gulbrandson in his lecture last Sunday night in the old Methodist church to a large and attentive audience pointed out that it begins when the Son of God returns to this earth the second time to raise the dead in Christ and gather His elect, and it ends with the resurrection of the unjust who will then receive their punishment. On the basis of numerous Biblical statements, Mr. Gulbrandson proved that the earth will be reduced to chaos during the thousand years, a fit prison-house for Satan. At the close of the Millennium, Satan as the leader of innumerable company of the ungodly, will make an attack on the Holy City of God, but "fire came down from God out of heaven and devoured them", and thus the long and cruel reign of sin comes to an end. After the millennium God shall create a new earth where peace, joy, and righteousness will be found. The beautiful stereopticon views on the screen and the stirring gospel songs were enjoyed by young and old The program of the Back to the Bible Lecture Course is announced elsewhere in this paper. —Contributed.

4-H Club Champion Takes Posture Test

The Christmas Seal nurse, Miss Mabel Johnson, is shown here inspecting the posture of Verle Schrupp, Swanville, 4-H Club Health Champion from Minnesota. The Minnesota Public Health Association and the Minnesota State Medical Association co-operate in giving the examinations. Verle was selected as girl champion from 75 contestants, champions from their counties. Hiram Fuller was named boy champion. Examining doctors declare that posture and the general health of contestants has improved consistently during the years the state examination has been provided. This year practically every contestant had received the Mantoux test for detection of tuberculosis infection. The examinations are part of the Christmas Seal educational program to promote better general health among young people.

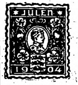
Do You Know That:

One out of every four deaths occurring among girls from 15 to 30 is caused by tuberculosis.

Tuberculosis is responsible for the death of about 4,000 children under 15 years of age in the United States.

More than 3½ million people have died of tuberculosis in the United States in the past 30 years.

Forty Countries Have Tuberculosis Seals



More than forty countries throughout the world have used the Christmas Seal to carry on anti-tuberculosis work since 1904 when Einar Holboell, Danish postal clerk, originated the idea of selling these decorative penny stamps to raise funds to fight this ancient plague.

No country in the world has had greater success in the use of the tuberculosis Christmas Seal than the United States. Beginning with a restricted sale in Delaware in 1907, when America's first Christmas Seal was designed by Miss Emily P. Bissell, the Seal has become through the past 30 years the chief means of support of some 2,000 national, state and local associations in the country.

Although a campaign against the disease had been promoted in Minnesota since 1890, no method of financing a program and arousing the public interest was found until the Christmas Seal plan was was adopted. The first Seal sale in Minnesota was held in 1909.

This year's Christmas Seal, with a jolly, modern Santa Claus, symbolizes a modern battle carried on against tuberculosis, making use of all modern weapons. This thirtieth Seal symbolizes the progress that has been made during the thirty years of warfare for in Minnesota the death rate from tuberculosis had been cut nearly two-thirds.

Buy and Use Christmas Seals

Three Tuberculosis Deaths Each Day

The death rate from tuberculosis, indicated on the accompanying chart which shows the decline in the death rate in Minnesota, is an index of the progress made in the campaign against tuberculosis, a campaign financed by Christmas Seals. Since 1907, when the Christmas Seal was introduced into the United States, the Minnesota death rate has been cut nearly two-thirds.

In 1907, 103 persons for every 100,000 in the state died of tuberculosis. In 1935 this rate had been reduced to 35.6. That the need is still great is evident when it is considered that the 1935 rate means that three Minnesota people die each working day of the year from this disease, and that the Minnesota death rate showed a slight rise in 1935 over 1934

This rise, the first in the state in ten years, serves as a warning that vigilance cannot be relaxed. Christmas Seals carry on a year around battle for prevention and early discovery of tuberculosis.

Since the first Christmas Seal was sold in 1907 the tuberculosis death rate has been cut two-thirds. But tuberculosis is still the leading cause of death between 15 and 45. Carry on the work by purchasing your share of Christmas Seals.

WPA Payroll Boosts Local Buying Power

Holiday buying power in Pennington county has been increased $7,300 as a result of the disbursement of WPA payrolls for the last three pay periods, according to figures announced this week by Victor Christgau, state administrator.

These figures show that approximately this amount has been or will be distributed in checks to 98 WPA workers in the county during this period, according to data obtained from the district office of J. B. Kovarik at Detroit Lakes released this week by Merle Webb, engineer in charge of WPA work in the county.

The Tenant Farmer Problem

Another urgent problem has to do with farm tenure; that is, with the relationship of the man to the land. This is fundamental in any society. In our period of the open frontier, when land was plentiful and population sparse, the path to farm ownership was easy, and the dominant feature of the land-tenure system was owner-operation. No one had to work long for another, either as laborer or tenant, if he cared to set up in farming for himself. There was good land to be had free, or at a very low price. But as the country filled up, and the good free or cheap land disappeared, newcomers had to apply for land to those who had preceded them. They had to become tenants, or to buy farms on terms entitling the former owners to a large share of the earning for a long time. Eventually even these expedients became difficult or hazardous. More people wanted to rent land than could get it, and wold-be purchasers had to assume heavy fixed charges. Suddenly we discovered that we had a large army of landless farm people for whose welfare and security we had made little or no provision.

Farm tenancy is increasing so rapidly in the United States that it foreshadows radical changes in our tenure system. In the half-century from 1880 to 1930 the number of farm tenants more than doubled. Among each 1,000 farmers the number of tenants increased 66 percent. In 1930 more than 40 percent of the farmers rented all the land they farmed, and an additional 10 percent rented part of their land. In many counties of the South more than half the farmers were tenants. The farm census of 1935 reported about 2,855,000 tenant farmers, whose families aggregated 12,500,000 people. Between 1930 and 1935 the percentage increased significantly in many states and greatly in some, and the total number of tenant farmers reported by the 1935 census was the largest in the history of the country. Something should be done to moderate the trend; for tenancy produces serious evils, not the least among them being disregard for the soil. Something should be done also to improve the conditions of tenancy, so that tenants will have more interest in good farming and more incentive to cooperate in measures for the conservation of natural resources.

We cannot condemn tenancy as wholly and necessarily bad in itself. It arises inevitably as the competition for land increases, at any rate in a social system based on the private ownership of natural resources. But whether it does more harm than good depends on the manner in which it develops, and on the extent to which land-tenure practices acknowledge the rights of the tenant as well as those of the landlord. Tenancy may help farmers of limited capital to become farm owners; in fact in the United States it has generally done so. In some of the better farming states the tenants have considerable working capital and could buy land if they so desired. Tenancy is not prevalent in certain poor farm areas, because the farms there usually will not support both an owner and a tenant. There is no blanket rule by which we can exalt or condemn the typical forms of American land tenure. One thing, however, we know. Without a stable and continuous association with the land, farm operators have small incentive to protect the soil, or to build up desirable forms of community life.

In some areas tenants should be assisted to become owners, provided they can be protected against land speculation and other hazards. Yet heavy land buying for this purpose might boost land values and defeat its object. Much might be done to improve leasing agreements. Tenancy in the United States has developed very differently from tenancy in some other countries, probably because in this country rights of private ownership have been considered virtually absolute, and until recently have been very litlle regulated in the public interest. Few of our tenant farmers, except those who occupy the farms of relatives, can be sure of keeping their farms for longer than the period covered by the lease, which is generally for only one crop year. They have no property in any of the improvements which they may make. Other countries give tenants more security of tenure, and require landlords to compensate them for unexhausted improvements. We should do the same.

Farm Income vs. the National Income

But what we do about tenancy in the next four years ,like what we do about other farm problems, will depend on the size of the farm income. With the total income rising, it will be less difficult to adjust the somewhat divergent interests of landlords and tenants. Likewise, it will be easier to get farmer cooperation in soil care and to develop safeguards against overproduction. In estimating the prospects for the farm income, the most basic factor is the level of consumer buying power—in other words the national income. Farm income varies more closely with that than with farm-commodity prices; moreover, a rising national income, since it implies activity in business and manufacturing, tends to prevent the overmanning of the land, and that too is favorable for agriculture. In August last ,the money income of the non-farm population was 13 percent higher than in the same month of 1935, and 32 percent higher than in August, 1933. Probably 1937 will record a further gain. Industry still has arrears of production to make up, and its activity will benefit agriculture. In the relatively favorable conditions that promise to develop we ought to make progress in dealing with numerous vital problems.

About the foreign market less can be said with confidence. Farm products shared in the increase that took place in our foreign trade last year; yet the exports were far below the levels maintained from 1920 to 1929. The crop reductions due to the 1934 drouth were a factor, but restrictions on international trade, and increased foreign competition, were influential too. Agriculture is beginning to benefit from agreements under the Reciprocal Tariff Act. However, the countries with which agreements have been concluded take only about a quarter of our agricultural exports, and a full test of the reciprocal-agreement plan must await the conclusion of agreements with the major importing countries. American agriculture will face another crisis when its production returns to normal, unless the foreign market recovers vigorously; for normally it depends on the foreign as well as the domestic market, and without an active foreign trade its products are bound to slump in price at home. When what should go out stays in, practically everything that is produced shows a loss, the crops intended for consumption domestically along with those grown for export. This is fundamental if familiar; we cannot afford to forget it. For the moment agriculture has no protection against another overproduction crisis.

But the same thing may be said of our economy as a whole. It is emerging from one depression without building adequate safeguards against another. Agriculture enters 1937 with everything set for large production, and industry likewise has the brakes off. This is what we --" recovery. After the pains of crop limitation and unemployment, it feels good. Nowadays, however, the cycle from boom to depression is rapid, and the expansion is briefer than the contraction. Production outruns consumption. We have developed no remedy. One oft-tried method does not work. It seeks to balance production with consumption by continually expanding the number of consumers. It promotes one-way foreign trade so that low consumption at home may be eked out by consumption abroad. But exports cannot run ahead of imports indefinitely.

There is another way. Production may be balanced with consumption per capita. This method has been experimented with under the New Deal, but it has not yet become an accepted principle of the national policy. As things are shaping now we shall shortly have surplus production again in both fields and factories. We shall have to choose among three alternatives: (1) to reduce production and employment; (2) to export the surplus without importing an equivalent; or (3) to consume it domestically or an imported equivalent through a fair distribution of the national income.

Kenora Area Mining Seen As $1,000,000 Industry Next Year

People in the Thief River Falls territory may not be aware that gold abounds in profitable quantities only a hundred miles or so distant. But such is the case and the following article from the Winnipeg Tribune will be of interest to many people in this territory who have visited the Canadian side of the Lake of the Woods. The article:

'Lake of the Woods section of Northwestern Ontario has every indication of being one of the most active gold camps in the Dominion during 1937, with several producers slated for the camp.

"By next summer it is expected that gold mining will be a million-dollar industry in Kenora district, led by development at such properties as Kenricia ,Duport, Kenland, and Wendigo.

"Joseph Errington, whose title "mine maker", is well earned, is president of Kenricia. The company this week started up its new mining plant and resumed shaft sinking, with an initial objective of 500 feet. A surface vein 700 feet in length averaging $20 in gold across 30 inches, has been diamond drilled to around 200-foot depth with most promising results.

"Kenricia is located in Clearwater Bay, 13 miles west of Kenora. It is expected that the 500-foot level in the shaft will be reached early in February.

"Kenland, operating the famed lod Horseshoe mine, 52 miles south east of Kenora, which has taken out more than $500,000 in gold in the past, has started a program of deeper development and lateral exploration, with excellent chances of obtaining new and valuable ore bodies at depth.

"About two and one-half tons of concentrates are being made at the mine, which has a 50-ton mill in operation, the concentrates averaging about $110 in gold to the ton.

"Mill heads in the old stamp mill have been running $14 and when the new flotation units are installed it is expected that this recovery will be increased.

"Wendigo mine is in regular production, and it is expected that the production this year will range between $150,000 and $200,000.

"Owing to the mill feed during October being taken from the dump while shaft timbering was underway, the output for that month was lower than warranted. In November ,however, production will be substantially higher, and December will see a new high mark for the mine, it is expected.

"Duport, of which J. G. Gross is engineer in charge, is developing ore reserves at present with the expectation that sufficient ore will be on hand next summer to place a mill in operation. A mill unit as high as 200 tons daily is proposed for the mine.

"Kenora Prospectors, one of the earliest companies in the district, is temporarily closed down. Blue Star Gold Mines is in the same category, but both properties are expected to be going full swnig again by next spring.

"The old Homesake mine, another well-known producer 35 years ago, has been taken over by a Siscoe subsidiary, Mines Development company. The shaft, sunk to 235 feet, is being de-watered, in preparation for sampling.

"Lakeport Gold Mining company has acquired the old Monte Crisco and Victor properties, with the intention of exploring and developing these. Early diamond drilling will be undertaken by the company, with the intention of vigorous development underground next spring.

"Brae Breest Gold Mines, Limited, five miles west of Keewatin, has uncovered a huge porphry dyke, about 1,000 feet in width and with a length of more than 1,500 feet. Extension diamond drilling and surface exploration will be continued before any decision as to underground development is made.

"Coniagas is planning to carry out a program of 25,000 feet of diamond drilling on a nickel-gold-chromium find, 50 miles southeast of Kenora. The showings have been traced on the surface for 1,000 feet, and a dip-needle survey indicates its extension for another 1,000 feet.

"Velma Gold Mines, working another old property, is planning to go underground. Buffalo Canadian has optioned the property.

"Muton Long Lac is extending its shaft to 125 feet, and the old Neda property will also be developed underground next spring. The old Olympic mine is being opened up by the Machin interests.

"Several other companies are reported as about to enter the Lake of the Woods area next year, so that the outlook is particularly promising.

"R. A. Lessard, in charge of operations at the Canadian Homestake mine, five miles east of Kenora, tells that de-watering of the shaft has been slower than anticipated, so that this work is just now being completed. On Tuesday a depth of 195 feet in the shaft had been reached, while the bottom depth of 235 feet was expected to be reached early next week. After that sampling of all workings will be carried out and, if results are satisfactory, the Mines Development Company, sponsored by Siscoe Gold Mines, will proceed with active development. Dr. Gill, of McGill university, will be associated with sampling.

"In looking over old drifts that have already been de-watered, Mr. Lessard says that the ore looks "mighty good", but, of course, it will be necessary to assay the samples before values can be ascertained. W. Edwards, a director of the company, has arrived at the property to assist in sampling."

CAPITOL NEWS REVIEW

late Governor Olson. He is a man not only of advanced social point of view but feels very keenly that our laws should be made flexible enough to meet the needs of modern social and economic conditions.

Farmers in the state are greatly concerned about the cutting from W. P. A. rolls of 12,000 of their number who will have to face the sub-zero weather with no adequate means of subsistence. ....

An attempt to cushion the blow was made by announcement that the Resettlement Administration would care for the "neediest" cases. However, the Resettlement Administration plans to care for only a third of those who are now on W. P. A. rolls and the others face the winter with nothing in the house and no job nor chance to get one. Even those who are fortunate enough to transfer to the Resettlement Administration lists will receive from $18 to $23 a month—about half what they have been getting. ....

John Bosch, national and state president of the Farmers Holiday Assn., has wired Harry Hopkins, federal administrattor, that "farmers will not submit quietly to starvation." He was one of the leaders in the march on W. P. A. offices in St. Paul Tuesday of this week where farmers from all parts of the state registered their indignation at being thus 'summarily cut from W. P. A. rolls. ....

U. S. Senator Henrik Shipstead has also sent vigorous protests to Washington against this wholesale slicing of unemployed people from the W. P. A. lists.

Designer of First Seal Is Honored

Miss Emily P. Bissell of Wilmington, Delaware, still active in Christmas Seal work in Wilmington, was the designer of the first Christmas Seal in America and promoted its first sale in Delaware. First funds raised were used to help build a hospital for children ill with tuberculosis.

Miss Bissell was inspired by a magazine article written by Jacob Riis, telling of the Danish Christmas Seal and the good work being done with funds raised through this method.

On the thirtieth anniversary of the Christmas Seal in America, Miss Bissell ma; look with pride at the gigantic organization into which her little beginning has grown.

On December 8, a birthday party was to be given for Miss Bissell at the Hotel DuPont, Wilmington, marking the thirtieth anniversary of the introduction of the Seal into the United States. Minnesota Christmas Seal workers plan to send Miss Bissell a letter of congratulation on this occasion.

The Guilty Gift

By Martha B. Thomas

SAM LINCOLN walked slowly along the street gazing into store windows. An icy wind caught him at the corners but he hurried across to the next curb intent on his mental shopping,

He was thinking hard of Cora, too. Though not a word had been spoken between them on the subject, it was quite understood that he should buy her warm gloves, a warm sweater and stockings for Christmas. He'd saved a fair amount for this very purpose. When you gave up your city living for the country, you thought in terms of wool. Cora needed all these things. Her gloves were worn down to thin spots. Her sweater had been mended a good many times and her stockings—well, Cora just laughed about them. Cora would. She had made fun of every hard thing about changing their home, from the dreadful wheezy pump in the kitchen, to the way the floors slanted in the bed rooms, so that no pencil would stay on a table, and books continually slid off on the floor. Cora was a thoroughbred and a good sport.

Sam looked at a green sweater. That would be becoming to Cora's light curls. Or that cheerful red one. Nice on snowy winter mornings. The very chickadees would sing with pleasure at sight of her in that sweater. He took a few steps toward the shop door when his eye fell on a black-and-yellow silk kimono.

Of course he would not get it; just inquire the price so that he might look at it.

The moment Sam touched a reverent hand to the exquisite silk he was lost. Thrifty, hard-working Sam! How could he have done such a thing? And so calmly, too. "Please wrap it up," he had said. The price had been reduced in order to sell quickly. He walked out of the shop with the light bundle under his arm, and slunk by windows filled with warm woolen clothes . . . the kind Cora so sorely needed.

All the way home on the train his heart sank lower and lower. He felt so chilled and miserable at the thought of his weak behavior, that Cora rushed at him as he opened the door, exclaiming, "My dear, what dreadful thing has happened to you?"

"You're So Lovely I Want to Kiss You Very Hard."

They had an excellent if frugal dinner. Cora chatted happily of this and that, looking unusually pretty and gay. Sam tried to meet her laughter, but actually shivered along his spine. Idiot! Fool! Wretched unspeakable lunatic that he was! Would a yellow-and-black Chinese kimono keep Cora warm? It would not.

Justice demanded that he confess. Cora would be kind, and that would hurt more than anything. Cora would be kind . . . and keep right on feeling cold on the crisp mornings after Christmas. But he must do it . . . muddle through it somehow.

After dinner he came close to Cora muttering something about a gift, and how darned sorry he was . . . and please, please not to look at him so sweetly.

Cora unwrapped the bundle. Sam waited. The lovely shining thing fell to the floor with the lights gleaming on it.

"Oh . . . oh . . . ! I never in all my life saw anything so magnificent! For me? Surely, surely not for me, Sam? But how I'd adore it! I'm sure I wouldn't mind anything if I knew such a gorgeous garment were hanging in my closet. But of course you're teasing me . . ."

"No," said Sam heavily, "it's your Christmas present. I feel like a cad. I know you need the warm things . . . don't be so darned sweet about it!" he commanded crossly.

Cora flung on the robe, and threw her arms around Sam's neck. "I don't know why you're acting this silly way . . . but if you're so dead set on warm things . . . a whole box came this afternoon from Uncle Horace."

Sam sank weakly into a chair. "You're so lovely I want to kiss you very hard."

"Why not?" inquired Cora, resplendent in the yellow-and-black kimono. "This is simply the most wonderful thing you ever did for me."

SCHOOL NOTES

The annual sale of Christmas seals by the grades to raise funds to be used in the work of combatting tuberculosis is under way. All the pupils of these grades are active in this work and will make a good showing for their respective rooms. All persons solicited by them should encourage their efforts and support such a worth-while cause.

On Friday afternoon, Dec. 18th, at two o'clock, the local school will give a Christmas program in the Municipal Auditorium to which all patrons, parents and children of pre-school age in the district are cordially invited. The program this year will be in the afternoon which will make it possible for all to attend. Patrons and parents have already expressed themselves as much pleased with this arrangement.

During the last week Miss Albrecht has interviewed all the candidates in the declamation work. There is more interest in the work and more talent represented this year than ever before. Mr. Jaspers is offering much encouragement to all boys who enter the oratorical division.

From the committee meetings which are called by the various classes it is very evident that there will be a number of Christmas parties the last day of this week. All are parties which will center around the coming holidays and which will usher in the Christmas season in the right way.

Last Thursday evening the Cardinals defeated the St. Hilaire quint by a decisive score. The visitors practically played the Plummer five on even terms during the first quarter, but then the superior teamwork of the local boys manifested itself and from then on the score climbed steadily.

St. Hilaire put up a good fight all the way and it is apparent that they will improve steadily as the season advances.

The shooting of the Cardinals has improved tremendously and so has their teamwork. All the boys played a good game.

In a hard fought battle with the Bemidji State Teacher's College Seconds the Plummer quint held its own and was only defeated by two points in the second half. The game was played Saturday, Dec. 12

Mr. Ripple officiated in the game played by the Crookston Seconds and Red Lake Falls Friday night. Crookston won by a decisive score.

The last regular meeting of the River Valley Forum was held on Tuesday evening, Dec. 8. The meeting was called to order by the chairman, Omar Nesland. The minutes of the last meeting were read and approved. The officers elected for the next meeting are: Mildred Stucy, chairman; Anne Tweten, vice chairman; and Minnie Loven, secretary. Mr. Denning gave an interesting talk on the life of the former King Edward VIII of England. He stated that the king had the qualities of a beloved leader, who exhibited sympathy for the underdog, by visiting slums and half-starved miners, with a sympathetic heart and purpose of elevating their standard of living. Mr. Denning read a poem entitled, "Some Call It This, Some Call It That." A discussion was held and a decision made that a series of debates are to be given at the Forum meetings beginning Tuesday evening, Dec. 15. Mr. Denning then gave a talk on regimentation and its effect upon the people and nation. Regimentation has such a foothold in this nation that two percent of the people can sway the sentiment of the other 98 percent at will, he stated. Maurice Lehtinen gave a library report. Alvin Mandt gave a few remarks on our organizing a Co-op League or Study Club. Stanley Radniecki was appointed as chairman of the entertainment committee, O. M. The meeting adjourned until Tuesday evening, Dec. 15.

TAKES OUT EGG SIZED TONSILS

Records were established in a new field when a Roseau physician laid claim to the honor of having cut out the largest tonsils, a big handful. The tonsils, which are the size of eggs, it is said, are the largest ever taken out of living man, but the patient from whose throat they were cut, experienced no greater discomfort during the operation than do other persons.

FLOYD OF ROSEDALE NOW RESIDENT OF FILLMORE CO.

Floyd of Rosedale, the Hampshire hog made famous by the Golden Gophers' decisive victory over Iowa's football team in 1934, is now a resident of Fillmore county and a member of the purebred Hampshire herd of Ben Gjerdrum in Preble township. The colorful career of Floyd of Rosedale, began with his presentation, last fall to th late Governor Olson by Iowa's Governor Herring, on the now famous football bet. Governor Olson later awarded him to a 4-H club boy in Mower county as winner of an essay contest and then the University of Minnesota acquired him where he was kept until his purchase last week by Mr. Gjerdrum of Chatfield.

WPA TO ISSUE ISSUE CHECKS XMAS HOLIDAY

All WPA workers in Pennington county will get a pay check just before, instead of just after Christmas, as would have happened had it not been for a temporary revision of work hours and pay periods, authorized this week. Assurance that the checks would be ready for delivery in all parts of Pennington county was received this week by Merle Webb, engineer in charge of WPA activities in this area, thru the office of J. B. Kovarik of Detroit Lakes, district director.

Checks to be delivered on the 23rd will be those that would be issued ordinarily from the 25th to the 31st. Weather permitting, arrangements will be made so that crews will put in the same total number of hours as they normally would have worked after the holiday.

Improved Action Noted on Slaughter Cattle; Hogs Steady to 5c Higher; Fat Lambs $8.25-8.50

South St. Paul, Minn., Dec. 16, 1936 (U. S. D. A.): Wednesday's cattle trade reflected improved action at fully steady to strong prices. Good to choice 1300 lb. steers brought $10.00, a few lighterweights $10.75, some good mixed yearlings $8.75-9.00, with shortfeds and lower grades from $5.00-8.00. Common light butcher heifers brought $4.50-6.00, fleshier sorts up to $7.50, real good or choice grades being absent. Butcher cows sold at $4.00-4.75, a few better grades $5.00-5.50, cutters and low cutters mainly $3.25-3.75, bulk sausage bulls $4.50-5.25, good to choice vealers $8.00-9.50. Medium and lower grade stockers cashed from $5.50 down to $3.50, some fleshy lightweight feeder steers late Tuesday $7.00-7.25.

Hog trade was steady to 5c higher, most better 180-300 lb. $9.50-9.75, practical top $9.75, small lot choice 300 lb. $9.85, most 160-180 lb. $9.25-9.55, 140-160 lb. $8.65-9.35, 100-140 lb. killers $7.25-8.75, bulk desirable sows $9.40-9.60, big weights down to $9.25 and less.

Sheep and lambs sold about steady, with better grade native and fed lambs at $8.25 to mostly $8.50, lower grades $6.00-7.00. A few loads of 120-122 lb fed ewes brought $4.00-4.25, with plainer natives selling down to $2.50 or less.

detected, but nevertheless, it causes light fleeces and low development and growth of lambs. To correct this condition Mr. Zavoral recommended that farmers keep before their flocks at all times a mixture composed of 1-3 salt and 2-3 bone meal.

Another factor which caused especially heavy losses following the severe winter of 1935 and 1936 is pregnancy disease which is brought about by insufficient exercise during the winter months. This disease causes death of the ewe in the spring just previous to lambing time. It was recommended that a home built snow plow be constructed to make a track which the sheep may follow to a feeding ground which should be located from 1-4 to 1-2 miles from the farmstead. Once such a track is made and the sheep are fed a long distance from the sleeping quarters exercise is compelled and losses are prevented.

More important in Mr. Zavoral's opinion than all other sheep troubles are those caused by round and tape worms. For this condition it was advised that sheep be given a new pasture each year so that worm eggs will not accumulate in the soil. It was also recommended that in the spring before the sheep go on pasture, and again in the fall before they go into winter quarters the sheep be drenched with Copper Sulphate and Nicotine Sulphate for the elimination of round and tape worms. For those interested in the problem of drenching it was recommended that the County Agent be consulted on the dosage to be used and on other drenching problems.

the board, and Miss Gladys Harrison, attorney for the regional board.

A number of technicalities were being ironed out to get the bill in such shape that there will be no difficulty about getting it approved by the social security board. Among questions to be worked out was establishment of a re-employment agency.

The major issues involved are: Whether to include only employers of eight or more or to include all employers except those specifically exempt or to compromise on some middle figure; whether to require employee contributions, and whether to permit separate reserve funds for individual industries.

There was talk among members of the interim committee of passing a minimum requirement bill to meet federal specifications, leaving it to the regular session to settle controversial issues.

Safety labor legislation.

Legislation to enable municipally-owned power plants to extend their sevice beyond the present limitations.

Water conservation legislation.

Mr. Benson added in his statement to the press that every appointment he made will be of Farmer-Laborites, and only appointed on recommendation of a duly authorized Farmer-Labor committee.

Car Accident Kills Four Near Grand Forks

A tragedy in which four persons lost their lives occurred Sunday evening shortly after six o'clock when two cars met in a head-on collision on the state highway, twelve miles northwest of Grand Forks.

The dead are: W. C. Stockfeld, an associate professor at the University at Grand Forks, and three children of Prof. Sayre, also of the University. Prof. Sayre, who was driving the car in which the four that were killed were riding, was injured as were Matthew, aged 22, and Clarence Stauffenecker, aged 27, both of Greenbush, this state, who were riding in a coupe that collided with the Sayre car.

It is maintained by Prof. Sayre that as he was approaching the Barto car the latter was on the wrong side of the road as it sped along. He swung over to the left side of the road in passing but in the meantime the Barto car swung over to the middle of the road and the collision resulted.

Charges are being made against the Greenbush men for driving while intoxicated. While they deny the charges, the Grand Forks county sheriff is filing charge of manslaughter against Mr. Barto.

The dead Sayre children were Mae, aged 8 years, Josiah, Jr., 6, and Lawrence 4. Prof. Stockfeld had recently joined the faculty at the University, coming from Lincoln, Neb., where his body was shipped for burial.

Former Local Resident Dies At Grand Forks

Henry S. Tonjum, resident of this city some 20 years ago, passed away at his home in Grand Forks Wednesday, after an illness of four months. He retired from active work last July due to ill health, and was 58 years old at the time of his death. Mr. Tonjum also lived in Devils Lake, Houston, and LeRoy, Minn., before settling in Grand Forks, where he has lived for the past 20 years.

Born in Lerdahl, Norway, in 1878, he came to this country in 1894, and for a number of years was a traveling salesman for a shoe company at St. Louis. He was also engaged in the mercantile business in Claremont, Iowa, for some time.

Funeral services will be held on Friday at 2 p. m. in the United Lutheran church, at Grand Forks, with Rev. F. I. Schmidt officiating.

ZIMMERMAN IS IN IF WILLARD IS OUT

If the effort to remove E. V. Willard as state conservation commissioner succeeds Saturday, L. P. Zimmerman, state relief administrator, will get the appointment, it was reported at the capitol this week.

A change in plans resulted in the calling of a meeting for Saturday of the conservation commission with Governor Hjalmer Petersen. Governor-elect Benson was invited to sit in.

Zimmerman formerly an engineer in the highway department has been in charge of the relief administration since it was set up.

RED CROSS HIGHWAY POSTS AID INJURED

1,000 Function At Key Points To Give Emergency Care To Traffic Hurt

Highway first aid stations, set up by the Red Cross to give emergency care to victims of traffic accidents, are saving lives, according to James L. Fieser, vice-chairman in charge of domestic operations.

"More than 1,000 of our emergency posts are already operating in 47 states and thousands of others will soon be established at key points along America's highways," Mr. Fieser stated.

The Red Cross highway posts are concentrated at danger spots in rural areas where medical aid is not readily available. The importance of this coverage of the open road, the Red Cross holds, is given sharper emphasis by the fact that there has been a 150 per cent increase in rural traffic fatalities during the past twelve years.

The project was initiated last year on a national scale as a practical approach to the highway accident problem. The Red Cross felt that it could best apply its strength by succoring those who continue to be injured pending a reduction in the highway accident rate through legislation and safety education.

"Our program brings first aid skill to the scene of accident in an effort to reduce the number of persons killed and maimed in automobile mishaps," Mr. Fieser said. "Our highway first aiders are not medical men in any sense, but it is their job to turn the injured over to the medical profession in the best shape possible."

The Red Cross highway posts are established at gasoline service stations, tourist homes, rural police and fire departments. The personnel of the posts are trained by the Red Cross in first aid, standard first aid equipment is installed at each station, and identifying signs for the benefit of motorists are erected beside the highway at both approaches to the station.

The attendants of these roadside units who qualify as first aiders volunteer their services through the Red Cross and may under no circumstances accept pay for caring for the injured.

To complement the highway first aid stations, the Red Cross has announced formation of mobile units. Several thousand trucks which regularly ply the highway in the course of routine work will be equipped with first aid kits. Drivers and crews will take courses in both standard and advanced first aid, and each truck will be identified as a Red Cross mobile unit. More than a hundred trucks are already operating.

"The highway police of eight states who have finished first aid training will join this army mobilized to cut accident fatalities and prevent complication of minor injuries through mishandling at the scene of accident," Mr. Fieser said.

"We receive reports from our first aid stations daily, telling of essential care given to traffic casualties on the spot and of lives actually saved."

This and many other Red Cross programs of equal value are supported by the people of America during the annual Roll Call for members. This year the Roll Call will be held from November 11 to 26.

The extension office thru R. M. Douglass takes pleasure in announcing that Arnold Myrum of Oklee, Deer Park township, won second place in the State-Wide 4H Club 10-ewe contest for 1936.

In this contest it is required that the contestant care for ten ewes and see how many pounds their lambs would weigh at the end of a 150-day period.

This year there were thirteen entries in the contest. First place went to Kalvin Sylvester of Kittson County who raised 20 lambs with a total weight of 1636 lbs., having an average weight of 81.8 lbs. West Rocksbury Local Met Friday Evening

(Contributed)

The regular meeting of the Farmers Union of the W. Rocksbury local No. 148 which met Friday evening, proved to be a very important gathering, in spite of the fact that the weather was unpleasant.

Our State Delegate Edwin Roy explained in detail the progress and accomplishments of the State Convention, which met at Madison, Minn. The instructive and humorous addresses by Mr. Trovaton and Mr. Brattland of Thief River Falls were immensely appreciated.

After a lengthy and thorough discussion, and we request other locals to do likewise, the following resolutions were unanimously approved and adopted:

"Whereas, a bill was passed by the House in the Last General Session of the Minnesota Legislature, known as House Bill No. 1509 which for the re-appraisal of Rural Credit lands, loans and contracts and the reduction of interest to 3 per cent per annum,

Now, therefore, be it hereby resolved by the West Rocksbury Local No. 148 of the Co-operative Union Activities that we urge upon the Senators and representatives the necessity of their working for and actively pushing the passage of the same bill in the coming General Session of the Legislature,

Further, that a copy of these resolutions be sent to the Governor and our representatives."

Following the business activities a delicious lunch was served for the benefit of our local.

Red Cross Potential Life Savers Number Nearly 2,000,000

First aid and life saving certificates issued by the American Red Cross since the start of the service 26 years ago now number 1,888,702. During the past year the Red Cross qualified 222,693 persons in first aid and taught water safety and rescue methods to 80,961.

This army of First Aiders and Life Savers is one of the great safety factors in the nation. They are trained to give immediate first aid at the scene of accident, thus saving many lives and preventing permanent injury. Red Cross training includes skill in treating for shock, splinting fractures, checking arterial bleeding, applying artificial respiration, towing drowning persons to safety, and in the safe handling of boat and canoe.

STATE MEETING IS PLANNED FOR FARM PROGRAM

1937 Agricultural Set-up And Provisions Will Be Discussed

Group Will Meet At St. Paul Wednesday

County and Township Gathering To Be Held Shortly Afterwards

A statewide meeting, the largest yet to be held in Minnesota in connection with the 1937 farm program, will be held in the auditorium at University Farm, St. Paul, on Wednesday, December 30, with J. B. Hutson, assistant administration of the Agricultural Adjustment Administration as the principal speaker, announces Frank J. Brown, in charge of information for the program in Minnesota.

Those from Pennington county who will attend the December 30 meeting include Hans Anton, Alfred Longren, Ole Nesland, S. E. Hunt, and R. M. Douglass.

To this meeting, county agricultural committeemen, county agents and any persons interested in obtaining information about the new agricultural program are invited. Most of the day will be devoted to the discussion of the new features which are found in the 1937 farm program. Complete details of the new program, however, will not be discussed at this meeting, for later meeting are to be held throughout the state at which the program will be explained in full. Part of the day will be used to discuss the completion of the 1936 farm program, its present status, its progress and accomplishments.

This meeting follows one held at University Farm, December 17 and 18 which was attended by blockmen and state committeemen. At this meeting the details of the 1937 program were discussed for the first time in Minnesota by John W. Graff and D. S. DeHahn, two representatives of the Agricultural Adjustment Administration in the North Central Region, in which Minnesota is located.

The meeting at University Farm is to be followed by a series of district meetings to begin January 4, 1937, directly after Farm and Home Week.

After the district meetings have been completed, township and community educational meetings will be conducted for the purpose of electing officers and discussing the farm program with the farmers themselves. These community meetings are to be with the farmers themselves. These community meetings are to be completed by February 1. Election of county officers will follow the completion of community meetings.

Announce Prizes in Home Decorations

Prof. T. M. McCall, of the Northwest School of Agriculture, acting as judge in the Thief River Falls Christmas Home decoration contest, sponsored jointly by the Civic & Commerce association awarded the four prizes to the following homes: H. M. Olson, 242 N. Markley Ave., first prize; Luther Haugen, 322 N. Kendall Ave., second prize; A. M. Magnuson, 820 N. La-Bree Ave., third prize; and Dr. Edward Bratrud, East Third St. Parkway, fourth prize.

The committee of the Civic & Commerce association in charge of the contest consisted of A. W. Mickelson, chairman; Dr. A. M. Smith and Hal Ekeren.

Prof. McCall stated that "as the out-of-town member of the judge's committ for the Christmas Home Decoration contest, I wish to congratulate the Civic & Commerce association and the First Federal Saving and Loan association upon the success of the contest. Marked improvement has been made between the contest of one year ago, in beauty of design and appropriateness of decorations to the Xmas season. There was an increase not only in the number of homes scored but also in the number of homes that had minor decorative effects."

Public Forum Will Meet Next Wednesday

The next meeting of the Thief River Falls public forum will be held Wednesday, Dec. 30th, at 8 P. M. The meeting will be opened by the singing of 'America' under the leadership of Robert Lund. After the reading of the minutes, and officers are elected, G. G. Denning will give comments on various adult education topics. A reading will be given by Joyce Paquin; a talk by Mrs. H. O. Berve; singing, by Dr. J. N. Nesse; and a talk, by Prof. Morris Bye.

G. G. Denning extended an open invitation to all who want to attend.

OBSERVANCE OF CHRISTMAS IS WELL PREPARED

Yuletide Colors Prevail Everywhere: Weather Is Very Mild

The Christmas season is near at hand and, judging from conditions as witnessed locally, it is going to be a cheery holiday period. The weather has been unusually mild so travel to and fro has been easy for this time of year. Highways have been open and even country side-roads have been passable for automobiles. Large crowds have been seen on our streets continuously for the past two weeks, people coming here for long distances to do their Christmas shopping. Local stores have found themselves out of stock because of the unusually large demand. All businessmen report a brisker trade than ever before.

Holiday colors are seen in decorations in the business sections and at homes in the residential sections. Evergreens are seen everywhere.

Christmas tree festivals are already in progress. Others will be held as a survey of the church announcements in this issue will reveal. Christmas baskets are being distributed by the Salvation Army and the Legion and Auxiliary so there should be joy for all.

T.R.F. Alumni Will Have Reunion Tuesday

The annual alumni reunion and dance, which will be held in the Sons of Norway hall Tuesday evening, Dec. 29th, has all the earmarks of an affair worthy of attendance. Donovan Mattson, president of the alumni association, stated that no invitations are being sent out. All former students and this year's senior class are cordially invited to attend. It is also permissable for each of the alumni to bring a friend.

The hall will be decorated for the occasion, and noise-makers, confetti, and paper caps will add to the merriment. Edy Eastman and his orchestra of Crookston will supply the music. A delectable lunch will be served by Al Cloutier at the close of the evening.

Bemidji Schoolman And Wife Killed In Crash

Two persons were killed and one was seriously injured Friday night when a truck that left the scene of the accident collided with an automobile two miles north of Bemidji on highway 71.

C. A. Christoferson, about 42, Bemidji school principal, and his wife, about 40, were dead when extricated from the wreckage. A backseat passenger, Mrs. S. S. Wilson, was taken to a hospital with serious cuts and bruises.

County authorities arrested and held without charge Wesley Aho of Craigville, who drove a lumber truck into a Bemidji yard shortly after the time of the mishap.

A coroner's jury Wednesday returned a verdict of "culpable negligence" against Wesley Aho, the driver of the truck. Charges of second degree manslaughter will be filed against him. A passenger in the truck, Sylvester Powell, is held as a material witness.

LEGISLATURE IS REPORTED AS IN ADJOURNMENT

Social Security Act Is Passed By Lawmakers Noon Wednesday Radio Broadcast Says

The report is unofficially received by the Forum office as it goes to press Wednesday evening that the state legislature has passed the social security bill and that when presented to the governor at noon today (Wednesday) it was immediately signed by him. What the provisions of the final bill are cannot be fully ascertained at this time.

Debate in the two branches of the legislature centered chiefly on whether the employer should pay the entire expense of the social security administration, whether the act should include employers of less than eight employes as the federal statutes provide and, whether or not there should be aid given to employes out of work because of strikes and lockouts.

The two branches were in harmony to a large extent so that when the vote was taken in either house the details of the bill of either could be readily reconciled with the other.

Adjournment is expected to be the order shortly after the minor business of the extra session is passed upon, which should be a matter of only two or three hours.

Saturday Is Busy Day For Firefighters

The fire departments only calls for the week were sounded on Saturday but that Saturday proved to be one of the busiest they have had as they were summoned to four chimney fires, one occuring on South Crocker Ave., another at the O. Hagen home on Bridge Street, the Ray Harris home on 406 Duluth Ave. South and the Mickelson home west of the Greenwood cemetery. Very little damage resulted in every instance, a credit to the fire fighting lads. Had fire gotten beyond control in the terrific wind of Saturday much damage would have resulted.

Two Parties Sentenced On Liquor Violation

Two local business places were charged with dispensing liquor by federal agents who made the arrest Monday. The guilty parties were given a hearing before Judge Brattland Tuesday forenoon. They pleaded guilty and were fined $100 and given a suspended sentence of 90 days.

PPOWLERS LOSE TO ADA; FINAL SCORE IS 19 - 15

Local Players Fall Because Of Weakness In Shooting Basket; Visitors Are Fleet Quint

The Ada basketball team was too elusive for the Prowlers Friday evening on the local floor and emerged victorious in a hard-fought battle by the score of 19 to 15. The visitors were smaller in size than ordinary but what they lacked in size was more than made up for in speed and accurate passing.

The Prowlers jumped into the lead at the beginning but before the lapse of five minutes the Ada Vikings tied the score at 4 to 4, and were never headed later. The score was 11 to 4 at the end of the first quarter ,11 to 7 at the half and 12 to 11 at the end of the third quarter. Ada lopped in three short shots and a free throw in the final quarter, while the Prowlers had to be content with two field baskets.

The Prowlers failed to count as they should because of erratic shooting. Failure in looping of shots for the basket was a prime cause. Failure to count on set-up shots, under the basket was also evident.

Nesse and Hellquist were the mainstays for the Prowlers. Ripley and Anderson, forwards, were outstanding players on the Ada team. The absence of Lorentson, due to a sprained ankle a few days earlier, was greatly felt.

Prowlers who saw action in Friday's game were Stadum at center, Mickelson, Lee and Nelson at forward, Hellquist, Nesse, Caldis and Qualc at guard.

With the Christmas holidays on Coach Lee and his proteges will have a couple of weeks to spruce up on the finer points before the opening of the season after New Years.

T. R. F. F.-L. Group Has Annual Election

The Thief River Falls Farmer-Labor association met for its annual meeting at the courthouse on Friday evening. There was election of officers for the ensuing year and request for a new charter for 1937 was also ordered to be made at the state headquarters.

Ward Long was re-elected president, Olaf Neset was elected vice president and Herman Kjos re-elected secretary. A. G. Anderson and Ed. Odelin were elected to the executive committee and H. Halland and Otto Rehm were chosen as members of the County F.-L. committee.

CCC Enrollments Will Be Announced Soon

The dead-line for enlistments in the Civil Conservation Corps has been set for Thursday, Dec. 24th.

The enrollment office has received a large number of enrollments, but as yet they do not know how many of these enrollments are acceptable as the CCC quota for Pennington County has not yet been established. The enrollments will be accepted sometime between Jan. 5 and 10.

Civil Service examinations open several positions paying $35.00 a month to CCC members.

CONVENTION OF FARMER-LABOR GROUP CALLED

Five Delegates Will Be Chosen To Attend State Meeting

A call for a convention of Pennington county Farmer Labor party members has been issued for Wednesday afternoon next week. The purpose of the county gathering is to elect five delegates who will represent Pennington county at the state Farmer-Labor convention in St. Paul January 29 and 30.

The local convention was called by T. H. Bjerke and H. Halland, the president and secretary, respectively, of the county F.-L. committee. Several counties in this part of the state have already held their convention. Delegates are apportioned each county according to the vote for governor plus the number of members in the house of representatives. On this basis Pennington is alloted five, two delegates at large and one for every thousand votes for governor, or the major portion thereof.

The call is as follows:

This is an official call for the Pennington County Convention to be held in the Thief River Falls court house Dec. 30, at 1 p. m. This convention is called for the purpose of electing delegates to the state convention, also to the district convention, and to consider legislation for the coming legislature. All paid up card-bearing members are entitled to a seat as a delegate to the county convention.

Divorce and Propaganda Are Forum Topics

Propaganda and divorce laws formed the subjects of a very interesting discussion at the Workers Forum of Thief River Falls on Monday night. Judge James A. Montague of Crookston gave a talk on divorce laws in the various states, showing that in many instances a divorce received in one state is invalid in another. A great majority of Reno divorces, for example, are no good outside of Nevada.

Godfred Larson reviewed a book on the findings of the Federal Trade Commission in its investigation of public utilities. It was brought out that millions of dollars had been spent to instill the idea that public ownership of light and power is costly and inefficient. Not only were newspapers bought up, but school text books were rewritten and college professors subsidized to spread the gospel of private ownership. Due to the scope of this subject, it was decided to continue it at the next meeting, together with "Misleading Advertising."

A constitution for the Workers Forum was given its first reading, to be acted upon at the next meeting, Monday, Jan. 4, 1937.

Arne Solem Is Member Of Social Security Board

Arne Solem, a former city editor of the Tri-County Forum, was one of the representatives of the federal social security administration who furnished information to the lawmakers at the hearings held in St. Paul at the opening of the state legislature last week. Mr. Solem has held a responsible position with the federal department for some time.

RURAL CREDIT MEETING HELD HERE TUESDAY

Movement Is Started To Bring About Change In Set-up

Scaling Of Interest And Principal Sought

Committees are Soliciting Funds For Sponsoring Measure

A well attended meeting of Rural Credit Farmers met at the Court House Tuesday afternoon to discuss ways and means whereby the House bill considered at the last General Session of the legislature can be passed by both houses and become a law.

T. H. Bjerke officiated as chairman of Tuesday's meeting. Rev. A. K. Lockrem is the secretary.

The opinion was unanimous that unless the lands are scaled down to present values and a rate of 3 percent on the mortgages or contracts can be had, there is no prospect of liquidation in sight and that the pursuance of that policy will bankrupt the farmers concerned, as well as lay a heavy tax load on the others. Representatives from Marshall, Red Lake, Pennington, Polk, and Kittson counties were there.

A complete set-up of committees for Pennington County was made and the others will proceed to do the same. Arrangements were also made whereby radio time will be bought so as to reach the other farmers in other parts of the state, as well as to bring the message to tax-payers and businessmen.

The loss to businessmen in trade due to the excess of interest runs into very large figures. Not only that but the loss of taxes was stressed as well as the direct loss due to the operation of the Bureau under the present conditions of tenantry and non-payment of interest.

There was a very pronounced determination of all that from now on it was a measure that concerned all and that all effort should be made to pass the bill at this coming General Legislative Session.

The Pennington county solicitors are asked to meet Saturday, Jan. 2nd, at one o'clock at the courthouse to report on what has been accomplished and get further instructions.

Tungseth Writes on State Legislature

December 18, 1936

On December 17 the 49th Minnesota Legislature was called for its second special session since April, 1935. Never before in the history of the State have there been two successive special sessions in between any regular sessions in so short a time as between 1933 and 1937. The frequent special sessions are indications of the swiftly changing and let us hope, progressing economic conditions.

This special session was called by Gov. Hjolmer Petersen for the express purpose of passing an unemployment insurance act in order that the State of Minnesota might become benefitted by the Federal social security act as this applies to unemployment insurance. Under the terms of said Federal social security act it is necessary for all state desiring such benefits to have passed conformitory legislation approved by the Federal social security board before January 1, 1937. The Federal government will collect between two and one-half and three million dollars from Minnesota for 1936. Ninety percent of this money can be retained for the workers of our state if we pass the necessary legislation in time. If not, this money will be lost to the workers of our state. The purpose of this

WHERE DO WE GO FROM HERE!

A great deal is being said these days about what possible course President Roosevelt will follow throughout his second term. The conservatives fear he will go to the left and the radicals fear he may go too far to the right.

The Forum editor has no other guidepost than judging from the past. We have admired the president for most of the steps he has taken since he assumed office in March 1933. That is why we strongly supported him for re-election this fall. There are other steps we would have liked him to have taken but he is in a better position than we to see how fast the American system can be changed.

But the determination with which he has stated his position at different times and the work that has been done by men he has appointed makes us believe that we do not need to fear that he will turn away from progressive ways. We remember the determination with which Roosevelt spoke when he said on the eve of Jan. 4th, 1936, when he spoke to the joint session of congress, saying: "In the light of our substantial progress, in the light of the increasing effectiveness of the restoration of popular rule, I recommend to the Congress that we advance and that we do not retreat."

Again we hail to recall his speech in New York City Saturday evening, Oct. 31, when he said: "I should like to have it said of my first administration that in it the forces of selfishness and of lust for power met their match. I should like to have it said of my second administration that in it these forces met their master." There was also a great deal of significance in such statements as "We have returned the government to Washington. We expect to keep it there." We believe these statements were made in all sincerity.

Let George Creel, the president's main spokesman, say it. In a recent article he wrote:

"No man ever gave freer expression to his deepest faiths. The whole of his first term was an open rebellion against discredited dogmas and moldy formulas. With him the test of a thing is not its age but its use. At the very heart of his philosophy is the insistence that as institutions grow discrepit and outworn, new ones with fresh vigor and portent must be allowed to lift their promises into the light. He loathes the bland theory that poor people are poor through some fault of their own, holding that poverty proceeds largely from the evils and unbalances of our social order. He disputes the aristocratic assumption that the purpose of government is to insure the happiness of those deemed worthy of being happy, and to guarantee the misery of those accounted worthy to be miserable. He disavows the doctrine of laissez faire, the rule of might, and that ancient savagery about the survival of the fittest. With all the force of his being he believes that the welfare of the individual depends on the welfare of the whole; that prosperity begins at the bottom, not the top, and that the march of progress is measured by the last man in the procession, not the first."

ASSUMING SOCIAL SECURITY OBLIGATIONS

The main topic of discussion at any general gathering these days is that of Social Security. The Minnesota lawmakers are in session at the state capitol considering details of a proposed bill to conform with federal requirements and nearly a score of other states have under consideration similar proposals.

Social Security is a comparatively new idea in the United States. When England and the other European countries were enacting social security laws we Americans were foolishly talking of rugged individualism, prosperity around the corner, etc. We Americans were too chesty to believe that we needed any "dole" over here as they got enacted at the time in England. We were too busy talking about "a chicken in every pot" and "two cars in every garage" to pay an attention to exactly where we were heading for ourselves. We acted like drunken sailors at the helm not knowing where we were headed for. "Mass Production" was the by-word for every American capitalist and he worshipped it like it was his religion.

After we found that prosperity wasn't just going to come around the corner so easily, spending over three years doing nothing but crazily talking about it, we gradually began to awaken to the fact that we had to do something to make the life of our working people a little more secure, a decade after England and other countries had enacted such legislation.

It is a sad confession that this "land of plenty" where the Great American system had operated since the Days of the Revolution needed a plan to take care of its large army of unemployed and destitute aged people. Millions of these aged people had worked hard for decades and then found themselves without any means on which to subsist. The profits of their labor had gone into the hands of someone else.

The foregathers of this country who established the Constitution in 1787 were foresighted enough to provide for the protection of property, such as lands, homes, factories, ships, chattels, money, valuable securities and papers. But they were not wise enough to foresee the time when a job meant as much to our people as any property, when the right to work at a certain place meant as much to half of our people as property did to the other half.

But at last, after years of suffering on the part of millions of unemployed, we have come to realize that their jobs mean as much to them as property does to the rest. That is the reason we have Social Security legislation today. Had we provided for it in the days of Coolidge and Hoover, when we expanded for American mass production, we would have found it less costly than we will have to pay today. But the American System has caused us to pay heavily on more than one occasion.

The national social security act is far from what it will have to be in time. It is a good beginning when we think of Hoover and his GOP friends who were squatting "around the corner." The law seems enormous in its provisions; it appears clumsy in various ways and it seems impossible that every working person enlisted under it can be taken care of properly.

But the law will be an evolutionary process. It will have to be amended from time to time as we see it doesn't fit the conditions. And for that reason it deserves the moral support of all.

THE NEW SOIL PROGRAM

The 1937 soil conservation program devised by the Agricultural Adjustment Administration was announced last week and is summarized elsewhere in this issue The new program is simpler than the 1936 program and compliance should be easier. It uses for 1937 the crop bases established in 1936. This plan makes it possible for a farmer who cooperated this year to figure out what he wishes to do next year.

Several changes have been made which are of special importance to farmers in The Farmer territory. One has to do with acreages of soil conserving crops, such as alfalfa and clover, which were killed out by the drouth. These fields may be reseeded in 1937 with forage crops which are not soil conserving, such as Sudan grass, rape and oats for pasture, without being included in the soil depleting base. Alfalfa and clover seed is scarce and it might be difficult to meet a requirement to reseed killed-out spots with legumes, in addition to seeding them on newly shifted acres.

The new program places additional emphasis on soil-building practices, such as fertilizing and liming. It will appeal more than the 1936 program did to dairymen and others who have as large a proportion of their crop land in soil conserving crops as good farming practice admits. Next year they can earn benefits by adopting approved soil-building practices, even if unable to divert any of their land from soil-depleting crops. The farmer who has less than 20 acres of soil depleting crops also gets a better break.

The new program does not meet all the recommendations of the states served by The Farmer, recommendations which were worked out in community, county, and state meetings, but this was not to be expected. We believe it will meet with general approval. Farmers will have plenty of time to study it. This is something to be happy about, considering the confusion that attended the start of the 1936 program.—The Farmer.

MAN'S BRUTALITY

In their frantic efforts to picture the civil war in Spain as a conflict between "nationalists" and "communists" the large newspapers are using columns of space to graphic word pictures of the carnage and brutality of the present revolution. That the descriptions are accurate may be questioned, because some of the ace correspondents now authoring the war dispatches are noted for their ability to "eye witness" events taking place a thousand miles distant. Some of the most graphic accounts of the Ethiopian-Italian war were writen in New York City by some of the very war correspondents now said to be on the scenes in Spain.

But if one discounts half that appears in the newspapers concerning the Spanish civil war, it is utterly impossible to escape the conclusion that present methods of warfare are almost the last word in human degeneracy.

War as it is being waged in Spain today is but a hint of what the next war will be. It will be fought from the air with high explosives directed not so much against the armed forces but against that greater army which remains behind the trenches to keep the stream of military supplies moving to the war centers. It will spend its violence in wrecking the hallowed treasures of the nation against whom it pits its terrible force. It will kill, ravish, maim, brutalize and torture the women and children. It will center its fire upon the hearthstones of men, on the churches, the schools and every other sacred possession, all to the end that it will demoralize opposition and force a quick suit for peace. That is war after 19 centuries of Christianity.

If one little nation like Spain can horrify civilization by its utter brutality, then what will the next world war yield in the way of horror and carnage?—Union Advocate.

WE WERE ONLY FOOLING

We wonder what the big business executives, who placed themselves out on a limb by dictating to their workers to vote the Republican ticket, think about now that the election is over.

We are inclined to think that they are taking the attitude that "we were only fooling." We are certain that the President's attitude will not be one of vindictiveness.

The President is too big a man to take the attitude of getting even. However, he will continue the policy that he has always maintained, that of making the large corporations who are making profits in the hundreds of thousands and the millions of dollars pay a goodly part of the relief and recovery program.

They can hardly holler about the excise taxes they are paying either. Certainly no one can express sympathy to executives who make hundreds of thousands of dollars each year if they have to pay a small per cent of this in taxes even if it does mount up into large money. We hardly think the average working man or farmer would express regret at paying a tax of $10,000 per year when it's a known fact that in order to pay such a tax he has to be making many times over that amount in net profits.

We rather think that the various members of the American Liberty League are rather reluctant to mention the fact that they once belonged.—Northland Times, Bemidji.

The Capitol News Review

By A. I. HARRIS

Conservatives always "deplore" efforts on the part of liberals for representation either on the bench or on school and college faculties. They brand any such efforts as attempts to bring politics into the courts and into our schools.....

But one thing these conservatives conveniently fail to remember is that they have captured our courts and our schools more completely than any other branch of our government or agency of public service. The decisions of the U. S. Supreme Court are reactionary because the majority of that court believe in a reactionary social and economic philosophy.....

Decisions of these learned judges, when they pertain to social and economic problems, are never based an impartial construction of the law. As a matter of fact, the law in most of these cases is quite flexible. Hence, we have the reactionaries invariably lined up on one side and the liberals on the other.

In our school we likewise find recationaries preponderantly in control. There is little doubt that at the University of Minnesota a reactionary administration is conducting a campaign against both liberal students and liberal members of the faculty. ....

There is politics involved, as the conservatives contend, but the picture is not as the conservatives would attempt to make you believe. From the standpoint of the liberals our courts and our schools are politically controlled today and the great problem is to eliminate that political control. Liberals are fighting not to inject politics into our courts and our schools but to eliminate the reactionary politics which are entrenched there today.

What sort of government would we have if the farmers and other property owners paid taxes like the steel trust has been paying them?

For the steel trust takes no chances. It fixes its own arbitrary price on iron ore at point of delivery on Lake Erie—not in Minnesota—and bases its valuation of property on that price after allowing for interest and amortization o fits investment, profit on the ore, all taxes, and a commission for selling the ore to itself.....

Chief Justice John P. Devaney, the only dissenter from the supreme court decision upholding the steel trust's practice, aptly quoted from a momorandum by Judge Martin Hughes; in which Judge Hughes asks where the state would get sufficient revenue to operate if all property in the state were assessed on the same basis upon which the steel trust pays its property taxes. ....

A majority of the state supreme court followed the well-plowed furrow of steel trust precedent, a furrow laid out and carefully guided for 20 years. Chief Justice Devaney chose to plow in virgin ground, for he says: "So far as can be ascertained, this is the first time in our courts that the Lake Erie base price has ever been subject to judicial scrutiny." ....

There is no legislative backing for this practice of the steel trust. No law has been passed making this fictitious Lake Erie price of iron ore the bases for evaluation of Minnesota ore properties. ....

The six Supreme Court justices, a majority of the state's judicial branch of government, have assumed legislative powers in upholding a fallacious precedent. ....

With everything to gain, taking no chances, the steel trust is stripping Minnesota of its most valuable natural resource, promising only to leave a desolate waste, even as ~~dirthe~~ timber barons a generation ago. And now it even refuses to pay its taxes, as assessed by the state, unless it can make it own arbitrary valuation.

But the battle has only just begun. What will the people of Minnesota do, what will they demand, when they realize the tribute that has been exacted of them? It is merely a matter of legislation to remove a fictitious prop which upholds a bloated valuation. It's time the Legislature also turned a new furrow.

Even politicions listen to the voice of the people when that voice comes to them in clear, firm tones.

Less than a year ago the late Governor Floyd B. Olson called Minnesota's reactionary Legislature into special session to pass social security legislation. Included in the Olson program was an unemployment insurance act. ....

The federal government had already enacted such a law, under which employers of all states, whether these states had similar acts or not, were assessed for unemployment insurance benefits. Despite this, the reactionaries in the Legislature rejected Governor Olson's pleas; unemployment insurance was an altogether too liberal idea for their digestion. .. ..

The need for a state unemployment insurance act to enable the workers of Minnesota to benefit from the federal act was as great then as it is today. But reactionaries can no longer reject the principle of social security. Have they changed their minds? No. The people spoke out vigorously on November 3, and there is nothiny else for the reactionaries to do but surrender to the demands of the people.

A national organization of liberals lawyers under the name of the National Lawyers Guild is calling a convention in Washington for February 20, 21 and 22. It is headed by Frank P. Walsh. Among those who have allied themselves with the new organization are Federal Judge William M. Holly of Chicago; Charlton Ogburn, counsel for the American Federation of Labor; Jerome M. Frank, attorney for the Reconstruction Finance Corporation; Henry T. Hunt, former mayor of Cincinnati; Morris L. Ernst of New York. ....

About 2500 lawyers have already signified approval of the National Lawyers Guild. ....

Minneapolis and St. Paul lawyers are about to take steps to organize these two cities. The organization of this Guild was prompted by the attitude exhibited by certain groups in the American Bar Assn. against the best interests of the public, which is bringing the profession into disrepute.

England and France propose a plebescite in Spain as a condition to end the Civil War. This the leaders of the legal Sponish government have rejected. ....

Why a plebescite? The present government of Spain was placed in office by popular vote. Its program was approved by the people and this government has a right to attempt to carry this program out. When it fails in this, the people of Spain, as the people in any true democracy, have a right to change it. ....

The campaign against the legal government of Spain is being conducted by General Franco and his foreign cutthroats and mercenaries, supported by the fascist governments of Germany and Italy. The interests of civilization demand not that the present Spanish government be overturned, but that the present governments of Germany and Italy be overturned. These governments represent the very antithesis of democracy and so long as fascism rules, democracy in this world is not safe.

The Farmer-Labor movement is rapidly spreading beyond the boundaries of Minnesota. Across the border in our neighbor state of Iowa, a group of Farmer-Laborites met in Des Moines recently to map plans for a "victory drive" in 1938. Delegates were present from farms, small towns, and cities. ....

The delegates agreed to cooperate in a statewide conference which will submit a liberal program to the Legislature which calls for the enactment of laws which will benefit the farmers, workers, small merchants, and professional men of Iowa. This action is a clear indication that the liberal movement is gaining a mementum that reactionaries will have a hard time in trying to stop.

Preserving Capitalism

With few exceptions, even those within the inner circle here in Washington — or anywhere else, for that matter — see more than vaguely the probable ultimate destination of Mr. Roosevelt's 'New Deal'.

To one set of extremists, the horrors of Communism are looming up ahead. For particulars, inquire of William Randolph Hearst. The other school envisions Fascism as a terrible eventual certainty. The affirmative of this will be taken by Earl Browder.

Yet both are wrong! Mr. Roosevelt is, very emphatically, wedded to the capitalistic system. He believes that shorn of its evils it can be made to meet more nearly the ideals of Americanism than any other set-up.

There is a middle-of-the-road course which will permit retention of our present economic system. And that path America will follow — if Mr. Roosevelt has his way.

The two extreme European systems rest largely on propaganda and emotionalism. Such a foundation, our thoughtful Administration believes, is made of sand. It would like to place the economic and political life of this country on a base far more substantial and enduring. And so, with a nice and precise estimate of human nature, it will build on self-interest. It reasons that no normal person will permit either emotionalism or propaganda to lead him to the point of cutting off his own nose.

And the scheme is simple. We are all to become capitalists! We are to be put in a position where we would be silly to desire a change.

It is to be accomplished through that worn-out word "Cooperation". No! the 'Cooperative State', nor 'Collectivism'! Nothing is to be done which will disturb the legal status of legitimate individual enterprise. On the contrary, the machinery of government will be adapted more and more to the fostering and protection of its growth.

Capitalism is to remain with us, unhampered — and unhung. But its conduct must be above reproach. Should it for an unhappy moment lapse from righteousness, there will be a stout hickory switch handy with which it will be guided back on the path of rectitude.

'Cooperation' — or some synonymous expression — is a term Mr. Roosevelt uses frequently. In almost every measure foster by him, the element has held chief place. Even in the outlawed AAA and the NRA it was predominant. There has not been a single proposal for change, emanating from the White House, which did not contemplate cooperative action in some form in order to give force to that particular Act.

Cooperation in individual enterprise is the goal at which the 'New Deal' is aiming. And on this road we have already progressed farther than many realize. . .

In the Northwest, for example, the sale of dairy products is now being handled largely through cooperative marketing facilities. The land is dotted with cooperative creameries, cheese factories and grain elevators. Cooperative shipping associations take the farmer's cattle to market. A large portion of Western-raised fruit is marketed cooperatively.

The growth of gasoline and oil cooperatives has been little less than phenomenal. Of late, they have begun assuring themselves of an independent source of supply by buying up wells and refineries. The large oil companies make no secret of the apprehension with which they regard the rise of this new competition.

The Administration looks with a kindly but still somewhat furtive eye on cooperative merchandising. Not so furtive, however, that it is not making extensive studies of the methods employed in England, Sweden, Finland and Denmark.

One need hardly be a prophet to envision the day when consumer cooperatives will be spread in a vast network over the entire land, to be followed by cooperative control of the source of raw materials and manufacturing. Right now, under our very noses, it is happening on an ever increasing scale.

Thus, the new capitalism will see enterprise privately owned by all the people instead of by a few. It will be the bulwark behind which revamped American capitalism will stand safely entrenched.

And it may well prove to be the savior of democracy.

We are thus going to continue to be rugged individualists. Nor are we going to take a bark-seat when cocky Fascists salute us with extended arm, or Communists with clenched fist. Even in the matter of salutes, we're going to be individualistic! . . .

Indeed, we're yoing to reply with a special salute—thumb to nose, with fingers spread out fanwise and wiggled in the direction of the extremists from overseas.

VIEWS AND REVIEWS

Christmas Gift Suggestion

Pres. Franklin D. Roosevelt, according to our political experts, will take one of three courses in the coming term.

He will either go
the right,

will

George Creel, who played an important part in the decocratic publicity campaign during the World war, predicts that Roosevelt will stay in the middle of the road. But with recent WPA cuts, one wonders if pressure is not being brought upon him, forcing him to the right. If so, it is up to those affected to bring pressure and force him back to the left, so that he will at least retain an unwavering middle-of-the-road policy.

The best Christmas suggestion I can think of, is to give yourself to the cause of the farmers and workers, and in time to come, if everyone sticks together, each Christmas will see a greater and greater portion of the world's blessings going to those who actually make them possible.

Chinese Holiday

Marshall Chang, playboy, captures Chiang Kai-Shek, and takes the spotlight away from David Windsor for a day. Chang calls for declaration of war against the encroaching Japanese, and the reply is—a declaration of war against Chang.

The Chinese are not very clear about the names they call each other. Chiang Kai-Shek, whom they call a Nationalist, is purely and simply a tool of the invading Japanese. Chang, whom they dubbed a rebel, wants to preserve Chinese nationalism. And the Reds, who have erected the smoothest working government within China, are labeled bandits.

Roosevelt, Peacemaker

At the Buenos Aires peace conference which President Roosevelt addressed recently, he voiced the doctrine of collectivism—that it is the duty of the strong to protect the weak. War, he said, was based upon the doctrine of the survival of the fittest.

Something new is creeping into the philosophy of the administration. Every political commentator seems to sense it. A few years ago, a doctrine that the unemployed were public charges, was little short of treason. President Hoover, who more than any one man, was a symbol of the old order, gave his opinion that relief was a private affair, to be taken care of by existing relief agencies. The last four years, if nothing else, have shown that relief is not a private affair.

Now we see this doctrine being applied to bigger things—to nations. If Roosevelt mean what he said at Buenos Aires, peace means not a period of arming for another war, but a time of perfecting bonds which link the nations together in mutual protection. Had they stressed a program of sanctions instead of the too general one of neutrality, the Buenos Aires peace conference would have been a well-night perfect ending to Roosevelt's first term in office.

W. C. T. U. NOTES

Churches on Liquor Control

Education for total abstinence as the wisest immediate strategy tot combat the present situation, was the verdict of 104 out of the 127 leaders of thirty-one Protestant denominations interviewed in a recent survey made by the National Council of Jews and Christian News Service. Fifty-four advocated complete Prohibition as the ultimate goal; 52 favored stronger regulations of the liquor traffic; 28 wanted state monopoly; 21 favored education in the moderate use of liquor, as a permanent policy. The replies as a whole showed the growing concern of these groups on the liquor problem and deplored especially the lack of effective organization and united front with which to meet the challenge of wide-spread intemperance and disregard of the "control" laws.

A STARTLING STATEMENT

"Men cherish many childish ideas in regard to the ternal home of the saved, and many believe it will be some sort of a nebular existence where they will be sitting on a cloud and blowing a trumpet throughout eternity." This startling statement was made by Evangelist Gulbrandson in his lecture on "Where is heaven?" at the old Methodist Church last Sunday night. Then he went on to prove from the word of God that the future home of the saved, who will enjoy a real existence, will finally be on this earth after it has been purified from the contamination of sin, and made a fit place to live in for pure and holy beings. The first dominion given to Adam, but usurped by Satam and redeemed by Christ, will be reestablished for the saved. The most interesting Back to the Bible Lecture program for next Sunday night is announced elsewhere in this paper.

SUGGESTIONS FOR SAFETY

Writing in the Portland Oregonian, Ray Conway, Manager of the Oregon State Motor association, gives twelve specific suggestions for reducing accidents that can be easily followed by any commonwealth, with the aid of cities and towns. His suggestions are:

1. Illuminate main traveled highways contiguous to cities.
2. Distinctly mark sections of highway where vision is impaired and passing is dangerous.
3. Erect markers to show maximum speeds allowed in congested areas.
4. Erect "Keep to Right" signs on all highways in the state.
5. Make warning signs standard in size, color and position.
6. Teach highway safety in the public schools.
7. Enforce laws from viewpoint of safety—not revenue.
8. Make statewide inspection of cars compulsory.
9. Subject pedestrians to a uniform ,enforced traffic code.
10. Adopt a safety glass law covering all new cars sold.
11. Establish a drivers' school for those who wish to improve their driving.
12. Do not permit left-hand turns in metropolitan areas.

Some of these suggestions may seem of minor importance when compared with others—but all of them are essentials of a comprehensive program to make our streets and highways safer. In many states, traffic codes are outmoded and inadequate. Little has been done in marking danger spots on highways. Cars are permitted to operate irrespective of their mechanical condition. The inevitable result is a soaring death and injury toll.

If every state will bring its laws and highway regulations up to date, a long step toward curbing the reckless and incompetent motorist will be taken.

THE READER'S ROSTRUM

Dear Editor:

I am pleased at the interest in the Rural Credit Bill passed by the House at the last General Session of the legislature for revaluation of Rural Credit lands and reduction of interest to 3 per cent. This bill should be passed by the Senate if they will listen to the mandate of the people. Two years ago, the State Investment Board held $30,000,000.00 of these bonds. I understand the city of St. Paul holds another large batch of them.

As far as the investment board is concerned, the legislature can certainly make short work of that. It is preposterous that the people in general cannot have the facts regarding the Rural Credit Bureau and some of the representatives should give that to the people thru the columns of the local papers so that they may intelligently form their own conclusions. At any rate, the loss is and has been on the books for a long time and the State is carrying these fictitious assets on their books to make a good showing as to the progress of the liquidation. Meetings are being held by many counties to arrange for an effective lobby for this general session. Such lobbies, if intelligently handled, can be of great service to the legislators for it is not to be expected that they can give much attention to any one bill when there are hundreds of bills pressing as insistently for attention.

Be sure to commit your representatives and senators so that they will work for its passage. They are sent down there to work in your interest. Do not let them evade the issue. How does your senators and representatives stand on House Bill No. 1609? It is in your interest to find out. Let Polk county arrange for a meeting, nominate a committee to handle this matter and arrange for a lobby in the coming General Session to assist their representatives in the passage of this much needed bill.

DEER CHECK REVEALS SUCCESSFUL SEASON

Results of deer hunting studies on the Superior National Forest and the Kabetogama State Forest indicate that Minnesota hunters were on the whole successful in their quest for venison.

The checking stations operated by the National Forest Service and CCC camps in cooperation with the state division of game and fish, obtained information from over 7,500 deer hunters.

In general the studies showed that one deer fell before every one and one third hunters. This figure, when compared with similar studies in other states where deer are important game animals, makes interested in the future of deer hunting feel more pleased with the condition in Minnesota, according to Gordon Fredine, game and fish biologist.

In most states where deer are hunted this high succes ratio is not obtained. The post season checks also indicate that the great majority of deer escaped unscathed and that a very satisfactory breeding stock is left.

A great deal of valuable information was obtained during the past season and will be analyzed. The men in charge of the checking stations were unanimous in stating that the hunters gave them splendid cooperation.

Tungseth Writes On State Legislature

The last special session of our legislature which passed "Pension" legislation acceptable to our Federal government failed to pass unemployment insurance legislation. At that time the legislature was much of the opinion that such unemployment legislation could better be handled at the next regular 1937 session and that the time limit of January 1, 1937, would be extended. However, Washington has not permitted any time extension, and it has therefore become imperative for Minnesota to act. There is no time to lose if such legislation is to be passed.

Since our last special session an Interim committee on social legislation and relief has given much study to the various factors of unemployment insurance legislation. It has prepared three bills which already have been introduced. The reason for introducing these several bills is to embody all the controversial factors in connection with this subject in bills which are properly drawn as to form and which, if passed, would meet with the approval of the social security board without delay. The said committee does not endorse any one of these three particular combinations. Today three more bills, all dealing with this one subject matter, were introduced.

There are three major factors of controversy in connection with social security legislation.

1. Shall the employer of less than eight be exempted or should all employers, even those who employ only one, be included. The Federal social security act draws the line at eight or more, exempting all others. The states may include more employers than does the Federal government.

2. Should the employer be required to pay all the costs or shall the employees also contribute, and if so, how much? Organized labor in our state requires that the employees be exempted from all contributions.

3. What type of fund shall be established? Shall it be a simple pool fund or one with merit rating (reserve fund), or shall it be part pool and part reserve? All of these factors are highly controversial, and there are other minor factors of some importance. There is plenty subject matter for debate, and no doubt the legislature will have to work with record speed in order to pass this legislation within the short time that we now have to work in.

It will, no doubt, be of interest to our readers to know that eleven other states, namely: West Virginia, Virginia, New Mexico, Idaho, North Carolina, Maine, Vermont, New Jersey, Iowa and South Dakota are having similar special sessions of their respective legislatures at this time and for the same purpose as Minnesota. It is very likely that all of these states will act in time to benefit under the Federal act for 1936. Thus far twenty states have unemployment insurance on their statute books, and the Federal government has provided one for the District of Columbia. The states which already have acted are: Alabama, Arizona, California, Colorado, Connecticut, Ohio, Indiana, Louisiana, Massachusetts, Mississippi, New Hampshire, New York, Oregon, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island, South Carolina, Texas, Utah, Wisconsin and Maryland.

Gov. Hjalmer Petersen delivered his message to the legislature yesterday. This message was brief, concise and to the point. The entire message was devoted to unemployment insurance, the purpose for which this legislature was called into session. The governor pointed out that unemployment is a major problem in America today and that industry has so far been the favored child of our government. He said that good unemployment insurance will tend to bring about greater buying power and will result in greater business activity and stabilization of employment. He referred to other countries which now have unemployment insurance and pointed out that their unemployment insurance will not be more expensive than direct relief. He expressed himself in favor of exempting the employee of any contribution to his unemployment insurance fund. It is, of course, too early to attempt to guess the kind of legislation which will be passed. Many Senators who have spent much time in the study of this kind of legislation disagree in their conclusions and also claim that they still are insufficiently informed to vote intelligently. Our district is an agricultural district, and the farmers are benefitted only indirectly. However, the farmers will appreciate and derive much benefit from the greater and more constant buying power of the laboring people. The major portion of our employed people came in the eight or less group. Your Senator is of the opinion that this legislation should be broad enough to benefit all workers.

Since this article will reach our people a day or two before Christmas, may I avail myself of this opportunity to wish you one and all a very Happy Christmas and Prosperous New Year?

E. L. TUNGSETH.

Grand Forks and Hallock have tied for second place resulting from a 2 to 2 score at the game played at Hallock last Sunday.

As yet Emerson and Thief River Falls have not played a league game and the game between Grand Forks and Thief River Falls to be played Sunday has been postponed to an indefinite date, mainly because of the mild weather.

Twenty-four to thirty-six hours of cold weather would get the ice sheet ready. The arena may be open for games within the next few days.

Survey Is Planned For National Third Party

A meeting of progressive minded leaders was held in St. Paul Friday for the purpose of organizing a national third party for 1938. Only a score of men, representing the third party movement in Wisconsin, Illinois, Iowa, and Minnesota, were present.

A big gathering was not desired so invitations had been limited to only those vitally interested. Committees were appointed for the purpose of stimulating organization in the states bordering on Minnesota and Wisconsin, which two states have prominent third party state organizations. If the sentiment shown after a thorough survey is not favorable the national third party organization may be postponed until after 1938.

Paul Harris of our city was in attendance at Friday's meeting.

Happy New Year

NEW FARM PLAN IS ANNOUNCED AT WASHINGTON

Farmers Will Be Paid To Shift To Soil Conserving Crops

Five Important Changes Affect Northwest

1937 Payments Depend On Appropriation By Coming Congress

The AAA's new soil conservation program covering the crop year of 1937 was announced in Washington recently.

As in 1936, farmers in 1937 will be paid to shift from soil depleting to soil conserving crops and for carrying out an approved soil building program. The administration through state and county committees will be the same; the bases established on each farm in 1936 will be used; and payment of local expenses in 1937 will be on the same basis as in 1936.

There are, however, several modifications, based on the experience of 1936, which are important and which apply particularly to farms in the northwest territory. The most important changes affecting this territory are:

1. Permission to substitute forage crops up to the soil conserving base where drouth killed new seeding and old conserving crops, even though the forage crops used are not soil conserving. Under this provision, a farmer could seed oats for pasture, for example, where his alfalfa or clover killed out, without the oat acreage being added to the soil depleting base. Such permission was granted last summer by special ruling, but it is made a definite part of the 1937 program.

2. Elimination of flax as a crop requiring special attention. In the new program it is treated as any other soil depleting crop.

3. Extension of the range imried out last year only in the western states to the range sections of Minnesota and South Dakota.

4. Increased soil building allowances not eligible for diversion because they already have a high percentage of the crop land in soil conserving crops. This change will please dairymen, who have sizable acreages of permanent pasture and particularly northern Minnesota folks. Under the new program, a farmer may earn up to 80 cents an acre on all his crop land for carrying on an approved soil building practice, such as limiting or pasture improvement, on some part of his farm.

5. An increase from $10 to $20 is the minimum allowance any producer, no matter how small the farm, will have an opportunity to earn.

6. Limitation of the corn acreage in all states except North Dakota.

Basis of Payments

Payments under the 1937 program (provided Congress appropriates the $500,000,000 needed to pay the bill) will be on the following basis in the North Central area, which includes all states in the northwest territory:

1. A diversion payment based on farm productivity and averaging $6.60 for each acre shifted from soil depleting into soil conserving crops, up to a maximum of 15 per cent of the soil depleting base.

2. A diversion payment averaging $3.30 an acre for each shifted acre seeded to soil conserving crops such as clover, either plant-

Burns Prove Fatal For Shevlin Farm Woman

Funeral services were held Wednesday for Mrs. Catherine Annie Avery, 88, who died Sunday from burns, sustained in her home near Shevlin.

Forgetting she had placed a pan of bread dough, wrapped in wax paper, in the oven the night before, Mrs. Avery built a fire in the kitchen stove Saturday.

When she noticed the odor of burning paper, she opened the oven door. A burst of flames fired her clothing. A son extinguished the flames and brought her to a Bemidji hospital where she died.

PLUMMER MAN DIES FOLLOWING STROKE; AGE 67

John Westerlund, Aged 67, Passes Away at Crookston Hospital Sunday Night

John Westerlund, one of the prominent pioneers of Garvis township west of Plummer, passed away at a Crookston hospital Sunday night. He suffered a stroke the middle of last week and which caused his death. Funeral services will be held at the home today (Thursday) beginning at one o'clock.

He was born in Sweden 67 years ago. He came to this country while a young man and had resided in the Plummer vicinity for over forty years.

He is survived by his wife, three sons and four daughters. Mrs. John Konickson of near Plummer is a sister.

Slippery Streets Cause Injury Of Child Aged 5

Despite the efforts of the city employes to make the roads safer for both pedestrians and drivers by putting sand and ashes on icy intersections Robert Berg, age 5, slipped and fell before an oncoming car and received a fractured skull.

Robert Berg with his companions were returning from a Christmas party Friday, the last day of school, and were crossing a 6th Street intersection when a blast from the horn of an approaching auto sent them running off the road, but Robert, less fortunate than his companions, slipped on the ice and was struck by the front axel of Randall Noper's sedan, who uses it to transport children to and from school.

Mr. Noper stopped the car and pulled Robert from beneath and took him to the St. Luke's hospital where it was learned that he received a fractured skull. Our readers will be glad to know that it is expected that Robert will be home in a few days.

Winter Term At N. W. School Opens Jan. 4th

The winter term of the Northwest School will open for registration Monday, January 4, and close the last week in March. This has been found to be the most satisfactory time for farm boys and girls to be in school, for they are thus available for spring work at home throughout the crop growing season.

Last fall, 384 boys and girls from fifteen Valley counties were in attendance. As a number of new students will enroll for the winter term, the attendance for the year is expected to pass 400 for the first time in the history of the school.

Students are urged to take cultural, as well as vocational subjects, to insure a well-balanced course. Hence, emphasis is placed upon English, public speaking, debate, dramatics, and music. According to Dr. A. A. Dowell, superintendent of the Northwest School, culture and agriculture should go hand in hand. The farm people are and should be just as much interested in good literature and good music as people engaged in other professions.

Registrar J. W. Milnar has arranged special classes in agriculture and home economics for students who plan on entering for the first time at the beginning of the winter term.

HOCKEY SEASON TO OPEN HERE SUNDAY, JAN. 3

Grand Forks Team Will Come Here For Season's First Tilt

A better, more eventful brand of hockey will make its debut here on Sunday at 3 P. M. when the Grand Forks Cavaliers cross sticks with the Thief River Falls Thieves in the new ice Arena here.

As a nucleus the Thieves have in their line-up such names as Ruben Julien, speedy forward of Canadian and States hockey rinks; Mike Foy, burly, bushy-haired defense star; Clayton Taylor, newly acquired hockeyist from Hibbing, and Coach Walter DePaul, youthful veteran of the ice sheets.

The body and, consequently, essential part of the team include such locally famed hockey artists as Gene Berling, Raymond Parbst, Ernie Hellquist, Vernon Williams, Ade Lorentson, Earl Johnson, Kenneth Lindberg, Raymond Julien, Arnold Rustad, Lloyd Lund, Grant Gulrud and Ted Skoglund.

The squad has been working out every evening since Sunday in preparation for their opening game with the strong Emerson sextet. This contest is to be played tonight, (Wednesday), at Emerson. Emerson recently doubled the Roseau aggregation by a score of 13 to 3.

Boys hockey will be organized this week by Coach De Paul. A Hockey school will be established in which instructions will be given in the fundamentals of hockey. Each class will include demonstrations of and practice of certain specified essentials. Teams will be organized according to weight and age. All boys between the ages of 10 and 19 or over who are interested in the fastest of sports should report to Walter De Paul at the Arena Saturday at 9 A. M.

Credit Union May Be Established Here

Several persons interested in formulating a credit union in our city met Tuesday afternoon to complete an organization and draw up the by-laws and agree upon a name in order to effect such. After a brief session of business the finished matter was placed in the hands of C. E. Hellquist who was instructed to complete the transaction with the Banking Department and state office.

ERRATUM

In the rush to get out last week's Forum a day earlier than usual we failed to get first hand information in regards to the conviction of two local business places on the charge of bootlegging. Arrests were made by the sheriff, Art Rambeck, and the chief of police, A. M. Stenberg. Evidence was obtained by two out-of-town purchasers. H. O. Berve, the county attorney did the prosecuting.

PENNINGTON F-L CONVENTION IS HELD WE'NSDAY

State Delegates Chosen; Resolutions Are Adopted

About seventy-five members of the Farmer Labor party in Pennington county attended the county convention at the courthouse on Wednesday afternoon. The meeting was held to elect five delegates to the state convention, to endorse legislation for the coming legislature, and to select delegates to attend the district F.-L. convention.

The delegates chosen to attend the state convention are Einer Jenson, Goodridge; Carl Anderson, Wylie; Palmer Wold, Goodridge; H. Halland and R. M. Aalbu, both of this city. The alternates are: Otto Rehm, Hazel; Thos. Belland, J. V. Hoffman and Lloyd Nelson, all of Goodridge, and Mrs. Laura Naplin of St. Paul.

The executive committee was instructed to appoint thirty-five delegates to the Ninth District convention which will be held at Mahnomen Saturday, Jan. 9th. Representation here is based on one delegate for every one-hundred votes for governor at the last election.

A large number of resolutions, proposing mainly subjects for legislation at the coming legislative session, was passed. (Due to the length of these their insertion will be delayed until next week's Forum).

T. H. Bjerke, president of the county F.-L. executive committee, officiated as chairman and Lloyd A. Nelson of Goodridge was chosen as secretary. The resolutions committee chosen consisted of Ward Long, Walter Quist, Paul Harris, Thos. Belland and Carl Anderson. Refreshments were served by the F.-L. club of Thief River Falls.

It is in conforming with the request of this group that the local banks will close earlier on the last day of the week so as to make the rule uniform.

Independent Cagers Defeat Warren Twice

In the past week the Warren independent basketball team went down to defeat twice in the two tilts with the Thief River Falls team. Wednesday evening last week the Thief River Falls five scored a one-sided victory on the City Auditorium floor by piling up 59 points to 26 for Warren. However, while playing at Warren on Tuesday night, they had an extremely hard time turning what seemed to be inevitable defeat into a victory by one point, the final score being 31 to 30 in favor of Thief River Falls.

The last two periods in Tuesday's game seemed to give the locals an opportunity to stage a comeback. In the first quarter Warren lead Thief River Falls 12 to 4. At the end of the half Warren still lead with a 20 to 13 score.

Lloyd Aanstad, Carl Lee, Art Myrom, Vic Jung, Paul Dahl, Wendel Kielty and George Lee saw action in both games.

Greenbush Men Are Placed In Gr. Forks Jail

Matt Barto and Clarence Stauffeneker of Greenbush, were arrested Friday by the sheriff of Grand Forks on charges of first degree manslaughter in connection with the deaths of a Grand Forks man and three small children in an automobile collision, north of Manvel, N. Dak.

The Greenbush men, each of them 22 years old, were served with criminal warrants as they were released from hospital beds where they had been recuperating from injuries in the fatal crash.

Barto will be arraigned on four criminal complaints, charging him with first degree manslaughter in connection with the deaths of Prof. William C. Stockfeld, University instructor here, and Mae, Lawrence and Josiah Jr. Sayre, children of Dr. and Mrs. J. L. Sayre of Grand Forks, who were killed in the crash.

One complaint was drawn against Stauffeneker, and he will be arraigned on this. It charges him with first degree manslaughter for the death of Lawrence Sayre.

Stauffeneker was the companion of Barto when the latter's car crashed into a machine driven by Dr. Sayre, three miles north of Manvel about 5:30 P. M. Sunday, Dec. 13. Barto and Stauffeneker had been in the hospital from shortly after the collision until they were arrested Friday.

U. S. APPROVES MINNESOTA JOB INSURANCE ACT

Federal Government Puts OK On Measure Passed By State Legislature

Tax May Be Deducted From Income Levy

Hope Is Held Payments May Not Be Required Until March 31st

Formal approval of the Minnesota unemployment insurance act was granted Tuesday by the federal social security board.

The approval permits Minnesota employers to deduct from their federal tax payments contributions made into the state fund created by the act passed at last week's special session of the legislature.

Minnesota officials now hope to obtain a treasury order extending the collection date of unemployment insurance taxes from January 31 to March 31; since collection of state taxes would be difficult before the latter date.

The state legislature adjourned early Wednesday last week as reported in the last issue of the Tri-County Forum. The bill was immediately signed by Gov. Petersen and forwarded to Washington, the Minnesota lawmakers returning that day to their homes.

The provisions of the act are:

Declaration of policy—Acting under its police powers, the state sets up compulsory reserves for the benefit of unemployed, to encourage employers to stabilize employment and develop funds for use during periods of unemployment.

Definitions—Defines what employers are covered, what exempted; defines other terms in the bill. Applies to all who had one or more employed one day in each of 20 weeks during 1936. Does not apply to farm labor, domestic help, employees of charitable, religious, scientific, literary agencies of a nonprofit nature. Does not apply to employees of any governmental agency, nor to a person employed by a son, daughter or spouse, or to a person under 21 employed by his parent.

Compensation fund—The fund is set up with the state treasurer as custodian and money is to be deposited in the federal treasury.

Contributions— No contribution by employee in either bill. Employers will pay nine-tenths of one per cent of their total payroll for 1936, 1.8 per cent for 1937, and 2.7 per cent for 1938 and thereafter. Bill provides for the 1936 assessment only against employers of eight or more as in the federal act.

Pool fund—The contributions go into a common pool, but accounts will be kept for each employer, showing contributions and benefit payments made. There may be joint accounts for two or more employers. From 1941 on, the rates an employer must pay may be reduced if his account shows an excess of total contributions over total benefit payments.

Guaranteed employment—Under specified conditions an employer can elect to come under a guaranteed employment plan by which he guarantees to furnish 40 weeks work at 30 hours a week to the number of employees he had the previous year.

THE CRISIS IN COAL MINING

Coal mining companies in Pennsylvania and other eastern states are confronted with an unusual situation, and unless some remedy is brought about soon, these companies may have to dissolve and quit business.

Thousands upon thousands of unemployed miners have begun the mining of coal in their own way. They have gone out on hills wherever coal was found and, regardless of ownership, have begun digging out the shining black nuggets in the old fashion selling the coal in ruinous competition with the large coal companies. Because of the taxes enforced against legally mined coal, these "bootleg" miners can undersell these companies.

So strongly are the outlaw miners organized that local authorities hold them in awe; sheriffs, peace officers and others refuse to act against them and the courts are powerless to give to the corporate owners of the property the protection to which they are entitled by law. This fact became evident to Gov. George Earle of Pennsylvania on his survey of the region last week when he sought information from "outlaw" miners, clergymen and others in these districts, all of whom warned him that a resort to force would bring civil war to these communities.

Shutdowns and unemployment drove the miners into the illegal industry which, as it grows and spreads, steadily creates more unemployment. The situation was created in the first-place by the coal companies and it is apparent now that the federal government may have to step in and take over the mines and operate them as best possible, which is another instance of where private enterprise with lack of foresight has created its own downfall.

HOW TO CHISEL FROM THE GOVERNMENT

If you want to chisel from the government, just go to Prentiss Hall, Inc., business information service, who proudly announce that they specialize in that gentle art. This doesn't hold for boondogglers and relief clients, however - they are being chiseled from the roles themselves - the announcment is addressed to big corporations.

"Last year, the greatest tax-saving that any $1,000 deduction could yield the ordinary corporation was about $180. In 1936, however, a similar deduction can yield a saving of $499.50." their announcement reads. Be sure to make "deductions" now; the present administration has conveniently made it possible

"If your corporation distributed a large part of its income as dividends, it is entirely possible to cut the tax bill to much less than last year. Dividends do not have to be paid in cash. You may use certain types of stock, scrip, notes, etc., which may be amortized over a period of time." Small taxpayers, take notice! Maybe you can sign a batch of IOU's and deduct that from your income!

Strangely enough it is not suggested that corporations use some of their excess or capital to pay higher wages.

PROFITS FROM INVENTIONS

Supporters of individualism have always contended that it is vitally necessary that inventors be induced by the idea of reaping the profits that result from their inventions. They hold that unless persons are assured they will receive vast royalties from the use of the things they invent these persons would not go about to do any inventive work whatsoever. They maintain that the profit system is the only system that will thus produce progress by invention.

The writer of these lines along with others hold that many inventions are come upon accidentally, that others are brought about by persons without any idea of any profit therefrom and also that persons so much interested in their lifework can be engaged at research work at usual salaries and still bring about the inventions possible.

A great many early inventions were brought about without any idea of profit. By that we mean that before inventions could be patented, as under the laws of this country, there were numerous inventions where the inventor had no idea of reaping financial benefits therefrom. That would include every invention brought about before the U. S. patent laws came into existence. Benjamin Franklin and others before him had brought about progress by invention without hoping of getting much profit therefrom. Columbus discovered America because he had a theory that he wanted to prove but there was little possibility he would get any profit by proving the earth was round. These men were so devoted to their theories that they set about to prove them. Similarly men in government employ have been engaged in research work and have brought about inventions. When royalties or profits have accrued as a result of these inventions these have been frequently turned over to the government by the inventors. It took the Rusk brothers of the State of Mississippi to invent a cotton-picker, after hundreds of greedy individualists had tried to invent one so they could profit therefrom. But the Rusk brothers have refused to accept even a penny for their outstanding labor saving device. They have furthermore made it possible that the profits made from this cotton-picker be turned over to the persons who lost their jobs because of this invention.

We hold, therefore, that progress will be made just as well under collectivism as under individualism, that inventors who become such merely because of profits from their devices are few and far between. Greed among specialists in any given line of occupation is not as prominent as proponents of the laissez faire idea would have us believe.

A NEW YEAR'S RESOLUTION

One of the horrible truths staring us in the face is the awful toll of death on the highways. The figures are mounting every year and it is apparent that something drastic must be resorted to in order to reduce the danger of reckless driving. As this is the time of the year when New Year's resolutions are made we think it wouldn't be at all out of place for all car drivers to resolve not to drive a car unless he or she is physically and psychologically able to efficiently handle the death-inflicting vehicle that is being driven.

TIME DEMANDS CHANGE

Among the illustrations that can be used to show the progress and march of time in everyday affairs is that of high tension wires along our highways. Up until a few years ago no one could say that there would ever come a time when such hi-lines would be found to be very undesirable along our public roads. People owning cars equipped with radios are soon due to make a concerted demand that such hi-lines be moved away from highways because they cause static so people cannot enjoy their radios. Builders of new high tension lines should heed such a warning as sooner or later the public will demand that they go to the added expense of removing the lines to points remote from car traveled highways.

GOOD WILL AMONG MEN

It is difficult to be optimistic about peace on earth and goodwill among men this Christmas. Nations armed to the teeth, bloody civil war in Spain, tensions on half a dozen fronts — these paint anything but a picture or a world living in harmony.

And yet with Christmas time always comes a spirit of peace, of happiness, of goodwill. Captured by thoughts of holly wreaths and tinsel, of sleigh bells and Santa Claus, of children waiting in wistful expectation for Christmas morning, all of us are aware of something in our hearts that makes this a "merry" Christmas.

The One whose birthday we observe knew about that "something." He called it human love and brotherhood and it was the foundation of his teaching.

But Christ did more than preach peace and goodwill among men — he lived it, 365 days a year. In that age-old link between preaching and practice is found the message the world ought to have this Christmas. It is easy to preach peace, easy for individuals, easy for nations. Practicing peace, whether in relations with our neighbors or with our neighbor-nations, is a harder task.

That task must be mastered, or peace on earth and goodwill among men will never be more than a dream. For individuals it means following the way of the kind word, the friendly act, the practical policies which translate peace sentiment into legislative and diplomatic realities. It would be a good idea if some residents of this community called on our congressman and told him what specific peace policies they want the nation to follow. Peace is a year-round job, one to which each of us this Christmas might well dedicate all that we have and all that we are.

ROADS AND LICENSE FEES

It would be well if citizens of this state began to inform themselves about the true status of the highway department before the new legislature meets in January. The lawmakers will be confronted with a situation that is more of a problem than it was in 1933 and 1935.

Previous to 1933, gas and license revenues ordinarily left a sufficient balance, after caring for maintenance ,debt service, and other fixed charges, to match the federal allotments to the state. That was the system that put Minnesota on the highway map.

But in 1933 the full force of the depression was upon people, and considerable feeling was expressed that one way to save was to cut down the automobile license fees. This was done, and in spite of the addition of 4,600 miles to the highway system, things went along fairly well—because and only because the federal appropriations for highway construction in 1933 and 1934 were outright grants, with no matching by the state being required.

Observe what happened in 1935. The federal highway appropriations were restored to the old matching basis, whereby the federal government would furnish a certain quota if the state matched it. But Minnesota license fees, being left at the low level of 1933, could do no more than take care of maintenance and fixed charges. In this situation, not wanting to lose the federal aid entirely, the legislature adopted an expedient— that of bond issues to raise enough funds to match the federal allotments.

The result is that the people of Minnesota are going to pay double what they need to pay for the roads we built in 1935 and 1936, for the simple reason that the bonds must eventually be repaid, with interest that will probably equal and possibly exceed the original amount borrowed.

What will happen in 1937? Do the taxpayers wish to go on paying double for new roads which everyone agrees should and will be built. That is what will happen if the legislature handles the problem in the evasive way that the last legislature did.

It should be clear to the average automobile owner that a reduced license fee is not saving him anything. As a matter of fact, he is going to have to pay back about twice the amount of the "saving" to the state in taxes of one form or another..

Now that times are beginning to loosen up, it is likely that people will feel that it would be well to restore the old license, even though that may not sound pleasant— in order that we can get back on the pay-as-you-go plan of highway building, which is much the cheaper way, all things considered. It may also be well to remember that Minnesota depression special license fees were among the lowest in the nation, far below what most of our neighboring states have felt it wise to pay, even in time of depression.—Moorhead Daily News.

HIGHLIGHTS OF 1936

Reviewing the year's news is something like picking an all-star team. The big question is not who or what to leave out but who and what to include.

The following summary of the 1936 news parade doesn't pretend to cover everything of importance that happened during the year. It's simply a chronological outline of those events that interested us the most and caused the most discussion

First, then, a gander at our own state, where the following doings broke into print.

Special session of 1935 legislature (called in December, 1935) adjourns after 8 weeks devoted to consideration and approval of old-age assistance law. Interim committee appointed to study unemployment insurance problem.

Ernest Lundeen elected U. S. senator, Elmer Benson governor as Farmer-Labor party makes sweep of state election.

Gov. Petersen calls 1935 legislature into second special session to act on unemployment insurance.

A pretty fair list. Not so much crime as in other years; a little more progress toward a higher standard of living. And of course there was a definite recovery from the depression, something not accurately reflected in a brief review.

Now for a check on the national scene. Some of these events had their local angles too, but because they affected the country as a whole, we'll stick them in here.

A long list, yet far from complete. For instance, what about General Hagood's suspension for criticising the WPA? Max Schmeling's knockout of Joe Louis? Eleanor Jarrett's suspension from the Olympic team for breaking training? The meeting of Candidates Roosevelt and Landon at Des Moines? The New York Yankee's victory in the world series? Completion of the government's bomb-proof storage vaults near Fort Knox, Ky? Resignation of New-dealer Rex Tugwell? But that's enough.

And finally, if you're still hanging on, a brief summary of foreign

Smashes His Fingers

Mosquitoes have been killed with sledge hammers, but such a process is wasteful and unnecessary. More often fingers have been smashed than mosquitoes killed, and the hammer-wielder is the loser.

A mosquito can be a mightly destructive creature, too, especially if one chases it about the room, smashing furniture in his efforts to squash it. Hjalmer Petersen, it seems to me, has been trying to wield the office of governor like a sledge-hammer, while Abe Harris and E. V. Willard stand around biting their lips and holding their ears.

The best anyone can hope for is that sonny will not smash up too much furniture before papa Benson comes in and tells him it's time to quit.

Arthur Brisbane Quits.

This column regretfully notes the death of Arthur Brisbane, whose syndicated column "TODAY" was a model of construction and style and a great force in journalism. Although Brisbane was a propagandist for the fascists and always pushed Hearst's views, one has to admit that he knew how to present his material so that the people would read it. He knew, more than anyone else, that the profound lessons in the world were too often lost because of faulty presentation.

He presented a variety of ideas in an optimistic style; and while he opposed war in the abstract, he was for bigger and better armaments AS A MEANS TO PREVENT WAR.. This curious idea gained ground more because of Brisbane's column than because of anything else.

He had an overwhelming faith in aircraft, and predicted that Mussolini would take Ethiopia because of his superior planes. Brisbane never would admit the perfection of anti-aircraft machinery. It is probably due to his column here, also, that the aircraft industry has boomed in the last few years.

He was, in a word, a man like the rest of us, with his little eccentricities and weaknesses—placed in a position of power and lucre, in a spot which could influence millions of people to think in a certain way. Our only regret is that such a talented man should so often be on the wrong side.

Christmas Presents

While the Loyalists received another aerial bombing on Christmas day, der Fuehrer pondered before a Christmas tree high in the Bavarian Alps. The German dictator wondered whether he should pour troops into Spain in open aid of the Spanish Fascists or whether he should stay out of the mess entirely.

Well might he ponder the possibilities. If he goes into the war openly, he faces the immediate checkmate of Russia, who would most certainly lend aid to the Loyalists in rebuttal. This would probably plunge Europe into war immediately. And if Hitler remains definitely out of the scrap, how can he logically expect aid from all fascists when he sounds the call to go whooping down the Blue Danube to Soviet Ukraine?

Who'll Cure the Doctor!

On November, third, last, 17 million voters bought hair restorer from a bald-headed barber. . .

Or that, at least, is about what it seems to amount to. For, almost all who urged Landon's election gave, as their principal reason, a wish to have the National budget balanced; and they were emphatic in their assurances that Landon, if elected, would be quick to bring this about. They warned that certain chaos would follow Roosevelt's re-election.

. . . Which brings us back to the bald-headed barber. For, in the campaign to get himself elected to balance the budget, Landon and his friends ran the G. O. P. almost a million dollars into the hole!

The oldtime Party leaders were given only a minor share in the campaign. The exacting and critical noses of the younger element thought they detected, about the persons of the old-timers, a sufficiently strong whiff of 'Old Guard' to bring disapproving sniffs from suddenly righteous neighbors.

Indeed, the old boys were only permitted the merest glimpse of the show from the inside, and then only after carrying water to the G. O. P. elephant — which is to say by helping pass the hat.

Figures show that the G. O. P.'s effort to elect the Budget-Balancer cost the party a grand total of over 6½ million dollars.

Now, personally, I have no idea whether Landon was worth 6½ million dollars or not. I do not even know whether he was worth 6½ cents! Unfortunately, one of the many things I do not know is how to value a politician on the hoof.

But the DuPonts, Raskob, Rockefeller, et al, apparently thought he was worth the money. At least, they contributed very handsomely to the campaign fund. And this should be a considerable solace to Mr. Landon in the sorrow of his defeat. I know that I'd have to feel very bad indeed if it didn't perk me up quite a bit to learn that Mr. DuPont considered me worth 6½ million dollars! In fact, I might even become a little chesty over it!

The G. O. P. Executive Committee met in Chicago the other day to determine, among other things, what, if anything, should be done about the deficit. And this time the old-timers were welcome at the meeting! They may even have been urged to stick an extra cigar into the vest pocket to smoke after supper!

There were some members of the Committee who wanted Chairman Hamilton fired out of hand. They did not seem to consider it much of a recommendation that he had run them almost a million dollars in the hole. Possibly they felt that a campaign manager who spent 6½ million merely to carry the two small states of Maine and Vermont was a mite too extravagant.

If it was thus they felt, there might be some small show of reason in it. For there are quite a few among my acquaintances who would hesitate to pay that much for a deed outright to both States, with hereditaments and appurtenances—and Senator Moses thrown in.

But Mr. Hamilton was not fired. Instead, he was rehired for four years at $25,000 a year. And on top of that, he was given a vote of confidence.

Now if I, for example, had run a concern almost a million dollars into the hole, I am sure they wouldn't have raised my wages and very sure they wouldn't have given me a vote of confidence. If they had, I should have been very much surprised, indeed.

Of course, there was that disquieting hint from the oldtimers that since Chairman John D. Hamilton (now known, on occasion, as John Deficit Hamilton) had gotten the G. O. P. out of kilter, financially, it was up to him to put it back in running order.

But while Chairman Hamilton was a little more cautious in his promises than he was in his election forecasts, for instance, one need not doubt that he will soon bring the books into balance. There were perhaps many who did not get the drift; but those who listened closely to a certain remark he made realized that there was a good more gravel in it than the casual listener might have supposed. . .

"The Republican Party will have to become more liberal!" he said.

They guessed—and no doubt rightly — that he was talking about purse strings rather than about principles.

One of the major subjects under consideration at the Chicago meeting was the rehabilitation of the almost defunct Party. However, active steps to infuse life into its torpid carcass will probably not be taken at once. Instead, the immediate concern of the Chairman will likely be the wiping out of the deficit.

So for the present, then, the Republican music is apt to be more mild than militant — Chairman Hamilton going about shaking a tambourine under G. O. P. noses and chanting . . .

"Come, all ye faithful!"

MIDDLE RIVER

Creamery Adds Equipment

The buttermilk drying machine arrived here the fore part of last week and has been placed in the creamery. The creamery management is only awaiting the arrival of a man to set it up and make it ready for operation, which will probably occur right after the New Year, when the creamery will add buttermilk drying to their regular business.

Independent Team Merits Praise

The Middle River Independent basketball team have so far made an enviable record, having won all of the three games they have played. Last Tuesday night they romped over the Halma team by the score of 62 to 14. On Tuesday, the 29th, they are to play Greenbush, which will probably be a tougher game. We are informed that the team has enough games scheduled to play three times a week for the balance of the winter. They are to play Roseau, Badger, Plummer, Red Lake Falls, and all the towns on the Soo line from Newfolden, north to Halma.

We regret to announce a change in the school faculty. Mr. Myrum, the principal, has resigned his position to accept a position with the Thief River Falls Wholesale Grocery company. At this writing it is not known who will replace him.

Miss Alice Hall, teacher at Warroad, has been here since the Friday before Christmas keeping house for her father thru the holiday vacation. Mrs. Hall is reported to be improving in health at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Empe, at Farmington, and will probably remain there the remainder of the winter.

Hjalmer Nelson, who has been running a blacksmith shop in Montana the past two years, arrived here the first of the week to spend the holiday season with his father and brothers at Gatzke.

The Christmas festivities are over with and business and social activities are settling down to the ordinary winter intensity. Christmas eve and Christmas day, being the time of home gatherings, the stir in the down town business section was of course less than normal. Both churches had Christmas programs—the Finnish Lutherans on Christmas eve and the First Lutheran, on Christmas night. The churches were packed to capacity in both instances.

The Gleaners, with a few invited guests, meet Thursday evening, the 31st, at the home of Mrs. Emil Peterson.

O. H. Dovre's Ford and the McAdams Bros. truck collided on the street Monday noon. Beyond a smashed lamp and a jammed front fender of the Dovre car, no serious damage resulted. The icy condition of the street was largely responsible for the collision.

Arland Breese, our local taxidermist, has just finished the mounting of the dozen deer heads that were brought in to him by hunters, and now has awaiting him the job of mounting three bears. He is quite a busy boy.

The L. D. Longley family returned Sunday from their holiday vacation visit at Little Falls. They had expected to stay for another week, but their visit was curtailed on account of Mr. Longley's presence being required at the CCC camp, of which he is superintendent of construction.

The crying need of a larger assembly hall in Middle River was again demonstrated by the immense crowd in attendance at the dance Saturday night. The Shetland pony advertised to be given away was won by Miss Laura Larson, a fifteen-year-old girl living west of town.

Miss Anna Peterson, who has been away on a long vacation, is again at her post of duty in the Rex Cafe.

And there you are. A year's pleasures, disappointments, progress and headaches wrapped in a single package and delivered to your door. Or at least to your mail box.

The year's outstanding event, not always easy to pick, just about picks itself this year. From most any angle—news value, human interest, bearing on the future—King Edward's abdication grabs first place. When we narrow the circle, Pres. Roosevelt's re-election by an overwhelming vote was probably the big national news. Narrowing it still further, the Farmer-Labor party's sweep in the state election, following the death of Gov. Olson, almost has to be rated the most newsworthy event in Minnesota's year.

Next week we'll go back to discussing current news again. Until then—a very Happy New Year! (And we hope you'll be around when the midnight whistles blow.

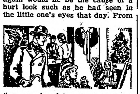
By Blanche Tanner Dillin

"GRAND'THER, isn't that the most beautiful doll you ever saw?" The little hand tugged at the hand of the tall man. He looked down at the childish figure beside him. "I wish I had one like her," the child said in a low tone.

The man mused with a tender smile, "It is very beautiful dear —but I thought I heard you say that you had all of the dolls you could care for."

"Well—I did," came the faltering answer "but"—as though an inspiration had presented itself—"I could give some away I s'pose." The man's clasp tightened on the child's hand, and then he reminded her gently that they must hurry on if they were to be home in time for luncheon. Although there were many other interesting toys in the department of the great store, the child showed little interest in them, and managed to work their way back to the object of her affection, and stood enraptured before it until her grandfather again reminded her that they really must be on their way home.

As the child reluctantly followed, the man recalled another dark eyed Marcia standing before just such a doll and heard again almost the same words this Marcia had used today. "Isn't," she had said, "that doll in pink just beautiful? I wish I had one like it." And he heard the man beside her reply: "You have more dolls now than you know what to do with," and he had added, "That is too expensive anyway." "Oh is it?" the child had asked in surprise. "Yes, everything in this store is." He hadn't known whether it was or not, but he had led the child away. Later he asked himself many times why he hadn't given the doll to the child, and he resolved that never again would he be the cause of a hurt look such as he had seen in the little one's eyes that day. From then on, he determined to grant her every wish that he possibly could and so atone for the unnecessary suffering he had caused.



Christmas night John Grant sat alone before the fire, his head against the back of the chair, his eyes closed and a smile of content upon his face. The door opened and a young woman's voice called softly—"Father."

"Yes, my dear," he answered as he turned toward her.

"Mother wants to know if you aren't coming to bed," the young woman said as she came into the room.

"Tell your mother I'll be there in just a minute," the man replied with a laugh.

"Do you know, father, I think that you have made Marcia the happiest little girl in the world tonight," Marcia Field said as she went and sat on the arm of her father's chair.

Her father put his arm around her. "I'm glad if I did," he told her.

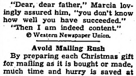
"Do you know that doll reminds me of one I wanted many years ago. I thought that I never would be happy if I didn't have that doll," Marcia laughed at the memory.

"And I wouldn't buy it for you," her father frowned.

"Why father do you remember that?" the daughter asked in surprise.

"I have never forgotten it, and I resolved never to be the cause of hurting you or anyone as I had you that day."

"Why, you old dear." Marcia laughed as she hugged him. "I haven't thought of it for years." And then she said suddenly as a light of understanding broke upon her, "That is why you always have done so much for me, and why you gave Marcia that doll today, isn't it?" John Grant's smile was the only answer he gave for a moment, and then he said: "If I have succeeded in making both or either of you happy, I shall be happy, too, for I shall feel that I have at least in part paid a Christmas debt long overdue."



"Dear, dear father," Marcia lovingly assured him, "you don't know how well you have succeeded."

"Then I am indeed content."

Farm & Implement News

We come to the end of a perfect day and we also come to the end of many days which mark the end of another year. All days have not been perfect, but most of them have been just what we made of each. It is not the day so much, it's you, it's me. We must make each day, and may none of them be, that we must always regret, but that we be happy.

We are especially appreciative at this time of year as we mark the close of 1936, to each and all of our many valued customers and friends. You have all helped to make it possible for us to stay and we wish to thank you with hearts sincere.

We regret the mistakes we have made and especially such mistakes that we do not know about, and want to be told, so if we can to make them right. If our service to our customers has pleased, we are very happy and pledge our best efforts in the future to do what is right to all.

We wish that all of our customers and friends will find in 1937, the very most of happiness and that a good measure of prosperity will come to each of you.

May we all join hands, or enter the year of 1937 with shoulder to shoulder for one common good in the interest of not alone our local community and it's selfish interests, but in a greater way of finer character under the golden rule that "We do unto others as we would that they should do unto us" that such reflection may spread throughout the land.

To All We Wish Happy New Year

BACKWARD, TURN BACKWARD
A. T. Shearer

Backward! Turn backward, O Time, in your flight!
Bring back the saloon again! Bring it tonight!
O bring back the bum, with his torpor and filth;
The pompous proprietor, rolling in wealth;
The rum-politician; the unfiltered talk;
The row of "dead" beer-kegs that cluttered the walk!

O bring back the jugs and the bottles to drain!
Give us our bed in the gutter aga-i-in!
Backward! Turn backward! Restore us again
The dreary, dark hovel that stood in the lane!
O fill up the yard with old bottles and bags,
And break out the windows and stuff them with rags!
O bring back the nakedness! Bring back the fright
That once took the place of the children's "Good night!"
The wood-box make empty! The cupboard make bare!
Hooray for the misery! What do we care
For the heart-broken mother, the wife in despair;
The son in the jail and the daughter in—worse?
Backward, O Time! Bring back the old cu-u-rse!

Backward! Turn backward! What care we for light!
Away with the sunshine, and bring in the night!
Away with the Hope and the Sabbath-school song!
Away with the Right: O give us the wrong!
O bring back the whiskey, the beer and the gin;
Kids "rushing the growler," and learning to sin!
Backward! Backward! O bring, we implore,
The old-time saloon, with its horrors, once mo-o-re!'

New Farm Plan Is Announced At Capitol

ed alone or with a half-seeding of a nurse crop like oats, which is to be cut in early summer and utilized neither for hay nor grain, plus 5 percent of the diversion payments as a premium in case the land is shifted from corn.

2. A soil building payment covering terracing, fallowing, liming, reforesting and planting soil conserving crops, based on a slightly higher rate of pay than that for 1936 and limited to an average maximum equal to $1 for each soil conserving crop acre. This payment, varied by farm productivity, will average 80 cents an acre, and can be earned also by farms where diversion of acres would not be good farm practice.

An attempt will be made in the 1937 program to limit the production of certain crops, such as corn, cotton and tobacco. In the Corn Belt, a limit on corn acreage will be established in those counties where corn is the major crop. In Minnesota, this means southern Minnesota; in South Dakota, the South Dakota, the eastern half of the state; in Iowa, the entire state. This limit will be determined by the state committees and will conform to good conservation practices. "This limit," he says, "is designed to prevent increases which might not only defeat the effort to conserve the soil, but with normal yields result in surpluses which would greatly reduce prices."

The total of the limits on corn acreage will be slightly smaller than the acreage planted in 1936. South Dakota will be given an increase of about 800,000 acres over 1936; whereas Minnesota will be cut about 300,000 acres; and Iowa 200,000 acres. Other Corn Belt states, except Nebraska, will be cut even deeper. All states, however, will have a limit lower than the 1932-1933 average acreage used in the bases. How these limits will be applied to individual farms has not been announced, but the job likely will fall on the county committees which will make a study of each farm.

To encourage shifts from corn, a premium of 5 percent of the total diversion payments will be made when land is shifted from corn. If a limit set for an individual farm is exceeded, the penalty will be the amount of the diversion payment per acre.

The soil depleting bases will conform to the 1936 bases, subject to adjustments to correct inequities. The soil conserving bases will be the total acreage of crop land, minus the total acreage in all soil depleting bases.

The rates for payments and allowances are based on an estimate of 85 percent participation. If participation for any region is greater than this estimate, the rates for payments and allowances may be decreased by not more than 10 percent. Correspondingly, if participation is less than estimated, rates may be increased 10 percent. A similar provision was included in the 1936 program.

Soil Building Practices

The rates for approved soil building practices such as liming, terracing, reforestation and seeding some soil building crops will be established for states and regions and will be in line with those of 1936. As in the 1936 program, the limit for payment for soil building practices will be the soil building allowance. The allowance, generally speaking, has been increased over the allowance for 1936 to give greater emphasis to soil building practices.

Crop Classification

The classification of crops and approved soil building practices follow the 1936 program in the main, although there are a number of exceptions. These will be announced later.

THE SOCIAL SECURITY ACT

Dear Editor:

The Social Security Act is a deflationary measure so far as many of its provisions are concerned. It reduces workers' and consumers' purchasing power by tying up from 2 to 6 per cent of earnings of employees and employers for the next 5 years. It was thrown together in a hurry in order to head off the Townsend and Lundeen real, scientific plans for security and recovery by inflating workers' purchasing power indirectly, and providing extra jobs by removing old workers from jobs and creating new ones indirectly by increased production activities. But these plans did not altogether throw the cost onto the poor and working people, so some counterfeit plan had to be devised. Hence the passing of the Social Security Bill.

This measure is perfectly in line with the rest of the New Deal, which is to protect the coupon clippers from any raise in wages and prices, which policy has been shown clear through from the passage of the Economy Act to the partial return to the gold standard and the continuance of trade treaties so as to compel American producers to compete with the world, and thus reduce all the world to the same degree of poverty.

Gertrude H Walton

“WONDER if Harris would care? Shall I do it, then ask him afterward?” Rachel Stanton, the morning of Christmas eve, looked admiringly at the brilliant tree in the pleasant living room, then hurried to brush snow from Harris, who, stamping in from the back porch, panted:

“I've cleaned the driveways to barns and road but will have to do it again today. What were you saying?” he was interrupted by Rachel.

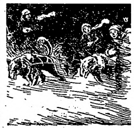
“The radio announces that the snow plow from Warnton has stuck at the corner and will have to be dynamited out. No one can get through highways farther than the crossroad's corner,” Rachel hurried to the telephone's jingling.

“It was Martha calling. She and Gene and the children started here but are blocked in at a home of kind strangers. I wish we could get food to the Harrison family in the Bottoms. They have no telephone, no near neighbors, and would freeze if they tried to get here through high drifts. Such a winter! It looks as though our Christmas will be “we two,” she sighed at the color-lighted tree.

“Well, I see I'll have to shovel out the driveways again,” Harris announced, pulling on jacket and gloves.

Later when he went inside to warm his fingers he heard Martha humming and was thankful that she was cheerful over the disappointment of Christmas eve without her relatives. Odors of savory food and the attractive table with Christmas colors, were inviting as he stamped in after evening chores were finished.

“Tonight will be the worst so far this winter. The wind s rising and snow blowing. A terrible night. Surely no one would venture on highways—why—where is the tree? Did you dump it outside because our company didn't come?” he looked, to be sure Rachel was sane, then at the empty corner where the tree had stood.



The Visitor Pointed Toward the West. “That Light Guided Us.”

“Yes, the radio announced the temperatures will be lowest of season, so far.”

“The tree, Rachel! Did you throw it out?”

“Come in from the terrible blizzard, you poor frozen—how did you get here?” Rachel helped Harris unwrap five shivering visitors, Mr. and Mrs. Harrison and children.

“Oh, it's been terrible getting here. But it was either to freeze and starve at home or risk getting here,” Mr. Harrison wheezed.

“But, how did you?” Harris began.

“Outside — see the dogs. We hitched them to the sled. The blessed creatures helped us over drifts which are now frozen.”

Steaming food was soon on plates and faithful dogs were lapping milk and broth near the kitchen range.

“How did you find the direction—the way in blinding snow?” Harris looked puzzled.

“Well, we got to the top of King's Ridge in the pasture, and came toward the light. The light near your grove, back there,” the visitor pointed toward the west. “That light guided us.”

“What light?” Harris stammered.

“Harris, dear, will you please carry our Christmas tree back into the house? I carried it outside this morning to the grove and put food on it for birds, wild ducks and any other wild animals that need food and shelter. Then, tonight, I hung that large lantern with the strong light on top the tree to guide whoever might need it.

Merry laughter rang into the night as nuts were cracked and corn popped. Christmas morning Mr. Harrison helped keep snow from driveways and a path to the grove where the children carried food to a stack of fodder which the men had placed for the wild animals.

“Snow may be drifted high outside. But kindness inside of me needs never be blocked so it can not be scattered and be a guide to others,” Rachel mused after the happy Christmas of the worst winter.

U. S. Approves State Job Insurance Act

Benefits—Payment of benefits begin in 1938. Minimum benefits are $5 a week, maximum $15 a week. They are to be half the weekly wage within the maximum. Benefits run for 16 weeks with certain qualifications (total compensation in a year is a sixth of the total wages earned, with a maximum possible of $240). Benefits for partial unemployment are provided and separate provision made for seasonal occupations.

Benefit Conditions—An unemployed person is eligible for benefits if he has registered for work at a public employment office, has filed claim, is available for work and has undergone a two weeks waiting period. Waiting period is extended if he left work without good cause, or was discharged for misconduct, or fails to accept suitable work ocered him. He need not accept a job which is available because of a labor dispute, or if wages or other conditions are not comparable to his former position, or if he is required to join a company union or to resign from a regular union. He cannot collect benefits if unemployment is due to a strike unless he is not participating in or interested in the dispute.

Claims—Procedure is set up for filing claims with a referee of the commission, whose decisions may be reviewed by the commission, and court appeals are provided.

Administration—The state industrial commission is the administrative agency in both bills, with identical provisions as to selecting employees without regard to party lines, with power to establish rules and set up advisory councils, to issue subpenas, and other details. Administration costs are to be paid by the federal government.

Other provisions—Machinery for collection of contributions is provided and for refunds; penal provisions are set up, providing penalties for false statements, failure to contribute, and so on. The act provided that if the federal payroll tax is ruled invalid, or the Social Security Act repealed, contributions under the state act will cease.

LECTURES ON THE LIFE OF MARTIN LUTHER

“Unquestionably the hero of the Reformation was Martin Luther. His fearless determination was the turning-point for multitudes in expectation but not able to start a work - a conflict with distrust within and enemies without.” So stated Evangelist Gulbrandson in his lecture on “The Reformation in its Beginning”, at the old Methodist church last Sunday night. The speaker outlined briefly the rise and progress of the Reformation that evolved into a gigantic struggle, involving most of the nations of Europe. The beautiful living, moving pictures of the life of Martin Luther were appreciated by all. The second series of these moving pictures will be continued next Sunday. Between the films the speaker answered interesting Bible questions, but many more are yet to be answered. The announcement of the interesting Back to the Bible Lectures program for next Sunday is found elsewhere in this paper. —Contributed.

Survey Of Clearwater River Area Ordered

Survey of the Clearwater river for the purpose of establishing sites for dams was ordered made last week by members of the Clearwater association committee that met in Crookston. E. L. Llum, consulting engineer of Grand Forks, was instructed to make the preliminary survey at a cost not to exceed $450. City Engineer J. H. Turner, and Waterworks Superintendent, M. R. Jenson of Grand Forks attended the meeting. Mayor Harry Harm of East Grand Forks was also present.

It is anticipated that a similar survey may be secured for the Red Lake river in Pennington county.

Red Lake Fuel Firm Has Novel Display Sign

A large display sign that will be of much interest to people was set up by A. B. McLaughlin just south of his office at the Red Lake Ice & Fuel company. A Taylor thermometer with a dial of about two feet in diameter is an important part of the sign, telling the exact temperature in large figures which can easily be read from a distance of a hundred feet or more, and guaranteed to be accurate. A neon glass tube will keep it lighted at night.

New WPA Summary Shows $72,109 Was Spent In County

A year end report on WPA activities in Pennington county indicates that more than $72,109.97 will have been disbursed in WPA payrolls in the county since the beginning of the program nearly a year and a half ago, according to information released by J. B. Kovarik, district administrator.

Late figures on the bi-monthly payroll for Pennington county shows a total of $2,395. At the close of WPA activity, 121 persons were employed on projects in the county. The total reported working on December 14 was 78. These figures do not include drouth employment quotas.

The status of WPA projects in the county as given in the report released by Mr. Kovarik shows eight active projects and two completed projects.

Road Financing Up To Public; Elsberg Plans To Campaign

The Minnesota Highway department will not lead a campaign for increased revenues at the coming session of the Legislature, according to an announcement by N. W. Elsberg, state highway commissioner.

“We believe and will recommend that some means should be found to finance a reasonable construction program”, he stated. “However, we will not lead a campaign for more funds, as we have been urged to do by a number of persons interested in obtaining highway improvements in various parts of the state.

“It is the function of this department to supply the Legislature with complete facts as to our highway problems, and to make recommendations as to needs of the trunk highway system. Beyond this, we do not intend to go.

“We have been asked to fight for higher motor vehicle registration fees, to fight for a higher gas tax. We do not intend to fight for either. If the public wishes highway improvements to continue, the public must pay the cost. It is the function of the Legislature to represent the public in determining the amount of highway funds and the means by which such funds are raised.

“Minnesota vitally needs legislation which will put the highway department on a pay-as-you go basis. This can be accomplished either by eliminating road construction or by increasing current revenues enough to match federal aid and meet other expenses incidental to obtaining various federal road funds. There will be $5,500,000 of federal funds available for the state in 1937 and an equal amount in 1938. On the basis of present income, the highway department cannot obtain this federal money.

“Faced with a similar situation two years ago, the Legislature authorized the sale of state bonds to finance federal aid. Bond charges now take more than one-fourth of the highway department's current income every year. We cannot continue indefinitely borrowing money in this fashion.

“Eventually the public and the Legislature must choose between sacrificing highway improvements and federal aid or paying for a continuation of those improvements by means of motor vehicle taxes. If abandonment of the federal aid and construction program is chosen by the Legislature, the highway department will necessarily have to confine its activities chiefly to maintenance in the future.”
